[Ceiling Price Regulation 83, Interpretation 2]

CPR 83—Retail and Wholesale Sale of New Passenger Automobiles

INT. 2—CHARGE FOR PREPARING AND CONDITIONING NEW CARS FOR DELIVERY

Inquiries received from various automobile dealers indicate there is some question as to whether those dealers who did not show on their sales invoices or other records their charge for preparing and conditioning a new car for delivery during the period January 26 to February 24, 1951, but whose selling price during the period included such a charge, may make a charge for preparing and conditioning under the provisions of section 7 of Ceiling Price Regulation 83.

Section 7 of Ceiling Price Regulation 83 reads in part as follows:

(a) The charge for preparing and conditioning a new automobile for delivery shall be your charge for preparing and conditioning prevailing during the period January 26 to February 24, 1951, but not in excess of 5 percent of the basic price of the automobile, until specific preparation and conditioning charge is established by the Director in a Special Order. The preparing and condition charge must be directly related to services actually rendered in preparing the new automobile for delivery. If no services are rendered, you can make no charge for preparing and conditioning. The preparing and conditioning charge does not include advertising charges or any other charge which represents an item not directly a part of the preparation for delivery.

A dealer who made no charge for preparing and conditioning during the period January 26 to February 24, 1951, is not now permitted to make a charge for such services under the provisions of section 7.

If a dealer can establish that he made a charge for preparing and conditioning as established by his books of account or other records covering the period January 26 to February 24, 1951, he uses the first of the following methods to establish the amount of that charge:

(1) If on his invoices he separately stated the charge during that period, the amount of the charge is to be determined from his invoices;

(2) If the charge does not appear in his invoices but it appears separately stated anywhere in his books of account or other records, that is the charge he will use under section 7.

(3) If a dealer failed to state separately the amount of his charge either on his invoices or other records but, by subtracting definitely ascertainable amounts from any lump charge contained in his price, he can compute from his records covering that period the charge he was making for preparing and conditioning, he will use that amount under section 7. For example, if his records show that he was combining his charge for preparing and conditioning with his charge for transportation under the heading "Freight and Handling", he will subtract from that total amount his ascertainable freight charge. From the remainder representing his "Handling" charge, the dealer will exclude in accordance with the provisions of section 7, his charge for any service not "actually rendered in preparing the new automobile for delivery".

(4) Lastly, in the event the dealer cannot separate his charge for preparing and conditioning from his total selling price during the period January 26 to February 24, 1951 (or from any lump charge included therein), in the manner suggested in the preceding three methods, he may use his cost of preparing and conditioning the automobile for delivery as shown by his books of account for that period as a measure of his charge under section 7. In looking to his costs for preparing and conditioning the automobile for delivery, he must look only to the costs of those services that are directly related to preparing the automobile for delivery (as stated in section 7). For example, he may not include the cost of advertising, warehousing, periodical checkups, floor planning, or "any other charge which represents an item not directly a part of the preparation for delivery" as a part of the cost he uses for measuring his charge.

CPR 113—White Flesh Potatoes

INT. 2—BROKERAGE IS NOT A PART OF THE "PRIMARY PRICE"

A potato dealer who is an "intermediate seller" as defined in Ceiling Price Regulation 113, Revision 1, has asked whether, in selling white flesh potatoes, he may include in his ceiling price the brokerage fee which his supplier, a country shipper selling through a broker, has added to the sales price.

Section 2 (g) of CPR 113, Revision 1, permits country shippers who are making delivered sales of white flesh potatoes, and in so doing employ the services of a broker or agent other than a commission merchant, to add to their delivered ceiling prices a brokerage charge not in excess of that allowed under the provisions of CPR 34.

Section 3 of CPR 113, Revision 1, establishes the method by which intermediate sellers determine their ceiling prices. This determination is based upon a "primary price," as defined in section 3 (a) of CPR 113, Revision 1, to which the intermediate seller adds a specified markup, the amount of which depends upon the type of intermediate seller.

This primary price is not based upon the country shipper's delivered price, which may include broker's fees, but upon the f. o. b. country shipping point price, which does not include broker's fees.

Since the definition of "primary price" does not include broker's fees, no intermediate seller may add such fees to his legally prescribed markup even if paid by him as part of his purchase price.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 149]

CPR 149—CEILING PRICES FOR SOUTHERN YELLOW PINE LUMBER

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Ceiling Price Regulation 149 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This regulation establishes specific dollars-and-cents ceiling prices for manufacturers' sales of Southern Yellow Pine lumber. The basic ceiling prices established are industry-wide f. o .b. mill ceiling prices; they supplant individual ceiling prices determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended. These basic ceiling prices reflect appropriate differentials among the various species, grades, and sizes of most standard Southern Yellow Pine lumber items. Additions and deductions to and from the basic ceiling prices of standard items are provided in the regulation for a number of specifications and services.

The annual production of Southern Yellow Pine lumber totals approximately 8.5 billion board feet, which is about 26 percent of the total domestic lumber production. The growing, harvesting, and manufacturing of Southern Yellow Pine lumber constitute a leading industry of the South, with the f. o. b. mill value of its production totaling approximately one billion dollars per annum. The industry is made up of more than 24,000 sawmills. In 1947, it employed about 200,000 workers who received annual wages totaling about $300,000,000.

Of the total output of the industry, 29 percent is produced by 2 percent of the mills, each of which cuts 5 million or more board feet per year, and 56 percent is manufactured by 28 percent of the mills, each of which cuts 500 thousand to 5 million board feet per year. The remaining 15 percent of the total production is cut by 70 percent of the mills, each of which cuts less than 500 thousand board feet per year.

Southern Yellow Pine is sawed from nine different species of trees. Two of these are Longleaf Pine (Pinus palustris) and Slash Pine (Pinus caribaea), which are marketed under the common name of Longleaf. The seven remaining species are Shortleaf Pine (Pinus echinata), Loblolly Pine (Pinus taeda), Virginia Pine (Pinus virginiana), Spruce Pine (Pinus glabra), Pitch Pine (Pinus rigida), Pond Pine (Pinus rigida serotina), and Table Mountain Pine (Pinus pungens. The latter seven species are marketed under the common name of Shortleaf.

Southern Yellow Pine lumber is widely used in construction and in manufactured products such as containers and millwork. The process of converting Southern Yellow Pine standing timber into finished lumber products requires four separate operations—logging, sawing, seasoning, and finishing. The larger mills generally perform all four of these operations, while thousands of small mills perform only two of the operations, logging and sawing, and thereby produce only rough green lumber. The latter mills operate sporadically, in accordance with weather conditions, available alternative employments in the area at various times, market conditions, and stumpage costs. It is estimated that about 93 percent of the approximately 181 billion board feet of commercially usable Yellow Pine stumpage is privately owned. The small operators buy almost all their stumpage or saw logs for their current consumption, whereas the large operators own enough stumpage to satisfy most of their normal consumption requirements.

The provision in the regulation permitting an addition for commission-type sales is similar to provisions contained in several other lumber regulations already issued by OPS. However, some question has been raised as to the justification for this provision. OPS is giving the matter further study and will consult further with industry representatives regarding it. If any changes are found to be necessary, they will be made simultaneously with respect to all lumber regulations.

Ceiling prices established by this regulation are approximately at the level prevailing during the period January 25, 1951, through February 24, 1951. This level is not inflationary, and yet should be high enough to insure production adequate for the needs of the defense mobilization program.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the ceiling prices established by this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practical in the formulation of this regulation, the Director of Price Stabilization has given due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950 through June 24, 1950; to those prevailing during the period from January 25, 1951 through February 24, 1951; and to those prevailing just before the issuance of this regulation; and to all other relevant factors.

In formulating this regulation, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. The consultation included four meetings with the Industry Advisory Committee for Southern Yellow Pine Lumber, and several meetings with the subcommittees thereof.

Every effort has been made to conform this regulation to existing business practices in the industry affected with respect to the production, sale, and distribution of Southern Yellow Pine lumber. Insofar as any provisions of this regulation may operate to compel changes in those practices, such provisions are found by the Director of Price Stabilization to be necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this regulation.

ARTICLE I—COVERAGE

SECTION 1.1 What this regulation does. This regulation establishes dollar-and-cents ceiling prices for manufacturers' sales of Southern Yellow Pine lumber which are effected directly by manufacturers or through commission men.

SEC. 1.2 Which regulation is superseded. Except as otherwise provided in section 9.1, this regulation supersedes the General Ceiling Price Regulation in respect to the transactions covered by this regulation.

SEC. 1.3 Items, species, and area of production covered. This regulation covers all items of Southern Yellow Pine lumber, with the exception of switch ties, cross ties, millwork, and all mouldings except O G Batts, produced anywhere in the United States, rough or dressed, green or dry, and whether or not specifically listed in the ceiling price tables. Southern Yellow Pine lumber includes both Shortleaf and Longleaf Yellow Pine lumber, terms which are separately defined in section 11.1 of this regulation.

SEC. 1.4 Sellers and transactions covered. (a) This regulation applies to all sales by manufacturers of the lumber covered by this regulation. It thus applies when a manufacturer sells his lumber to a wholesaler, retailer, industrial user, or to any other reseller or consumer of lumber, whether or not the sale is effected directly or through a commission man. (Section 8.1 of this regulation provides an addition to cover the services of a lumber commission man. Supplementary Regulation 87 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation establishes a formula for determining wholesalers' and other resellers' markups which may be added to manufacturers' selling prices. The ceiling prices for export sales or sales for export are governed by Ceiling Price Regulation 61, except as section 6.2 of this regulation authorizes a specific addition for bunding for export.)

(b) The term "manufacturer" includes sawmills, planing mills and concentration yards. Sawmills and planing mills are establishments engaged in the production of lumber from logs or rough lumber by sawing or planing or both. Concentration yards are establishments which obtain lumber, chiefly in rough green form, from several producers; these establishments prepare lumber for commercial shipment by grading, resorting, drying, planing, resawing, or other processing; and they sell their lumber chiefly to large industrial users, resellers, or building contractors.

(c) The term "commission man" refers to a person who customarily initiates the sale of, and sells, lumber in carload or truckload quantities for two or more manufacturers; he does not purchase for his own account or assume any credit risks; he receives his compensation from manufacturers in the form of commissions based on the amount of lumber sold; and he is independent of both buyers and sellers.

SEC. 1.5 Geographical applicability. Every manufacturer's sale for delivery (f. o. b. or on a delivered basis) in the 48 States of the United States or in the District of Columbia is subject to this regulation, whether or not the sale of the lumber is made in the United States.

ARTICLE II—F. O. B. AND DELIVERED SALES

SEC. 2.1 General explanation of ceiling prices. (a) The basic ceiling prices established by this regulation are f. o. b. mill ceiling prices. They are set forth in Articles IV and V. The ceiling prices in Articles IV and V are for sales of partially graded and graded lumber, respectively.

(b) The basic f. o. b. mill ceiling prices are modified under certain circumstances as set forth in the various sections of this regulation, as for example, when you sell your lumber on a delivered basis (see sections 2.2 and 2.3), when you sell your lumber through a commission man (see section 8.1), or when you make a retail-type sale (see section 8.2).

SEC. 2.2. Delivered sales; general. This regulation permits you to sell your lumber on a delivered basis as well as on an f. o. b. mill basis. On sales on a delivered basis, you may add to the f. o. b. mill ceiling prices a transportation addition as described in section 2.3.

SEC. 2.3. Delivered ceiling prices—(a) Common carrier. When you sell on a delivered basis and you ship your lumber by common carrier rail, water, or truck transport, the delivered ceiling prices are the f. o. b. mill ceiling prices plus additions for transportation. The transportation addition is computed by multiplying the appropriate established weight shown in section 5.3 by the applicable common carrier rail, water, or truck freight rate in effect at the time of shipment. When a shipment by rail or water is followed by a truck haul, the actual cost of truck delivery may be added. No addition may be made for a truck haul preceding rail shipment, as for example, when a mill located away from a railhead hauls lumber by truck to the railhead, except that when a manufacturer's rail connection is abandoned after the effective date of this regulation and his mill has no comparable rail shipping point, an addition may be made for the actual costs of the truck haul to the nearest railhead which can be used. When a truck haul precedes shipment by water, the actual costs of such truck haul may be added. The transportation addition must be rounded out to the nearest quarter dollar per thousand feet. The delivered ceiling price need not be revised or adjusted if the amount actually charged by the rail carrier is different from the addition for transportation included in your delivered ceiling price.

(b) Contract carrier truck. When you sell on a delivered basis, and the shipment moves entirely by contract carrier truck, the actual cost of the transportation may be added to your f. o. b. mill ceiling prices.

(c) Truck owned or controlled by the seller. When you sell on a delivered basis, and the shipment moves entirely by truck owned or controlled by you, the delivered ceiling prices are the f. o. b. mill ceiling prices plus an addition determined as follows:

(1) For a distance up to and including 30 miles, $5.00 per thousand feet.

(2) For a distance greater than 30 miles, an amount equal either to the applicable or most nearly applicable carload rail freight rate in effect at the time of shipment for the equivalent distance multiplied by the appropriate established weight shown in section 5.3; or $5.00 per thousand feet.

As used in this paragraph the term "distance" refers to the actual mileage from your customary loading out point to the point of destination as measured by truck speedometer. It does not include the return mileage from the point of destination to your customary loading out point. The term "point of destination" includes a yard or job site.

ARTICLE III—GRADE TERMS AND GRADING, OPTIONAL METHODS OF SELLING ROUGH LUMBER, AND PRICING RULES

SEC. 3.1 Grade terms and grading. (a) Grade terms (including abbreviations and symbols) used in this regulation have the meanings set forth in, and lumber bought or sold under this regulation must be graded in accordance with, either:

(1) The "1948 Standard Grading Rules for Southern Pine Lumber", effective September 1, 1948, as amended by Supplement No. 1, effective January 2, 1950, and by Supplement No. 2, effective September 25, 1950; issued by the Southern Pine Inspection Bureau of the Southern Pine Association; or

(2) The "1923 Gulf Coast Classification", issued by the Southern Pine Inspection Bureau of the Southern Pine Association; or

(3) For car material, the Rules of the Association of American Railroads as set forth in Pamphlet M-907-33, issued in 1910, revised in 1933, and modified by Supplement M-907-41, issued in 1941.

SEC. 3.2 Option to sell rough lumber partially graded or on grade. You may sell any rough lumber either partially graded if it meets the minimum specifications set forth in Table A of Article IV (at not more than the ceiling prices established in that Table) or on grade (at not more than the ceiling prices established in Article V). Note that you may sell any part of your lumber out on grade and any of the residue as partially graded if the residue sold meets the minimum specifications set forth in Table A of Article IV.

SEC. 3.3 Pricing rules. You must apply the following rules in determining ceiling prices for lumber subject to this regulation:

(a) Combination grades. Lumber sold in a combination of grades for which no ceiling price is specifically set forth in this regulation, or for which no special ceiling prices are proposed or established under the provisions of section 7.1, may not be sold above the ceiling price for the lowest priced grade included in the combination. However, it is permissible to sell a combination of grades at not more than the appropriate ceiling price for the quantity of each grade shipped if the exact quantity of the grade is separately tallied and separately shown on the invoice.

(b) Averaging-out freight. On a delivered sale, when shipment is made to a single destination from two or more mills owned or controlled by a seller, the ceiling delivered price for the entire shipment is the total of the ceiling delivered prices for each shipment as determined under section 2.3. However, you may quote, and collect on account, a tentative delivered price based on the averaging-out of the freight rates from the several mills involved. The tentative delivered price is computed by adding to the basic f. o. b. mill ceiling prices specified in this regulation an amount for transportation determined by multiplying the appropriate established weight set forth in section 5.3 by an average of the freight rates (in effect at time of shipment) from the several mills involved. Upon completion of the shipments, the seller must render a final invoice that shows the ceiling delivered prices for each shipment and for the entire shipment, and the tentative delivered price collected (if any). Any tentative amount collected in excess of the ceiling delivered price for the entire shipment must be refunded with the final invoice.

(c) Orders which do not specify Longleaf Southern Pine lumber. Where an order does not specify that Longleaf Southern Pine lumber may be shipped, the seller may not charge in excess of the Shortleaf Southern Pine lumber ceiling prices.

(d) Where an item of lumber for which a dollars-and-cents ceiling price is established in this regulation is obtained from a larger size item by ripping, resawing, or cross-cutting, the ceiling price for such item is the lower of the following amounts:

(1) The ceiling price of the larger size item plus charges authorized in this regulation for the ripping, resawing or cross-cutting performed; or

(2) The ceiling price (excluding all charges for ripping, resawing and cross-cutting) for the particular item as specified in the regulation.

ARTICLE IV—ROUGH PARTIALLY GRADED LUMBER; BASIC F. O. B. CEILING PRICES

SEC. 4.1 Basic F. O. B. ceiling prices for rough partially graded lumber. The basic ceiling prices f. o. b. mill for rough partially graded Southern Yellow Pine lumber (Shortleaf or Longleaf) which meets the specifications set forth below are as follows:

TABLE A—ROUGH LUMBER, GREEN OR DRY, PARTIALLY GRADED TO EXCLUDE ALL GRADES LOWER THAN NO. 3 AND TO LIMIT NO. 3 GRADE TO 10 PERCENT AND 4" WIDTHS TO 15 PERCENT OF TOTAL FOOTAGE OF LUMBER INVOLVED IN A SALE

For medium and dense grain 8/4" and thicker, add $5 per thousand feet.

ARTICLE V—GRADED ROUGH OR DRESSED LUMBER-BASIC F. O. B. CEILING PRICES; AND ESTABLISHED WEIGHTS

SEC. 5.1 Basic f. o. b. ceiling prices for Shortleaf Yellow Pine lumber. The basic f. o. b. mill ceiling prices per 1,000 feet of Shortleaf Yellow Pine lumber, in straight carloads, or in straight truckloads, in random widths and random lengths, except as otherwise specified, are as follows:

ARTICLE VII—SPECIAL CEILING PRICES

SEC. 7.1 Special ceiling prices—(a) Application. This section permits you to apply for special ceiling prices for premium quality items and for items with unusual specifications.

(1) Premium quality items: If you produce items listed in Tables 4 or 6 of this regulation of a premium quality of "D" and Better grades that you ordinarily sell at premium prices before June 30, 1950, you may apply to the Office of Price Stabilization, Forest Products Division, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested, for special ceiling prices for such premium quality items. Your application, which you must sign, must contain the following:

(i) As complete a description as possible of the lumber items involved, including the species, grades, sizes, seasoning, and working (if any) of each item, and the unusual features that pertain to their premium quality, such as texture of finish items or siding items, or density and heart content of flooring.

(ii) The County or Parish, and the State, in which your premium quality items are produced.

(iii) Your proposed ceiling price for each item, which may not be in excess of your weighted average selling price for the item during whichever consecutive three-month period subsequent to December 19, 1950, you sold the greatest volume of footage of such item. For the three-month period selected, list for each item as many of your various selling prices and the corresponding footage of sales as are necessary to account for at least 75 percent of the total footage of the item sold during that period. The term "weighted average selling price" means the total dollar amount of sales of lumber items involved divided by the total footage thereof.

(iv) A copy of either your published price list or a list of your prices in effect on June 24, 1950, and a copy of either your published price list or a list of your prices in effect during the period December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, inclusive, for the items for which you are applying for a special ceiling price; this information need not be submitted in your application if you have already submitted it to OPS in response to a letter dated August 10, 1951, from the Chief of the Lumber and Wood Products Branch, Forest Products Division, Office of Price Stabilization. In addition, if there has been published during the year 1950 any public advertisement which refers to the premium quality of your lumber items, you must submit at least one copy thereof.

(v) The names and addresses of one or more customers who have purchased your premium quality items.

(You may also furnish a signed statement from any of your customers, or any other matter you care to submit, which relates to the premium quality of your items.)

(2) Items with special specifications. If you wish to sell a lumber item of any species, grade, size, seasoning, working, or other specification or extra, or if you wish to make an addition for a special service, for which a specific ceiling price is not listed in, or cannot be determined from, this regulation, you must file an application with the Office of Price Stabilization, Forest Products Division, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested, to establish a ceiling price for the item or special service. Your application, which you must sign, must contain the following:

(i) As complete a description as possible of the lumber item or special service for which the application is filed. For the lumber item, you must include the species, grade, size, seasoning, and working (if any), and any other special specification, or extra, together with the quantity to be sold (if known).

(ii) Your proposed ceiling price, which you must base upon the most closely comparable item, or service, for which a dollars-and-cents ceiling price is established by this regulation, adjusted by the addition or subtraction of a differential which you believe will result in a ceiling price for the item, or service, that is in line with the level of other ceiling prices established by or under this regulation. You must state why you believe the differential you propose will result in a ceiling price for the item, or service, which is in line with the level of other ceiling prices established by this regulation.

(b) Quotation of proposed ceiling prices. You may quote a ceiling price proposed under the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section and you may sell at that proposed ceiling price, provided that you file an application for approval of that special ceiling price within five days after quoting the proposed ceiling price or selling at that price, and provided further that you agree to refund, and later refund, to the buyer, the amount, if any, by which your proposed ceiling price exceeds the ceiling price established by the Director of Price Stabilization.

(c) Action by the Director of Price Stabilization. (1) After receipt of an application made under this section, the Director of Price Stabilization will approve or disapprove your proposed ceiling price, will request additional information about it, or will establish a different ceiling price for the item, or service, that is the subject of your application.

(2) If the Director does not notify you to the contrary or request additional information from you within 30 days after the receipt of your application, or within 15 days after the receipt of requested additional information, your proposed ceiling price shall be deemed to have been approved, subject to non-retroactive disapproval or adjustment at a later date.

(3) No application will be approved under this section unless it is found that a proposed ceiling price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(d) Effect on other transactions. A special ceiling price approved pursuant to application made under this section shall be your ceiling price for all transactions involving the same item or service unless a specific ceiling price for the item shall subsequently be established by changes in this regulation, or unless the approval is subsequently revoked or modified by the Director of Price Stabilization.

ARTICLE VIII—COMMISSION-TYPE SALES AND RETAIL-TYPE SALES

SEC. 8.1 Addition allowed for commission-type sales. When a sale of your lumber is brought about by the efforts of one or more commission men, your ceiling price is the otherwise applicable ceiling price on the lumber sold plus 4 percent of the applicable f. o. b. mill ceiling price, rounded to the nearest quarter dollar per thousand feet. However, the amount you may charge the buyer, pursuant to this section, over and above the otherwise applicable ceiling price, may not exceed the actual commission (rounded to the nearest quarter dollar per thousand feet) which you pay the commission man or commission men. (The term commission man is defined in section 1.4.)

SEC. 8.2 Retail-type sales—(a) Increased ceiling prices. Except as indicated in paragraph (b) of this section, your ceiling prices for retail-type sales are 15 percent higher than the otherwise applicable f. o. b. mill ceiling prices established by this regulation.

(2) Any of the charges for special services, except grade marking and anti-stain treatment, as authorized in section 6.2;

(3) A mixed truck shipment as authorized in section 6.1; and

(4) A delivery which you may make.

(c) Definition and limitations. As used in this section, a retail-type sale is a sale of not more than 10,000 feet to a purchaser who takes delivery at the mill, or who accepts delivery made by truck at a point not more than 50 miles from the mill. It must be a sale of lumber to a contractor or to a consumer for use in construction, remodelling, repair, or maintenance; it is not a sale for use in manufacturing, or for resale in substantially the same form.

ARTICLE IX—RECORDS AND INVOICES

SEC. 9.1 Records—(a) Current records. On and after the effective date of this regulation, every person who sells and every person who in the regular course of business buys lumber covered by this regulation, shall make and keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization, for a period of two years, accurate records or invoices of each sale or purchase of lumber subject to this regulation. The records or invoices must show:

(1) The date of the purchase or sale.

(2) The name and address of the buyer and seller.

(3) The quantity, grade, size, seasoning, and working (if any), of every item of lumber covered by this regulation which is bought or sold.

(4) Prices charged or paid and terms of sale.

(5) All pertinent information which affects the ceiling prices, such as any specification or extra, and whether each purchase or sale is made on an f. o. b. mill or on a delivered basis; in the case of a sale on a delivered basis, your records must show all the transportation charges, together with the rates applied, and the origin and destination of shipment. Records must also show all premiums, discounts, and allowances.

The retention by a buyer of an invoice furnished by a seller or the retention by a seller of an invoice furnished by a buyer, which includes the factual information required to be made a matter of record by this paragraph, shall be considered as compliance with the provisions of this paragraph.

(b) Existing records. You shall also continue to preserve, for the applicable periods indicated in section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, all records which you made and kept under the provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

(c) Other records. If you apply for approval of a proposed ceiling price under the provisions of sections 6.1 (b) (2) or 7.1 of this regulation, you shall preserve or make and you shall keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization for so long as the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, shall remain in effect and for two years thereafter, accurate records from which you obtain the data you submit in connection with your application for such ceiling price.

SEC. 9.2 Invoices. On all sales of lumber covered by this regulation, you must submit an invoice to the buyer which shows the quantity, and a description, of the lumber sold. Any working, seasoning, specification, extra, or service which bears upon the price charged for your lumber must be set forth in the invoice, but the invoice need not show separately the charge for such particulars.

(a) On f. o. b. mill sales, your invoice must also show the f. o. b. mill price.

(b) On delivered sales, involving a rail or truck shipment, your invoice must also show:

(1) The price, indicating whether it is an f. o. b. or delivered price;

You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in ceiling prices after delivery.

SEC. 10.4 Excise, sales and similar taxes. Any person may collect, in addition to the ceiling price established by this regulation, any excise, sales or similar tax imposed upon him by reason of his sale of a product covered by this regulation if he is not prohibited by law from making such collection and if he states separately from his selling price the amount of tax collected.

SEC. 10.5 Interpretations. If you wish an official interpretation of this regulation, you should write to the District Counsel of the proper OPS District Office. Any action taken by you in reliance upon and in conformity with a written official interpretation will constitute action in good faith pursuant to this regulation. Further information on obtaining official interpretations is contained in Price Procedural Regulation 1.

SEC. 10.6 Prohibitions and violations. (a) You shall not do any act prohibited or omit to do any act required by this regulation, nor shall you offer, solicit, attempt or agree to do or omit to do any such acts. Specifically (but not in limitation of the above) you shall not, regardless of any contract or other obligation, sell and no person in the regular course of trade or business shall buy from you at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation, and you shall keep, make and preserve true and accurate records and reports required by this regulation. Prices lower than the ceiling prices may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 10.7 Evasions. Any means or device which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation or in concealing or falsely representing information as to which this regulation requires records to be kept is a violation of this regulation. This prohibition includes, but is not limited to, means or devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, up-grading, tie-in agreements, trade understandings, and breaking up an order or apportioning deliveries in order to get the retail-type sale addition, as well as the omission from records of true data and the inclusion in records of false data.

CPR 113—WHITE FLESH POTATOES

INT. 1—EXEMPTION OF SEED POTATOES SOLD BY ONE INTERMEDIATE SELLER TO ANOTHER

Inquiry has been made as to whether or not the exemption of sales of seed potatoes from the provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 113, Revision 1, extends to the sale of such potatoes by one intermediate seller to another. Such sales are not subject to CPR 113, Revision 1, when made under circumstances which justify the conclusion that the ultimate user of the potatoes will plant them and not use them as table stock. Since the purpose of Amendment 6 to CPR 113, Revision 1, was to conserve the supply of seed potatoes necessary for planting and to stop the practice of selling these potatoes at uncontrolled prices when the ultimate purchaser intended to use them for table consumption, it is not material that, where one intermediate seller sells seed potatoes to another, the second intermediate seller intends to use them for resale and not for planting. Where, however, the first seller has reason to believe that the seed potatoes will be resold to an ultimate consumer for use as table stock, it would frustrate the purposes of the amendment to hold that CPR 113, Revision 1, does not apply to such a sale.

Chapter IV—Salary and Wage Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

Subchapter A—Salary Stabilization Board

[Interpretation 10]

INT. 10—SALARIES FOR NEW OR CHANGED POSITIONS UNDER SALARY STABILIZATION REGULATION 3, SECTION 8

This interpretation applies to the identification of new or changed positions and the methods or principles by which salaries for such positions may be fixed. It is the purpose of this interpretation to describe cases in which employers may consider salary changes on the basis of the establishment of a new position or substantial changes in an existing position. Examples are included to provide guide lines to employers in differentiating between the changes in positions which justify adjustments in salary and those which do not.

Employers who have adopted plans for evaluating positions either before January 25, 1951, or after that date with the approval of the Office of Salary Stabilization, may continue to administer such plans in accordance with the methods and principles defined in such plans. Normally, these plans are designed to achieve an objective method whereby positions in the organization may be placed in relative order of difficulty and responsibility and such order related to the salary plan. The policy defined in General Salary Stabilization Regulation 3, section 8, has been promulgated in a manner designed to permit the normal operation of such plans. Employers who have customarily used personal or random methods are also required to maintain a balanced relationship between the salaries of positions in the company when establishing salaries for new or changed positions. Since informal methods of evaluating positions in such situations do not include specific criteria, new or changed positions must be related to existing positions in fixing salaries. Case examples are furnished to illustrate the appropriate methods by which this may be done and the types of situations where salary adjustments are not warranted.

Several examples have been devoted to the problem of determining when a position has changed sufficiently to merit consideration of a salary adjustment. Minor changes or modifications of duties, as well as the establishment of "new positions" identical with other positions which already exist in the organization, are excluded from the provisions of section 8. These and similar situations are covered in the case examples.

SECTION 1—DEFINITIONS

1.1 Q. A laboratory employs several research metallurgists and, to deal with increasing work load, decides to add more metallurgists to the staff to perform similar duties. Should these additional metallurgists be regarded as being in "new positions" for purposes of salary stabilization determination?

A. No. Salaries for new employees who will occupy positions identical with those held by present employees may be established at a level comparable to that of the employee having the most nearly comparable duties and responsibilities. See section 6, GSSR 3.

1.2 Q. As a result of a change in company policy, billing is changed from a monthly to a shipping date basis and the head of the Accounts Receivable Division is instructed to change his procedure accordingly. Should his position be reviewed to determine the need for a salary change?

A. No. Such a modification of accounting procedure represents a change in method having no significant effect on the difficulty or responsibility of the position of the head of the Accounts Receivable Division. This type of change is typical of the slight or inconsequential changes which tend to occur regularly in most companies and is not a basis for changes in grade or salary.

1.3 Q. The phrases "material change" and "substantial change" have been used frequently in connection with re-appraisal of positions for salary determination purposes. When does a position change so materially as to warrant assignment to a different salary range or rate?

A. Positions are constantly undergoing change. In some instances, the nature and scope of the work may increase in considerable measure as a result of a major change of organization or functions. Such clear and obvious situations frequently result in a direct and material change in the difficulty and responsibility of affected positions. These changes may result in either an increase or a decrease of the over-all importance and value of the position. On the other hand, many positions change by almost imperceptible degrees over a long period of time. A position may not be upgraded until the duties and responsibilities have undergone substantial and measurable increases. Where the changes are slight or relate to minor and secondary duties, they cannot provide the basis for a change in grade or salary. Among other criteria to justify upgrading, the tests of a substantial change include:

1. That the new or additional duties require a substantial amount of time;

2. That the duties recur at regular intervals; and

3. That the additional assignments result in a change of qualification requirements of the position.

1.4 Q. A large wholesale drug company has no formalized method of evaluating its positions. The president has been considering the installation of a formal evaluation plan. Do the stabilization regulations favor the installation of formal evaluation plans?

A. The regulations apply equally to random methods and to formal plans and do not favor or discourage installation of such plans. A company which has no evaluation system is permitted to establish the salary for new or changed positions in direct relation to the salaries paid for the most nearly comparable positions. This requires that the company make proper allowances for differences, if any, in the requirements of knowledge, skills, duties, responsibilities or other factors normally taken into account. Whether an evaluation plan will simplify this process for the employer is the employer's decision.

SECTION 2.—NEW OR CHANGED POSITIONS UNDER SALARY OR POSITION EVALUATION PLANS

2.1 Q. What are the principal methods used by industry to evaluate positions?

A. Position evaluation methods are used to place positions in proper relationship within existing salary structure. When a position is evaluated it is usually assigned a grade or title which identifies it with an appropriate salary or salary range. Whatever evaluation method is used, the judgments may be made by specially trained technicians, by a committee of supervisors and/or executives, or by a combination of these. There are numerous methods and combinations of methods used within industry to evaluate positions. Among those commonly used are: (1) Position ranking, (2) position classification, (3) factor comparison and (4) point rating.

2.2 Q. What are the types of factors which are used in evaluating positions?

A. Among the factors used to evaluate salaried positions are: (1) Supervisory control exercised over the position, (2) availability and nature of guidelines, (3) originality and thinking required, (4) variety, (5) purpose and nature of personal work relationships, (6) nature and scope of commitment authority, and (7) supervisory authority. They relate to the duties, responsibilities and requirements of the position rather than to the qualifications of a particular employee. The examples are not all-inclusive; however, they represent general terms and factors frequently used.

2.3 Q. An aircraft corporation uses a point rating system for evaluating its executive positions. This system was in effect prior to stabilization. Can the company continue to use this system?

A. Yes, the company may continue to use its point rating system. Salary stabilization regulations do not require the use of any particular type of evaluation plan. The variety of systems in use throughout industry, such as the ranking method, point rating, factor comparison, classification, and combinations of such systems are all acceptable.

2.4 Q. A company manufacturing drugs and chemicals had an evaluation plan in effect prior to January 25, 1951, which used five (5) evaluation factors in determining the relative level of positions in its organization. These factors include policy responsibility, executive contacts, participation in planning, outside contacts, and responsibility for profits. May the company continue to use this set of evaluation factors?

A. Yes. The Salary Stabilization Board does not require that a company use any particular set of evaluation factors. Both the over-all evaluation plan and the specific factors for measurement within the context of the plan are a matter for each company to determine for itself. Where the company had a plan and specific evaluation factors prior to stabilization, it may continue its normal practices in applying the plan to the evaluation of new or changed positions.

2.5 Q. A large insurance company has had an established salary plan for executives since 1938. Within the past year its business has expanded greatly and the company has launched a new program of real estate investments. These changes require a number of new organizational units and occupations as well as several new types of executive positions. The company desires to revise the salary plan, to subdivide several levels and add three new salary grades at the top. Can these changes be made on the basis of "the method and principles in effect January 25, 1951"?

A. This proposal represents a general modification of the salary plan and requires prior approval of the Office of Salary Stabilization.

2.6 Q. A large manufacturing company has a factor comparison system for evaluating its managerial positions. This system has been in effect since January 1, 1947, and relates to all positions up to the $15,000 salary level. In establishing several new positions required as a result of a reorganization, may this company use its factor evaluation plan and arrive at the grade and salary of the positions on the same basis as it would have done prior to stabilization?

A. Yes. New positions may be established by an employer in accordance with the methods and principles in effect on January 25, 1951.

The salary plan shown below provides six salary grades with salary ranges which have four steps for each grade. This plan is used by the XYZ Company for all management positions including technical and professional personnel, foremen and supervisors and executives. It is used in conjunction with a point rating evaluation plan. Positions are assigned to one of the six grades on the basis of their total point values. These points are derived in accordance with a specific scheme and are determined after a careful analysis of seven factors: Knowledge, judgment, planning, line control, policy formulation, initiative and personal contacts. Questions 2.7 through 2.14 are based upon the XYZ Company salary plan.

XYZ COMPANY SALARY PLAN FOR MANAGEMENT POSITIONS

Grade	Minimum, per month	Step 2, per month	Step 3, per month	Maximum, per month
1	$270	$290	$310	$340
2	340	375	410	445
3	445	495	545	595
4	595	660	725	790
5	790	875	960	1,050
6	1,050	1,135	1,200	1,300

2.7 Q. The XYZ Company has evaluated its professional engineers in grade 3 with a salary range of $445 to $595 per month. Due to the current shortage of engineers, the company is considering a plan to change the grade level of engineering positions from grade 3 to grade 4. This change is to be accomplished without any change in the qualification requirements or duties of the positions, but by a re-interpretation of the standards for grade 4 level. Can this be accomplished, without prior approval, as a means of solving a genuine recruiting problem?

A. No. The upgrading of positions to higher grades without a substantial change in duties and responsibilities is a departure from the method provided in the XYZ Company plan. In addition, it represents a violation of salary stabilization since it is merely a means of using the evaluation plan to justify salary increases. If a legitimate hardship exists, an application for prior approval may be submitted to the Office of Salary Stabilization.

2.8 Q. The XYZ Company has increased its volume of business as a result of an unusually heavy seasonal trade. It is anticipated that this seasonal impact will continue for approximately 90 days. The warehouse department has increased its work force from 75 to 120 employees in order to keep shipments current. Can the company consider this as a basis for increasing the warehouse superintendent from grade 2, $410 per month, to grade 3, $445 per month?

A. No. Since this increase in supervisory responsibility is only temporary, it has not resulted in a permanent and substantial change in the duties of the warehouse superintendent's position.

2.9 Q. Evaluation of executive positions under the XYZ plan has placed most of those positions in grade 6 with the salary range from $1,050 to $1,300 per month. During the past few months, two of these executives were approached by competitor firms and offered higher salaried positions. The company wants to meet the outside offers and keep these key executives in the organization by establishing a new grade 7 at $1,500–$2,000 per month. After establishing this level, the company plans to create several new positions for these executives at grade 7. In addition, the re-evaluation of these positions from grade 6 to grade 7 is intended to provide a basis for the up-grading of certain positions now in grade 5. Is this plan to establish new and changed positions by a modification of the salary schedule and grade structure permissible?

A. Not without prior approval. Outside offers are not in themselves justification for modified schedules. New or modified salary schedules or salary plans must be submitted to the Office of Salary Stabilization for prior approval. Such application must include adequate data to justify such changes in the plan.

2.10 Q. The XYZ Company has reorganized its comptroller's office. This has resulted in the creation of a third division with responsibility for all cost accounting functions. At the present time, the chiefs of the two other accounting divisions are in grade 3. Is the position of the chief of the cost accounting division a new one and, if so, must it be placed in grade 3?

A. This is a new position. The grade, however, is not automatically determined by identifying the position with other division chiefs in the comptroller's office. The company must evaluate the new position in accordance with its point rating plan, considering each of the factors it has customarily considered, and assign the proper grade and salary on that basis. If that is done and the necessary certificate prepared and attached to personnel records, the new position may be filled by transfer, promotion or recruitment without prior approval.

2.11 Q. As part of its general reorganization, the XYZ Company split the purchasing department into two separate departments. One department was created to procure all raw materials and the other to buy all manufactured goods. At the time of this organizational split, the purchasing department was headed by a director at grade 5, $875 per month, who has been transferred. What are the proper grades and salaries for the two new positions?

A. The salaries for these new positions will depend upon comparison of each of them with the most nearly comparable positions covered by the salary plan. Since each position represents only a part of a previous position in grade 5, each will have only partial responsibility for the total purchasing program. Therefore each position will probably fall at a level below grade 5. The exact grade to which these new positions will be assigned must be determined specifically in each case, and depends upon the importance of their duties and responsibilities as normally evaluated under the XYZ Company plan.

2.12 Q. The Director of Industrial Relations, whose position has been placed in grade 4, is currently receiving a salary of $660 per month. As a result of the recent retirement of the Director of Customer Service (who was receiving $495 per month), the Board of Directors voted to abolish that vacant grade 3 position. It was decided that the duties of that position could be combined with the position of the Director of Industrial Relations. Is this a new position and if so, can the company add to the salary of Director of Industrial Relations all of the salary previously paid to the Director of Customer Service (i. e., $660 plus $495 or total $1,145 per month)?

A. The combination of the two positions has probably changed the duties of the Director of Industrial Relations sufficiently to result in a new position. The salary for such position, however, is not determined by totalling the sum of the salaries of both previous positions. The new position of Director of Industrial Relations must be evaluated in order to determine the effect of the added responsibility for customer service functions. The net effect of the combination of duties must be carefully evaluated at the time the determination is made as to what, if any, change in grade and salary is proper.

2.13 Q. The position of the manager of Factory No. 10 of the XYZ Company is in grade 2 and the manager has reached the maximum salary for that grade. He has been an efficient and loyal employee. The director of production would like to promote him to grade 3, but he has no existing vacancies at that grade for which the factory manager is qualified. In order to make the factory manager eligible for further salary increases, the director submits a recommendation to change the title of the factory manager's position to superintendent in charge of manufacturing and to place the position in grade 3. May the company approve an increase in grade and salary on this basis?

A. No. This is not a new or changed position. There has actually been no change in duties or responsibilities. The assignment of a high sounding title is not equivalent to the creation of a new or changed position. While title changes are outside the concern of the salary stabilization program, salary increases justified solely by title changes are not authorized.

2.14 Q. The performance of the XYZ Company's chief accountant has improved markedly. There has been no material change in the nature of his responsibilities or function, however. Is this improved performance justification for assigning his position to a higher salary grade?

A. No. The company's salary plan provides for merit increases and this increase in efficiency may be recognized by such increase in salary on the basis of an amount normally granted under the provisions of the plan. Since he is at grade 5, $790 per month, he may be considered for advancement to step 2, $875 per month, subject to the provisions of the plan and to the over-all limitations of section 2 (f) of GSSR 3.

SECTION 3—NEW OR CHANGED POSITIONS UNDER PERSONAL OR RANDOM METHODS

3.1 Q. Due to a change in product, a company finds it necessary to establish a new purchasing department in the Office of the Comptroller. It is planned to assign a staff of 25 technical employees to the department and to provide a purchasing budget of $500,000 annually. The Comptroller will be assigned the final responsibility for all purchases, with no limit on the size of the contracts or the dollar amount of procurement. May a salary adjustment be warranted under these circumstances?

A. Yes. These changes in organization have resulted in a direct and substantial increase in the variety and responsibility of the Comptroller's work, and a salary adjustment may be warranted.

3.2 Q. A large petroleum company proposes to introduce a new exploration program to develop new sources of supply. As an initial step in this program, the company desires to establish a staff of geologists. At the present time, the salary plan provides a range of $7,500 to $9,000 for geologists having similar duties and responsibilities. The chief of executive recruitment has been unsuccessful in his attempts to hire the new staff. Although several offers were initially made at $7,500, and subsequently several exceptionally well qualified geologists were offered the $9,000 salary, they all declined. In view of the present inability of the petroleum firm to obtain qualified geologists, and since this staffing problem is directly related to a large expansion program which is being retarded, may the company increase the range of salaries to a maximum of $10,000 a year without prior approval?

A. No. The regulation relating to this problem is defined in section 6 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 3, relative to salaries for new employees. Since this regulation does not offer a direct solution to this problem, the company may petition the Office of Salary Stabilization for an increase in the salary range if it can clearly establish the inadequacy of the existing salary range.

3.3 Q. A merchandising organization pays its buyers on the basis of straight salary. Recently the board of directors decided to add an entirely new line of merchandise and to secure the services of an individual with highly specialized experience related to these products. Since the company has no formal plan and has had no directly comparable position in its organization in the past, how should the salary for the new position be determined?

A. The proposed new position should be compared with other buyer positions in the company. This comparison should recognize and measure the difference between the new position and the existing buyer positions in such elements as the type of items, the volume and diversity of business involved, responsibility for inventories, the direction of merchandising staffs, and similar significant elements. The new position should then be established at a salary level which is in balance with the salaries paid to the other buyers in the company.

3.4 Q. A large insurance company has a salary range for its senior underwriters of $8,000 to $11,000 a year. The head of the Underwriting Department desires to add several additional positions of Senior Underwriter which are identical with the existing positions. Can he bring in new men having more than the minimum qualifications at the salary of $9,000 a year?

A. Yes. The regulation which defines the method of setting these salaries is section 6 of General Salary Stabilization Regulation 3. Such salary is consistent in amount with the salaries paid employees having the most nearly comparable duties and responsibilities.

3.5 Q. A medium sized manufacturing company has increased its production schedules as a result of several large defense orders. This increase in production is to be accomplished with the existing plant facilities. The new products will not require any major change in the production system, the program will be met by an increase in the number of units produced with only minor changes in basic materials and manufacturing methods. Does this increase in the production schedule, in itself, justify a review of the plant manager's position for the purpose of assigning a higher salary?

A. No. If the defense orders have only resulted in increased quantitative requirements with no direct increase in the inherent duties and responsibilities of the Plant Manager, a change in the grade and salary of his position is not warranted.

3.6 Q. The head of the Maintenance Department has a staff of 175 employees and is responsible for the repair, overhaul and maintenance of all plant equipment. This includes all machinery, fixed and mobile equipment and automotive equipment. One of the small outlying repair shops with five mechanics is transferred to the central maintenance department and placed under the control of the head of maintenance. Has the transfer of this shop resulted in an increase in the responsibility of the position of head of the maintenance department sufficient to result in an increase in salary?

A. No. This represents a relatively minor increase of staff within the same over-all functional program. This increase is not sufficient to increase the complexity or responsibility of the position of the head of the maintenance department.

3.7 Q. The public relations officer of a large processed food company has traditionally reported to the advertising manager. The president announces an organizational transfer of the public relations staff to the office of the vice president in charge of operations. This move involves no change in the functions, program, staff or authority of the public relations officer. Does the fact that the public relations officer now reports to a higher executive of the company justify consideration of his position for an increase in salary?

A. No. This is only a shift of organizational location with no change in the duties and responsibilities of the position.

3.8 Q. A small banking institution has no salary or evaluation plan. The president receives $11,500 per year, the executive vice president $9,000 per year, and the cashier $7,600 per year. The board of directors decides to expand the bank's loan business and to establish a new position of vice president in charge of the loan department, in order to give the program impetus and direction. The new position will report to the president and rank in authority and responsibility between the executive vice president and the cashier. How should the salary for the new position be established?

A. The salary for the new position must have a balanced relationship to the salaries for the various existing positions in the bank. Since this new position falls between positions at $9,000 and $7,600 in responsibility and authority, its salary should be established between those of the executive vice president and the cashier. The fact that the new position will have the title of vice president, as does one of the established positions, will not, in itself, warrant placing it at the same salary. The bank may determine the exact salary amount based upon all considerations within these limits.

3.9 Q. A company manufacturing specialty products has had a vice-president who served on a half time basis at a salary of $300 per month. The company now desires to establish this position as a full time vice presidency, add other duties, and set the salary at $500 per month. The other vice president now in the company has a somewhat more responsible position, and receives $600 per month. May the salary proposed be fixed without prior approval?

A. Yes. The proposed $500 salary for the new and less responsible vice presidential position is in a balanced relationship with the salary of $600 paid for the more responsible vice presidential position already existing in the company.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 8 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply sec. 102, 64 Stat. 799, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2072; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61; 3 CFR, 1951, Supp.; secs. 402, 405, E. O. 10281, Aug. 28, 1951, 16 F. R. 8789; 3 CFR, 1951 Supp.

SECTION 1. Purpose of this designation. Section 102 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, provides in part that, in order to prevent hoarding, no person shall accumulate (a) in excess of the reasonable demands of business, personal, or home consumption, or (b) for the purpose of resale at prices in excess of prevailing market prices, materials which have been designated as scarce materials or materials the supply of which would be threatened by such accumulation. This designation lists certain materials as scarce materials. It also prescribes in sections 4, 5, and 6, certain conditions under which a person may accumulate such materials in excess of the reasonable demands of business, personal, or home consumption. In addition it lists other materials which are withdrawn from their previous designation as scarce.

SEC. 2. Definition of person. As used in this designation, the word "person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, or legal successor or representative of the foregoing, and includes the United States or any agency thereof, or any other government, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of any of the foregoing.

SEC. 3. Designation of scarce materials. Each material included in List A of this designation, in the shapes and forms therein described, or in all shapes and forms if no particular shape or form is therein described, is hereby designated, pursuant to section 102 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, a scarce material. Whenever "material" or "materials" is hereinafter used, it means any such designated material or materials.

SEC. 4. Receipts of imported materials. (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this designation, a person may import by land, sea, or air any material acquired by him prior to landing without regard to the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption. However, if his total quantity of a material accumulated thereby becomes in excess of the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption, he may not receive any additional amount of such material from any domestic source until his total quantity thereof has been reduced below an amount which is not in excess of the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption.

(b) Within the meaning of paragraph (a) of this section, importation by a person is not limited to the person who takes title to the material prior to landing or who pays the customs entry thereon, but includes a person who, prior to landing, purchases or contracts to purchase the material from or through an importing broker, wholesaler, or other importer, even though such broker, wholesaler, or other importer makes the customs entry in his own name, places the material on board the inland carrier for shipment to his customer, and retains title until such shipment is made. Within the meaning of paragraph (a) of this section, a material is not imported by a person who acquires such material from an importing broker, wholesaler, or other importer who took such material into his own stock or inventory.

SEC. 5. Receipts of minimum production or sales quantities. Notwithstanding any provision of this designation, in the case of materials that are mass-produced or are normally marketed only in minimum sales quantities, a person may order and receive from a producer a minimum production run of such material, or from any other supplier, a minimum sales quantity, provided it is not practicable for him to procure his needs from other suppliers in smaller quantities, even though his accumulation of such material thereby becomes in excess of the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption. After such receipt, however, he may not receive any additional amount of such material until his accumulation thereof has been reduced below an amount which is not in excess of the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption.

SEC. 6. Receipts of materials after adjustment of orders. Notwithstanding any provision of this designation, a person who has promptly instructed the supplier to reduce or defer delivery of a material under an order for such material previously placed by him with the supplier, to the extent necessary so that his accumulation of such material will not be in excess of the reasonable demands of his business, personal, or home consumption, may accept delivery of the material involved in any of the following cases only:

(a) If the supplier has shipped the material or loaded it for shipment before receipt of the instruction to adjust the order.

(b) If the material is a special item which, before receipt of the instruction to adjust the order, the supplier has in stock or in production, or for the production of which he has acquired special components or special materials. For the purpose of this section a "special item" is one which the supplier does not usually make, stock, or sell, and cannot readily dispose of to others.

(c) If the material has already been produced or was in production before receipt of the instruction to adjust the order and cannot be used to fill other orders on the books of the producer.

SEC. 7. Applicability of other provisions of law, regulations, and orders. Nothing in sections 4, 5, and 6 of this designation shall be deemed to modify in any respect, or relieve any person from complying with, any applicable regulation, order, or other provision of law.

SEC. 8. Withdrawal of designation of scarce materials. The materials included in List B of this designation, all of which were designated as scarce materials in List A of NPA Notice 1, as amended November 7, 1951, are hereby withdrawn from such designation on June 5, 1952.

This Designation of Scarce Materials 1, as amended, shall take effect June 5, 1952.

PART 203—BRIDGE REGULATIONS

NEW JERSEY INTRACOASTAL WATERWAY AND TRIBUTARIES

Pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the River and Harbor Act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 362; 33 U. S. C. 499), § 203.220 governing the operation of bridges over the New Jersey Intracoastal Waterway and tributaries is hereby amended as follows:

§ 203.220 New Jersey Intracoastal Waterway and tributaries; bridges. (a) The New Jersey Intracoastal Waterway referred to in this section is defined as that waterway extending through the bays and thoroughfares on the eastern coast of New Jersey from Manasquan Inlet on the north to Cape May on the south, including Cape May Canal to Delaware Bay.

(b) When drawbridges are less than 1,000 feet apart they shall, for the purposes of this section, be considered and operated as a unit. The owners thereof shall provide and install, for uninterrupted service, systems of electric signals on their respective bridges, so connected that the operator of any bridge of the group may thereby simultaneously notify, by signal, the operators of all the other drawbridges of that group of the desire of the master of any vessel or other watercraft to pass through the draws. The operator of the bridge first in any group of bridges to be passed by an approaching vessel or other watercraft shall be responsible for observing the approach of such vessel or other watercraft toward that bridge, also for receiving the signal or notice for passing and for communicating, by means of the electric signals prescribed above, to the operators of the other bridges composing such group the purpose of such vessel or other watercraft to pass.

(c) Whenever any vessel or watercraft approaches a bridge affected by this section, and under which it cannot pass, the lawful signal of the desire of the master of the vessel or craft to pass through the draw opening shall be three blasts of a whistle or horn blown on the vessel or craft. These drawbridges shall not be required to open for craft carrying appurtenances unessential for navigation which extend above the normal superstructure. Upon request, the district engineer in charge of the locality will cause inspection to be made of the superstructure and appurtenances of any craft habitually frequenting those waterways, with a view to adjusting any differences of opinion in this matter between the vessel owner and the bridge owner.

(d) The draws in each and every bridge or group of bridges shall, upon the signal prescribed in paragraph (c) of this section, be promptly opened at any and all hours of the day or night, except as provided in paragraph (m) of this section for the passage of any vessel, vessels, or other watercraft unable to pass safely underneath the draw when closed. For bridges crossing the New Jersey Intracoastal Waterway, failure of the draws to be fully opened within 4 minutes from the signal to open shall be considered a violation of the requirement for prompt opening.

(e) If a car, train of cars, or other vehicle is, at the time of receiving the signal prescribed in paragraph (c) of this section, approaching any draw so closely that it cannot be safely stopped before reaching such draw, two blasts of a whistle or horn shall be blown on the bridge. As soon thereafter as such draw shall be cleared, such draw or all draws comprised in any group of bridges concerned shall be promptly opened, and three blasts of a whistle or horn blown on the bridge to indicate such clearance.

(f) After the draw or draws of any bridge or group of bridges shall have remained open for a period of 10 minutes or for such shorter period as may be necessary for the passage of vessels or other watercraft waiting to pass, the draw or draws may be closed for the crossing of cars, trains, vehicles, or individuals, if any be waiting to cross. After being so closed for a period of 10 minutes or for for such shorter times as may be necessary, the draw or draws shall be again promptly opened for the passage of vessels or other watercraft, if there be any desiring to pass.

(g) No vehicle, car, locomotive, or train shall be stopped on the drawspan of any bridge subject to this section; nor shall any such bridges carrying railway or tramway tracks be used for switching purposes, except those bridges for which special regulations are prescribed in paragraph (m) of this section; nor shall locomotives or trains be stopped in bridge blocks of railroad bridges in such manner as to hinder or delay the operation of any draw, except in cases of urgent necessity. Vessels shall not be so moored nor maneuvered as to delay or hinder unnecessarily closing the draw of any bridge. All passages of vessels and other watercraft through or under the drawbridges and all passage of cars, locomotives, trains, and other vehicles over drawbridges shall be prompt and as rapid as practicable in order to avoid unnecessary delay to either land or water traffic.

(h) The owner or owners of each and every drawbridge covered by this section shall maintain in good and serviceable order the drawspan, together with the machinery and appliances required for operating the same, and the electric signal system prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section; shall provide such number of draw operators or tenders as may be found necessary to open and close the draws promptly; and shall also provide and maintain in good order on the bridge piers or fenders such fixtures as may be necessary for vessels to moor or make fast while waiting for the drawspan to be opened.

(i) The length of time that a draw has been opened shall be computed from the time that the drawspan begins to move in opening, and the length of time that a draw has been closed shall be computed from the time that the drawspan ceases to move in closing.

(j) At each opening of a draw full horizontal and vertical clearances shall be provided, regardless of the size or requirements of the passing vessel or other watercraft.

(k) The owner or owners of each and every bridge covered by this section shall provide and maintain in good legible condition two board gauges, with figures not less than 6 inches high, the figures painted black on a white background, or vice versa, to indicate the vertical clearance under the closed drawspan at all stages of the tide. The gauges shall be so placed on the ends of the drawspan fender that they shall be plainly visible to the master of a vessel or other watercraft approaching such bridge either upstream or down-stream.

(l) The owner or owners of each and every bridge covered by this section shall cause to be kept a complete record of all openings of the draw and shall promptly report to the district engineer of the United States in charge of the river and harbor improvements in that vicinity all cases in which the drawspan has been required to remain open for an unreasonable length of time or to remain closed for more than 10 minutes after the prescribed signal to open the draw has been given.

(m) The provisions of paragraph (d) of this section shall be applicable to the bridges of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, over Beach Thorofare at Atlantic City, N. J., only between the hours of 11 p. m. and 6 a. m. daily. Between the hours of 6 a. m. and 11 p. m. these bridges shall be opened upon signal from any vessel or craft desiring to pass at any time during the periods from 20 to 30 minutes past each hour, but may remain closed during such periods if no vessel or craft give such signal: Provided, That when once opened for the passage of any vessel or craft said bridges shall remain opened sufficiently long to permit the passage of all vessels or craft which may be engaged in passing or which may be presenting itself for passage. Between such hours (6 a. m. and 11 p. m.) these bridges shall not be opened except as provided for in this paragraph.

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART A—REGISTRATION AND RESEARCH

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS CONCERNING PERSUIT OF EDUCATION OR TRAINING AFTER STATUTORY DELIMITING DATE

In § 21.36, paragraphs (b) (2) and (d) (4) are added as follows:

§ 21.36 Special considerations concerning the pursuit of education or training after the statutory delimiting date. • • •

(b) Initiation of course. • • •

(2) The provisions of § 21.35 (b) requiring initiation of the course of education or training on or prior to the delimiting date and the pursuit thereof on that date will be deemed to have been constructively met in any case where, his application having been received in the Veterans' Administration no later than the 10th work day immediately preceding the applicable delimiting date, the veteran is prevented from commencing the course on or prior to the delimiting date by reason of the failure of the Veterans' Administration to issue the proper certificate of eligibility and entitlement on or prior to the 3d work day immediately preceding the delimiting date.

• • • • • • •

(d) Continuous pursuit of education or training; § 21.35 (c). • • •

(4) Interruption of the course of education or training by the veteran for any reason in connection with his employment situation, where such employment is not a part of his course, will not ordinarily be deemed to be an interruption for a valid reason for the purposes of § 21.35 (b) and (c).

(i) However, where the conditions or requirements of the veteran's employment situation are such that normally and ordinarily he could reasonably expect his employment to be compatible with continuous pursuit of the course but because of the development of some unusual, emergent, or unexpected situation, which could not reasonably be anticipated as a condition or requirement of his employment, the veteran is required by his employer to be away from the locality of the place of training temporarily in connection with his employment, a resulting temporary interruption will be deemed to have been caused by a valid reason: Provided, That such period of interruption does not exceed 4 months in duration: And provided further, That after the reason for interrupting the course ceases to obtain, the veteran resumes his course within 30 days or at the first time enrollment of students in the course is permitted, whichever is later.

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART B—EDUCATION AND TRAINING

TYPES OF COURSES; ADDITIONAL LEAVE UNDER EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES

1. In § 21.201, paragraph (h) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.201 Types of courses. • • •

(h) Independent instructor course. A course which is pursued with an individual instructor who, independently of jurisdiction or direction of a training institution or a training on-the-job establishment, furnishes and conducts the course at a suitable place of training.

(i) Except as provided for in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, an independent instructor course will be prescribed only when the course of vocational rehabilitation is not available through an established school, training on-the-job establishment, or sheltered workshop within a reasonable commuting distance from the veteran's home, and the handicap caused by the veteran's disability precludes requiring his going elsewhere for training.

(j) The individual training program for a veteran for whom an independent instructor course is prescribed under the conditions of this subparagraph will be planned carefully by the Veterans' Administration in collaboration with the instructor and, in addition to meeting the requirements of other applicable Veterans' Administration regulations and procedures, will show for each of the several major units of work, which together constitute the occupation in which the veteran is to be made employable, the hours allotted to instruction and separately the hours allotted to work assignments (including preparation and/or practice), thus accounting for all the time the trainee will devote to his training. The training program will also include a time schedule showing the daily hours of instruction and/or work assignments separately.

(ii) Since the customary channels opening into employment may not be available to a veteran pursuing an independent instructor course under the conditions of this subparagraph, arrangements for satisfactory remunerative employment upon completion of the training shall be thoroughly considered and found favorable in a realistic sense before the veteran is approved for such training. Supervision of the veteran's training shall be thorough in all respects, and shall be made with such frequency as to insure knowledge whether the veteran is devoting the proper amount of time to instruction and work assignments, his progress is satisfactory, and that continuance of the course is warranted. The training officer in administering the veteran's training will encourage the trainee to develop gradually a market for his products and/or services and to supply that market so that in effect by the completion of the training program the veteran will have been trained into employment.

(2) Subject to obtaining authorization in advance from central office, an independent instructor course in agriculture may be furnished on a veteran's farm when a satisfactory course of institutional on-farm training is not available through an established school: Provided, That where such a course is prescribed, it will be conducted and otherwise administered strictly in accord with all of the applicable provisions of paragraph (c) (3) of this section pertaining to institutional on-farm training, with special care to provide for full observance of each of the essential requirements of that paragraph, except that the 100 hours of on-farm instruction prescribed in paragraph (c) (3) (iv) (a) (1) of this section will be increased by at least the 200 hours prescribed for classroom instruction in paragraph (c) (3) (i) of this section, giving a total of at least 300 hours of on-farm instruction. To receive central office consideration, a request for authorization to furnish an independent instructor course in agriculture under this subparagraph shall be accompanied by the veteran's records, and shall include a detailed statement of the facts and circumstances in the particular case and a clear showing of compliance with each requirement of paragraph (c) (3) of this section except as provided in the preceding sentence.

2. In § 21.262 (b), subparagraph (2) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.262 Additional leave under exceptional circumstances. • • •

(b) Personal hardship. • • •

(2) After all accrued ordinary leave has been exhausted, leave, in addition to the sick leave permitted by paragraph (a) of this section, not to exceed 30 days in each 12 successive months of training status may be granted when it is clear that it could not have been foreseen that the illness would require more than the amount of leave which was approvable under paragraph (a) of this section and when there is clear indication that training will be resumed within the additional period. The basic 30 days' sick leave provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, together with ordinary leave, generally should be a sufficient allowance for personal illness. A greater period of absence from training ordinarily would interfere with the course.

SEC. 105. EFFECTIVE DATE OF PART I (TITLE I, REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

Except as provided in section 104, the amendments made by this part [inc. secs. 101 and 104] shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951, and to taxable years beginning on January 1, 1951, and ending on December 31, 1951. For treatment of taxable years (other than the calendar year 1951) beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951, see section 131.

PAR. 4. Section 29.12-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5687, is further amended by striking out paragraph (d) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(d) Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950, there is imposed, in addition to the normal tax, a surtax determined as specified in section 12 for such years upon the surtax net income of every individual, resident or nonresident, except nonresident alien individuals subject to the tax imposed by section 211 (a). The surtax net income for such years is the net income minus the credits provided in section 25 (b) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1951. For such taxable years, section 12 provides that the surtax shall be determined by computing a tentative surtax in accordance with the table contained in section 12 (b) for such taxable years and by reducing such tentative surtax as follows:

(1) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and ending before January 1, 1950, the reduction shall be made under the provisions of section 12 (c) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1950;

(2) For taxable years beginning before October 1, 1950, and ending after December 31, 1949 (other than the calendar year 1950), the reduction shall be made under the provisions of section 12 (c) (2), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1950;

(3) For a taxable year which is the calendar year 1950, the reduction shall be made under the provisions of section 12 (c) (1), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1950.

For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1947 and ending in 1948, see § 29.108–3.

(e) Taxable years beginning after September 30, 1950, and before November 1, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951). For taxable years beginning after September 30, 1950, and before November 1, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), there is imposed, in addition to the normal tax, a surtax determined as specified in section 12 for such years upon the surtax net income of every individual, resident or nonresident, except nonresident alien individuals subject to the tax imposed by section 211 (a). For taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1951, the surtax net income for such years is the net income minus the credits provided in section 25 (b) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1951. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1950, the surtax net income for such years is the net income minus the credits provided in section 25 (b), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1951. For taxable years beginning after September 30, 1950, and before November 1, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), the surtax shall be determined in accordance with the surtax table contained in section 12 (b) (1) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1951. For treatment of taxable years beginning before October 1, 1950, and ending after September 30, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950), see § 29.108–5.

(f) Calendar year 1951 and taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951. For a taxable year which is the calendar year 1951 and for taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951, there is imposed, in addition to the normal tax, a surtax determined as specified in section 12, as amended by the Revenue Act of 1951, upon the surtax net income of every individual, resident or nonresident, except nonresident alien individuals subject to the tax imposed by section 211 (a). The surtax net income is the net income minus the credits provided in section 25 (b), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1951. Section 12 specifies that the surtax shall be determined in accordance with the applicable surtax table contained therein. For treatment of taxable years beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), see § 29.108–7. For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1953 and ending in 1954, see § 29.108–8.

PAR. 5. Section 29.12–2, as amended by Treasury Decision 5687, is further amended as follows:

(A) By inserting in the first sentence after "taxable years beginning after December 31, 1945," the following: "and before October 1, 1950,".

(B) By inserting in the heading of the tentative surtax table after "Taxable Years Beginning After December 31, 1945" the following: ", and Before October 1, 1950".

(C) By inserting after "For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947," in the first sentence of paragraph (d), the following: "and before October 1, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950),".

(D) By striking out paragraphs (f) and (g) of the section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(f) For a taxable year which is the calendar year 1950, section 12 provides that the combined normal tax and surtax shall be determined by reducing the aggregate of the tentative normal tax and tentative surtax as provided in the following table:

If the aggregate of the tentative normal tax and the tentative surtax is:	The reduction shall be:
Not over $400	13% of the aggregate.
Over $400 but not over $100,000	$52 plus 9% of the excess over $400.
Over $100,000	$9,016 plus 7.3% of the excess over $100,000.

Accordingly if the normal tax net income and the surtax net income for the calendar year 1950 each amounts to $150,000 the combined normal tax and surtax will be $101,941.14, computed as follows:

Tentative normal tax: 3 percent of $150,000	$4,500.00
Tentative surtax on $150,000 from table	107,320.00
Aggregate of tentative normal tax and tentative surtax	111,820.00
Reduction of tentative tax: $9,016 plus 7.3 percent of $11,820 (excess of the aggregate tentative tax over $100,000)	9,878.86
Combined normal tax and surtax	101,941.14

(g) Section 12 (f) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1950 provides that whenever it is necessary to ascertain the normal tax and the surtax separately for a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950, the surtax shall be an amount which is the same proportion of the combined normal tax and surtax as the tentative surtax is of the aggregate of the tentative normal tax and tentative surtax, and the normal tax shall be the remainder of such combined normal tax and surtax. Such computation, for example, is necessary for the purpose of section 105, relating to tax on the gain from the sale of oil or gas properties, and for the purpose of section 106, relating to tax on amounts received with respect to claims against the United States involving acquisition of property. The surtax on the net income of $150,000 involved in the above example with respect to the tax for the calendar year 1950 would under section 12 (f) be $101,941.14 (combined normal tax and surtax) multiplied by or $97,838.70, and the normal tax would be $101,941.14 minus $97,838.70, or $4,102.44.

(h) The surtax for any amount of surtax net income not stated in round figures in the surtax table is computed by adding to the surtax for the largest amount stated which is less than the surtax net income, the surtax upon the excess over that amount at the rate indicated in the table. Accordingly, the surtax upon a surtax net income of $63,128 would be $34,866, computed as follows:

Surtax on $60,000 from table	$32,520
Surtax on $3,128 at 75 percent	2,346
Total	34,866

PAR. 6. Section 29.12–3, as amended by Treasury Decision 5687, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 29.12–3 Limitation on amount of tax. The combined normal tax and surtax for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1943, computed before the application thereto of the credit provided in section 31 (relating to the credit for foreign income tax), section 32 (relating to the credit for tax withheld at the source under section 143 or 144), and section 35 (relating to the credit for tax withheld on wages), shall not exceed an amount equal to the following percent of the taxpayer's net income for the taxable year:

	Percent
For taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1943, and before Jan. 1, 1946	90
For taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1945, and before Jan. 1, 1948	85½
For taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1947, and before Oct. 1, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950)	77
For a taxable year which is the calendar year 1950	80
For taxable years beginning after Sept. 30, 1950, and before Nov. 1, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951)	87
For a taxable year which is the calendar year 1951	87.2
For taxable years beginning after Oct. 31, 1951, and before Jan. 1, 1954	88
For taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1953	87

For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1945 and ending in 1946, see § 29.108–2. For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1947 and ending in 1948, see § 29.108–3. For treatment of taxable years beginning before October 1, 1950, and ending after September 30, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950), see § 29.108–5. For treatment of taxable years beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), see § 29.108–7. For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1953 and ending in 1954, see § 29.108–8.

PAR. 7. Section 29.12–4, as added by Treasury Decision 5687, is amended as follows:

(A) By striking out the period in the heading and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "—(a) In general.".

(B) By striking out the paragraph (b) (1) and (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(b) Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950. For a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950, the method of computing, under section 12 (d), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, the tax of husband and wife in the case of a joint return is as follows:

(1) First, the net income and applicable credits against net income are reduced by one-half. Second, the tentative normal tax and tentative surtax are determined as provided in sections 11 and 12 (b) for such year, by using the net income and applicable credits so reduced. Third, the tentative normal tax and tentative surtax so determined are aggregated and this aggregate tentative tax is then reduced as provided in section 12 (c) for such year. See § 29.12–2. Fourth, this reduced aggregate, which is the combined normal tax and surtax that would be determined if the net income and the applicable credits against net income provided by section 25 for such year were reduced by one-half, is then multiplied by two, to produce the tax imposed in the case of the joint return.

(2) The limitation under section 12 (c) of the combined normal tax and surtax to an amount not in excess of a specified percent (80 percent for the calendar year 1950 and 77 percent for other taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and before October 1, 1950) of the net income for the taxable year is to be applied before the fourth step above, that is, the limitation is to be applied upon the combined normal tax and surtax determined under section 12 (c) as the specified percent (80 percent or 77 percent, as the case may be) of one-half of the net income for the taxable year (such one-half of the net income being the actual aggregate net income of the spouses reduced by one-half). After such limitation is applied, then the combined normal tax and surtax so limited are multiplied by two as provided in section 12 (d).

(C) By redesignating paragraph (c) as subparagraph (4) and by striking out paragraphs (d) and (e) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(5) If a joint return of a husband and wife is filed under the provisions of section 51 (b) (3), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, if the husband and wife have different taxable years solely because of the death of either spouse, and if the taxable year of the surviving spouse covered by such joint return began before October 1, 1950, and ended after September 30, 1950, the taxable year of the deceased spouse covered by the joint return shall, for the purpose of the computation under section 12 (d) and this section of the combined normal tax and surtax in respect of such joint return, be deemed to have ended on the date of the closing of the surviving spouse's taxable year.

(6) For computation of tax under Supplement T in the case of a joint return, see §§ 29.400–1 and 29.401–1.

(7) For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1947 and ending in 1948, see § 29.108–3.

(c) Taxable years beginning after September 30, 1950. For a taxable year beginning after September 30, 1950, the method of computing, under section 12 (d), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, the tax of husband and wife in the case of a joint return is as follows:

(1) First, the net income and applicable credits against net income are reduced by one-half. Second, the normal tax and surtax are determined as provided in sections 11 and 12 (b) for such year, by using the net income and applicable credits so reduced. Third, the normal tax and surtax so determined are aggregated. Fourth, this aggregate, which is the combined normal tax and surtax that would be determined if the net income and the applicable credits against net income provided by section 25 for such year were reduced by one-half, is then multiplied by two, to produce the tax imposed in the case of the joint return.

(2) The limitation under section 12 (f) of the combined normal tax and surtax to an amount not in excess of a specified percent of the net income for the taxable year is to be applied before the fourth step above, that is, the limitation to be applied upon the combined normal tax and surtax is determined under section 12 (f) as the applicable specified percent of one-half of the net income for the taxable year (such one-half of the net income being the actual aggregate net income of the spouses reduced by one-half). For the percent applicable in determining the limitation under section 12 (f) of the combined normal tax and surtax, see section 29.12–3. After such limitation is applied, then the combined normal tax and surtax so limited are multiplied by two as provided in section 12 (d).

(3) The following computation illustrates the method of application of section 12 (d) in the determination of the tax of a husband and wife filing a joint return for the calendar year 1951. If the joint net income is $8,200 and the only allowable credits under section 25 are the two exemptions of the taxpayers under section 25 (b) (1) (A), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1948, the tax on the joint return for 1951 is $1,488, determined as follows:

1. Net income	$8,200
2. Net income reduced by one-half	4,100
3. Credits against net income under sec. 25 (2 exemptions under sec. 25 (b) (1) (A))	1,200
4. Credits in item 3 reduced by one-half	600
5. Net income reduced by one-half (item 2) minus credits reduced by one-half (item 4)	3,500
6. Normal tax computed under sec. 11 on amount in item 5 (3 percent of $3,500)	105
7. Surtax computed under sec. 12 (b) on amount in item 5 ($248 plus 19.4 percent of excess of $3,500 over $2,000)	639
8. Combined normal tax and surtax computed on net income and credits reduced by one-half	744
9. Twice the combined normal tax and surtax determined in item 8	1,488

(4) If the alternative tax for a taxable year beginning before October 20, 1951, is computed under section 117 (c) (2) prior to its amendment by the Revenue Act of 1951, relating to the alternative tax where a taxpayer (other than a corporation) has a net long-term capital gain in excess of a net short-term capital loss, the partial tax shall be computed under sections 11 and 12 as stated above but without inclusion of such excess in net income, and the total tax shall be such partial tax plus 50 percent of such excess as provided in such section 117 (c) (2). If the alternative tax for a taxable year beginning after October 19, 1951, is computed under section 117 (c) (2), as amended by the Revenue Act of 1951, relating to the alternative tax where a taxpayer (other than a corporation) has a net long-term capital gain in excess of a net short-term capital loss, the partial tax shall be computed under sections 11 and 12 as stated above but without inclusion of 50 percent of such excess in net income, and the total tax shall be such partial tax plus a specified percent of such excess (26 percent for taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951, and before November 1, 1953, and 25 percent for all other taxable years) as provided in such section 117 (c) (2).

(5) If a joint return of a husband and wife is filed under the provisions of section 51 (b) (3), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, if the husband and wife have different taxable years solely because of the death of either spouse, and if the taxable year of the surviving spouse covered by such joint return began before November 1, 1951, and ended after October 31, 1951, the taxable year of the deceased spouse covered by the joint return shall, for the purpose of the computation under section 12 (d) and this section of the combined normal tax and surtax in respect of such joint return, be deemed to have ended on the date of the closing of the surviving spouse's taxable year.

(6) For computation of tax under Supplement T in the case of a joint return, see §§ 29.400–1 and 29.401–1.

(7) For treatment of taxable years beginning before October 1, 1950, and ending after September 30, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950), see § 29.108–5. For treatment of taxable years beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), see § 29.108–7. For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1953 and ending in 1954, see § 29.108–8.

PAR. 8. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.400–1 the following:

SEC. 102. INDIVIDUALS WITH ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME OF LESS THAN $5,000 (PART I, TITLE I, REVENUE ACT OF 1950, APPROVED SEPTEMBER 23, 1950).

SEC. 104. COMPUTATION OF TAX IN CASE OF CERTAIN JOINT RETURNS (PART I, TITLE I, REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

If a joint return of a husband and wife is filed under the provisions of section 51 (b) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code in a case where the husband and wife have different taxable years because of the death of either spouse, and the taxable year of the surviving spouse covered by such joint return began before November 1, 1951, and ended after October 31, 1951, the amendments made by this part [inc. secs. 101, 102, and 103] and section 131 shall be applicable in respect of such joint return as if the taxable years of both spouses covered by the joint return ended on the date of the closing of the surviving spouse's taxable year.

SEC. 105. EFFECTIVE DATE OF PART I (TITLE I, REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951).

Except as provided in section 104, the amendments made by this part [inc. secs. 102 and 104] shall be applicable only with respect to taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951, and to taxable years beginning on January 1, 1951, and ending on December 31, 1951. For treatment of taxable years (other than the calendar year 1951) beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951, see section 131.

PAR. 9. Section 29.400–1 (b), as amended by Treasury Decision 5687, is further amended by striking out the undesignated paragraph preceding subparagraph (7) and subparagraph (7) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(7) The tax tables in section 400 applicable with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, and before November 1, 1951, contain, in certain instances, double columns, in one of which is shown the tax if a separate return is filed, and in the other of which is shown the tax if a joint return is filed. The tax tables in section 400 applicable with respect to taxable years beginning after October 31, 1951, contain, in certain instances, double columns, in one of which is shown the tax if the taxpayer is single (and not the head of a household) or married and files a separate return, and in the other of which is shown the tax if the taxpayer is the head of a household, and, in other instances, triple columns, in the first of which is shown the tax if the taxpayer is single (and not the head of a household) or married and files a separate return, in the second of which is shown the tax if the taxpayer is the head of a household, and in the third of which is shown the tax if a joint return is filed. In the case of double or triple columns, the tax shall be determined by reference to the applicable column. Since the computations of tax shown in the case of a joint return reflect the income-splitting method provided in section 12 (d), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, the tax shown in the joint return column may be lower than that shown in the separate return column even though the amounts of adjusted gross income and the exemptions are the same. Thus, if H, a married man, has adjusted gross income of $4,925 for the calendar year 1951 and his wife has no gross income for such year and his only exemptions under section 25 (b) are the exemptions for himself and spouse under section 25 (b) (1) (A), the tax on a joint return under Supplement T, as shown in the second column applicable to a person with two exemptions, is $659. If H should file a separate return, his tax, as shown in the first column applicable to an individual with two exemptions, would be $684.

(8) If a joint return of a husband and wife is filed under the provisions of section 51 (b) (3), as added by the Revenue Act of 1948, if the husband and wife have different taxable years solely because of the death of either spouse, and if the taxable year of the surviving spouse covered by such joint return either began before October 1, 1950, and ended after September 30, 1950, or began before November 1, 1951, and ended after October 31, 1951, the taxable year of the deceased spouse covered by the joint return shall, for the purpose of determining the tax under section 400 and this section in respect of such joint return, be deemed to have ended on the date of the closing of the surviving spouse's taxable year.

(9) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1943, the fact that the taxable year is a period of less than 12 months resulting by reason of the death of the taxpayer does not prevent the application of Supplement T in the determination of the tax for such period.

(10) For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1947 and ending in 1948, see § 29.108–3. For treatment of taxable years beginning before October 1, 1950, and ending after September 30, 1950 (other than the calendar year 1950), see § 29.108–5. For treatment of taxable years beginning before November 1, 1951, and ending after October 31, 1951 (other than the calendar year 1951), see § 29.108–7. For treatment of taxable years beginning in 1953 and ending in 1954, see § 29.108–8.

PAR. 10. Section 29.401–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5687, is further amended as follows:

(A) By inserting in the heading of paragraph (b) thereof after "Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1943" the following: ", and before January 1, 1946".

(B) By inserting in the first sentence of paragraph (b) thereof after "The term 'number of surtax exemptions'" the following: ", which term is used under Supplement T for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1943, and before January 1, 1946,".

(C) By striking out all of paragraph (b) (1) after the third sentence thereof.

(D) By striking out Example (3) at the end of such section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(c) Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1945. The term "number of exemptions", which, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1945, is used instead of the term "number of surtax exemptions", means the number of exemptions allowed under section 25 (b) for such years as credits against net income for the purpose of the normal tax and the surtax imposed by sections 11 and 12. One exemption is allowed for the taxpayer; one exemption for his spouse if a joint return is made, or if a separate return is made by the taxpayer and his spouse has no gross income for the calendar year in which the taxable year of the taxpayer begins and is not the dependent of another taxpayer for such calendar year; and one exemption for each dependent whose gross income for the calendar year in which the taxable year of the taxpayer begins is less than $500 in the case of a taxable year beginning before January 1, 1951, or is less than $600 in the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1950. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1947, additional exemptions are allowed under section 25 (b) (1) (B) and (C) for a taxpayer or spouse who has attained the age of 65 years and for a blind taxpayer or blind spouse. See § 29.25–3. After the number of exemptions is ascertained, the tax under Supplement T for the taxable year is determined by reference to the table contained in section 400 applicable to such taxable year and by reference to the column of such table appropriate to such number of exemptions and, in certain cases, appropriate to either the status of the taxpayer (whether single, head of household, or married) or kind of return (whether separate or joint), or both. The tax is the amount in such column shown on the line appropriate to the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

Example. D, a married man with no dependents, attains the age of 65 years on September 1, 1951. The aggregate adjusted gross income of D and his wife for 1951 is $4,850. D and his wife file a joint return for 1951 and are entitled to three exemptions, one for each taxpayer and one additional exemption for D because of his age. Since the adjusted gross income of D and his wife falls within the tax bracket $4,800–$4,850, the tax on a joint return is $519.

[Docket AO–196–A–2]

HOPS GROWN IN OREGON, CALIFORNIA, WASHINGTON, AND IDAHO, AND HOP PRODUCTS PRODUCED THEREFROM IN THESE STATES

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and order (14 F. R. 3660–7, CFR 1950 Supp., Part 986) regulating the handling of hops grown in Oregon, California, Washington, and Idaho, and of hop products produced therefrom in these States (hereinafter called the "order"). Such order is effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.) (hereinafter called the "act"), and any amendments which may be adopted as a result of this proceeding will also be effective pursuant to the said act. Interested persons may file exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 1353, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the 12th day after publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except that, if such 12th day should fall on a Saturday, Sunday, or a holiday, they must be filed not later than the next succeeding workday. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. A public hearing, on the record of which this recommended decision is based, was held in Portland, Oregon, on March 25 and 26, 1952. Such hearing was held pursuant to a notice thereof which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 2195) on March 13, 1952. Said notice contained amendments to the order which had been proposed to the Secretary of Agriculture (hereinafter called the "Secretary") and the hearing was held pursuant to the request of the United States Hop Growers Association, a non-marketing association of hop growers. The notice also contained two comparatively routine amendments which were proposed by the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture.

The material issues, presented on the record of the hearing, are as follows:

(1) The amendment of § 986.1 (f) to clarify the definition of "grower."

(2) The amendment of § 986.6 (c) (1) (i) to require, in connection with the production determination of each grower, a segregation as between harvested and unharvested production, to establish specifically the basis for the production determination relating to unharvested hops, and to allow, in addition to the presently enumerated factors, the consideration of any other information which may be available in determining the productions of growers who refuse committee representatives access to their hop yards.

(3) The amendment of § 986.6 (c) (1) (ii) to delete the requirement that preliminary estimates of hop production be made for each grower.

(4) The further amendment of § 986.6 (c) (1) to make desirable changes in terminology and conforming changes.

(5) The amendment of § 986.6 (c) (2) (i) to:

(a) Provide for the establishment for each grower of a maximum salable allotment, the same as the salable allotment which is presently being computed, but with a further provision that, in the event a grower fails to harvest a quantity of hops equal to such maximum allotment, his salable allotment shall be the quantity he actually harvested;

(b) Authorize increases in the salable percentage to compensate for any deficits in the quantity of hops available for market by reason of the failure of individual growers to harvest their entire salable allotments; and

(c) Provide for increasing the salable percentage to 100 when the total quantity harvested is less than the salable quantity.

(6) The amendment of § 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (a) and (b) to:

(a) Require the issuance of preliminary salable allotments (not to exceed 50 percent of their probable final salable allotments) only to those growers who apply therefor, and in such cases, to make estimates of the productions of the particular growers;

(b) Provide for the issuance to growers, who apply therefor, of supplementary salable allotments not in excess of 80 percent of their probable final salable allotments on the basis of adequate, but not complete, crop production information, including, but not limited to, bale count data or other reasonably accurate information as to such grower's hop production; and

(c) Provide for the issuance to growers, who apply therefor, of supplementary allotments not in excess of 90 percent of their probable final salable allotments on the basis of complete crop production information.

(7) The amendment of § 986.6 (f) to eliminate the exercise of the diversion privilege with respect to unharvested hops, and to make desirable changes in terminology.

(8) The amendment of § 986.9 to require:

(a) The reporting by each grower of the quantities, by years of production, and the locations, of all uncertificated hops owned or controlled by him; and

(b) That all dispositions by growers of uncertificated hops be under the supervision of the board through the Growers Allocation Committee.

(9) The making of such other changes in the order as may be necessary to make the entire order conform with any amendments thereto which may result from the hearing.

(10) The amendment of § 986.1 to add a definition of "part" and "subpart."

(11) The renumbering of the sections, paragraphs, subparagraphs, and subdivisions throughout the order in accordance with the revised Federal Register regulations, and to make corresponding changes in the companion marketing agreement.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the aforementioned material issues are based upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof:

(1) The order should be amended with respect to the definition of "grower" (§ 986.1 (f) of the present order) so as to clarify the meaning of this term. The present definition is that such term "is synonymous with 'producer' and means any person who is engaged, in a proprietary capacity, in the commercial production of hops." It is stated in broad, general language, and has given rise to questions as to whether or not certain persons are to be classified as growers, particularly in connection with leasing arrangements. The situation is now such that the present definition should be changed and reworded so as to establish such additional criteria as may be necessary to provide adequate bases for the making of such determinations.

It is concluded that one means of accomplishing this objective would be to add to the present definition a statement as to the specific kinds of farming arrangements whereunder persons should be considered as being growers of hops. Such kinds of arrangements should be as follows: (1) A person who owns and farms land, resulting in his or its ownership of the hops produced thereon; (2) a person who rents and farms land, resulting in his or its ownership of all or a portion of the hops produced thereon; or (3) a person who owns land which he or it does not farm and, as rental for such land, obtains the ownership of a portion of the hops produced thereon.

A person falling within category numbered (1) obviously should be regarded as a grower. The category numbered (2) should include all persons who produce hops on land which they rent. Such renters would fall in two general classes namely: (a) Those who pay a specified amount of money for the use of the property in question, and have the ownership of all of the hops which are produced thereon; and (b) those who operate under a crop-share rental arrangement, whereunder the ownership of the crop produced thereon is divided between the tenant and the landlord on an agreed basis. Under situation (a), the tenant would be the sole grower of the hops produced on the land which he or it rented. However, under situation (b), the tenant would be one of two growers with respect to such hops, the other grower being the landlord. The category numbered (3) is needed primarily for the purpose of making it clear that the landlord under situation (b) also would be a grower, i. e., with respect to his share of the crop. This would conform with general legal concepts as applied to such situations. As set forth in the notice of hearing, category (3) reads as follows: "Owns land which he or it does not farm, and, as rental for such land, obtains the ownership of all or a portion of the hops produced thereon." The words "all or" appearing therein in the phrase "obtains the ownership of all or a portion of the hops produced thereon" should be deleted since, as previously indicated, such category numbered (3) is needed primarily to clarify that the landlord of the tenant under category (2) who receives from such tenant as rental for the land a share of the hop crop, is also a grower with respect to his share of the crop. In other words, it appears that the situation envisaged is one under which the landlord will receive a share, but not all, of the hop crop grown on the land being farmed under such arrangement as rental for such land. The proposed deletion also is necessary in order that the wording of category (3) as proposed herein will be the same as that contained in the required referenda procedure referred to in the next sentence below. In addition, the aforesaid categories are the same as those set forth in the definition of "producer" which is contained in the required procedure for the conduct of referenda among producers in connection with marketing orders, except those applicable to milk and its products (15 F. R. 5176). Those procedural rules govern the basis on which producers (growers) are entitled to vote in connection with the determination as to whether orders of this nature, or amendments to such orders, are approved.

It is reasonable and proper that persons who are eligible to vote in a referendum regarding the adoption or amendment of a hop marketing order should be the same persons as those whose hops are to be regulated. The aforementioned categories include all who should be considered as growers. Therefore, ownership of, or lease-hold interest in land, and the acquisition in any manner other than that hereinbefore set forth of legal title to hops grown thereon, obviously should not be deemed to result in such owners or leasees becoming growers.

It should be understood, of course, that a share-crop landlord (as covered under the category numbered (3)) must be required, as a condition precedent to his being regarded as a grower, to assume the normal and usual obligations in connection with the arrangement which are recognized as being inherent in such a situation. It is usual and customary for such landlords to participate, to a greater or lesser extent, and either directly or through agents, in the growing operations from a supervisory standpoint, and they often furnish at least a part of the cash, materials, or equipment needed for the production of the crop. Such arrangements are normally incorporated in a written contract, and provisions are generally set forth therein which delineate the respective duties, obligations, and rights of each party. These contracts should, except in unusual circumstances, be entered into either prior to, or shortly after the beginning of, the particular growing season. While it is impracticable, as well as inadvisable, to list all criteria which should govern the making of a determination in this connection, it should appear from all of the attendant facts and circumstances that such a person has actually assumed sufficient risk and responsibility in connection with the growing operations to justify the consideration of him by a reasonably prudent person as a producer in connection with his portion of the production. If the facts and circumstances should demonstrate to a reasonably prudent person that such a landlord has not acted in good faith in the matter, he should not be considered as a producer in that regard. Likewise, a share-crop tenant (as covered under the category numbered (2)) should, as a condition precedent to his being regarded as a grower, assume duties and obligations similar to those set forth above insofar as they may reasonably be regarded as applicable to his status.

The definition of "grower" also should be clarified with respect to one aspect of the meaning which should be assigned to the term "person" as used in such definition. The term "person" is defined (see § 986.1 (c) of the present order) as meaning any "individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit." The same definition of this term is set forth in the act. Experience has shown that the term "partnership" has caused difficulty with respect to the business arrangements which it covers. It is concluded that the term "partnership" should be deemed to include a husband and wife, and any others, with respect to land the title to which, or the leaseheld interest in which, is vested in them as tenants in common, joint tentants, tenants by the entirety, or, under community property laws, as community property. These cover situations which are generally found to exist under operation of orders of this nature, and they are commonly considered to be partnership arrangements.

The above discussion under category (2) as applied to renters should not be considered as being limited to persons who are the initial renters of the property in question. It is possible that an initial renter may, in turn, rent the same land to another person, and the latter may conduct the actual hop growing operations. In such a situation, the renter who actually conducts the hop growing operations should be considered to be the grower. There are other situations involving leasing arrangements where it is not practicable to determine who is to be considered the grower by application of a general rule covering all such situations. A renter, for example, may perform the growing operations on a hop yard up to the time of harvest, and at such time he may, in turn, lease the yard to another person. Such transfer of leasehold interest by an initial lessee may occur at any other stage in the growing of the crop on the land leased by him, as a result of which both the initial lessee and the subsequent lessee may perform, in varying proportions, the growing operations with respect to the hops grown on such land. In view of the potential varied ramifications which such arrangements might entail, and in view of the fact that past experience in that regard has indicated that some of the arrangements were not entered into in good faith, it is, therefore, not practicable to make a general ruling which will apply to all such situations. Each such situation and arrangement must be considered on the basis of its attendant facts and circumstances.

In viewing each such situation it would be proper to consider the production risks and responsibilities assumed and borne, respectively, by the initial lessee and the succeeding lessee. After most of the risks and responsibilities of production of a crop have been carried out by one grower, and practically no such risks and responsibilities of production remain to be carried out, the leasing of such acreage at that time would, under most conditions, constitute merely a purchase of such crop on the vines, instead of in the bales. It is sufficient to say that, if such attendant facts and circumstances indicate that the arrangements were entered into in good faith that the aforementioned rules and guides should apply thereto.

There is also a problem with respect to who should be considered to be the grower in the event that the person who has qualified as the grower dies. In such a situation, the successors in interest of the deceased person should be regarded as the growers. In other words, if the ownership is acquired by specified persons, such persons, including trustees under a trust arrangement, should be regarded as occupying the same position as the deceased person would have occupied if he had lived.

It is not intended that the proposed new definition of grower, if adopted, will change or alter in any way the present procedures for crop production determinations pursuant to § 986.6 (c) (1), the issuance of salable allotments pursuant to § 986.6 (c) (2), or the issuance of joint salable allotments pursuant to § 986.6 (c) (3) of the present order. For example, in the case of joint ownership of a hop crop arising as a result of a crop-share arrangement between a landlord and his tenant, such operation should be considered as a unit in making crop production determinations and in the issuance of salable allotments. As is provided in said § 986.6 (c) (3), in the event that thereafter the interests of the joint growers are segregated, they are entitled, upon making written application therefor, to have the salable allotment for the crop (unit) segregated and distributed "in accordance with their respective segregated interests in the crop," and these provisions are not proposed to be changed.

(2) The provisions of § 986.6 (c) (1) (i), which relate to the determinations of productions of growers, both individually and in the aggregate, should be amended in the following respects: (a) In addition to the present requirement that such determinations be on the basis of the total production, it should also be required that, in each instance, the harvested and unharvested portion of the particular production be determined and shown separately; (b) the present provisions requiring the inclusion in such computation of unharvested hops which have been grown to maturity and remain unharvested on living vines which remain strung or trained and from which hops have not been picked should be implemented by specific provisions requiring the estimations in that regard to be made on the basis of the amount of hops (net dry weight) which would have been yielded if such unharvested hops had been picked, dried, and baled or otherwise processed and packaged for market; and (c) it should be provided, in connection with cases where a grower does not permit a representative of the Growers Allocation Committee access to his hop yard, that, in making the estimation of the production of that grower, the committee should consider, in addition to the presently specified criteria, such other information as may be available to it.

With respect to (a) above, experience under order operations up to this time has demonstrated that the maintenance of records of the respective quantities of harvested and unharvested hops of each grower, as well as of the aggregate quantities of harvested and unharvested hops, separately, for all growers, has been desirable and necessary for the efficient operation of this program. In fact, the need for such records has been such that they have been developed and maintained despite the absence of any specific requirement to that effect. This need will obviously be accentuated by other proposed amendments of this regulation which are recommended herein for adoption, such as the contemplated new provisions for the calculations of the salable allotments of individual growers, the requiring of growers to submit periodic reports of their respective holdings of uncertificated (or surplus) hops, and in connection with the determination whether the total harvested production for a marketing season is less than the salable quantity for that season as a preliminary to the increasing of the salable percentage to 100. The adoption of these additional requirements should not cause the committee to incur any appreciable extra labor and expense. That is to say, it is necessary under the existing provisions for it to make its determinations as to total and aggregate productions by determining the respective harvested and unharvested portions and then adding them together. The change will merely require that the determinations in connection with the quantities of harvested and unharvested hops be made matters of official record, and will thus insure that they are kept available for future use in the operation of this program.

With reference to (b) above, the existing provisions do not prescribe the computation methods which should be used in estimating the respective quantities of unharvested hops. Some growers have insisted that such estimations should be made on the basis of all mature hops which are on the vines. It has been the practice of the Growers Allocation Committee to make such estimations on the basis of what the unharvested hops would produce if they were picked, dried, and baled or otherwise processed and packaged for market. It is concluded that this basis is the proper and logical one for use in that connection. The giving of production credit is a necessary preliminary to the establishment of the salable allotment of a particular grower. Such allotments are made, pursuant to the statute, on the basis of the respective quantities of hops which are available for market, and, as will be demonstrated more fully hereinafter, hops are not available for market unless and until they have been prepared in suitable form for market, i. e., picked, dried, and baled or otherwise processed and packaged for market. Hence, equity among producers requires that estimations of unharvested hops be made on that basis. In other words, estimations on such a basis are necessary in order to give similar credit on unharvested productions as on harvested productions. It is well known that losses occur in the taking of the actions enumerated above in the preparing of hops for market, and such losses should be considered, by way of deductions, in the making of estimations on unharvested hops. The incorporation of specific provisions on the matter in the order should prevent the arising of future disputes in that regard between the committee and individual growers.

With regard to (c) above, the present order provisions require that the crop determination made, in the case of a grower who refuses a representative of the Growers Allocation Committee access to his hop yard, be on the basis of an estimate of such grower's acreage, the average crop conditions in the area, and the probable yield per acre on the acreage in question. It is conceivable that there may be available (with respect to the case of a grower in this category) to the committee other information which is pertinent in this connection, and which should be considered by the committee if the most accurate determination practicable is to be made. The proposed addition would enable such consideration to be given to the other pertinent information, and this action would obviously be desirable and appropriate.

(3) Section 986.6 (c) (1) (ii) should be amended to delete therefrom the present requirement that preliminary estimates of all growers' productions be made prior to the start of harvest, or as soon thereafter as practicable. Experience under the orders has shown that, by the time growers have a need for preliminary salable allotments, adequate information is generally available to the board, or may be obtained without undue expense and effort, upon which such preliminary allotments can be based. Moreover, under the recommended amendment of § 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (a), preliminary allotments will be issued only to growers who make requests therefor. The board, therefore, should not be required to incur the unnecessary expense which would be involved in making preliminary production estimates for any growers other than in those cases where such estimates are needed in order to issue preliminary salable allotments upon request. The need for such preliminary estimates in the latter connection is discussed more fully hereinafter under the issue numbered 6 (a), and it is concluded that the necessary provisions in that regard should be incorporated in the section (§ 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (a)) of the order dealing with that aspect.

The requirement for the preliminary estimate of total production should remain unchanged, so that an indication of the salable percentage of that crop will be available as early as is practicable. However, this estimate should be based on the then current Federal or Federal-State crop estimates, as the case may be, and such other relevant data as are available, and the present requirement for the making of such estimations by physical examinations of each yard and other historical productions should be deleted. The Federal-State preliminary estimate of hop production as of August 1 is available about August 10 of each year, and it should provide the board with the information needed for it to advise each grower, at an appropriate time, the estimated or prospective salable percentage for that crop.

Evidence presented shows that, for the years 1945 through 1951, inclusive, the Federal-State estimates of hop production as of August 1 have ranged between 95.4 percent and 110.2 percent of the corresponding final estimates. However, in 5 of these years the August 1 estimates were within 3 percent of the final estimates, and in 4 of such years were within 2 percent of the final estimates. The August 1 estimates would have provided a satisfactory basis for use in computing the estimated salable percentage, and it is reasonable to expect that they will continue to be at least as satisfactory for this purpose in the future. Also, the use of the August 1 estimates should not result in any complications in connection with the computation of any preliminary salable allotment or of the supplementary salable allotments. It is obvious that the probability of the issuance of salable allotments based on preliminary crop estimates exceeding the final salable allotments would be greater in the case of the proposed "90 percent supplementary salable allotments." (See discussion under the issue numbered 6 (c)). In no instance during the years 1945 through 1951, inclusive, would the use of the August 1 preliminary crop estimates as the basis for establishing the aforesaid proposed 90 percent supplementary salable allotments have resulted in the issuance to growers of such allotments in excess of their final allotments. This same conclusion is reached with respect to the use of the September 1 preliminary crop estimates, with the exception of the year 1947, when the September 1 estimate was 89.5 percent of the final crop estimate. A recurrence of a deviation between the September 1 estimate and the final estimate as great as that which occurred in 1947 appears highly remote. It should be noted in this connection that complications from the use of preliminary crop estimates in computing grower's preliminary or supplementary salable allotments could arise only in instances where such preliminary crop estimates are below the final estimates.

(4) Other language in § 986.6 (c) (1) should also be amended so as to make comparatively minor, but desirable, changes in terminology, as well as to make changes which are necessary to make such provisions conform with the changes in said section recommended to be adopted under (2) and (3) above. The first such change relates to the title of § 936.6 (c) (1). It is concluded that such title, which now reads "Determination of quantity available for market," should be changed to read "Determination of total production." This change will not make any substantive difference in the effect of the order provisions involved, but it will recognize that the real intent of those provisions is from the standpoint of determining the total production of the several producers, and the aggregate production of all producers. In other words the change will result in a more realistic statement of intent. Another change which should be made is in the rewording of the phrase "the total quantity of hops (net dry weight), meeting the requirements of § 986.5, available for market for each grower from his production of hops during that year," appearing at the end of the first sentence of § 986.6 (c) (1). This phrase should be changed to read as follows: "the total quantity of hops (net dry weight) produced by growers during that year which meet the requirements of § 986.5." The reasons why such change is appropriate are similar to the reasons why the aforementioned change should be made in the title of this section. Likewise conforming changes in this regard should be made, at the appropriate places, in the second and third sentences of subdivision (vi) of § 986.6 (c) (1). Also, the phrase at the end of § 986.6 (c) (1) (ii), which section relates to preliminary estimates, and reads "a preliminary estimate of said total quantity of hops which will become available for market by each such grower and by all growers, during that year" should be changed to read: "a preliminary estimate of said total quantity of hops which will be produced by all growers from that year's crop." As is set forth in the discussion under the issue numbered (3) above, it is proposed to eliminate the existing requirement for the making of preliminary estimations of the productions of each of the individual growers, with the indicated exceptions. In addition, as is set forth under the discussion of this issue in connection with the above changes, such amendment will recognize that what is actually involved in this connection is the quantity of production, rather than the quantity which is available for market. Further, the words "and (ii)" should be deleted from subdivision (iii), (iv), and (v) of said § 986.6 (c) (1). These subdivisions relate, respectively, to the following matters in connection with the determinations of productions: determination for and protests by members of committee; notice to growers; and protests by growers. All such actions, by their nature, relate to individual growers. In view of the recommendation as to the elimination of the present general requirement, in (ii), for the making of preliminary estimates of the productions of every grower, it is obvious that reference to said subdivision (ii) in subdivisions (iii), (iv), and (v) should be deleted.

(5) It is concluded that three major changes should be made in the provisions of § 986.6 (c) (2) (i) of the existing order, which relate to computations of growers' salable allotments. These three changes are set forth and discussed in order below.

(a) It is now provided that the salable allotment of each grower shall be computed by multiplying his credited production by the salable percentage. This method of computation in that regard should be retained as the basis for computing the maximum salable allotment for each grower, but there should be added provisions to the effect that, if any such grower fails to harvest a quantity from his crop equal to the maximum salable allotment as so computed for him, his salable allotment shall be the quantity which he actually harvested.

As has been indicated heretofore, the credited production for an individual grower is arrived at from a consideration of what he has harvested plus the quantity which any mature hops which he has left on the living vines would have produced, in terms of dried hops, if he had picked, dried, baled or otherwise processed or packaged them for market. This presently authorized way of handling has resulted in numerous instances of individual growers being granted salable allotments in amounts in excess of the respective quantities which they actually picked, dried and baled or otherwise processed and packaged for market from their productions. As is now provided for in § 986.6 (f), such growers can obtain uncertificated hops of that year's production from other growers in an amount equal to such excess quantity and have the hops so acquired certificated for handling. However, for the reasons which are discussed at length in connection with the issue numbered (7) hereto, it is being concluded that the existing authorization in said § 986.6 (f) for the exercise of the diversion privilege with respect to unharvested hops in salable allotments should be deleted. On the assumption that the change last referred to will be made, the presently proposed amendment will be necessary and desirable as an appropriate conforming change. In other words, in the absence of such a conforming change, the growers in the situation mentioned would have salable allotments in excess of the respective quantities of hops and hop products which they would have available for sale. Stated conversely, this conforming change would make it impossible for such an undesirable situation to arise.

However, the presently proposed change is also justifiable on its own merits, and without regard to the fact that it is desirable as a conforming change from the standpoint mentioned in the preceding paragraph. The act (in § 8c (6) (G)) authorizes the salable quantity of hops to be apportioned equitably among growers on the basis of "the total quantity of hops available or estimated will become available for market by each producer from his production during such period." Undisputed testimony was presented at the hearing to the effect that hops should not be considered as being "available for market" unless and until they have been harvested. In other words, hops must be harvested within a very short time after their cones mature, as otherwise, such cones shatter and are lost. Since, under the proposed change, each grower would still have the option of picking his full salable allotment, and thereby obtaining credit therefor, it is not believed that any valid claim of inequity among growers could be raised by reason of the adoption of such change. That is to say, any failure of a grower to obtain his maximum salable allotment would be attributable to him, rather than to the regulation. In this regard, the evidence shows that all growers are advised prior to, or near the beginning of, each harvesting season of the probable salable percentage for that year's crop, and they are kept informed of subsequent changes and other developments in that respect. Thus, each and every grower is provided with the same basic facts for use in estimating his probable maximum allotment, and these facts are reasonably adequate for that purpose.

In further connection with the above matter, the computation of the maximum salable allotment would still have to be made, as at present, on the basis of the particular grower's total production (regardless of whether harvested or unharvested) in order that he may be left in a position to obtain credit for his full (or maximum) allotment, in case he chooses to take the necessary steps. However, whether he does or not, his maximum salable allotment would, up to his maximum salable quantity, be determined by the quantity which he actually harvested. Thus, the existing and the added provisions in this regard would be in harmony, and consistent, with each other from the standpoint that the only hops which would be regarded as being "available for market" would be those which are actually harvested.

Viewing this matter from the standpoint of a justification of this proposed change on its merits, it would follow, as a matter of course, from the making of such a change in the regulation that all reference to unharvested hops in the diversion privilege provisions should be deleted. In other words, assuming that the presently proposed change should be adopted, no grower would have unharvested hops in his salable allotment, and hence there would remain nothing on which the diversion privilege provisions could operate in that regard.

The adoption of the presently proposed change will necessitate the making of conforming changes in subsequent sentences of § 986.6 (c) (2) (i) by inserting the word "maximum" where applicable.

(b) It is also concluded that this section should be amended to provide for increasing the salable percentage in any situation where the harvested quantity exceeds the salable quantity, but the salable percentage, as calculated pursuant to this section, will not result in the availability in marketing channels of the salable quantity fixed for that year's crop to the point necessary to make such salable quantity available. It appears that, under the proposed amended order, there would be a tendency for growers to harvest sufficient hops to be reasonably sure that they could utilize their maximum salable allotments. That is to say, under normal conditions there would not be a need for exercising this proposed provision, since the possibilities are that there would be sufficient hops harvested and available within growers' salable allotments to equal the salable quantity. However, if the situation did develop that substantial quantities of hops were left unharvested by growers within their maximum salable allotments, or if substantial quantities of harvested hops should be destroyed by fire, or otherwise, while in the hands of growers thereof, there should be authority provided to increase the salable percentage to compensate for such deficits and to make available in market channels the full salable quantity. Such authority should be permissive rather than mandatory, since, under some conditions, the amount of the deficit might be so insignificant that an increase in the salable percentage would not be justified. The exercise of this provision should not result in any inequities as between growers. Normally, the Growers Allocation Committee would make its recommendation to the Secretary for increasing the salable percentage about the middle of November, which is long past the harvesting period. Thus, all hops which are to be harvested would be harvested by that time, and all growers would have had an equal opportunity to harvest their full (maximum) salable quantities. It is desirable that the Growers Allocation Committee make the finding with respect to the need for increasing the salable percentage, because it makes the initial finding with respect to the total production, and it will have possession of all of the facts which have a bearing on the need for the increase. This should not, however, preclude the right of the Secretary to act independently of the Growers Allocation Committee in the absence of a recommendation from such committee.

(c) It is further concluded that this section should be amended so as to provide that, in the event the harvested quantity should be less than the salable quantity, the salable percentage for that year's crop shall be increased to 100. It is obvious that, under such a situation, the total harvested quantity should be released in market channels, so that as much as possible of the quantity needed in such channels can be sold. Such action should not result in any inequities between growers for reasons which are stated under (b) above.

(6) It is concluded that a major change should be made with respect to the provisions of § 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (a) of the present order, relating to the issuance of preliminary allotments, which change is discussed under (a) below. It is also concluded that two major changes should be made with respect to the provisions of § 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (b) of the present order, relating to the issuance of supplementary allotments, which changes are discussed under (b) and (c) below.

(a) With respect to the issuance of preliminary allotments, the present order provisions (§ 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (a)) require that such allotments be issued to each and every grower in an amount up to 50 percent of his then estimated salable allotment, which estimated salable allotment is computed by multiplying such grower's estimated production by the estimated salable percentage. The existing order provisions contemplate that such estimated production for that grower will have been established by the preliminary determination in that regard which is now provided for in § 986.6 (c) (1) (ii).

Testimony at the hearing disclosed that experience under order operations has shown that preliminary allotments are not needed by many growers. The lack of such a need seems to exist primarily in the cases of small growers, in that they are usually in a position to qualify for supplementary allotments by the time that they could qualify for preliminary allotments, and the issuance of supplementary allotments originally would apparently serve their needs more satisfactorily. Small growers generally require a shorter period in which to harvest their hops than do large growers, and they normally would have difficulty in making up individual shipments that would be sufficiently large to be practicable for handling under preliminary allotments. On the other hand, there seems to be a general need for the issuance of preliminary allotments in the cases of large growers. Such growers would normally be in positions to make shipments within such allotments, and, by reason of the size of their operations, they are inclined to extend the sales of their productions over longer periods than is customary for small growers.

It is inevitable, of course, that the issuance of preliminary allotments requires the expenditure of labor and expense on the part of the control board, and it is clear that the amount of such labor and expense will vary in accordance with the number of preliminary allotments which must be issued. In these circumstances, it seems obvious that the issuance of preliminary allotments should be made a permissive, rather than a mandatory matter, and, in order that each grower who has need of such an allotment will have it issued to him, the issuance should be predicated on the making by such grower of a specific request to the control board therefor. The circumstances are such that a formal, or written, request in that connection by the grower should not be necessary. In other words such a request may properly be made informally, such as in person by either the grower or his prospective handler, or by a telephone request by either party.

As is indicated under the discussion of the issue numbered (3) herein, it is being concluded that the requirements for preliminary estimations of the productions of individual growers should be deleted. It is, of course, necessary for the issuance of preliminary allotments that the productions of the particular individual growers be estimated. Therefore, there should be incorporated in this change a specific requirement that, in connection with the issuance of such a preliminary allotment upon request, said estimation shall be made and shall be based upon an examination of the hop yard or yards, the historical record of the production thereof, official crop estimates, and such other production data as are available. These criteria are generally the same as are now prescribed for use in making preliminary estimations of individual productions under § 986.6 (c) (1) (ii).

(b) and (c) Under the present provisions (§ 986.6 (c) (2) (ii) (b)) of the order, supplementary salable allotments not to exceed 80 percent of the probable final allotment may be issued to growers without action by the Secretary. In other words, any such issuance in excess of 80 percent must have the approval of the Secretary. During each of the past three years, the board has requested and received the approval of the Secretary for this issuance of supplementary salable allotments up to 90 percent of any grower's probable final salable allotment when complete information was available as to that grower's production for that year. It has been found that the issuance of a 90 percent supplementary salable allotment to a grower can be issued without danger that such supplementary allotment will exceed his final allotment. Since the estimated salable percentage at the time of the issuance of supplementary allotments is based upon the latest crop estimates, in most cases the September 1 estimates, and such estimate are fairly close to the final estimates of crop production, any subsequent change in the salable percentage probably would be small. The remaining margin of 10 percent of each grower's probable final allotment has been found to be ample to assure adequate protection against abnormal conditions which may cause a change in the salable percentage and corresponding changes in final allotments. The bases for calculating both the 80 percent and the 90 percent supplementary salable allotments are set forth in the proposed amendments. The issuance of an 80 percent supplementary allotment to a grower should be based on adequate, but not necessarily complete, crop production information available to the board, including, but not limited to, bale count data or other reasonably accurate information as to such grower's hop production. The issuance of a 90 percent supplementary allotment to a grower should be based on complete crop information available to the board, including, but not limited to, complete weight data on such grower's harvested production and the recommended determination as to any of his unharvested hop production for that year, and Federal-State Inspection Service evidence of the meeting of the applicable minimum standard requirements for quality, by the harvested hops of such grower which are included in his production determination. It appears that the aforesaid requirements would provide adequate assurance against the issuance of supplementary allotments in excess of the respective final allotments, and the board, therefore, should be authorized to issue such supplementary allotments up to 90 percent without approval by the Secretary.

While the matter was not discussed specifically at the hearing, it is obvious, of course, that, in issuing the aforementioned preliminary and 80 percent supplementary salable allotments, consideration should be given to the then prospective salable allotment which would reasonably be expected to be granted the particular grower. In other words, if it should appear probable at any such time that such grower's actual salable allotment will be less than his apparent maximum salable allotment, which would be due to his failure to harvest his maximum salable allotment, the aforementioned percentages should be applied against his then apparent actual salable allotment.

(7) Section 986.6 (f) of the present order should be amended so as to limit the exercise of the diversion privilege to harvested hops. Under present order provisions, if hops, whether harvested or unharvested, in the control of the respective grower thereof, are destroyed, or are so damaged or deteriorated as in the judgment of the grower to be unmarketable, or if because of quality or type such hops are unsatisfactory to the grower, he may replace such hops, within the limits of his salable allotment for that respective year, by acquiring uncertificated hops of that year's crop from the growers thereof. The original intent of the diversion privilege was to provide a means whereby damaged hops or hops of inferior quality or type within a grower's salable allotment could be replaced by him with hops of better quality or type from uncertificated hops of other growers and thus improve the average quality or type of hops available to the brewing industry from that year's crop. Unharvested hops were included so as to permit growers, in cases where they knew before harvest that the particular hops of their own productions would not be satisfactory, to avoid the labor and expense of harvesting them. Thus, in principle, it was conceived that the exercise of the diversion privilege would be in the best interests of the hop industry. In practice, however, the use of the privilege with respect to unharvested hops has degenerated primarily into a market for the purchase and sale of allotment rights, or certificates, under which the desirable objectives of the privilege have been lost sight of, or have been disregarded. Testimony at the hearing indicated that the diversion of unharvested hops had led to the growing of hops in bad faith, i. e., the growing of hops for certificates, rather than for market as hops. A grower who grows hops with the intent to divert them under the diversion privilege is able to escape in considerable degree the responsibilities and risks normal to the production of hops for market. His main interest is in maximizing the production of hops on the vine so as to obtain the greatest possible production credit and allotment rights for his unharvested hops. Evidence shows that a grower can obtain, by overfertilization and excess irrigation, an extremely profuse and bushy growth of vines and what appears to be, and may be, a relatively large production of hop cones. Hops grown under these conditions, however, would be extremely difficult, or impossible, to harvest and, in any event, could not be harvested without extreme harvesting losses and without a high leaf and stem content. It appears that the use of the aforesaid cultural practices to produce maximum vegetative growth are quite prevalent among growers who exercise the diversion privilege on unharvested hops. Indications are that by these practices such growers receive a production credit on unharvested acreage of from 2 to 3 bales per acre in excess of that which they would have received if they had followed the normal practices in producing hops for market. This results in inequities as between growers. In producing hops which are to be harvested and made available for market, the grower thereof must exercise care and diligence with respect to proper training of the vines, vine growth, spraying or dusting, and the condition of the trellises. Proper training of the vines and the amount of growth permitted are important for efficient harvesting. Spraying or dusting at the proper time are necessary for effective control of diseases and insects which would impair market quality. Attention to the condition of the trellises is a necessary precaution to reduce the hazard from wind damage which may level all or a portion of the yard. The grower who produces for "certificates" can escape, in large measure, such responsibilities and risks under present order operations. It seems clear that this is contrary to the intent of the diversion privilege provisions, as well as that it is contrary to both the spirit and intent of the act.

Evidence presented at the hearing reveals that there has been a sharp increase in the use of the diversion privilege since the present order became effective. There were 185 growers who used the privilege in the 1949, or first, crop year. Of this number, there were 77 who diverted as unharvested production 100 percent of their salable allotments for that crop year. The number using the privilege increased to 246 growers in the 1950 crop year, of which 85 growers diverted 100 percent of their salable allotments. In the 1951 crop year, there were 324 growers who used the privilege, or an increase of 75 percent over the number who used the privilege in the 1949 crop year. A total of 168 growers in the 1951 crop year diverted as unharvested production 100 percent of their salable allotments. This represents a gain of 118 percent in the number of such growers since the 1949 crop year. If the diversion privilege with respect to unharvested hops was used as originally intended, it is reasonable to expect a decrease in the number of "diverters" in the 1951 crop year, since, in that year, hops were of unusually high quality in all States. These data tend to support the view expressed at the hearing that, under present order provisions with respect to the diversion of unharvested hops, an increasing number of growers are producing hops with no intent of harvesting them and making them available for market. This view also is supported by other evidence introduced at the hearing. Testimony was given, for example, which indicated that it was a common practice for growers using the diversion privilege to enter into arrangements with dealers for the sale of their certificate rights prior to the harvest season (in some cases as early as February), and before such growers could have knowledge of the quality of hops to be produced or of hops which might be available for replacement.

The foregoing facts and circumstances indicate that the diversion privilege is being used in ways which were not contemplated or intended at the time it was adopted. Although, in principle, the exercise of diversion in connection with unharvested hops has merit as a means whereby growers of poor quality hops can avoid the expense of harvesting such hops and providing the brewing industry with a higher average quality product, it is concluded that, on the basis of the weight of evidence, the use of the privilege in this respect is being abused, that it has resulted in the growing of hops in bad faith, and that it has created inequities among growers. These abuses outweigh the potential advantages to a considerable degree. Therefore, the proposed amendment to eliminate the diversion privilege with respect to unharvested hops should be adopted. Aside from these reasons, the adoption of the presently proposed amendment would be a conforming change in line with the proposed amendment to provide for the issuance of salable allotments to growers on the basis of the quantity actually harvested by each grower within his maximum allotment, as discussed herein under the issue numbered (5) (a).

(8) (a) and (b) The order should be amended in two new aspects in connection with uncertificated, or surplus, hops, and hop products, namely: (a) Each grower should be required to report to the Growers Allocation Committee, prior to June 15 of each marketing season, the quantities (by years of production stated separately) and the locations of all such hops and hop products which were owned or controlled by him as of the preceding June 1, and each grower shall further be required to furnish similar reports to that committee as of such other date or dates as it may specify; and (b) each grower who desires to dispose of any uncertificated, or surplus hops or hop products (other than for use for replacement purposes in connection with diversions pursuant to the provisions of (§ 986.6 (f)) in his possession or control should be required, prior to making such disposition, to make arrangements with the Growers Allocation Committee or its authorized representatives, for supervision by the latter of such disposition, such supervision to be provided at the mutual convenience of the particular grower and the committee.

In the case of most commodities which are regulated under orders pursuant to the act, it is practicable to defer regulation of the particular commodity until it has been received by recognized handlers. With respect to such other commodities, it is feasible and practicable to set aside the surplus portion and hold it for disposition by the particular administrative agency in channels which are not competitive with the normal market outlets for such commodity. In every such instance, the regulation imposes strict accountability on the individual handlers with respect to the reporting, safekeeping, and accounting for the respective portions of the surplus which is attributable to them with a view to insuring insofar as is practicable, that no part of such surplus will find its way into normal market channels.

In the case of hops and hop products, however, the situation is such that all surplus hops must be left in the hands of the several individual growers. Testimony which was presented at the promulgation hearing which preceded the issuance of the present order disclosed that the available market outlets for hops are confined to those which are regarded as normal market outlets. More specifically, such testimony showed that approximately 98 percent of the hops sold are used in the manufacture of malt beverages, and the remainder are apparently used in the manufacture of other, and miscellaneous, preparations. Such testimony also showed that, while hops have possible uses for such things as mulch, fertilizer (humus), and animal bedding, there were no appreciable market outlets in that regard. In other words, such non-competitive uses are, for all practical purposes, confined to such uses by the growers on their respective farms. Accordingly, the present order was drafted from the standpoint that uncertificated, or surplus, hops would not be sold in commercial channels. Testimony generally similar to the above was presented at the amendment hearing.

The consequence of the aforementioned situation with respect to hops and hop products is that the surplus portions must be, and are, left in the hands of the growers. This consequence has even been recognized by Congress, in that, in section 8c (6) (G) of the act, it has set forth special provisions which may be used, in lieu of the general and usual provisions, for the regulation of hops and hop products. These special provisions contemplate, first, the fixing of a salable quantity of hop crop, and second, the equitable apportionment of such salable quantity among hop growers the amounts of their respective productions which they may sell. The inevitable result of the following of this procedure is, of course, that the surplus portions are left in the hands of the respective producers.

As is indicated above, most other regulatory programs in connection with fruits and vegetables have entailed the operation, by the appropriate administrative agencies, of pools of the surpluses involved, whereunder such surpluses are sold in non-competitive outlets and the net proceeds are distributed to the parties who hold interests therein. But more important in the present connection is the fact that detailed provision is made, in each such instance, for the holding of the handlers (the persons who occupy the positions growers occupy under the program from the standpoint of surplus) responsible for the reporting, safekeeping, and accounting for such surplus. However, the existing order contains no comparable provisions in connection with hops and hop products.

It is clearly apparent that the effective operation of this program requires that the board be in a position to guard effectively against the disposition of surplus hops in commercial channels. In other words, the disposition of surplus hops in commercial channels results in the handling of a quantity of hops in excess of market needs, with a consequent depressing effect on the prices which are received by the growers. In addition, it violates the principle of the equitable apportionment among growers of the quantity which is sold in commercial channels. Stated differently, such action runs counter to the basic principle on which the regulation is based, and tends to nullify the good effects which should reasonably be expected to accrue from operation of the program. The absence of appropriate provisions in the order to enable the board to perform its duties in this connection has hampered its performance of such duties, and, as set forth below, its efforts to obtain the submission of such reports and submission to its supervision of destruction on a voluntary basis have not met with the necessary degree of success.

Testimony disclosed that a number of instances of unlawful dispositions or uses of surpluses have been discovered in the past. Such actions seem to have fallen into two main patterns, namely, the unlawful sales of surplus hops into commercial channels and the misrepresentation that surplus hops produced in one year constitute a part of the particular grower's production for a succeeding year, resulting in his receiving a salable allotment for such succeeding year in excess of the salable allotment to which he was rightfully entitled. The latter type of violation, of course, has the same general adverse effect as the first type. These violations have been discovered "by chance," and there are strong indications that, had the presently proposed provisions been in effect, a considerable number of other such violations would have been discovered. In fact, it was testified by a representative of the Compliance and Investigation Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, the agency which is charged with the duty of making investigations in this connection, that the lack of such reports and supervision of disposition has made it difficult for it to develop evidence of such violations. For instance, it might develop that a grower had a smaller quantity of surplus hops than the records indicated he should have, and, while the surrounding circumstances might indicate that he had disposed of them unlawfully, the investigator might be unable to disprove such grower's contention that he had burned the deficient quantity, or that he had used it for cattle bedding, or for mulch, or for humus. It is reasonable to expect that the growers most likely to commit such violations are the ones who would be the least inclined to submit such reports and to have supervisions of their dispositions on a voluntary basis. Therefore, the necessary preventive measures should be made mandatory so as to insure such reports and supervision of disposition in connection with all growers. These two requirements, operated in conjunction with each other, should be of great value in determining compliance with the order provisions and the discovering of violations in the future. Further, they should tend to discourage the commission of such violations.

An additional reason why the requirement as to the submission of reports would be of value is that complete records of such holdings are essential to the board for its maintenance of accurate records of hops and hop products which are available to meet the market needs in the event any shortage in certificated supplies should develop. Such reports should set forth the quantities of uncertificated hops or hop products held by years of production, since hop supplies are developed on an annual basis and calculations as to any surpluses or shortages are computed on that basis. The fact that such reports are to be made to the Growers Allocation Committee, rather than directly to the board, should not result in any complication with respect to the responsibility of the board to exercise general supervision over the program operations. The members of the committee are also members of the board and constitute a majority of the membership of the board. It is expected that actions taken under such provisions will be in accordance with the will of the board and in accordance with such provisions.

Reports of this kind should be submitted as of June 1 of each year, since, by that time, certification of hops of the then current crop will have been completed. Also, such date is near the beginning of the next marketing season, and it is relatively close to the date on which the board holds its annual meeting to make recommendations as to the salable quantity. By requiring such reports as of June 1, the board will have access to reasonably current information for consideration in developing its recommendations. It is concluded that the allowance of 15 days, or until June 15 for the filing of such reports should give growers ample time for the taking of such actions. There was considerable discussion at the hearing as to whether June 1 would be the most appropriate reporting date from the standpoint of discovering violations, and the evidence is not clear as to whether this would be the case. However, the proposal envisages that similar reports may be required as of other dates which the committee might specify. If operational experience should disclose that the latter aspect should make the furnishing of such reports as of another date desirable, such further reports could be required. But as indicated above, the requirement for the filing of such reports as of June 1 is desirable.

With further respect to the proposal to require the supervision of dispositions, requests for such action need not, as in the case of reports, be made in writing. The efficiency of operations thereunder should be promoted by leaving the particular grower and the committee free to arrange for such supervision informally and in a way and at a time which is the most convenient practicable to each. Of course, the dispositions which are had in mind are those which are legally permissible under the order to be made of surplus hops, including such things as the deliberate destruction of the hops by the grower by fire, or the use of them as cattle bedding, humus, or mulch. On the other hand, the provisions as to supervision of disposition are not intended to cover situations where the disposition should be made accidentally and through no intent of the particular owner, such as by an unintentional fire. In this connection, the proposal in this regard, as published in the notice of hearing, set forth that those provisions as to disposition are intended to cover dispositions of surplus hops which are sold for replacement purposes in connection with the exercise of the diversion privilege pursuant to § 986.6 (f). However, it was testified at the amendment hearing that dispositions of the type last referred to should not be so covered inasmuch as an adequate method of supervision has already been developed for use in connection with that aspect in operating under said § 986.6 (f). It is concluded that such a type of disposition should not be covered under the present proposal by reason of that situation, as well as by reason of the fact that the procedure contemplated hereunder is not designed to provide the most desirable procedure for such a situation.

It was originally proposed that these two changes should be incorporated in the regulation at the end of § 986.9, relating to reports, books, and records. Such action would obviously be proper with respect to the proposed provision with respect to requiring of reports from growers, but not with respect to the proposal as to supervision of dispositions by growers. As to the latter, it is concluded that it should be incorporated in the end of § 986.6, relating to the control of surplus. This separation of the two provisions would promote a logical arrangement of the subject matters, and it would not affect the operation of the two proposals in conjuction with each other. In other words, the situation in the latter regard would be the same as if they had been incorporated together in the same section of the regulation.

(9) The notice of hearing contained a proposal to "make such other changes in the marketing agreement and order as may be necessary to make the entire marketing agreement and order conform with any amendments thereto which may result from this hearing." No testimony in regard to this general proposal for minor conforming amendments was presented at the hearing. Instead the attorney for the United States Hop Growers Association made a statement to the effect that, in conformity with usual practice, if any such minor conforming amendments should be found to be necessary, it was the desire of the proponent that they be made. However, other than to the extent indicated previously in this discussion, no such conforming changes appear to be necessary.

(10) The provisions of § 986.1, Definitions, of the present order should be amended by adding thereto a definition of "part" and "subpart." The term "part" should mean the order regulating the handling of hops grown in Oregon, California, Washington, and Idaho, and of hop products produced therefrom in these States, and all rules, regulations, and supplementary orders issued thereunder. The aforesaid order should be a subpart of such part. The use of such terms having those meanings should be in conformity with requirements of the Federal Register Division for orders of this nature.

(11) The order, as it may be amended, should be rewritten in its entirety so that its sections, paragraphs, subparagraphs, and subdivisions are renumbered in accordance with the requirements of the revised Federal Register regulations, which require a system of numbering different from that used in the present order. The Federal Register Division has requested that, in case of the amendment of an order of this nature numbered in accordance with the previous system of numbering, the entire order should be reissued in connection with the amendment action so that it will be renumbered in accordance with the present system of numbering. This change will not affect the meaning and intent of the provisions of the order. Inasmuch as it is the established policy to number the provisions of the marketing agreement in the same manner as the order, similar changes in numbering should be made in the marketing agreement. In the latter connection the following sections appear in the marketing agreement but not in the marketing order: § 986.19 Counterparts; § 986.20 Additional parties; § 986.21 Request for order; § 986.22 Record of hops and hop products (expressed in terms of whole hops) handled; § 986.23 Effective date; and § 986.24 Authorization to correct typographical errors. These sections appear at the end of said marketing agreement, and they should be renumbered respectively, as follows: §§ 986.114, 986.115, 986.116, 986.117, 986.118, and 986.119. The above mentioned rewriting of the marketing agreement and order necessitates the making of appropriate changes in references in the several sections to the provisions of other sections so as to make such reference conform with the new numbering, and also to make other minor changes in terminology which do not affect the existing substantive meaning.

SUBPART—ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

General findings. (a) The findings hereinafter set forth are supplementary, and in addition, to the findings and determinations which were previously made in connection with the original issuance of the marketing agreement and order (14 F. R. 3660); and said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and confirmed except the finding with respect to the base period for the parity determination, and except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings set forth herein.

(b) The order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(c) The order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activities specified, or necessarily included, in the proposals upon which the amendment hearing was held; and

(d) There are no differences in the production and marketing of hops in the production area covered by this order, as herein proposed to be amended, which make necessary different terms applicable to different parts of such area.

HOP CONTROL BOARD

§ 986.20 Establishment. A Control Board consisting of eighteen members, with an alternate member for each such member, is hereby established to administer the terms and provisions of this subpart, of whom, with their respective alternates, nine shall represent growers of hops, two shall represent grower-dealers, three shall represent dealers, and four shall represent brewers. The grower members of the Control Board shall be growers of hops who are not grower-dealers, of whom three shall be growers of hops in and residents of the States of Oregon or Idaho, three shall be growers of hops in and residents of the State of California, and three shall be growers of hops in and residents of the State of Washington. One of the grower-dealer members of the Control Board shall be a grower-dealer having his or its principal office in that regard in the States of Oregon, California, Washington, or Idaho, and the other grower-dealer member shall be a grower-dealer having his or its principal office in that regard outside of such States. Each of the four brewer members of the Control Board shall be a brewer. Each of the three dealer members of the Control Board shall be a dealer in hops. An officer, agent, or employee of a business unit other than an individual person shall be eligible for membership or alternate membership on the Control Board in the category in which such business unit belongs pursuant to the provisions of this section. No person shall be selected as a member or alternate member of the Control Board who is not actively engaged, as his principal business occupation, in the business of the group which he represents, and may be an officer, agent, or employee of a business unit engaged in such business.

§ 986.21 Designation of original members and alternates. The original members of the Control Board, and their respective alternates, shall be selected by the Secretary, subject to the requirements as to district representation, occupation, and residence which are set forth in § 986.20, and shall serve for a term ending on March 31, 1950, except that, if the respective successor to such original member or alternate member has not been selected and qualified by March 31, 1950, such original member or alternate member shall serve until his respective successor has been selected and has qualified. For the consideration of the Secretary in making such selection, nominations for original members and alternate members of the Control Board may be submitted to him not later than the date on which this subpart is issued by the Secretary, but may be submitted prior thereto. Nominations for the original nine grower members and their alternates may be made by any grower, or by any association or other group of growers. Nominations for the original two grower-dealer members and their alternates may be made by any grower-dealer, or by any group of grower-dealers. Nominations for the original four brewer members and their alternates may be made by any brewer, or by any organization of brewers. Nominations for the original three dealer members and their alternates may be made by any dealer, or by any group of dealers. However, the Secretary, in making his selection of the original members and their alternates shall not be bound to make such selections from nominations thus received, but he shall make such selections in his discretion.

§ 986.22 Nomination and selection of successor members and alternates—(a) General. Members and alternates of the Control Board selected for terms commencing April 1, 1950, and thereafter, shall serve for terms of two years ending March 31 or until such time thereafter as their successors have been selected and have qualified. Selection of successor members of the Control Board and their alternates shall be made by the Secretary for each of the aforementioned groups from the nominations submitted for that purpose by the respective groups and/or from among other qualified persons. Such nominations for each respective group shall be made to the Secretary on or before March 1 of each election year in the manner described in this section.

(b) Grower members. Each of the growers Advisory Committees, established pursuant to § 986.40, shall nominate to the Secretary the names of three qualified persons as grower members, and three qualified persons as their alternates, from the State or States represented by the respective committee. The persons receiving in consecutive order the highest number of votes for members shall be the nominees for members of the respective committees, and a corresponding provision shall apply to nominees for alternate members.

(c) Grower-dealer member, Western. The grower-dealers whose principal offices are within the States of Oregon, California, Washington, or Idaho, shall nominate to the Secretary, by means of an election in which all (and only) such grower-dealers shall be entitled to participate on the basis of one vote for each full bale of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) handled by the particular grower-dealer during the next preceding marketing season, one qualified person as the grower-dealer member, and one qualified person as his alternate.

(d) Grower-dealer member, Eastern. The grower-dealers whose principal offices are outside the States of Oregon, California, Washington, or Idaho, shall nominate to the Secretary, by means of an election in which all (and only) such grower-dealers shall be entitled to participate on the basis of one vote for each full bale of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) handled by the particular grower-dealer during the next preceding marketing season, one qualified person as grower-dealer member, and one qualified person as his alternate.

(e) Dealer members. The dealers shall nominate to the Secretary by means of elections in which all (and only) dealers shall be entitled to participate on the basis of one vote for each full bale of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) handled by the particular dealer, as the first handler thereof, other than a grower, and for that dealer's own account, during the next preceding marketing season, three qualified persons as dealer members and three qualified persons as their alternates. Nominations for one of such members and his alternate shall be made by each of the following categories of dealers: (1) Those handling less than 10,000 bales of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) during the next preceding marketing season; (2) those handling between 10,000 and 25,000 bales of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) during the next preceding marketing season; and (3) those handling over 25,000 bales of hops (including hop products expressed in terms of dried hops) during the next preceding marketing season.

(f) Brewer members. Of the four qualified persons to be nominated by the brewers for selection as brewer members of the Control Board, and their respective alternates, two of such nominations for members and their respective alternates may be made to the Secretary by the United States Brewers Foundation, Inc., whose present office address is 21 East Fortieth Street, New York, N. CONTROL OF QUALITY

§ 986.60 Minimum standards of quality and grading and inspection requirements—(a) Establishment. In order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, the Secretary shall, after consideration of the Control Board's recommendations, prescribe minimum standards of quality for hops with respect to their leaf and stem content or other factors of quality and maturity for which grading and inspection procedure has been developed by the Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, and is in general use; and shall prescribe grading and inspection requirements therefor. The term "leaves and stems," as used in this subpart, shall include all leaves and stems of the hop plant, except the stems (petioles) which bear the individual cones, and all extraneous matter. Hop seeds which are naturally within the hops under inspection shall not be considered as extraneous matter. To aid the Secretary in prescribing minimum standards and requirements, the Control Board shall furnish to the Secretary the information upon which it acted in recommending such standards and requirements, and shall furnish such other available data pertaining thereto as the Secretary shall request.

(b) Initial standards and requirements. Until such time as other standards and requirements for leaf and stem content are prescribed under this section, no hops shall be deemed merchantable or entitled to certification which contain over fifteen percent, by weight, of leaves and stems as defined in this section and as determined by the Federal-State inspection service.[1]

(c) Operation irrespective of price. The provisions of this section relating to minimum standards of quality and maturity, and to grading and inspection requirements, within the meaning of section 2 (3) of the act, and any other provisions pertaining to the administration and enforcement thereof, shall continue in effect irrespective of whether the season average price for hops is in excess of the parity level specified in section 2 (1) of the act.

§ 986.61 Inspection and certification. Each grower shall be entitled, upon application to the Control Board or its representative, and subject to the meeting by him of any applicable provisions of § 986.60 and §§ 986.70 through 986.81, to the certification of hops harvested after the effective date of this subpart: Provided, That such hops have been inspected by the Federal-State Inspection Service within the States of Oregon, California, Washington, or Idaho, and their official certificate presented by such grower showing such hops to meet said standards and requirements. No person shall handle any hops harvested after the effective date of this subpart unless such hops have been so certificated by the Control Board.

§ 986.62 Regulations. Such certification as to minimum quality shall be based on information on a Federal-State Inspection Certificate and shall include substantially the following wording: "Hops covered by this certificate are of the ---------- crop and are covered (year) by Federal-State Inspection Certificate No. -------- as meeting minimum standards of quality prescribed pursuant to applicable Federal-Marketing Agreement and Order." Such certification shall be executed by authorized representatives of the Control Board, the grower and the handler. The bale or other container shall also be marked or tagged to furnish proper identification as to producer and lot. Such marking or tagging shall comply with the requirements for marking included in § 986.79. This method of marking may be changed by the Control Board, subject to the approval of the Secretary.

CONTROL OF SURPLUS

§ 986.70 Application. The provisions of §§ 986.70 through 986.81 shall apply only during marketing seasons in which the estimated season average price of hops to growers is at or below the parity level specified in section 2 (1) of the act.

§ 986.71 Determination of salable quantity—(a) Total carryover. As early in the respective year as it shall find it to be feasible, but not later than August 1, the Control Board shall ascertain or estimate the total carryover, within the United States, of hops and hop products, expressed in terms of dry hops, produced in or outside the area covered hereby prior to that year and which, if produced within such area, are eligible for handling pursuant to the terms of this section.

(b) Consumptive demand. At the same time, the Control Board shall estimate the total consumptive demand for hops produced during the respective year. In estimating such consumptive demand, there shall be included the quantity of such hops estimated to be used as hops and the quantity estimated to be used in the form of hop products.

(c) Recommendation by Control Board. Immediately thereafter, and based upon its aforesaid estimates and findings, the Control Board shall make and transmit to the Secretary its recommendation of the maximum quantity of hops (net dry weight), produced during that respective year which, should, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, be handled in the form of hops or in the form of any hop product, and, with such recommendation, shall transmit to the Secretary its estimates and findings on which its recommendation is based.

(d) Determination by Secretary of salable quantity. On the basis of the aforesaid estimates, data, and recommendations of the Control Board submitted pursuant to this section, and such other pertinent information as the Secretary may have, the Secretary shall determine, fix, and announce such maximum quantity of hops produced during that respective year which may be handled in the form of hops and in the form of any hop product. Such maximum quantity of hops which shall be fixed by the Secretary as aforesaid shall be known, and is referred to hereinafter, as the salable quantity of that respective year's crop of hops.

§ 986.72 Increase of salable quantity. The Secretary may at any time increase the salable quantity for the crop of any year in which the continued withholding of surplus would result in a season average price to growers in excess of the parity level specified in section 2 (1) of the act, or upon due consideration of either the needs of brewers or a recommendation of the Control Board that the salable quantity be increased. The Secretary may not decrease said salable quantity.

§ 986.73 Conversion ratios. In computing the hops equivalent of hop products, and unless changed as provided in this section, one pound of lupulin shall be considered equivalent to 20 pounds of dry hops and one pound of hop oil to 400 pounds of dry hops. In the case of hop extracts or concentrates for which conversion ratios are not established in this section, the Control Board, or its authorized representative may temporarily establish such conversion ratios for a period not exceeding 90 days. Conversion factors referred to in this section may be changed by regulation of the Control Board, subject to approval of the Secretary.

§ 986.74 Determination of total production—(a) Determination by Growers Allocation Committee. As the basis for apportioning equitably among growers the salable quantity of each year's crop, the Growers Allocation Committee each year as early as practicable during or after harvest, shall determine, or cause to be determined under its supervision, the total quantity of hops (net dry weight) produced by growers during that year which meet the requirements of § 986.60. Such determination shall include, for each grower, his harvested, unharvested, and total production. Such determination shall also include the quantity, if any, of such hops found to have been converted into hop products, except that lupulin sweepings shall be included in the computation only to the extent of the pounds of lupulin found to be in such quantity of lupulin sweepings. Unharvested hops shall be included only if grown to maturity and remaining unharvested on living vines which remain strung or trained, and from which hops have not been removed from the wires or poles. Such unharvested hops shall be determined by the Growers Allocation Committee on the basis of the amount of hops (net dry weight) which would have been yielded if such unharvested hops had been picked, dried, and baled or otherwise processed and packaged for market. In the event any grower does not permit the Growers Allocation Committee, or its representatives, access to ~~any~~ hops grown by that grower, or to any product thereof, or shall fail or refuse to make available to said committee, or its representatives, information relative to such hops or hop products which the Growers Allocation Committee finds to be desirable in order properly to make such determination in accordance with the provisions of this section, the Growers Allocation Committee shall determine, or cause to be determined, on the basis of an estimate of the grower's acreage, the average crop conditions in the area, the probable yield per acre on the grower's acreage, and from such other information as is available to it, the respective grower's production as aforesaid. After completing its determination of production by each individual grower, as aforesaid, the Growers Allocation Committee shall, by means of addition, compute the harvested, unharvested, and total production by all growers.

(b) Preliminary estimates. The Growers Allocation Committee each year, prior to the start of harvest, or as soon thereafter as practicable, shall determine, or cause to be determined under its supervision, a preliminary estimate of said total quantity of hops which will be produced by all growers from that year's crop. Said preliminary estimate shall be based upon the then current Federal or Federal-State crop estimates, as the case may be, and upon such other relevant data as are available.

(c) Determinations for and protests by members of committee. The determinations pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section for each member or alternate member of the Growers Allocation Committee shall not be made by any member or alternate member of such committee, but shall be made, and reported in writing to the Secretary and to the Growers Allocation Committee, by such other qualified person or persons as the Control Board or its authorized representatives shall designate for that purpose. Any protest by a member or alternate member of the Growers Allocation Committee concerning such determination shall be made directly to, and be determined by, the Secretary.

(d) Notice to growers. The Growers Allocation Committee shall cause to be mailed to each grower notice of the determination pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section of the respective grower's production for the respective year, and also, the computation of the total quantity determined, pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, respectively, produced by all growers during that year. The committee shall also publicly announce said computations of said total quantity, both estimated and final.

(e) Protests by growers. Any grower who may be dissatisfied with the determinations pursuant to § 986.75, may protest in writing to the Growers Allocation Committee within 10 days of the date of mailing of the notice and if dissatisfied with the decision in regard to such protest may appeal in writing to the Secretary.

(f) Determination by Secretary. Upon expiration of the time for protest specified in paragraph (e) of this section, and after completion of action by that committee upon all protests, the Growers Allocation Committee shall report to the Secretary all findings, determinations, and computations made by or for it pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, together with the data on which the same were based. On the basis of such findings, determinations, computations, data and other pertinent information which the Secretary may have, the Secretary shall determine and notify the Growers Allocation Committee of the harvested, unharvested, and total quantity of hops (net dry weight) meeting the requirements of § 986.60 which were produced by each grower during that year: Provided, That such determinations shall include the quantity, if any, of such hops converted into hop products except that insofar as lupulin sweepings are concerned there shall be included, in the computation, only the pounds of lupulin in such quantity of lupulin sweepings, and insofar as unharvested hops are concerned, shall include (net dry weight) only hops of that respective year's crop grown to maturity and remaining unharvested on the living vines. The Secretary, after having determined each grower's production, as aforesaid, shall, by means of addition, determine the production by all growers; the total production by all growers is referred to in this subpart as the "aggregate production" for that respective year. Immediately upon receipt of notice thereof from the Secretary, the Growers Allocation Committee shall publicly announce the aforesaid determination by the Secretary.

§ 986.75 Computation of growers' allotments—(a) Salable percentage. (1) The "salable percentage" of the aggregate production, determined pursuant to § 936.74, shall be computed by dividing the salable quantity of that year's crop, determined pursuant to § 986.71, by the aforesaid aggregate production, and multiplying the quotient by 100. After computing such salable percentage on this basis, it shall be adjusted to the nearest tenth of a percent. Each grower's maximum allotment of the salable quantity of that year's crop shall be that same salable percentage applied to his production as determined pursuant to § 986.74, except that if any such grower fails to harvest a quantity from that crop equal to such maximum salable allotment so computed for him, his salable allotment shall be the quantity which he actually harvested: Provided, That, if prior to the determination by the Secretary of the aggregate production of hops by all growers in any year, the Growers Allocation Committee finds that the harvested quantity exceeds the salable quantity, but, nevertheless, the aforementioned salable percentage will not result in the availability in marketing channels of the salable quantity of hops fixed for that year's crop, such percentage may be established by the Secretary at an amount necessary to result in the availability in marketing channels of the salable quantity of hops fixed for that year's crop: And provided also, That, if, prior to the determination by the Secretary of the aggregate production of hops by all growers in any year, the Growers Allocation Committee finds that the aggregate quantity of hops harvested from that year's crop, and meeting the minimum standards of quality prescribed in this section, will be less than the salable quantity fixed for such year's crop, such salable percentage shall, with the approval of the Secretary, be increased to 100 for that year's crop: And provided further, That, in lieu of the aforementioned method of computing growers' maximum allotments, the Secretary may make effective, at the beginning of any marketing season, the following procedure pursuant to a recommendation of the Control Board to that effect (such recommendation of the Board to be pursuant to and in accordance with a prior recommendation to it by the Growers Allocation Committee): Each grower's allotment of the maximum salable quantity of that year's crop shall be computed by first subtracting from said grower's poundage of credited production, the leaf and stem content thereof and applying the salable percentage to the remainder, then dividing the resulting quantity by the average percentage of clean hops (hops exclusive of leaf and stem content) in the aggregate production of hops for the preceding marketing season. The quotient will be the grower's maximum allotment of the salable quantity, in pounds of hops as prepared for market by him. The Board shall include in any recommendation pursuant to this proviso full information and data on which such recommendation is based. Said recommendation shall specify in regard to the "percentage of clean hops" to be used in the computation, whether such percentage shall be computed and applied for the production area as a whole or separately by States, and the Secretary if he approves the Board's recommendation shall state in his approval which procedure in regard thereto, shall be followed: And provided further, That, if this substitute method of computing growers maximum allotments is made effective, the Board may recommend (following a recommendation to it by the Growers Allocation Committee) to the Secretary the readoption of the original method at the beginning of any subsequent marketing season, supplying full information and data upon which such recommendation is based, and the Secretary may make such original method again effective.

(2) In any year in which the salable percentage, determined pursuant to this section, exceeds 98 percent, each grower's allotment shall be the total quantity harvested by such grower, determined pursuant to § 986.74. Each allotment determined under this subpart shall be expressed in pounds, net dry weight of hops, and shall be known as the respective grower's "maximum salable allotment" of that respective year's crop.

§ 986.76 Preliminary and supplementary allotments—(a) Preliminary. In order to assist growers to avoid delays in their individual harvesting and marketing, the Control Board, or its authorized representative, each year shall compute an "estimated salable percentage" of estimated aggregate production and shall compute and issue, or cause to be computed and issued, prior to the issuance of final allotments applicable to that year's crop, to any grower who applies therefor to the Growers Allocation Committee, a preliminary allotment representing such proportion of that grower's total production of hops during that year as the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, shall determine will not be in excess of 90 percent of that grower's probable salable allotment for that year's crop: Provided, That any such supplementary allotment shall be based upon complete crop production information available to the Grower Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, including, but not limited to complete weight data on such grower's harvested hop production and the recommended determination by the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, as to any unharvested hop production for that year, and Federal-State Inspection Service evidence of the meeting of all minimum standard requirements for quality provided for therein, by all harvested hops of such grower for that year.

(b) Supplementary, 80 percent basis. The Control Board, or its authorized representative, shall each year issue, prior to the issuance of final allotments applicable to that year's crop, to any grower who applies therefor to the Growers Allocation Committee, a supplementary allotment representing such proportions of that grower's total production of hops during that year as the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, shall determine will not be in excess of 80 percent of that grower's probable salable allotment for that year's crop: Provided, That any such supplementary allotment shall be based upon adequate, but not complete, crop production information available to the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, including, but not limited to bale count data or other reasonably accurate information as to such grower's hop production for that year.

(c) Supplementary, 90 percent basis. The Control Board, or its authorized representative, shall issue, prior to the issuance of final allotments applicable to that year's crop, to any grower who applies therefor to the Growers Allocation Committee, a supplementary allotment representing such proportion of that grower's total production of hops during that year as the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, shall determine will not be in excess of 90 percent of that grower's probable salable allotment for that year's crop: Provided, That any such supplementary allotment shall be based upon complete crop production information available to the Grower Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, including, but not limited to complete weight data on such grower's harvested hop production and the recommended determination by the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, as to any unharvested hop production for that year, and Federal-State Inspection Service evidence of the meeting of all minimum standard requirements for quality provided for therein, by all harvested hops of such grower for that year.

(d) Eligibility for certification. After issuance to a grower of such preliminary or supplemental allotment, the hops covered thereby, and any hop product derived from such hops, shall be eligible for certification, marking, and handling as though the final allotment had been issued, and subject to the same terms, conditions, and regulations as are applicable to such certification, marking, and handling of hops and hop products under a final salable allotment.

(e) Notice to growers. The Growers Allocation Committee shall mail to each grower who has requested a preliminary or supplementary allotment (either or both) notice thereof, and to each grower notice of his final salable allotment computed by that Committee as provided in this subpart. A list of the salable allotments of all growers for each year's crop shall be compiled and maintained by the Growers Allocation Committee at each of its offices, where the same shall be available during all reasonable hours for inspection by any interested person.

§ 986.77 Joint allotment—(a) Joint ownership. In the event that more than one grower shall participate jointly in the production of hops, whether as landlord and tenant, as partners, or otherwise, and said growers report that fact to the Growers Allocation Committee, then a single salable allotment shall cover such joint production. In the event that thereafter the interests of those growers in the crop produced or being produced are segregated, the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representative, upon written application signed by all of said interested growers shall segregate and distribute said salable allotment among said growers in accordance with their respective segregated interests in the crop.

(b) Associations. Upon application of any bona fide incorporated cooperative association of growers which is authorized to market hops or hop products included within the salable allotments of those of its members who have authorized the association to sell and pool their hops for them, the individual salable allotments of such members shall be pooled and hops produced by those members during that season, and hop products derived from such hops, may be certificated and handled by that association without regard to the limits of the individual allotments of the members: Provided, That, (1) any such application is made in writing by the association to the Growers Allocation Committee prior to determination of the salable allotments to which it is to apply, (2) such application is signed by the duly authorized officers of the association, (3) such application is accompanied by satisfactory evidence that the submission of it has been approved by the membership of the association, by official action at a meeting or otherwise during the particular calendar year, and (4) such application is also accompanied by satisfactory evidence that each of the individual members who will be affected by the pooling arrangement has authorized the association to handle his hops under such a pooling arrangement.

§ 986.78 Revision of allotments—(a) Revisions and new allotments. In the event that at the normal time, no determination, pursuant to § 986.74, has been made as to a particular grower entitled thereto pursuant to the provisions of this section, or a previous determination as to a particular grower is substantially in error, the Growers Allocation Committee shall make the determination or correct the erroneous determination, or shall cause such determination or correction to be made. The same requirements of determination and approval by the Secretary, notice to the grower and rights of protest and appeal, shall be effective with respect to such determination, as in the case of a timely or original determination.

(b) Correction of clerical errors. In the event that the Growers Allocation Committee or the Managing Agent shall find, at any time, that the salable allotment previously issued to a grower was incorrectly computed or is erroneous by reason of mathematical or clerical error, the Growers Allocation Committee or the Managing Agent shall correct and revise said allotment to the extent found to be proper, and shall notify the respective grower and the Secretary of such correction.

§ 986.79 Certification—(a) Hops harvested during effective period of order. Each grower for whom a salable quantity is determined may, upon application to the Control Board or its representative and subject to the limitations of §§ 986.60 through 936.62, have the eligible quantity of hops or hop products certificated for handling. Such certification shall consist of the indelible marking of each bale or other container of such hops or hop products by an authorized representative of the Control Board and the issuance and delivery of a "handling certificate." Such marking shall be placed on the bale cover or other container or on a tag securely attached to such other container, and shall show the year of production, the handling certificate number, and the words "Certificated, Hop Control Board." This method of marking may be changed by the Control Board, subject to the approval of the Secretary. Such handling certificate shall certify that pursuant to the provisions of this section a specified quantity of hops or hop products has been duly certificated, for the grower and handler named in said certificate, as being eligible for handling pursuant to the terms of this subpart, and shall be executed by authorized representatives of the Control Board, the grower, and the handler. Such certification may exceed any grower's salable quantity by not over 100 pounds, provided such excess quantity is included entirely within the weight of the last bale or container certificated for said quantity.

(b) Hops harvested prior to effective date of this subpart. Any person who owns or is in the possession of hops harvested or hop products from hops harvested prior to 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 2, 1949, is entitled upon application, within 30 days after such date, to the Control Board or its representatives, to have such hops or hop products certificated free of charge without regard to any salable quantity, or minimum standard of quality. The Control Board may extend such time for good cause.

§ 986.80 Limitation of handling to certificated hops or hop products. No person, as principal, agent, broker, legal representative, or otherwise, shall handle any hops harvested or hop products from hops harvested subsequent to 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 2, 1949, unless: (a) Prior to such handling, the Control Board shall have issued a "handling certificate" pursuant to § 986.79 applicable to such hops or hop products; and (b) each bale or other container of said hops or hop products shall have been duly marked or tagged as prescribed in this subpart, for the purpose of identifying such hops or hop products as being covered by a duly issued salable allotment or as being properly certificated. However, hops harvested prior to 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 2, 1949, and hop products produced from such hops may be certificated for handling without regard to the salable allotment or the quality restriction

§ 986.81 Diversion privilege. In the event harvested hops in the control of the respective grower thereof, are destroyed or are so damaged or so deteriorated as, in the judgment of the grower to be unmarketable, or, if, because of quality or type, such hops are unsatisfactory to the grower, such grower may replace such hops (if the lupulin has not been removed therefrom) within the limits of his salable allotment for that year's crop, by acquiring uncertificated harvested hops of that year's crop from the growers thereof: Provided, That such purchasing grower shall first submit a written statement to the Growers Allocation Committee, setting forth the year of production, the location, and the quantity of hops he desires so to replace, (and, if the hops to be replaced have been destroyed, the time, place, and cause of such destruction, together with proof of such destruction satisfactory to the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives), and the name and address of each grower from whom he proposes to acquire uncertificated hops for that purpose, and makes arrangements with the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, whereby the unmarketable, or unsatisfactory hops which are thus to be replaced will be effectively diverted from or disposed of out of the normal channels of trade, and such disposal or diversion shall be in such manner as may be prescribed by the Control Board: And provided further, That, any hops so diverted shall not be diverted or disposed of as hop products as defined in § 986.5. The selling grower shall not be regarded as handling such hops within the meaning of this subpart, nor shall the hops sold be considered a part of such selling grower's salable allotment. The Growers Allocation Committee shall prepare, and from time to time shall revise, a list of the names and addresses of growers who report to the Growers Allocation Committee that they have uncertificated hops for sale pursuant to this section; and a list of the names and addresses of growers who report to the Growers Allocation Committee that they desire to purchase or acquire uncertificated hops pursuant to this section. The Growers Allocation Committee shall make such lists available to any grower or handler of hops at each office of the Control Board.

§ 986.82 Supervision of disposition of uncertificated hops. Any grower who desires to dispose of any uncertificated hops or hop products in his possession or control shall first arrange with the Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, for supervision of such disposition. The Growers Allocation Committee, or its authorized representatives, shall thereupon provide such supervision at the mutual convenience of such grower and of the Committee, or its authorized representatives. The requirements set forth in this section shall apply to all such dispositions of uncertificated hops and hop products except (a) cases where such dispositions are accidental and due to causes beyond the control of the particular growers, or (b) cases where such dispositions are made pursuant to the provisions of § 986.81.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 986.90 Expenses. The Control Board (including, but not limited to, the Growers Allocation Committee and the several Growers Advisory Committees) is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary may find are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it during each marketing season for the maintenance and functioning by it and for such purposes as the Secretary may, pursuant to the provisions of this subpart determine to be appropriate. Such expenses shall be paid from the funds acquired pursuant to § 986.91. The recommendation of the Control Board as to its expenses for each such marketing season, or a portion thereof, together with all data supporting such recommendation, shall be submitted to the Secretary on or before September 15 of the marketing season for which such recommendation is made. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by levying assessments as provided in § 986.91.

§ 986.91 Assessments.—(a) Requirement for payment. Each handler shall pay to the Control Board the assessment provided in paragraph (b) of this section with respect to all hops and hop products which are handled or to be handled by that handler as the first handler thereof, except (1) such hops or hop products as are duly certificated pursuant to § 986.79 and (2) such hop products as have been derived from duly certificated hops with respect to which such assessment previously had been paid: Provided, however, That any grower who markets or transports to market within the State of production hops produced by that grower, or any hop product produced by that grower from hops produced by that grower, or hops acquired pursuant to § 986.81 or hop products produced from such hops, shall not be deemed to be the first handler thereof insofar only as payment of assessments pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph may be concerned. The person who handles such hops or hop products next following such handling by said grower shall be considered the first handler thereof within the provisions of this section. Said assessment shall be paid to the Control Board prior to or at the time of such handling, or at such subsequent time as the Control Board may specify.

(b) Rate of assessment. The aforesaid assessment shall be at the rate of one-fourth of one cent per pound, net dry weight, of hops handled, and said rate shall continue in effect until changed by the Control Board with the approval of the Secretary; and the assessment rate of any hop product shall be based upon the assessment rate for hops, and shall be computed at such conversion ratio or ratios between hops and the respective hop product as determined pursuant to § 986.73.

§ 986.92 Refunds. Any money collected as assessments during any marketing season and not expended in connection with that season's operations, may be used by the Control Board during a period of five months subsequent to such marketing season in paying the expenses of the Control Board incurred in connection with the new marketing season. The Control Board shall, however, from funds on hand, including assessments collected during the new marketing season, credit or upon request make available, within six months after the beginning of the new marketing season, the aforesaid excess carried into the new season, to each handler from whom an assessment was collected in the preceding marketing season, in the proportion that the amount of the assessment paid by the respective handler bears to the total amount of the assessments paid by all handlers during said preceding marketing season.

COMPLIANCE WITH PROVISIONS

§ 986.95 Compliance. Each handler shall comply strictly with all provisions of this subpart and all regulations duly effective under this subpart. No handler shall handle any hops or any hop product in violation of any of the provisions of this subpart or in violation of any regulation effective pursuant to this subpart.

REPORTS, BOOKS, AND RECORDS

§ 986.101 Books and records. Each handler and each subsidiary or affiliate thereof shall keep books and other records which will clearly show the details of its handling of hops and hop products.

§ 986.102 Reports by handlers. To enable the Control Board, the Growers Allocation Committee, and each Advisory Committee to perform its functions under this subpart, each handler shall furnish to the Managing Agent, (a) on June 1, or as of that date and within 15 days thereafter or on any other date or dates which the Control Board may specify, complete information as requested by the Control Board relating to the total quantity of hops and hop products owned by the respective handler; and (b) on or before December 1, or on any other date or dates which the Control Board may specify, complete information relating to (1) the volume of hops and hop products handled during the next preceding marketing season; (2) the names and addresses of the growers and other persons from whom such hops or hop products were acquired; and (3) the quantity of hops grown by that handler during such period. Such information furnished to the Managing Agent shall be confidential and shall not be disclosed to any person (including members of the Control Board as well as other persons) except to the Secretary at his request, or to such person as the Secretary may specify: Provided, That the Managing Agent may compile such information in such form as will not reveal the identity of individual informants and may make such compilations available to the Control Board, Growers Allocation Committee, any Advisory Committee, or to the public. The Managing Agent shall not disclose any information acquired under this section, except as expressly authorized in this section.

§ 986.103 Reports by growers. Each grower shall report to the Growers Allocation Committee, prior to June 15 of each marketing season, the quantities (by years of production stated separately) and locations of all uncertificated hops and hop products owned or controlled by him as of the preceding June 1, and each grower shall also furnish to the Growers Allocation Committee reports containing such information as of such other date or dates as the Growers Allocation Committee may specify.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 986.105 Amendments. Amendment of this subpart may from time to time be proposed by the Control Board or by the Secretary.

§ 986.106 Agents. The Secretary may, by a designation in writing, name any person, including but not being limited to, any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture, or any Division thereof, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 986.107 Effective time, suspension, and termination.—(a) Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or of any amendment to this subpart, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare, and shall continue in force unless terminated or suspended in one of the ways specified in this section, so long as the provisions of the act authorizing the same are in effect.

(b) Termination or suspension. (1) The Secretary may, at any time, terminate or suspend the provisions of this subpart whenever he finds that the provisions hereof obstruct or do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act; and such notice of the termination or suspension shall be given as the Secretary deems proper.

(2) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this subpart whenever he finds that such termination is favored by the majority of the growers of hops who, during such representative period as may be determined by the Secretary, have been engaged in the production of hops within said States for market: Provided, That such majority have, during such period, produced for market more than 50 percent of the total volume of hops produced for market in said area during such period. Such termination shall become and be effective on and after the first day of July subsequent to the announcement thereof by the Secretary.

(3) The provisions of this subpart shall terminate in any event whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

(c) Proceedings after termination. Upon the termination of the provisions of this subpart the members of the Control Board then functioning shall continue as trustees (for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of said Control Board) of all funds and property then in the possession or under the control of the Control Board, including but not being limited to claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination; but the procedural rules governing the activities of said trustees; including, but not limited to, the determination as to whether action may be taken by only a majority vote of the trustees, shall be prescribed by the Secretary. Said trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary, and from time to time shall account for all receipts and disbursements, and deliver all funds and property on hand, together with all books and records of the Control Board and the trustees, to such person as the Secretary may direct, and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person the right to all of the funds or claims vested in the Control Board or the trustees pursuant to this section. Any funds collected for expenses pursuant to §§ 986.90 through 986.92 and held by such trustees or such person over and above amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the trustees or such other person, in the performance of their duties under this subpart, shall, as soon as practicable after the termination of the provisions of this subpart, be disbursed among the handlers pro rata in proportion to their contributions pursuant to this section. Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been delivered by the Control Board or its members, upon direction of the Secretary as provided in this section shall be subject to the same obligations and duties with respect to said funds, property, or claims as are hereinabove imposed upon the members of said Board or upon said trustees.

§ 986.108 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by virtue of this subpart shall cease upon termination of this subpart, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this subpart; and the benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred hereby upon any party signatory hereto shall cease upon the termination of this subpart as to such party except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this subpart.

§ 986.109 Separability. If any provision of this subpart is declared invalid or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this subpart or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

§ 986.110 Derogation. Nothing contained in this subpart is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States (a) to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or (b) in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 986.111 Right of the Secretary. Each member of the Control Board, Growers Allocation Committee, and Growers Advisory Committee, including successors and alternates, and any agent, representative or employee appointed or employed by the Control Board, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the Control Board, Growers Allocation Committee, or any Growers Advisory Committee, shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time and, upon such disapproval, shall be deemed null and void except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 986.112 Liability of Control Board members. No member of the Control Board, Growers Allocation Committee, or any Advisory Committee, nor any agent, representative, or employee, shall be held liable individually in any way whatsoever to any other person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts either of commission or omission as such member, employee, representative, except for acts of dishonesty. The liability of the parties hereunder is several and not joint, and no party shall be liable for the default of any other party.

§ 986.113 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this subpart or of any regulation issued pursuant to this subpart, or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen prior thereto, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this subpart or of any regulation issued under this subpart or (c) affect or impair any right or remedy of the United States, or of the Secretary, or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION

[Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, Notification 40]

PLACEMENT OF PROCUREMENT IN THE ALTOONA, PENNSYLVANIA AREA

NOTIFICATION TO DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE AND THE GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

The Surplus Manpower Committee, appointed under Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, has reported to the Director of Defense Mobilization its findings and recommendation in the matter of placement of procurement in the Altoona area. The recommendation has been reviewed within the Office of Defense Mobilization to determine its relationship to other policies affecting procurement for which this Office has responsibility and no conflicts exist.

The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are hereby notified that upon full consideration, the Director of Defense Mobilization has concluded that it is in the public interest to give preference to the Altoona area, with the exception of the textile and apparel industries located in that area, in the placement of Government contracts, in accordance with the attached findings of the Committee and the provisions of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4. The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are hereby requested to take the actions specified in paragraph 6 of section III of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4.

The textile industry has been excluded from the provisions of this notification pursuant to Notification 38 dated June 4, 1952. Public hearings have been held on the apparel industry. Following the report of the Hearing Panel, consideration will be given to certifying this industry under the provisions of the policy.

The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are requested to submit the first written report of the actions taken under this notification on July 15, 1952, and thereafter each 30 days until further notice.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION,
JOHN R. STEELMAN,
Acting Director.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE SURPLUS MANPOWER COMMITTEE CONCERNING THE ALTOONA, PENNSYLVANIA, AREA, UNDER DEFENSE MANPOWER POLICY NO. 4

Under date of February 21, 1952, the Defense Manpower Administration of the Department of Labor certified to this Committee, under Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, the existence of the Altoona area as a surplus labor area under standards established by the Secretary of Labor. The Altoona area is composed of Blair County.

On the basis of information contained in the files of the Committee and furnished by the Department of Labor relative to the manpower situation in the Altoona area, and by the Department of Defense, the National Production Authority, and the Department of Labor relative to facilities in the Altoona area, the Committee makes the following findings and recommendation:

FINDINGS

The Committee finds:

1. That the Altoona area, as defined by the Defense Manpower Administration, is an area of current labor surplus, including a surplus of manpower possessing skills necessary to the fulfillment of Government contracts;

2. That there exists in the Altoona area a comparatively small number of suitable facilities for the performance of additional Government contracts;

3. That in order to accomplish the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, the public interest dictates the need for the negotiation of available Government contracts at reasonable prices in the Altoona area, provided that a substantial portion of the work involved in the execution of the contracts will be performed in the Altoona area, and provided further that contractors in the said area will be afforded the opportunity to meet prices obtainable elsewhere;

That no price differential for the Altoona area is considered necessary in order to effectuate the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, provided that the operations under the notification recommended herein will be reviewed within a reasonable period of time to determine whether the establishment of an appropriate maximum price differential is required in order to effectuate Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 for the Altoona area;

5. That the apparel industry, to the extent that it exists in the Altoona area should not be included in the application of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 in the Altoona area; consideration will be given to separate recommendations applying to the entire apparel industry.

RECOMMENDATION

The Committee recommends that the Director of Defense Mobilization conclude that it is in the public interest to give preference to the Altoona area in the placement of contracts in accordance with the Committee's findings, and that the Director so notify the Secretary of Defense and the Administrator of the General Services Administration.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION,
ARTHUR S. FLEMMING,
Chairman,
Surplus Manpower Committee.

Approved:

Acting Director,

The Committee finds:

1. That the Martinsburg area, as defined by the Defense Manpower Administration, is an area of current labor surplus, including a surplus of manpower possessing skills necessary to the fulfillment of Government contracts;

2. That there exists in the Martinsburg area a comparatively small number of suitable facilities for the performance of additional Government contracts;

3. That in order to accomplish the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, the public interest dictates the need for the negotiation of available Government contracts at reasonable prices in the Martinsburg area, provided that a substantial portion of the work involved in the execution of the contracts will be performed in the Martinsburg area, and provided further that contractors in the said area will be afforded the opportunity to meet prices obtainable elsewhere;

4. That no price differential for the Martinsburg area is considered necessary in order to effectuate the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, provided that the operations under the notification recommended herein will be reviewed within a reasonable period of time to determine whether the establishment of an appropriate maximum price differential is required in order to effectuate Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 for the Martinsburg area;

5. That the apparel industry, to the extent that it exists in the Martinsburg area should not be included in the application of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 in the Martinsburg area; consideration will be given to separate recommendations applying to the entire apparel industry.

RECOMMENDATION

The Committee recommends that the Director of Defense Mobilization conclude that it is in the public interest to give preference to the Martinsburg area in the placement of contracts in accordance with the Committee's findings, and that the Director so notify the Secretary of Defense and the Administrator of the General Services Administration.

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Orange Reg. 219]

PART 933—ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, AND TANGERINES GROWN IN FLORIDA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 933.563 Orange Regulation 219—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 33, as amended (7 CFR Part 933), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in the State of Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective not later than June 9, 1952. Shipments of oranges, grown in the State of Florida, have been subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order, since September 15, 1951, and will so continue until June 9, 1952; the recommendation and supporting information for continued regulation subsequent to June 8 was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Growers Administrative Committee on June 3, such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including the effective time of this section, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of oranges; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 9, 1952, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 23, 1952, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in Regulation Area I which grade U. S. No. 2 Bright, U. S. No. 2, U. S. No. 2 Russet, U. S. No. 3, or lower than U. S. No. 3 grade;

(ii) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in Regulation Area II which grade U. S. No. 2 Russet, U. S. No. 3, or lower than U. S. No. 3 grade;

(iii) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in Regulation Area II which grade U. S. No. 2 or U. S. No. 2 Bright unless such oranges (a) are in the same container with oranges which grade at least U. S. No. 1 Russet, (b) are not in excess of 50 percent, by count, of the number of all oranges in such container; or

(iv) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in Regulation Area I or in Regulation Area II which are of a size larger than a size that will pack 126 oranges, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack in a standard nailed box.

(2) As used in this section, the term "handler," "ship," "Regulation Area I," "Regulation Area II," and "Growers Administrative Committee" shall each have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order; and the terms "U. S. No. 1 Russet," "U. S. No. 2 Bright," "U. S. No. 2," "U. S. No. 2 Russet," "U. S. No. 3," "standard pack," "container" and "standard nailed box" shall each have the same meaning as when used in the revised United States Standards for Oranges (7 CFR 51.192).

Shipments of Temple oranges grown in the State of Florida are subject to the provisions of Orange Regulation 215 (7 CFR 933.574; 17 F. R. 3227).

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. (2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective not later than June 10, 1952. A reasonable determination as to the supply of, and the demand for, such peaches must await the development of the crop thereof, and adequate information thereon was not available to the Industry Committee until June 3, 1952; recommendation as to the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such peaches was made at the meeting of said committee on June 3, 1952, after consideration of all available information relative to the supply and demand conditions for such peaches, at which time the recommendation and supporting information was submitted to the Department and information concerning such recommendation was disseminated among growers and handlers of such peaches; shipments of such peaches are now being made; in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, this section should, insofar as practicable, be applicable to all shipments of such peaches during the current fiscal period; and compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof of this section.

(b) Order. During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 10, 1952, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., September 1, 1952, no handler shall ship to destinations other than in the adjacent markets:

Hale, Late Elberta, No. 90, Orr's Pride, Regular Elberta, Rio Oso Gem, Rosalind, Southland, Sullivan Elberta, Super Elberta or White Hale varieties of a size smaller than 1⅞ inches in diameter, except that ten (10) percent, by count, of such peaches contained in any bulk lot or any lot of packages may be of a size smaller than 1⅞ inches in diameter, but not more than fifteen (15) percent, by count, of such peaches in any individual package in any lot may be of a size smaller than 1⅞ inches in diameter.

TITLE 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

Subchapter A—Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

[Reg. F]

PART 206—TRUST POWERS OF NATIONAL BANKS

MORE THAN ONE TRUST INVESTMENT COMMITTEE

§ 206.109 More than one trust investment committee. (a) The Board recently considered an inquiry from a national bank exercising trust powers relative to the propriety, under the provisions of § 206.6, of a proposal to create two or more trust investment committees to share the work involved in discharging the investment administrative functions required by § 206.6 (c). The inquiring bank stated that the volume of its trust business is so great that those administrative functions required to be based upon collective judgment cannot be efficiently or effectively discharged by one committee, and that committee activities relating to distinct types of trust business, such as pension and profit-sharing trusts, might be separated with increased administrative effectiveness.

(b) The Board expressed the opinion that an allocation of administrative functions among two or more trust investment committees is not inconsistent with the requirements, the intent or the spirit of the applicable provisions of this part provided (1) the scope of responsibilities and functions of such trust investment committees does not extend beyond that outlined in paragraph (c) of § 206.6 and does not impinge upon the primary, directive responsibilities of the board of directors; (2) all such trust investment committees operate under clear policy directives from the board of directors; (3) effective measures are adopted to promote coordination of activities of such committees through liaison membership or otherwise; and (4) the actions of such trust investment committees are subject to review and control by the board of directors.

(c) In commenting on the considerations underlying its views on this question, the Board noted that paragraph (b) of § 206.6 centers in the board of directors responsibility for the investment of trust funds, the disposition of trust investments, the supervision of the trust department and the determination of the policies of such department. Paragraph (c) of § 206.6 sets forth the administrative functions of the trust investment committee, and also provides that this committee may have such additional duties relating to the trust department as may be prescribed by the board of directors. The practices of national banks have not been uniform with respect to the creation of committees for discharge of the responsibilities and functions outlined in paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 206.6. Such committees vary considerably in name, in composition and in the scope and nature of their assigned functions. For example, it is not unusual for the board of directors of a national bank to delegate to the trust investment committee, subject to review by the board, authority for general supervision of fiduciary activities (§ 206.6 (b) provisions) in addition to the administrative functions described in § 206.6 (c). Under arrangements of this kind, of course, the creation of two or more trust investment committees would run counter both to the purposes underlying the provisions of this part and to accepted organization practice which are directed toward a centralization and continuity of authority for policy determination and general supervision of administrative activities.

(d) On the other hand, considerations relating to the volume or character of the trust business of a national bank, or the widely separated location of the banking offices at which such business is conducted, frequently provide reason for creating more than one trust investment committee, each of which would be limited in the scope of its activities to those administrative functions outlined in paragraph (c) of § 206.6. It is in such cases, and where a distinct separation is maintained between directive and administrative responsibilities, that this ruling is applicable.

PART 217—PAYMENT OF INTEREST ON DEPOSITS

GRACE PERIODS IN COMPUTING INTEREST ON SAVINGS DEPOSITS

1. Effective July 1, 1952, Part 217 is amended by changing paragraph (d) of § 217.3 to read as follows:

§ 217.3 Maximum rate of interest on time and savings deposits. • • •

(d) Grace periods in computing interest on savings deposits. A member bank may pay interest on a savings deposit received during its first 10 business days of any calendar month commencing a regular quarterly or semiannual interest period and during its first 5 business days of any other calendar month at the applicable maximum rate prescribed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section calculated from the first day of such calendar month until such deposit is withdrawn or ceases to constitute a savings deposit under the provisions of this part, whichever shall first occur; and a member bank may pay interest on a savings deposit withdrawn during its last 3 business days of any calendar month ending a regular quarterly or semiannual interest period at the applicable maximum rate prescribed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section calculated to the end of such calendar month.

2. (a) The purpose of this amendment is to accommodate provisions of this part regarding allowance of grace periods in the computation by member banks of interest on savings deposits to banking practices and State laws and regulations.

(b) The notice, public participation, and deferred effective date described in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are not followed in connection with this amendment for the reasons and good cause found as stated in paragraph (c) of § 262.2 of the Board's Rules of Procedure (Part 262 of this chapter), and especially because in connection with this permissive amendment such procedures are unnecessary as they would not aid the persons affected and would serve no other useful purpose.

Information contained in or compiled from reports submitted by employers only (other than information relating to any identified or identifiable person except such employers, and other than information relating to any identified or identifiable self-employed individual) may be disclosed, when efficient administration permits, to any other agency of the Federal Government for use in its statistical and planning work only.

5. Section 401.4 (e) is hereby rescinded.

§ 401.4 Definitions. * * *

(f) "Person" includes an individual, a firm, an association, or a corporation.

7. New §§ 401.5 and 401.6 are added following § 401.4 and reading as follows:

§ 401.5 Payment for information in general. Except as provided in § 401.6, no information, authorized to be disclosed by § 401.1 or § 401.3, shall be prepared for disclosure or disclosed to the person or agency requesting such disclosure until the cost of disclosing such information shall have been paid in full to the Agency.

§ 401.6 Payment for information in specific cases. In any case falling within any of the paragraphs of this section the payment required as a prerequisite to preparation for disclosure or disclosure of information shall be as specified in such paragraph in lieu of the cost of disclosing such information. In any case in which the receipt of payment in advance, pursuant to this section or § 401.5, would interfere with efficient administration, the Agency may permit such payment to be made at such time or times as it deems consistent with efficient administration.

(a) When the request is for information as to the wages and self-employment income of an individual and the periods during which such wages were paid and such income was derived, and the request is made by the individual, his survivor, or the legal representative of the individual or of his estate, the information shall be furnished without charge.

(c) When the request is made by an agency of a State Government lawfully charged with the administration of a State unemployment compensation law or contribution or tax levied in connection therewith, information relating to individual employees or employers which is necessary for the purpose of such administration may be furnished without charge, except where the request for any such information involves a special statistical study or a special compilation of data (except a comparison study made cooperatively with the State) in which case payment shall be required.

(d) In any case in which determination of the actual cost of disclosing information would interfere with efficient administration, such cost may be fixed at an amount estimated not to exceed actual cost, and the information may be prepared for disclosure and disclosed after payment of such amount. In any case in which the expense of obtaining reimbursement of such cost would be out of proportion to the amount thereof, or in which collection of such amount would interfere with efficient administration, payment thereof may be waived.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Income and Excess Profits Taxes

[T. D. 5909; Regs. 111]

PART 29—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1941

UNLIMITED DEDUCTION FOR CHARITABLE AND OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

On March 4, 1952, notice of proposed rule making, regarding amendments to the income tax regulations made necessary by Public Law 918 (81st Cong.), approved January 11, 1951, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 1899). No objection to the rules proposed having been received, the amendments to Regulations 111 (26 CFR Part 29) set forth below are hereby adopted:

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately preceding § 29.120-1 the following:

PUBLIC LAW 918, 81ST CONGRESS, APPROVED JANUARY 11, 1951

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 120 of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to unlimited deduction for charitable and other contributions) is hereby amended by striking out "in respect of preceding taxable years" and inserting in lieu thereof "in respect of such year or preceding taxable years".

SEC. 2. The amendment made by this act shall be applicable to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1942.

PAR. 2. Section 29.120-1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5855, approved September 13, 1951, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 29.120-1 Unlimited deduction for charitable and other contributions. (a) Under the circumstances specified in section 120, the 15 percent limitation imposed by section 23 (o) on the deduction for charitable and other contributions is not applicable.

(b) The following rules shall apply with respect to the taxes included in determining for any taxable year whether the amount of the gifts, contributions, and taxes referred to in section 120 exceeds 90 percent of the net income computed without the benefit of any deduction for gifts or contributions:

(1) In the case of a taxable year beginning before January 1, 1943, there shall be included income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes paid during such taxable year in respect of preceding taxable years.

(2) In the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1942, there shall be included, in addition to the income, war-profits, and excess-profits taxes paid during such taxable year in respect of preceding taxable years, the amount of income tax paid during such taxable year in respect of such taxable year. For example, there shall be included the amount paid as estimated tax during the taxable year, to the extent such amount does not exceed the tax for such taxable year.

(3) In the case of a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1950, the amount of income tax paid during the taxable year shall be determined without regard to any payment of tax imposed under subchapter E of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, which subchapter relates to the tax on self-employment income.

(c) In the case of a husband and wife making a joint return for any taxable year, the 15 percent limitation imposed by section 23 (o) on the deduction for charitable and other contributions shall not be applicable if in the taxable year and in each of the ten preceding taxable years the amount of the contributions or gifts described in section 23 (o) (or corresponding provisions of prior revenue acts) made by the husband and wife together during each such year plus the amount of the income, war-profits, or excess-profits taxes paid by the husband and wife together during each such year (determined under the rules of paragraph (b) of this section), exceeds 90 percent of the net income of the husband and wife together for each such year, as computed without the benefit of any deduction for contributions or gifts.

PART 40—EXCESS PROFITS TAXES; TAXABLE YEARS ENDING AFTER JUNE 30, 1950

FINAL DETERMINATIONS OF DEPRESSED INDUSTRY SUBGROUPS AND ADJUSTED RATES OF RETURN THEREFOR; INDUSTRY BASE PERIOD YEARLY RATES OF RETURN AND INDUSTRY BASE PERIOD RATES OF RETURN

PARAGRAPH 1. By virtue of the authority of section 446 (c) and (e) and section 447 (a) and (b) of the Internal Revenue Code, added by section 101 of the Excess Profits Tax Act of 1950, approved January 3, 1951, the final determination of industry subgroups and the adjusted rates of return therefor (computed to the nearest thousandth), and the final determination of industry base period yearly rates of return and industry base period rates of return (computed to the nearest thousandth), as shown in the amendments to Regulations 130 (26 CFR Part 40) made by paragraphs 2 and 4 of this Treasury decision, are hereby proclaimed.

PAR. 2. Section 40.446-2 of Regulations 130 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

(d) The final determinations of depressed industry subgroups and the adjusted rates of return therefor are the same as the tentative determinations and tentative adjusted rates of return set forth under paragraph (c) of this section. Accordingly, no redetermination is necessary of any application of section 446 properly made in accordance with a tentative determination and tentative adjusted rate and, therefore, the periods of limitation prescribed under section 322 and sections 275 and 276 are not extended as provided by section 446 (h) and by (b) of this section, since no overpayment or deficiency in tax results from the final determinations of depressed industry subgroups and the adjusted rates of return therefor.

PAR. 3. Section 40.447-1 of Regulations 130 is hereby amended by inserting at the end thereof the following:

(e) No redetermination is necessary of any application of section 442 which is properly made in accordance with a tentative base period yearly rate of return for 1946, 1947, or 1948. As to any application of section 442 which is properly made in accordance with a tentative base period yearly rate of return for 1949, and as to any application of sections 442 through 445 which is properly made in accordance with a tentative base period rate of return, no redetermination is necessary in any case where the final rate of return is the same as the tentative rate which was previously effective. The periods of limitation prescribed under section 322 and sections 275 and 276 are not extended, as provided by section 447 (d) and by paragraph (d) of this section, except in a case where a redetermination is necessary because the applicable final rate is not the same as the tentative rate which was previously effective.

PAR. 4. Section 40.447-2 of Regulations 130 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 40.447-2 Tentative and final industry base period rates of return. The industry classifications set forth in section 447 (c), and the base period yearly rates of return and the base period rate of return (both the tentative rates described in section 447 (d) and the final rates described in section 447 (a) and (b)) for each industry classification are as follows:

Subchapter C—Miscellaneous Excise Taxes

[T. D. 5910; Regs. 20]

PART 194—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN LIQUORS

1. Section 604 of the Revenue Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 814, 81st Cong.) provides as follows:

SEC. 604. FEDERAL AGENCIES OR INSTRUMENTALITIES.

Subchapter B of chapter 27 (relating to occupational taxes) is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

SEC. 3283. FEDERAL AGENCIES OR INSTRUMENTALITIES.

Any tax imposed by this chapter shall apply to any agency or instrumentality of the United States unless such agency or instrumentality is granted by statute a specific exemption from such tax.

2. Pursuant to the foregoing provision of law § 194.26 of Regulations 20, "Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Liquors" (5 F. R. 2170), as amended, is amended to read as follows:

SPECIAL TAXES

§ 194.26 Sales by agencies and instrumentalities of the United States. Section 3283 of the Internal Revenue Code, effective September 23, 1950, provides that any tax imposed by Chapter 27 of the Internal Revenue Code shall apply to any agency or instrumentality of the United States unless such agency or instrumentality is granted by statute a specific exemption from such tax. Accordingly, any agency or instrumentality of the United States, including post exchanges, ship's stores, ship's service stores, and commissaries established and conducted under the regulations of the Department of Defense, engaging in the business of selling, or offering for sale, alcoholic liquors, must pay special tax for the carrying on of such business on and after September 23, 1950. Any canteen, club, mess or similar organization operated under regulations of the Department of Defense, whether or not located on the premises of the Department of Defense, selling, or offering for sale, liquors, is liable to special tax for any period during which the organization carries on the business.

3. Since the provisions of section 604 of the Revenue Act of 1950 were effective on September 23, 1950, this amendment to regulations, pursuant to section 3791, Internal Revenue Code, is being made retroactively effective to that date. It is, therefore, found impracticable to comply with the notice, public rule-making, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001, et seq.).

4. This Treasury decision shall be effective on September 23, 1950.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 34, Supplementary Regulation 18]

CPR 34—SERVICES

SR 18 BOWLING ALLEYS IN BALTIMORE, MARYLAND

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 18 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This Supplementary Regulation 18 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 establishes dollars and cents ceiling prices for open and league bowling services supplied by bowling alleys situated in the City of Baltimore, Maryland. Bowling services have been rendered in Baltimore at substantially uniform prices for many years antedating the issuance of Ceiling Price Regulation 34. The piece rates paid pin boys by all establishments are identical; and wage rates paid other employees, and unit costs of bowling supplies are substantially the same. The existence of uniform prices and standardized services facilitate the establishment of dollars and cents ceiling prices.

A study of the operating costs and profit margins of a representative number of bowling alleys situated in the City of Baltimore, accounting for 90 percent of total sales, discloses that despite a stable volume of sales they are suffering an impairment of their normal pre-Korean earnings as a result of steadily increasing operating costs, particularly in the piece rate of pin boys and the cost of bowling pins. In addition, a wage increase recently granted to pin boys, which has been approved by the Wage Stabilization Board, has imposed further financial hardship. Failure to make an adjustment in the ceiling prices of these establishments would threaten an interruption in the supply of their services. The dollars and cents ceiling prices established by this supplementary regulation are deemed the minimum necessary to restore these businesses to a financial position which will assure the continued supply of these services. The adjusted ceiling prices have been determined in accordance with the adjustment standard of Section 20 of CPR 34.

This supplementary regulation does not apply to any seller of bowling services who has established under Ceiling Price Regulation 34 higher prices for such services than the dollars and cents ceiling prices established by this supplementary regulation. In the future, bowling establishments subject to this supplementary regulation may not obtain an adjustment of their ceiling prices for services under section 20 of Ceiling Price Regulation 34.

In the formulation of this supplementary regulation, the Director has consulted insofar as practicable with representative suppliers of these services, including the Monumental City Bowling Proprietors' Association of Baltimore, Maryland, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the increases permitted by this supplementary regulation are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

REVOCATION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2, this revocation of Ceiling Price Regulation 113, Revision 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The Senate of the United States has voted to exempt fresh fruits and vegetables, including potatoes, from price control. The announcement of the Senate vote has rendered effective enforcement of this regulation impossible. As a consequence, therefore, CPR 113, Revision 1, including all amendments and supplements, is herewith revoked. Special circumstances have made it impractical to consult with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, before the issuance of this revocation.

REVOCATION

Ceiling Price Regulation 113, Revision 1, and all amendments and supplementary regulations thereto are hereby revoked, effective June 6, 1952.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR Parts 27, 28]

U. S. STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF AMERICAN UPLAND COTTON

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering a revision of the Official Cotton Standards of the United States for the Grade of American Upland Cotton (7 CFR 27.151 through 27.183), also referred to as the "Universal Standards for American Cotton," and an amendment of the provisions in paragraph (a) of § 28.115 Practical forms of official cotton standards of the regulations relating to Cotton Standards (7 CFR Part 28), pursuant to the authority contained in sections 9 and 19 of the United States Cotton Futures Act (39 Stat. 476, as amended, codified at 53 Stat. 213; 26 U. S. C. 1920 et seq.) and in the United States Cotton Standards Act (42 Stat. 1518, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 51 et seq.). It is proposed to make the revised standards and the amendment of the regulations effective August 1, 1953.

The present standards for the various grades of American upland cotton were promulgated by the Acting Secretary of Agriculture on April 30, 1946, and have been in effect since August 1, 1947. These standards (set forth in §§ 27.151 through 27.183) for the grade of American upland cotton consist either (a) of actual sets of samples (boxes), known as physical standards, that are in the custody of the Department or (b) of descriptive standards that are based upon such physical standards.

The proposed revision would: (a) Abolish the Middling Fair and Strict Good Middling standards (§ 27.151 and § 27.152) for White cotton and all standards (§§ 27.160 through 27.166) for Extra White cotton; and (b) change the remaining standards so as to reflect the characteristics of the recent cotton crops, insofar as color, leaf, and preparation are concerned. In such revision, the numerical designations for the grades of American upland cotton would be deleted; the present physical standards (§§ 27.153 and 27.167) for Good Middling and Good Middling Tinged would be changed to descriptive standards; and the present descriptive standards (§§ 27.173 through 27.176) for Strict Middling Spotted, Middling Spotted, Strict Low Middling Spotted, and Low Middling Spotted would be changed to physical standards. The size of the practical forms (boxes) would be reduced to make them more convenient to handle without affecting their usefulness.

The proposed standards are listed below:

White cotton:
- Good middling.[1]
- Strict middling.
- Middling.
- Strict low middling.
- Low middling.
- Strict good ordinary.

- Strict middling.[1]
- Middling.[1]

Gray cotton:
- Good middling.[1]
- Strict middling.[1]
- Middling.[1]

The proposed amendment would list, in the amended § 28.115, the standards for grades of American upland cotton for which practical forms will be available as a result of the above revision.

A public meeting will be held on June 19, 1952, with respect to the proposed revision and amendment. HANDLING OF MILK IN LIMA, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held at the Barr Hotel, 210 North Union Street, Lima, Ohio, beginning at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., June 23, 1952, for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to proposed amendments hereinafter set forth or appropriate modification thereof, to the tentative marketing agreement as heretofore approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Lima, Ohio, marketing area (7 CFR 995.0 et seq.). The amendments proposed have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to economic conditions which relate to the proposed amendments hereinafter set forth:

The following amendments have been proposed by the Northwestern Cooperative Sales Association, Inc.:

Proposal No. 1. Delete § 995.5 (b) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) The Class I price shall be the same as that prevailing for the corresponding month under Federal Order No. 30, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Toledo, Ohio, marketing area.

Proposal No. 2. Add to § 995.5 (b), subparagraph (5):

(5) The Class IA price for each month shall be the Class I milk price for such month, less 30 cents.

Proposal No. 3. Delete § 995.4 (b) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(b) (1) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of:

(i) In fluid form as milk, skim milk, buttermilk (except for livestock feed) flavored milk, flavored milk drinks;

(ii) As any other milk product defined by the Lima, Ohio, Board of Health; and

(iii) As all skim milk and butterfat not accounted for as Class IA or Class II milk.

(2) Class IA milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of as sweet or sour cream; any cream product in fluid form which contains less than the minimum butterfat required for fluid cream or eggnog.

Proposal No. 4. Delete paragraph (f) of § 995.7 and substitute therefor the following:

(f) Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section the uniform price shall be adjusted for each one-tenth of one per cent butterfat content in the milk of each producer above or below 3.5 per cent, as the case may be, by a butterfat differential (computed to the nearest multiple of one-half cent) calculated as follows: Multiply by .13 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market as reported by U. S. D. A. for the month.

Proposal No. 5. In § 995.9 (a) delete the following words from the first sentence: "4 cents per hundredweight of milk, or" and "not to exceed 4 cents".

This phrase would then read "shall deduct such amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe".

Proposal No. 6. Make such other changes as are necessary to make the order conform with any amendments thereto that may result from the hearing.

The following amendments have been proposed by Beatrice Foods Co.:

Proposal No. 7. Delete paragraph (e) of § 995.1, "Lima, Ohio, marketing area," and substitute therefor the following:

(e) "Lima, Ohio, marketing area," hereinafter called the "marketing area," means the territory within the corporate limits of the City of Lima and all of the area within the boundaries of the County of Allen in the State of Ohio.

Proposal No. 8. Delete § 995.4 (b) entitled "Classes of utilization," and substitute therefor the following:

(b) Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraphs (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section, the classes of utilization of milk shall be:

(1) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of (except for animal feed) in fluid form as (i) milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cultured milk products, concentrated milk (on a milk equivalent basis), and (ii) skim milk and butterfat not accounted for as Class IA milk or Class II milk.

(2) Class IA milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of in fluid form as cream (sweet or sour), eggnog, any mixtures of skim milk and butterfat containing 8 percent or more of butterfat not specifically classified in Class I milk or Class II milk.

(3) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat accounted for as (i) having been dumped or disposed of for livestock feeding; (ii) used to produce bulk condensed milk (either sweetened, skim or whole), evaporated milk, powdered milk, cheese (including cottage cheese), and butter; (iii) all skim milk and butterfat used to produce ice cream mixes, ice cream or frozen desserts, and aerated cream products; (iv) or to produce any product other than those specified in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph; and (v) actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat received in producer milk but not to exceed 2 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, and actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat in other source milk received: Provided, That if producer milk is utilized as milk, skim milk, or cream in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage allocated to each shall be computed pro rata according to the proportions of the volume of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from each such source to their total.

Proposal No. 9. Delete § 995.4 (f) and substitute therefor the following:

(f) Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. The Market Administrator shall determine the classification of skim milk and butterfat received from producers as follows:

(1) Butterfat shall be allocated in the following manner:

(i) Substract from the total pounds of butterfat in Class II milk the total pounds of butterfat shrinkage pursuant to paragraph (b) (2) (iii) and (iv) of this section.

(ii) Substract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class the pounds of butterfat received from other handlers and used in such class.

(iii) Determine the pounds of butterfat in other source milk to be prorated pursuant to subdivision (v) of this subparagraph as the smallest of the following amounts:

(a) The pounds of butterfat received in bottled form and disposed of in the same form as received without further processing or packaging as Class I products.

(b) The pounds of butterfat contained in the handler's out-of-area Class I sales.

(c) 16 percent of the handler's total Class I usage.

(iv) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class II, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk remaining after excluding the amount of butterfat determined pursuant to subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph.

(v) Subtract pro rata from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class the pounds of butter fat in other source milk determined pursuant to subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph.

(vi) Add to the pounds of butterfat remaining in Class II the pounds of butterfat shrinkage in producer milk subtracted pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph; and if the remaining pounds of butterfat in all classes exceed the pounds of butterfat received in producer milk, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of butterfat in each class, in series beginning with the Class II utilization. The pounds of butterfat remaining shall be the pounds in each class allocated to producer milk.

(2) Skim milk shall be allocated to each class in accordance with the same procedure as outlined for butterfat in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

Proposal No. 10. Delete paragraph (b) of § 995.5 and substitute therefor the following: (b) Class I and Class IA milk prices. The minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for Class I skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant during the month which is classified as Class I milk, shall be determined by the market administrator as follows:

(1) To the basic formula price add the following amounts for the months indicated:

April, May, June	$0.85
July, August, February, March	1.10
All others	1.30

(2) Add together the amounts determined in paragraph (a) (3) (i) and (ii) of this section and divide the sum into the amount determined in paragraph (a) (3) (i) of this section.

(3) Multiply the price determined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph by the per cent determined in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph and then divide by 0.035. The resulting amount shall be the Class I butterfat price per hundredweight.

(4) From the price determined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph subtract the amount computed in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph times 0.035, and divide the remainder by 0.965. The resulting amount shall be the Class I skim milk price per hundredweight.

(5) The minimum price per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant during the month, which is classified as Class IA milk, shall be determined by the market administrator in accordance with the same procedure as outlined in subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) and (4) of this paragraph. Except in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the amount to be added to the basic formula price shall be $0.45 less than the amount indicated for the various months.

Copies of this notice of hearing and of the tentatively approved marketing agreement, and the order, now in effect may be procured from the Market Administrator, 420 Dominion Bldg. Lima, Ohio, or from the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture in Room 1353, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., or may be there inspected.

SECTION 1. Creation and authority. The Atomic Energy Commission was established by the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 755; 42 U. S. C. 1801 et seq.), approved August 1, 1946. Pursuant to section 9 (a) of the act, certain interests, property, and facilities of the Government, including interests, property, and facilities of the Manhattan Engineer District, were transferred to the Commission December 31, 1946, by Executive Order 9816 of the same date.

SEC. 2. Purpose. It is the purpose of the Atomic Energy Commission under the Act to effectuate the declared policy of the people of the United States that, subject at all times to the paramount objective of assuring the common defense and security to carry out the development and utilization of atomic energy so that as far as practicable it will be directed toward improving the public welfare, increasing the standard of living, strengthening free competition in private enterprise, and promoting world peace.

SEC. 3. Programs. The act provides for the following major programs relating to atomic energy:

(a) A program of assisting and fostering private research and development to encourage maximum scientific progress;

(b) A program for the control of scientific and technical information which will permit the dissemination of such information to encourage scientific progress, and for the sharing on a reciprocal basis of information concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy as soon as effective and enforcible safeguards against its use for destructive purposes can be devised;

(c) A program of federally conducted research and development to assure the Government of adequate scientific and technical accomplishment;

(d) A program for Government control of the production, ownership, and use of fissionable material to assure the common defense and security and to insure the broadest possible exploitation of the fields; and

(e) A program of administration which will be consistent with the foregoing policies and with international arrangements made by the United States, and which will enable the Congress to be currently informed so as to take further legislative action as may hereafter be appropriate.

SEC. 4. Operations. The operations of the Commission are carried out largely by industrial concerns and by private and public institutions under contract with the Commission, in accordance with the requirements and policies established by the Commission pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act. Some of the principal production and research and development activities are conducted by contractors in facilities owned by the Commission. Major production facilities owned by the Commission are located at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and Hanford, Washington. Production facilities at sites near Paducah, Kentucky, and Aiken, South Carolina, are under construction. Major research and development facilities owned by the Commission are the Ames Atomic Energy Laboratory at Ames, Iowa; the Argonne National Laboratory at Chicago, Illinois; the Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, Long Island, New York; the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory at Schenectady, New York; the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory at Los Alamos, New Mexico; the Mound Laboratory at Miamisburg, Ohio; the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies at Oak Ridge, Tennessee; the Oak Ridge National Laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tennessee; the Radiation Laboratory at Berkeley, California; the Reactor Testing Station at Idaho Falls, Idaho; the Rochester Atomic Energy Project at Rochester, New York; the Sandia Laboratory at Albuquerque New Mexico; the University of California, Los Angeles, Atomic Energy Project at Los Angeles, California; and the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Atomic Power Division, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

(a) The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, composed of nine members of the Senate and nine members of the House of Representatives, makes continuing studies of the activities of the Atomic Energy Commission and of problems relating to the development, use, and control of atomic energy. The Commission keeps the Joint Committee fully and currently informed on the activities of the Commission.

(b) The General Advisory Committee, composed of nine members appointed from civilian life by the President, advises the Commission on scientific and technical matters relating to materials, production, and research and development.

(c) The Military Liaison Committee consists of representatives of the Department of Defense, and at the present time has seven members. The Commission advises and consults with the Military Liaison Committee on all atomic energy matters which the Committee deems to relate to military applications, including the development, manufacture, use, and storage of weapons, the allocation of fissionable material for military research, and the control of information relating to the manufacture or utilization of atomic weapons. PART II—INFORMATION ON PROCEDURES

SECTION 1. Research assistance—(a) Research and development contracts. The Commission has entered into many contracts with public and private institutions for the prosecution of research and development work in various branches of physical, biological, and medical science and technology. These contracts are negotiated and supervised on behalf of the Commission by the General Manager, the Managers of Operations and their authorized representatives, and the scientific staff of the divisions concerned. The Division of Research is responsible for the development and supervision of the research program involving the physical sciences in AEC installations and outside organizations, including the isotope program, and inquiries regarding participation in this program may be addressed to the Director of the Division of Research in Washington. The Division of Biology and Medicine is responsible for administration of the program for the support of basic research relating to atomic energy in the fields of biology and medicine, and inquiries regarding participation in this program may be addressed to the Director of the Division of Biology and Medicine in Washington.

(b) Distribution of isotopes. The Commission assists and fosters research and development by a program for the sale and distribution of various radioactive and stable isotopes and for the irradiation of materials in an operating nuclear reactor. Because radioisotopes may present a distinct health hazard unless used with proper care, the Commission desires to insure that they are distributed in a manner that will assure safe handling. Any scientist working in a recognized academic, medical, or industrial research institution in the United States may address his specific request for isotopes or irradiation service to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Isotopes Division, P. O. Box E, Oak Ridge, Tennessee. The Isotopes Division processes and approves applications. The approved application is returned to the applicant for transmittal to any of several distributors. The distributor, on receipt of the approved application, fills the order and bills the applicant according to a price schedule approved by the Commission. Specific regulations governing the distribution and use of radioisotopes are contained in Title 10, Part 30, Code of Federal Regulations, published in 16 F. R. 3251, April 13, 1951.

(c) Fellowship program. The Division of Research is responsible for the administration of the AEC fellowship program in the physical and biological sciences. The fellowship program for the 1952–1953 academic year provides only for renewals of previously awarded fellowships and will be administered for the Commission by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. In addition, the Division of Biology and Medicine is responsible for the administration of fellowship programs in Radiological Physics, Industrial Medicine, and Industrial Hygiene for the purpose of providing specialized training to fill the need for personnel in these fields. Applications for fellowships in Radiological Physics and Industrial Hygiene may be submitted to the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Inc., University Relations Division, P. O. Box 117, Oak Ridge, Tennessee. Applications for fellowships in Industrial Medicine may be submitted to the School of Medicine and Dentistry, Atomic Energy Commission Project, University of Rochester, Rochester, New York.

SEC. 2. Information services. Writers or speakers may submit material to the AEC for security review and for assistance in determining if the material is free of restricted data (as defined in the Atomic Energy Act). Review and assistance will be given insofar as national security permits. Such submission of material, as well as any requests for publicly releasable information concerning the Commission's organization and activities, should be directed to the Division of Information Services, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

SEC. 3. Material and equipment control. (a) Pursuant to section 5 (b) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, a regulation which sets forth necessary procedures for licensing the transfer of source materials (materials containing uranium and thorium) has been published as Code of Federal Regulations, Title 10, Part 40 (14 F. R. 1156), March 9, 1949. Correspondence and other inquiries concerning possession, transfer, and use of source materials should be addressed to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, New York Operations Office, P. O. Box 30, Ansonia Station, New York 23, New York.

(b) Pursuant to section 4 (c) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, a regulation which sets forth necessary procedures for licensing the manufacture and transfer of facilities for the production of fissionable material has been published as Code of Federal Regulations, Title 10, Part 50 (14 F. R. 3492, as amended in 15 F. R. 7137, October 19, 1950), July 1, 1949. Correspondence and other inquiries in this connection should be addressed to the Division of Construction and Supply, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

SEC. 4. Patents, inventions, and awards. (a) Rules and regulations with respect to applications for awards, just compensation or the fixing of reasonable royalty fees in connection with patents and inventions under the provisions of section 11 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 have been published as Code of Federal Regulations, Title 10, Part 80 (13 F. R. 3457), January 18, 1948. Inquiries with respect to such matters should be addressed to the Clerk, Patent Compensation Board, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) In regard to patents and patent applications owned by the Commission and available for licensing, the Commission grants non-exclusive, royalty-free licenses as part of its program to make non-secret technological information available for use by industry. Periodic listings of such patents and patent applications are released in press releases and published in various journals, including the U. S. Patent Office, Official Gazette, and the Atomic Energy Commission Nuclear Science Abstracts. Applicants for licenses should apply to the Chief, Patent Branch, Office of the General Counsel, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

SEC. 5. Domestic uranium program. The domestic uranium program of the Commission, under the direction of the Division of Raw Materials, was put into effect in April 1948. The details of the domestic ore purchase schedules have been explained in Domestic Uranium Circulars Nos. 1, 2, 5, and 6, which were published as Code of Federal Regulations, Title 10, Part 60 (13 F. R. 2089; 13 F. R. 2090; 16 F. R. 2333). On February 28, 1951, the Commission announced a new bonus for initial production from new and certain existing domestic mining properties. Details of this bonus offer appear in Domestic Uranium Circular No. 6, which was published as Code of Federal Regulations, Title 10, Part 60 (16 F. R. 6426), June 27, 1951. The Division of Raw Materials has developed a booklet entitled "Prospecting for Uranium" which provides valuable information and assistance to those interested in prospecting for radioactive materials. This booklet was revised in 1951 and may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., for 45 cents a copy.

[Docket No. G-1964]

TEXAS EASTERN TRANSMISSION CORP.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED RATE SCHEDULES

MAY 29, 1952.

On May 1, 1952, Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation (Texas Eastern) filed its proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and proposed First Revised Sheets 77 and 78 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2, which, unless suspended, will become effective June 1, 1952, and will result in an increase of approximately $41,800,000, based on estimated sales for the calendar year 1953, to its resale customers.

By such tariff and rate schedules, Texas Eastern proposes to increase the rate level of each of its present firm services provided by the DCQ, CS and SGS Rate Schedules, as well as of its E Rate Schedules for emergency service, and of the X–12 Rate Schedule under which it sells storage gas to New York State Natural Gas Corporation.

If allowed to become effective, the proposed changes in rates would increase the average charges to each of Texas Eastern's resale customers, commencing June 1, 1952, by approximately 10 cents to 14 cents per Mcf. The distribution of such increase among Texas Eastern's customers for the calendar year 1953 is shown in Appendix A to this order.

Texas Eastern proposes other changes in some of its existing rate schedules as well as in other provisions of the tariff, including the General Terms and Conditions and Form of Service Agreement. Additionally, Texas Eastern proposes to eliminate its I–1 Rate Schedule, which provides an interruptible service.

It does not appear that the proposed increase in rates and charges and changes in tariff provisions have been supported as required by section 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act, and such increase and changes in tariff provisions may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential or otherwise unlawful, and may place an undue burden upon ultimate consumers of natural gas.

All of Texas Eastern's 42 resale customers, as well as twelve interested regulatory agencies, were invited to submit comments with respect to the application for the proposed changes in rates. Responses were received from 20 customers and 4 regulatory agencies. Generally, these object to the rate increase, to certain tariff provisions, or request the Commission to suspend the proposed rate schedules.

The Commission finds: It is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act and to aid in the enforcement thereof in the public interest, that the Commission enter upon a hearing, pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 (e) thereof, concerning the lawfulness of the proposed rates, charges, classifications or services and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, that the operation of Texas Eastern's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and First Revised Sheets 77 and 78 to FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as provided by the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held at a time and place and at a date to be fixed by further order of the Commission concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, classifications or services, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, as set forth in Texas Eastern's proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and proposed First Revised Sheets 77 and 78 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Texas Eastern's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and First Revised Sheets 77 and 78 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2, be and the same are hereby suspended and their use deferred until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as such tariff and revised sheets may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: May 29, 1952.

[Docket No. G–1965]

OHIO FUEL GAS CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED RATE SCHEDULE

MAY 29, 1952.

On May 1, 1952, The Ohio Fuel Gas Company (Ohio Company) filed First Revised Sheet No. 7 to its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, which is proposed to become effective June 1, 1952, and would increase the charges for the sale of natural gas for resale by $2,166,435 annually, or 11.5 percent, based on estimated sales for the twelve months ended May 31, 1953.

Under the presently existing rate schedule, which is in effect under bond in Docket No. G–1786,[1] the monthly demand charge is $1.75 and the commodity charge is 25.5 cents per Mcf. The proposed rate schedule would leave the demand charge at $1.75 but would increase the commodity charge to 30.0 cents per Mcf.

In support of the proposed increase in rates, Ohio Company states:

• • • the difference between the rates herein proposed and those now being collected under bond by reason of proceedings at Docket No. G–1786 is attributable to the increase in cost of gas purchased from Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation. • • • Accordingly, it is requested that • • • (the) Company be permitted to make effective the rates • • • and to collect the same • • • at the same time as the increased rates of Texas Eastern • • • become payable • • • (by the) Company. [Parentheses supplied.]

[1] The proposed increase is in addition to an estimated $1,270,000 annual increase which is being collected under bond in Docket No. G–1783.

The Commission has this day suspended until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as the proposal may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act, the application of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation for an increase in rates to which Ohio Company refers and upon which its justification for its proposed increase depends. In view of the foregoing, it does not appear that the proposed increase in rates and charges and tariff provisions have been supported as required by section 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act, and such increase and changes in tariff provisions may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential or otherwise unlawful, and may place an undue burden upon ultimate consumers of natural gas.

The Dayton Power and Light Company, The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company, and West Ohio Gas Company, sharing 92.5 percent of the proposed increase, the City of Lancaster, Ohio, and The Lake Gas Company have filed objections to the proposed increase.

The Commission finds: It is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act to enter upon a hearing, pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 (e) thereof, concerning the lawfulness of the proposed rates, charges, classifications or services and, pending such hearing and the decision thereon, that the operation of FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No 1, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as provided by the Natural Gas Act

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held at a time and place to be fixed by further order of the Commission, concerning the lawfulness of The Ohio Fuel Gas Company's First Revised Sheet No. 7 to its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, The Ohio Fuel Gas Company's First Revised Sheet No. 7 to its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be and the same is hereby suspended and its use deferred to November 1, 1952, and until such further time as the First Revised Sheet No. 7 may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: May 29, 1952.

[Docket No. G–1966]

HOME GAS CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED TARIFF

MAY 29, 1952.

On May 1, 1952, Home Gas Company filed its proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, to become effective June 1, 1952, which, if permitted to become effective, would increase the charges for the sale of natural gas for resale to seven customers[1] by 21 percent annually, or $1,241,999, based on a twelve-month period ending May, 1953.

Home Gas Company's present tariff contains a single rate schedule which is available for firm general service. The rate, in demand and commodity form, is $2.50 per Mcf per month for billing demand and 32.2 cents per Mcf for all gas delivered. Billing demand is defined as the greatest daily volume delivered during the twelve months ended with the current billing month. The minimum charge is the demand charge.

Under the proposed tariff there would continue to be one rate schedule, available for firm service, which is designated "Contract Demand Service." The monthly demand charge would be increased from $2.50 to $3.00 per Mcf and the commodity charge from 32.2 cents to 39 cents per Mcf. The billing demand would be defined as the largest day's volume taken on any day during the twelve months ending with the billing month but not greater than the contract demand but not less than 90 percent thereof. The minimum charge would continue to be the demand charge, but at the increased rate.

Approximately 50 percent of the proposed increase in rates and charges represents an expected increase in the cost of gas purchased from an affiliate, The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, on June 1, 1952; Manufacturers having applied for an increase in rates partly on its expectation that its cost of gas purchased would increase on June 1, 1952, because its supplier, Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, had filed for an increase in rates to become effective June 1, 1952. The Commission has today suspended Manufacturers' application for an increase in rates and has suspended Texas Eastern's application for a rate increase until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as the proposal may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

In addition to the increase in the rates and charges, Home Gas Company's proposed tariff involves other changes in the provisions of its present tariff. Generally, under its present tariff, the service agreements provide for entire requirements service with specific ceilings on volumetric obligations. Home Gas Company now proposes to place all of its customers on a contract demand basis with the contract demand becoming one of the factors determining the billing demand. Also, the tariff proposes to restrict to 500 Mcf per day the resale of gas for boiler fuel.

It does not presently appear that the proposed increase in rates and charges and changes in tariff provisions have been supported as required by section 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act and such increase in rates and changes in tariff provisions may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential.

The New York Public Service Commission and five of Home Gas Company's seven customers oppose the proposed increase in rates and charges, and three of the five customers also oppose other changes in the tariff provisions.

The Commission finds: It is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act to enter upon a hearing, pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 (e) thereof, concerning the lawfulness of the proposed rates, charges, classifications or services and, pending such hearing and the decision thereon, that the operation of FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as provided by the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held at a time and place to be fixed by further order of the Commission, concerning the lawfulness of Home Gas Company's proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Home Gas Company's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be and the same is hereby suspended and its use deferred until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as such tariff may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: May 29, 1952.

MANUFACTURERS LIGHT AND HEAT CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED TARIFF

MAY 29, 1952.

On May 1, 1952, The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company (Manufacturers) filed its proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, to become effective June 1, 1952, providing for an increase in the charges for sales of natural gas for resale of $2,169,344, or 14.2 percent per year based on sales for the twelve-month period ending May 31, 1953.

Manufacturers' present rates consist of a monthly demand rate of $2.00 per Mcf and a commodity rate of 24.5 cents per Mcf. The billing demand is the largest day's delivery during the twelve months ended with the current billing month.

Under the proposed tariff the demand charge would remain at $2.00 per Mcf per month. The commodity charge, however, would be increased from 24.5 cents to 29.3 cents per Mcf and the billing demand would be the higher of 90 percent of the contract demand or the largest day's volume taken on any day during the twelve months ending with the billing month, but not in excess of the contract demand.

In addition to the increase in the rates and charges, Manufacturers' proposed tariff involves other changes in the provisions of its present tariff. Under Manufacturers' present tariff the service agreements provide for entire requirements service with specific ceilings on Manufacturers' volumetric obligations. Manufacturers now proposes to place all of its customers on a contract-demand basis, with the contract demand becoming one of the factors determining the billing demand. Also, the tariff proposes to restrict to 500 Mcf per day the resale of gas for boiler fuel.

The proposed increase in rates and charges is based almost entirely on anticipated increases in the cost of gas purchased. Approximately 45 percent thereof represents Manufacturers' expectation that its cost of purchased gas would increase on June 1, 1952, because one of its suppliers of gas, Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, filed for an increase in rates to be effective that date. We have, however, today suspended Texas Eastern's application until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as the proposal may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

It does not presently appear that the proposed increase in rates and charges and changes in tariff provisions have been supported as required by section 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act, and such increase in rates and charges and changes in tariff provisions may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential.

The Public Service Commission of New York has advised the Commission of its opposition to the proposed increase and of its intention to intervene in any proceedings relating thereto. Acme Natural Gas Company objects to the proposed change in the determination of the billing demand. Five other customers[1] have advised of their intention to intervene.

The Commission finds: It is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act to enter upon a hearing, pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 (e) thereof, concerning the lawfulness of the proposed rates, charges, classifications or services and, pending such hearing and the decision thereon, that the operation of FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be suspended and the use thereof deferred as provided by the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission Orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in section 4 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held at a time and place to be fixed by further order of the Commission, concerning the lawfulness of Manufacturers' proposed FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Manufacturers' FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, be and the same is hereby suspended and its use deferred until November 1, 1952, and until such further time as such tariff may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.38 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: May 29, 1952.

MISSION OIL CO. ET AL.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER WITH RESPECT TO DESIGNATION OF DISTRIBUTION DEPOSITARY AND FIXING OF DISTRIBUTION CUT-OFF DATE

JUNE 3, 1952.

In the matter of the Mission Oil Company, Southwestern Development Company, and subsidiaries, and Sinclair Oil Corporation, File Nos. 54-196, 59-97; Albert R. Jones, et al., File No. 70-2681.

The Commission, by order issued December 21, 1951, having approved a plan, as amended, filed by The Mission Oil Company ("Mission") and Southwestern Development Company ("Southwestern"), both registered holding companies, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), and joined in by Sinclair Oil Corporation ("Sinclair"), a registered holding company, which plan provides, among other things, for the liquidation and dissolution of Mission including the distribution to its stockholders of the common stocks of Southwestern, Colorado Interstate Gas Company, and Westpan Hydrocarbon Company to be received under the plan, such distribution to be made by a depositary selected by Mission, after notice to the Commission of the method used in selecting such depositary and the fees to be paid; and that the rights of Mission stockholders to receive such distributions are to expire on a date to be fixed by Mission with the approval of the Commission, after which date the unclaimed shares of stock are to be sold by the depositary and the proceeds, together with dividends received by the depositary upon the shares sold, are to be paid to the stockholders entitled thereto or held for their benefit until December 31, 1956, after which all claims against such funds shall terminate and such funds shall become the property of Southwestern; and Mission having advised the Commission that it requested bids from banks in the Kansas City, Missouri area, of the charges to be made for their services for acting as such depositary, that bids were received from Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, Missouri, The Union National Bank, Kansas City, Missouri, and the Johnson County National Bank of Olathe, Kansas, that the bid of the Commerce Trust Company, the Mission Transfer Agent, will provide the necessary depositary services at the lowest cost, and that Mission proposes, subject to the approval of the Commission, to select it as such depositary and to pay it for such services at the rate of three dollars per transaction plus out-of-pocket expense estimated at ten per cent of the transaction charge and postage estimated at thirty cents for each insured first class mail shipment; and

Mission having advised the Commission that it proposes to fix July 5, 1952, as the distribution date, July 2, 1952, as the record date and January 5, 1953, as the date on which the rights of Mission stockholders to receive the securities to be distributed shall expire, and having requested that an order be issued herein to become effective upon its issuance approving the method of selecting the depositary and the fees proposed to be paid and January 5, 1953 as the date on which the rights of Mission stockholders to receive the securities to be distributed shall expire; and

It appearing that competitive conditions have been maintained in the selection of a depositary, that the fees and expenses proposed to be paid such depositary are not unreasonable and, the Commission finding that the selection of the depositary and the fixing of January 5, 1953 as the date on which the rights of the stockholders to receive the securities to be distributed shall expire are in accordance with the plan, and that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder have been satisfied, that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors to grant said requests to approve the selection of the depositary, the designation of the date on which rights of stockholders to receive the securities to be distributed shall expire, and for the acceleration of the effective date of this order:

It is ordered, That the request of Mission for approval of the method of selection of the depositary for the distribution of the securities to be distributed by it under the plan and the fees to be paid such depositary, and the designation of January 5, 1953, as the date on which the rights of such stockholders to receive such securities shall expire be, and they hereby are, granted, and that this order shall become effective upon its issuance.

MIDDLE SOUTH UTILITIES, INC.

ORDER CONCERNING CREDIT AGREEMENT

JUNE 3, 1952.

Middle South Utilities, Inc. ("Middle South"), a registered holding company, having filed a declaration with the Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly sections 6 (a) and 7 thereof with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Middle South proposes to enter into a credit agreement with certain banks whereby Middle South may borrow from time to time sums not to exceed in the aggregate amount outstanding at any one time $15,000,000. The credit agreement covers two periods, the first one terminating two years after the initial borrowing or December 31, 1954, whichever date is earlier, and the second period beginning on the day following the expiration of the first period and terminating three years thereafter.

The borrowings will be evidenced by promissory notes payable on the last day of the first period and bearing interest at the rate of 3 percent per annum. During the second period, Middle South may renew loans which are outstanding at the close of the first period or which may be outstanding at the date of any renewal during the second period. Notes given for such renewals will be payable not later than the last day of the second period and will bear interest at the rate of 3¼ percent per annum. The declaration provides that no renewals may be made during the second period without further application to the Commission.

The agreement provides that during the first period Middle South will pay a commitment fee of ¼ of 1 per cent per annum on the daily average unused balance of the aggregate commitments from June 1, 1952, which commitments may be reduced or terminated by the Company at any time.

The declaration states that the proceeds from the borrowings will be used by Middle South to make investments in its subsidiaries to assist them in carrying out their construction program and for other corporate purposes. This construction program is estimated to require the expenditure of approximately $65,000,000 in 1952 and approximately $72,000,000 in 1953, and will require new financing by the subsidiaries in the estimated amounts of approximately $48,500,000 in 1952 and $46,500,000 in 1953.

The declaration states that the credit agreement has been entered into in order to provide the subsidiaries with capital in such manner as may minimize the cost of financing the construction program during the period prior to the time when the newly constructed properties are put into operation. It is further stated that thereafter permanent financing of the borrowings will be in such form as may be advisable and appropriate under the circumstances then existing.

Said declaration having been filed on May 12, 1952, notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner required by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, the Commission not having received a request for hearing within the time specified in said notice, or otherwise, and the Commission not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding that the proposed transactions are in accordance with the applicable standards of the act, that no adverse findings are necessary thereunder, and that it is unnecessary to impose terms and conditions in connection herewith, and the Commission deeming it appropriate to permit said declaration to become effective, forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of said act, and subject to the terms and conditions contained in Rule U-24, that said declaration, be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith.

By the Commission.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 993—DRIED PRUNES PRODUCED IN CALIFORNIA

DISPOSITION OF SURPLUS TONNAGE

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), hereinafter referred to as the "act," and of the marketing Agreement, as amended, and the order, as amended (16 F. R. 8437), regulating the handling of dried prunes produced in California, hereinafter referred to as the "order," it is hereby found and determined, that the words "to handlers" appearing in the first sentence of § 993.63 (b) (1) of the order, and the last two sentences of § 993.63 (b) (1) of the said order no longer tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, and that they should be suspended. As so suspended, said § 993.63 (b) (1) will read as follows:

§ 993.63 Disposition of surplus tonnage. * * *

(b) Sales for export—(1) Countries included in estimate of salable percentage. In the event it appears that the total salable tonnage is not sufficient to meet the estimated domestic and foreign requirements due to the expansion of foreign markets in countries which were considered in estimating the salable percentage to a greater extent than was anticipated at the time of such estimate, the committee may offer to sell, and sell, surplus standard prunes for sale into, and for use in, such foreign channels in such quantities as are necessary to meet the increased demand.

The above-mentioned determination is predicated on the fact that the Prune Administrative Committee, the administrative agency for operations under this program, still has in its possession for disposition a relatively large quantity of surplus standard prunes which it is unable to sell readily in authorized domestic surplus outlets at prices which will be the most advantageous to the persons beneficially interested therein. While some of such prunes might be sold in domestic surplus outlets for such a low-priced usage as animal feed, such sales could not be made at desirable prices. However, it now appears that all, or a large part, of these surplus standard prunes can be sold into export channels at higher prices, if certain restrictions which are now prescribed in § 993.63 (b) (1) of the order are made inoperative. These restrictions which now preclude the making of such sales are as follows: (1) Such sales must be made only to prune handlers for resale in foreign countries; (2) they may not be made at a price below that which reflects the average price received by producers for salable tonnage during the current crop year, plus accrued charges for receiving and storing such surplus; and (3) each such offer to sell must be made to all exporting handlers on a pro rata basis. The permitting of the Prune Administrative Committee to make these sales to any and all persons in its discretion at negotiated prices, and without having to offer to sell pro rata to all exporting handlers the quantities involved should permit the Committee to make such sales in export channels expeditiously, in large volume, and at the highest prices obtainable. These desirable objectives would be accomplished by the presently proposed suspension action. It is vitally necessary, if the contemplated sales in export channels are to be made, that such sales be completed within a short time, as otherwise it seems that such sales may not be made. The Prune Administrative Committee is now negotiating for the making of such sales on the presently contemplated basis, and it is reasonable to expect that such sales will be consummated in considerable volume if the necessary action can be taken promptly. In this connection, it is required, in § 993.63 (b) of the order, that any surplus tonnage not disposed of by the Prune Administrative Committee by July 31 of the particular crop year (i. e., July 31, 1952, in this instance) must be disposed of thereafter for low-priced uses. The sale of these prunes into export channels would result in higher prices being received for them, with a consequent benefit to prune producers.

Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and the delaying of the making of this order effective any later than the time of its execution (see Section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest. For the reasons which are set forth above, it is imperative that this order become effective as soon as it is issued. Such action is necessary to enable advantage be taken of the opportunity to make dispositions of these surplus standard prunes in the most advantageous outlets available, and will be for the best interest of the prune producers. The changes effected by this action will not require any preparation by handlers prior to its effective date, but the circumstances are such that it may be made operative immediately upon its execution. The taking of this action has been requested by the unanimous vote of the Prune Administrative Committee, which represents all segments of the prune industry.

It is therefore ordered, That the words "to handlers" in the first sentence of § 993.63 (b) (1) of the order and the provisions of the last two sentences of said § 993.63 (b) (1) be, and they hereby are, suspended, effective on and after the time of the execution of this document.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat., as amended, 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 5th day of June 1952.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

Subchapter C—Interstate Transportation of Animals and Poultry

[B. A. I. Order 309, Amdt. 6]

PART 71—GENERAL PROVISIONS

PART 78—BRUCELLOSIS AND PARATUBERCULOSIS IN DOMESTIC ANIMALS

DEFINITION OF TERM INTERSTATE; INTERSTATE MOVEMENT OF DOMESTIC ANIMALS AFFECTED WITH BRUCELLOSIS OR PARATUBERCULOSIS

On March 26, 1952, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 2626) a notice of proposed rule-making concerning amendments of the regulations, appearing in Title 9, Chapter I, Subchapter C, Code of Federal Regulations, which govern the interstate transportation of animals and poultry (9 CFR and Supp. 71.1 et seq). The purpose of the proposed amendments was to define the word "interstate" as used in said Subchapter C and to add to the said subchapter a new Part 78 regulating the interstate movement of domestic animals affected with brucellosis or paratuberculosis. After due consideration of relevant matters presented, and pursuant to the authority vested in him by the acts of Congress approved May 29, 1884, as amended (21 U. S. C. 112–119, 130, and Public Law 238, 82d Cong.), February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. C. 111, 120–122), and March 3, 1905, as amended (21 U. S. C. 123–128), the Secretary of Agriculture hereby amends the said Subchapter C in the following respects:

1. By adding to the definitions appearing in § 71.1 a new paragraph (l) to read as follows:

(l) Interstate. From one State, Territary, or the District of Columbia to any other State, Territory, or the District of Columbia.

(Sec. 2, 32 Stat. 792, ch. 30, 45 Stat. 59, Pub. Law 238, 82d Cong.; 21 U. S. C. 111)

2. By adding, at the end of said Subchapter C, a new part 78, to read as follows:

PART 78—BRUCELLOSIS AND PARATUBERCULOSIS IN DOMESTIC ANIMALS

Sec.
78.1 Interstate movements of paratuberculous and brucellosis-affected domestic animals for immediate slaughter; when permitted.
78.2 Reshipments of purebred reactors.

AUTHORITY: §§ 78.1 and 78.2 issued under sec. 2, 32 Stat. 792, ch. 30, 45 Stat. 59, Pub. Law 238, 82d Cong.; 21 U. S. C. 111. Interpret or apply secs. 6, 7, 23 Stat. 32, as amended, sec. 3, 33 Stat. 1265, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 115, 117, 125.

PART 301—SANITARY INSPECTION OF PROCESS OR RENOVATED BUTTER

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of an act of Congress approved June 24, 1946, entitled "An Act to authorize the condemnation of materials which are intended for use in process or renovated butter and which are unfit for human consumption, and for other purposes" (60 Stat. 300; 26 U. S. C. 2325, 2326, and 2327) the amended regulations (16 F. R. 10149) relating to the sanitary inspection of process or renovated butter, heretofore issued in connection with the above-mentioned act, are hereby further amended, effective as of the time of the execution of this document, in the following respects:

1. Add, immediately after § 301.9, a new § 301.9a reading as follows:

§ 301.9a Process or renovated butter factory. One or more plants, storehouses, and other premises where process or renovated butter is manufactured (either in whole or in part), packaged, stored, or otherwise handled, and all premises where ingredients intended for use therein are stored, which are operated under the same management and so long as they are considered to be on the same bonded premises by, and are covered under the same bond in that connection to, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, United States Treasury Department: Provided, That, if any such manufacturing operation is conducted as aforesaid in part at a plant at one location and in part at a plant at another location, all ingredients handled, including (but not limited to) butter oil, shall be used exclusively by that bonded manufacturer at his factory in the manufacture of process or renovated butter.

2. Amend the proviso at the end of § 301.12 to read as follows: ": Provided, however, That butter oil may be stored under seal in commercial cold storage warehouses."

3. Amend § 301.25 by changing the period at the end thereof to a colon and adding, immediately thereafter, the following: ": And provided further, That butter oil which is produced at one plant of a process or renovated butter factory may be transported to and used in the manufacture of process or renovated butter at another plant of the same factory if (a) said butter oil is transported between the two plants under seal, and (b) prior to the production of such butter oil all ingredients used in such production were inspected and passed pursuant to the requirements of this part."

It is hereby found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and delay the effective date of this amendatory action later than the time of the execution of this document (see section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.). The renovated or process butter manufacturers who were covered under this act and these regulations were recently reorganized as one company, and such company is now the only person covered thereunder. These further amendments are necessary to adapt the amended regulations to cover this new situation satisfactorily. It is imperative that such further amendments be put into effect immediately in order to allow the new company to operate its business efficiently. Such further amendments have previously been discussed by officials of the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the Agricultural Research Administration of this Department with appropriate officials of the new company, as well as with appropriate officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the United States Treasury Department, which latter Bureau also exercises governmental supervision over plants of this nature from a tax standpoint, and it is mutually agreed by all such officials that these further changes are appropriate and necessary, and that they should be made effective as soon as practicable. No advance preparation for the putting of these further amendments into effect will be needed.

(Sec. 1, 60 Stat. 300; 26 U. S. C. 2325)

Issued at Washington, D. C., and to become effective on, this 5th day of June 1952.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Income and Excess Profits Taxes

[Regs. 111; T. D. 5911]

PART 29—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1941

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

On October 18, 1951, notice of proposed rule making, regarding section 218 of the Revenue Act of 1950, approved September 23, 1950, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (16 F. R. 10640). Such notice stated that the regulations therein set forth in tentative form were subject to any changes which might be necessitated by the Revenue Bill of 1951 (H. R. 4473) then pending before the Congress. Legislation relating to the subject matter of the notice was enacted as section 331 of the Revenue Act of 1951, approved October 20, 1951. After consideration of all relevant matter presented by interested persons regarding the rules proposed, the amendments to Regulations 111 (26 CFR Part 29) set forth below are hereby adopted. Such amendments are necessary in order to conform Regulations 111 to section 218 of the Revenue Act of 1950, and to section 331 of the Revenue Act of 1951.

PARAGRAPH 1. There is inserted immediately following § 29.130–1 the following:

SEC. 218. STOCK OPTIONS [REVENUE ACT OF 1950, APPROVED SEPTEMBER 23, 1950].

(a) Treatment of certain employee stock options. Supplement B of chapter 1 is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

SEC. 130A. EMPLOYEE STOCK OPTIONS.

(a) Treatment of restricted stock options. If a share of stock is transferred to an individual pursuant to his exercise after 1949 of a restricted stock option, and no disposition of such share is made by him within two years from the date of the granting of the option nor within six months after the transfer of such share to him—

(1) No income shall result at the time of the transfer of such share to the individual upon his exercise of the option with respect to such share;

(2) No deduction under section 23 (a) shall be allowable at any time to the employer corporation of such individual or its parent or subsidiary corporation with respect to the share so transferred; and

(3) No amount other than the option price shall be considered as received by either of such corporations for the share so transferred.

This subsection and subsection (b) shall not apply unless (A) the individual, at the time he exercises the restricted stock option, is an employee of the corporation granting such option or of a parent or subsidiary corporation of such corporation, or (B) the option is exercised by him within three months after the date he ceases to be an employee of any of such corporations.

(b) Special rule where option price is between 85 percent and 95 percent of value of stock. If no disposition of a share of stock acquired by an individual upon his exercise after 1949 of a restricted stock option is made by him within two years from the date of the granting of the option nor within six months after the transfer of such share to him, but, at the time the restricted stock option was granted, the option price was less than 95 per centum of the fair market value at such time of such share, then, in the event of any disposition of such share by him, or in the event of his death (whenever occurring) while owning such share, there shall be included as compensation (and not as gain upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset) in his gross income, for the taxable year in which falls the date of such disposition or for the taxable year closing with his death, whichever is applicable, an amount equal to the amount (if any) by which the option price is exceeded by the lesser of—

(1) The fair market value of the share at the time of such disposition or death, or

(2) The fair market value of the share at the time the option was granted.

In the case of the disposition of such share by the individual, the basis of the share in his hands at the time of such disposition shall be increased by an amount equal to the amount so includible in his gross income.

(c) Acquisition of new stock. If stock transferred to an individual upon his exercise of the option is exchanged by him for stock or securities in an exchange within the provisions of section 112 (b) (2) or (3), or if new stock, as described in section 113 (a) (19), is acquired upon a distribution with respect to such stock, the stock or securities acquired in such exchange and such new stock shall be considered as having been transferred to him upon his exercise of such option. A similar rule shall be applied in the case of a series of such exchanges or acquisitions.

(d) Definitions. As used in this section—(1) Restricted stock option. The term "restricted stock option" means an option granted after February 26, 1945, to an individual, for any reason connected with his employment by a corporation, if granted by the employer corporation or its parent or subsidiary corporation, to purchase stock of any of such corporations, but only if—

(A) At the time such option is granted the option price is at least 85 per centum of the fair market value at such time of the stock subject to the option; and

(B) Such option by its terms is not transferable by such individual otherwise than by will or the laws of descent and distribution, and is exercisable, during his lifetime, only by him; and

(C) Such individual, at the time the option is granted, does not own stock possessing more than 10 per centum of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the employer corporation or of its parent or subsidiary corporation. For the purposes of this subparagraph—

(i) Such individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for his brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants; and

(ii) Stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for a corporation, partnership, estate, or trust, shall be considered as being owned proportionately by or for its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries.

(2) Parent corporation. The term "parent corporation" means any corporation (other than the employer corporation) in an unbroken chain of corporations ending with the employer corporation if, at the time of granting of the option, each of the corporations other than the employer corporation owns stock possessing more than 50 per centum of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock in one of the other corporations in such chain.

(3) Subsidiary corporation. The term "subsidiary corporation" means any corporation (other than the employer corporation) in an unbroken chain of corporations beginning with the employer corporation if, at the time of the granting of the option, each of the corporations other than the last corporation in the unbroken chain owns stock possessing more than 50 per centum of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock in one of the other corporations in such chain.

(4) Disposition. The term "disposition" includes a sale, exchange, gift, or any transfer of legal title, but does not include—

(A) A transfer from a decedent to his estate or a transfer by bequest or inheritance;

(B) An exchange which is within the provisions of section 112 (b) (2) or (3); or

(C) A mere pledge or hypothecation.

(e) Modification, extension, or renewal of option. For the purposes of subsection (d), if the terms of any option to purchase stock are modified, extended, or renewed, the following rules shall be applied with respect to transfers of stock made upon an exercise of the option after the making of such modification, extension, or renewal:

(1) Such modification, extension, or renewal shall be considered as the granting of a new option;

(2) The fair market value of such stock at the time of the granting of such option shall be considered as (A) the fair market value of such stock on the date of the original granting of the option, (B) the fair market value of such stock on the date of the making of such modification, extension, or renewal, or (C) the fair market value of such stock at the time of the making of any intervening modification, extension, or renewal, whichever is the highest.

(b) Effective date. The amendment made by this section shall be applicable with respect to taxable years ending after December 31, 1949.

SEC. 331. STOCK OPTIONS [REVENUE ACT OF 1951, APPROVED OCTOBER 20, 1951].

(a) Option subject to stockholder approval. Section 130A (d) (relating to definition of restricted stock option) is hereby amended by striking out "As used in" and inserting "For the purposes of" and by adding at the end thereof the following:

(5) Stockholder approval. If the grant of an option is subject to approval by stockholders, the date of grant of the option shall be determined as if the option had not been subject to such approval.

(b) Effective date. The amendment made by subsection (a) shall be effective as if it had been enacted as part of section 218 of the Revenue Act of 1950.

§ 29.130a–1 Meaning and use of certain terms. For the purpose of section 130A—

(a) Option. (1) The term "option" includes the right or privilege of an individual to purchase stock from a corporation by virtue of an offer of the corporation continuing for a stated period of time, whether or not irrevocable, to sell such stock at a stated price, such individual being under no obligation to purchase. Such right or privilege, when granted, must be evidenced in writing. The individual who has such right or privilege is referred to as the optionee and the corporation offering to sell stock under such an arrangement is referred to as the optionor. While no particular form of words is necessary, the written option should express, among other things, an offer to sell at a stated option price and the period of time during which the offer shall remain open.

(2) An option may be granted as part of or in conjunction with an employee stock purchase plan or subscription contract.

(3) An arrangement between a corporation and an employee may involve more than one option. For example, if a corporation on June 1, 1951, grants to an employee the right to purchase 1,000 shares of its stock on or after June 1, 1952, another 1,000 shares on or after June 1, 1953, and a further 1,000 shares on or after June 1, 1954, all shares to be purchased before June 1, 1955, provided the employee at the time of exercise of any of the purchase rights is employed by the corporation, such an arrangement will be construed as the grant to the employee on June 1, 1951, of three options, each for the purchase of 1,000 shares. Similarly, if a corporation grants to an employee on January 1, 1952, the right to purchase 1,000 shares of its stock at $35 per share during 1952, at $75 per share during 1953, and at $65 per share during 1954, such an arrangement will be construed as the grant to the employee on January 1, 1952, of three alternative options, one option for the purchase of 1,000 shares at $85 per share during 1952, an alternative option for the purchase of 1,000 shares at $75 per share during 1953, and a third alternative option for the purchase of 1,000 shares at $65 per share during 1954.

(b) Time and date of granting of option. (1) The words "the date of the granting of the option" and "the time such option is granted", and similar phrases, refer to the date or time when the corporation completes the corporate action constituting an offer of stock for sale to an individual under the terms and conditions of a restricted stock option. Ordinarily, if the corporate action contemplates an immediate offer of stock for sale to an individual or to a class including such individual, or contemplates a particular date on which such offer is to be made, the time or date of the granting of the option is the time or date of such corporate action if the offer is to be made immediately, or the date contemplated as the date of the offer, as the case may be. However, an unreasonable delay in the giving of notice of such offer to the individual or to the class will be taken into account as indicating that the corporation contemplated that the offer was to be made at the subsequent date on which such notice is given. If the terms of the offer do not specify the amount of the option price, the option will not be considered granted prior to the date on which the amount of the option price becomes fixed or determinable.

(2) If the corporation imposes conditions on the granting of an option (as distinguished from conditions governing the exercise of the option), such conditions shall be given effect in accordance with the intent of the corporation. A special rule is provided by section 130A (d)(5), as added by the Revenue Act of 1951, for options subject to stockholder approval. If the grant of an option is subject to approval by stockholders, the date of grant of the option shall be determined as if the option had not been subject to such approval. A condition which does not require corporate action, such as the approval of some regulatory or governmental agency, for example, a stock exchange or the Securities and Exchange Commission, is ordinarily considered a condition upon the exercise of the option unless the corporate action clearly indicates that the option is not to be granted until such condition is satisfied. If an option is granted to an individual upon the condition that such individual will become an employee of the corporation granting the option or of its parent or subsidiary corporation, such option is not granted prior to the date the individual becomes such an employee.

(3) In general, conditions imposed upon the exercise of an option will not operate to make ineffective the granting of the option. For example, on June 1, 1951, the A Corporation grants to X, an employee, an option to purchase 5,000 shares of the corporation stock, exercisable by X on or after June 1, 1952, provided he is employed by the corporation on June 1, 1952. Such an option is granted to X on June 1, 1951.

(c) Stock. The term "stock" means capital stock of any class, including voting or nonvoting common or preferred stock. The term includes both treasury stock and stock of original issue. Special classes of stock authorized to be issued to and held by employees are within the scope of the term "stock" as used in section 130A, provided such stock otherwise possesses the rights and characteristics of capital stock.

(d) Option price. The term "option price" means the consideration in money or property which, pursuant to the terms of the option, is the price at which the stock subject to the option is purchased.

(e) Exercise. The term "exercise", when used in reference to an option, means the act of acceptance by the optionee of the offer to sell contained in the option. In general, the time of exercise is the time when there is a sale or a contract to sell between the corporation and the individual. An agreement or undertaking by the employee to make payments under a stock purchase plan does not constitute the exercise of an option so long as the payments made remain subject to withdrawal by the employee. If the terms of the offer do not specify the amount of the option price, the option will not be considered exercised prior to the date on which the amount of the option price becomes fixed or determinable.

(f) Transfer. The term "transfer", when used in reference to the transfer to an individual of a share of stock pursuant to his exercise of a restricted stock option means the transfer of ownership of such share, or the transfer of substantially all the rights of ownership. Such transfer must, within a reasonable time, be evidenced on the books of the corporation.

§ 29.130a-2 Restricted stock option—(a) In general. (1) A "restricted stock option" is an option granted after February 26, 1945, to an individual, for any reason connected with his employment by a corporation, if granted by the employer corporation or its parent or subsidiary corporation, to purchase stock of any such corporations, but only if (i) at the time such option is granted the option price is at least 85 percent of the fair market value at such time of the stock subject to the option; and (ii) such option by its terms is not transferable by such individual otherwise than by will or by the laws of descent and distribution, and is exercisable, during his lifetime, only by him; and (iii) such individual, at the time the option is granted, does not own stock possessing more than 10 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock either of the employer corporation or of its parent or subsidiary corporation.

(2) At the time the option is granted, the relationship between the individual to whom an option is granted and the corporation granting the option (or a corporation which is a parent or subsidiary thereof) must be the legal and bona fide relationship of employer and employee. For rules applicable to the determination whether the employer-employee relationship exists, see §405.104 of Subchapter D (Regulations 116), relating to collection of income tax at source on wages. An option granted prior to employment or after termination of employment is not a restricted stock option. As to the granting of an option conditioned upon employment, see § 29.130a-1 (b). The option must be granted for a reason connected with the individual's employment by the corporation or by its parent or subsidiary corporation. An option may qualify as a restricted stock option only if, under the terms of the option, it is not transferable (other than by will or by the laws of descent and distribution) by the individual, to whom it is granted, and is exercisable, during the lifetime of such individual, only by him. Accordingly, an option which is transferable by the individual to whom it is granted during his lifetime, or is exercisable during such individual's lifetime by another person, is not a restricted stock option.

(b) Ownership of 10 percent of stock. In determining the amount of stock owned by an individual, for the purpose of applying the 10 percent test of section 130A (d) (1) (C), stock of the employer corporation or of its parent or subsidiary owned (directly or indirectly) by or for such individual's brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants shall be considered as owned by such individual. For the purpose of section 130A, if a corporation, partnership, estate, or trust owns (directly or indirectly) stock of the employer corporation or of its parent or subsidiary, such stock shall be considered as being owned proportionately by or for the shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries of the corporation, partnership, estate, or trust.

§ 29.130a-3 Exercise of restricted stock option. (a) The special rules of income tax treatment provided in subsections (a) and (b) of section 130A are applicable only if the following conditions exist with respect to the transfer of a share of stock to an individual:

(1) The share of stock is transferred to the individual pursuant to his exercise after 1949 of a restricted stock option; and

(2) At the time the option is exercised by him, the individual is an employee of the corporation granting such option (or of a parent or subsidiary thereof) or was an employee of any such corporations within three months prior to the date the option is exercised.

(b) The special treatment provided in subsections (a) and (b) of section 130A shall apply only if the restricted stock option is exercised by the individual to whom it was granted. Such special treatment shall not be applicable with respect to stock transferred pursuant to the exercise of the option by the individual's executor, administrator, heir, or legatee. Under the provisions of section 130A (d) (1) (B), an option may qualify as a restricted stock option although it is transferable at death to the individual's executor, administrator, heir, or legatee. Thus, the fact that a restricted stock option may be exercised by an executor, administrator, heir, or legatee does not deprive the individual who exercises such option during his lifetime of the special treatment provided in section 130A.

(c) At the time of exercise of a restricted stock option, the status of the individual exercising such option must be that of a bona fide employee of the corporation granting the option or that of a bona fide employee of a parent or subsidiary of such corporation, or such individual must have been a bona fide employee of any such corporation within three months previous to the date of exercise.

(d) The determination whether an option ultimately exercised is a restricted stock option is made as of the date such option is granted. An option which is a restricted stock option when granted does not lose its character as such an option by reason of subsequent events, and an option which is not a restricted stock option when granted does not become such an option by reason of subsequent events. See, however, § 29.130a-4, relating to modification, extension, or renewal of an option. This rule is illustrated as follows:

Example 1. S-1 Corporation is a subsidiary of S Corporation which, in turn, is a subsidiary of P Corporation. On June 1, 1951 P grants to an employee of P a restricted stock option to purchase a share of stock of S-1. On January 1, 1952, S sells a portion of the S-1 stock which it owns to an unrelated corporation and, as of that date, S-1 ceases to be a subsidiary of S. On May 1, 1952, while still employed by P, the employee exercises his option to purchase a share of S-1 stock. The employee has exercised a restricted stock option.

Example 2. Assume P grants an option to an employee under the same facts as in example 1 above, except that on June 1, 1951, S-1 is not a subsidiary of either S or P. Such option is not a restricted stock option on June 1, 1951. On January 1, 1952, S purchases from an unrelated corporation a sufficient number of shares of S-1 stock to make S-1, as of that date, a subsidiary of S. On May 1, 1952, while still employed by P, the employee exercises his option to purchase a share of S-1 stock. The employee has not exercised a restricted stock option.

§ 29.130a-4 Modification, extension, or renewal. (a) Subsection (e) of section 130A provides rules for determining whether a share of stock transferred to an individual upon his exercise of an option, after the terms thereof have been modified, extended, or renewed, is transferred pursuant to the exercise of a restricted stock option. For the purpose of such determination, the statute provides that:

(1) Any modification, extension, or renewal of the terms of an option to purchase stock shall be considered as the granting of a new option; and

(2) The fair market value of the stock subject to the option at the time of the granting of such option shall be considered as the fair market value of such stock (i) on the date of the original granting of the option, (ii) on the date of the making of such modification, extension, or renewal, or (iii) at the time of the making of any intervening modification, extension, or renewal, whichever is the highest.

(b) The time or date when an option is modified, extended, or renewed shall be determined, insofar as applicable, in accordance with the rules governing determination of the time or date of granting an option provided in § 29.130a-1(b). A modification of an option includes any material change in the terms or conditions of the option. For example, a material change in the terms of the option with respect to the kind or price of the shares of stock subject to the option is a modification of the option. Likewise, a material change in the time of issuance of stock subject to the option, the terms of payment for such stock, or an acceleration or postponement of the exercise date is a modification of the option. However, a mere change in the terms of the option, with respect to the number or price of the shares of stock subject to the option, to reflect a stock dividend or stock split-up is not a modification of the option. Where an option is amended solely to increase the number of shares subject to the option, such increase shall not be considered as a modification of the option, but shall be treated as the grant of a new option for the additional shares. An extension of an option refers to the granting by the corporation to the optionee of an additional period of time within which to exercise the option beyond the time originally prescribed. A renewal of an option is the granting by the corporation of the same rights or privileges contained in the original option on the same terms and conditions. The foregoing rules apply as well to successive modifications, extensions, and renewals.

(c) A restricted stock option may, as a result of a modification, extension, or renewal, thereafter cease to be a restricted stock option, or an option may, by modification, extension, or renewal, thereafter become a restricted stock option. The rule stated in subsection (e) of section 130A is illustrated as follows:

Example 1. On June 1, 1950, the X Corporation grants to an employee an option to purchase 100 shares of the stock of X Corporation at $90 per share, such option to be exercised on or before June 1, 1952. At the time the option is granted, the fair market value of the X Corporation stock is $100 per share. On February 1, 1951, before the employee exercises the option, X Corporation modifies the option to provide that the price at which the employee may purchase the stock shall be $80 per share. On February 1, 1951, the fair market value of the X Corporation stock is $90 per share. Under section 130A (e), the X Corporation is deemed to have granted an option to the employee on February 1, 1951, to purchase at $80 per share 100 shares of stock having a fair market value of $100 per share, that is, the higher of the fair market value of the stock on June 1, 1950, and on February 1, 1951. The exercise of such option by the employee after February 1, 1951, is not the exercise of a restricted stock option.

Example 2. On June 1, 1950, the X Corporation grants to an employee a restricted stock option to purchase 100 shares of X Corporation stock at $90 per share, exercisable after December 31, 1951, and on or before June 1, 1952. On June 1, 1950, the fair market value of X Corporation's stock is $100 per share. On February 1, 1951, X Corporation modifies the option to provide that the option shall be exercisable on or after February 1, 1951, and on or before June 1, 1952. On February 1, 1951, the fair market value of X Corporation stock is $110 per share. Under section 130A (e), X Corporation is deemed to have granted an option to the employee on February 1, 1951, to purchase at $90 per share 100 shares of stock having a fair market value of $110 per share, that is, the higher of the fair market value of the stock on June 1, 1950, and on February 1, 1951. The exercise of such option by the employee is not the exercise of a restricted stock option.

Example 3. The facts are the same as in example 1, except that the employee exercised the option to the extent of 50 shares on January 15, 1951, prior to the date of the modification of the option. Any exercise of the option after February 1, 1951, the date of the modification, is not the exercise of a restricted stock option. See example 1, above. The exercise of the option on January 15, 1951, pursuant to which 50 shares were acquired, is the exercise of a restricted option.

Example 4. On June 1, 1950, the X Corporation grants to an employee an option to purchase 100 shares of the stock of X Corporation at $80 per share, such option to be exercised on or before June 1, 1952. At the time the option is granted the fair market value of the X Corporation stock is $100 per share. On February 1, 1951, before the employee exercises the option, the X Corporation modifies the option to provide that the number of shares of stock which the employee may purchase at $80 per share will be 250. On February 1, 1951, the fair market value of the X Corporation stock is $90 per share. Under these facts, the X Corporation has granted two options, one option (not a restricted stock option) with respect to 100 shares having been granted on June 1, 1950, and the other option (a restricted stock option) with respect to the additional 150 shares having been granted on February 1, 1951. In the absence of facts identifying which option is exercised first, the employee will be deemed to have exercised the options in the order in which they were granted.

§ 29.130a-5 Operation of section 130A. With respect to taxable years ending after December 31, 1949—

(a) Rules applicable to all restricted stock options—(1) In general. If a share of stock is transferred to an individual pursuant to his timely exercise of a restricted stock option and is not disposed of by him within two years from the date of the granting of the option nor within six months after the transfer of such share to him, then subsection (a) of section 130A provides that—

(i) No income shall result at the time of the transfer of such share to the individual upon his exercise of the option with respect to such share;

(ii) No deduction under section 23 (a) shall be allowable at any time to the employer corporation of such individual or its parent or subsidiary corporation with respect to the share so transferred; and

(iii) No amount other than the option price shall be considered as received by either of such corporations for the share so transferred.

For the purpose of subparagraph (1) (i), (ii) and (iii), each share of stock transferred pursuant to a restricted stock option is treated separately. For example, if an individual, while employed by a corporation granting him a restricted stock option, exercises the option with respect to part of the stock covered by the option, and if such individual exercises the balance of the option more than three months after leaving such employment, the application of section 130A to the stock obtained upon the earlier exercise of the option is not affected by the fact that the income taxes of the employer and the individual with respect to the stock obtained upon the later exercise of the option are not determined under section 130A.

(2) Holding period. The special rules provided in section 130A (a) are not applicable if the individual disposes of the share of stock within two years from the date the option is granted or within six months after the transfer of such share to him. Section 130A is not made inapplicable by a transfer with the 2-year or 6-month period if such transfer is not a disposition of the stock as defined in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, for example, a transfer from the decedent to his estate or a transfer by bequest or inheritance. Similarly, a disposition by the executor, administrator, heir, or legatee is not a disposition by the decedent.

(3) Disposition of stock. The term "disposition," for the purpose of section 130A, includes a sale, exchange, gift, or any transfer of legal title, but does not include a transfer from a decedent to his estate or a transfer by bequest or inheritance, an exchange which is within the provisions of section 112 (b) (2) or (3), or a mere pledge or hypothecation. However, a disposition of the stock pursuant to a pledge or hypothecation is a disposition by the individual, even though the making of the pledge or hypothecation is not such a disposition.

If an individual exercises a restricted stock option, a share of stock acquired pursuant to such exercise is not considered disposed of by the individual if such share is taken in the name of the individual and another person jointly with right of survivorship, or is subsequently transferred into such joint ownership, or is retransferred from such joint ownership to the sole ownership of the individual. However, if such individual and his joint owner transfer such share to another person, the individual has made a disposition of such share. Likewise, if a share of stock held in the joint names of such individual and another person is transferred to the name of such other person, there is a disposition of such share by the individual. If an individual exercises a restricted stock option and a share of stock is transferred to another or is transferred to such individual in his name as trustee for another, the individual has made a disposition of such share.

(4) Examples. The rules of subsection (a) of section 130A are illustrated as follows:

Example 1. On June 1, 1951, the X Corporation grants to E, an employee, a restricted stock option to purchase 100 shares of X Corporation stock at $95 per share. On that date, the fair market value of X Corporation stock is $100 per share. On June 1, 1952, while employed by X Corporation, E exercises the option in full and pays X Corporation $9,500, and on that day X Corporation transfers to E 100 shares of its stock having a fair market value of $12,000. Prior to June 1, 1953, E makes no disposition of the 100 shares so purchased. E realizes no income on June 1, 1952, with respect to the transfer to him of the 100 shares of X Corporation stock. X Corporation is not entitled to any deduction at any time with respect to its transfer to E of the stock. In computing its gain or loss, if any, upon such transfer, X Corporation is considered to have received no more than $9,500 for the stock so transferred. E's basis for such 100 shares is $9,500.

Example 2. Assume, in example 1, that on August 1, 1953, two years and one month after the granting of the option and one year and one month after the transfer of the shares to him, E sells the 100 shares of X Corporation stock for $13,000, which is the fair market value of the stock on that date. For the taxable year in which the sale occurs, E realizes a gain of $3,500 ($13,000 minus E's basis of $9,500), which is treated as long-term capital gain.

Example 3. Assume, in example 2, that on August 1, 1953, E makes a gift of the 100 shares of X Corporation stock to his son. Such disposition results in no realization of gain to E either for the taxable year in which the option is exercised or the taxable year in which the gift is made. E's basis of $9,500 becomes the donee's basis for determining gain or loss.

Example 4. Assume, in example 1, that on May 1, 1953, one year and eleven months after the granting of the option and eleven months after the transfer of the shares to him, E sells the 100 shares of X Corporation stock for $13,000. The special rules of section 130A (a) are not applicable to the transfer of the stock by X Corporation to E, because disposition of the stock was made by E within two years from the date the option was granted.

Example 5. Assume, in example 1, that E dies on September 1, 1952, owning the 100 shares of X Corporation stock acquired by him pursuant to his exercise on June 1, 1952, of the restricted stock option. On the date of death, the fair market value of the stock is $12,500. No income is realized by E by reason of the transfer of the 100 shares to his estate. If E's executor elects to value the stock as of the date of death, the basis of the 100 shares in the hands of the executor is $12,500.

(b) Additional rules applicable where the option price is between 85 percent and 95 percent of the value of the stock—(1) In general. (i) If all the conditions necessary for the application of subsection (a) of section 130A exist, subsection (b) of section 130A provides additional rules which are applicable in cases where, at the time the restricted stock option is granted, the option price per share is less than 95 percent (but not less than 85 percent) of the fair market value of such share. In such case, upon the disposition of such share by the individual after the expiration of the 2-year and the 6-month periods, or upon his death while owning such share (whether occurring before or after the expiration of such periods), there shall be included in the individual's gross income as compensation (and not as gain upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset) the amount, if any, by which the option price is exceeded by the lesser of the fair market value of the share at the time the option was granted or the fair market value of the share at the time of such disposition or death. The amount of such compensation shall be included in the individual's gross income for the taxable year in which the disposition occurs or for the taxable year closing with his death, whichever event results in the application of section 130A (b).

(ii) The application of the special rules provided in section 130A (b) shall not affect the rules provided in section 130A (a) with respect to the individual exercising the option, the employer corporation, or its parent or subsidiary corporation. Thus, notwithstanding the inclusion of an amount as compensation in the gross income of an individual, as provided in section 130A (b), no income results to the individual at the time the stock is transferred to him, and no deduction under section 23 (a) is allowable at any time to the employer corporation or its parent or subsidiary with respect to such amount. Likewise, for the purpose of determining gain or loss, if any, realized by any of such corporations by reason of the transfer of a share of stock with respect to which the rules of section 130A (b) apply, no amount other than the option price shall be considered as received by any of such corporations for the stock so transferred.

(iii) If the individual exercises a restricted stock option during his lifetime and dies before the stock is transferred to him purusant to his exercise of the option, the transfer of such stock to the individual's executor, administrator, heir, or legatee is deemed, for the purpose of section 130A, to be a transfer of the stock to the individual exercising the option and a further transfer by reason of death from such individual to his executor, administrator, heir, or legatee.

(2) Basis. If the special rules provided in subsection (b) of section 130A are applicable to the disposition of a share of stock by an individual, the basis of such share in the individual's hands at the time of such disposition, determined under section 113, shall be increased by an amount equal to the amount includible as compensation in his gross income under section 130A (b). If the special rules provided in section 130A (b) are applicable to a share of stock upon the death of an individual, the basis of such share in the hands of the estate or the person receiving the stock by bequest or inheritance shall be determined under section 113, and shall not be increased by reason of the inclusion upon the decedent's death of any amount in his gross income under section 130A (b). See example 8, below, with respect to the determination of basis of the share in the hands of a surviving joint owner.

(3) Examples. The operation of section 130A (b) may be illustrated as follows:

Example 1. On June 1, 1951, the X Corporation grants to E, an employee, a restricted stock option to purchase a share of X Corporation's stock for $85. The fair market value of the X Corporation stock on such date is $100 per share. On June 1, 1952, E exercises the restricted stock option and on that date the X Corporation transfers the share of stock to E. On January 1, 1954, E sells the share for $150, its fair market value on that date. E makes his income tax return on the basis of the calendar year. The income tax consequences to E and to X Corporation are as follows:

Compensation in the amount of $15 is includible in E's gross income for 1954, the year of the disposition of the share. The $15 represents the difference between the option price ($85) and the fair market value of the share on the date the option was granted ($100), since such value is less than the fair market value of the share on the date of disposition ($150). For the purpose of computing E's gain or loss on the sale of the share, E's cost basis of $85 is increased by $15, the amount includible in E's gross income as compensation. Thus, E's basis for the share is $100. Since the share was sold for $150, E realizes a gain of $50, which is treated as long-term capital gain.

The X Corporation is entitled to no deduction under section 23 (a) at any time with respect to the share transferred to E. For the purpose of computing gain or loss, if any, to the X Corporation on account of the transfer of the share to E, the X Corporation shall not be considered to have received any amount other than $85 for the share.

Example 2. Assume, in example 1 above, E sells the share of X Corporation stock on January 1, 1955, for $75, its fair market value on that date. Since $75 is less than the option price ($85), no amount in respect of the sale is includible as compensation in E's gross income for 1955. E's basis for determining gain or loss on the sale is $85. Since E sold the share for $75, E realized a loss of $10 on the sale, which loss is treated long-term capital loss.

Example 3. Assume, in example 1 above, that instead of selling the share on January 1, 1954, E makes a gift of the share on that day. In such case, $15 is includible as compensation in E's gross income for 1954. E's cost basis of $85 is increased by $15, the amount includible in E's gross income as compensation. Thus, E's basis for the share is $100, which becomes the donee's basis, as of the time of the gift, for determining gain or loss.

Example 4. Assume, in example 2 above, that instead of selling the share on January 1, 1955, E makes a gift of the share on that date. Since the fair market value of the share on that day ($75) is less than the option price ($85), no amount in respect of the disposition by way of gift is includible as compensation in E's gross income for 1955. E's basis for the share is $85, which becomes the donee's basis, as of the time of the gift, for the purpose of determining gain. The donee's basis for the purpose of determining loss, determined under section 113 (a) (2), is $75 (fair market value of the share at the date of gift).

Example 5. Assume, in example 1 above, that after acquiring the share of stock on June 1, 1952, E dies on August 1, 1953, at which time the share has a fair market value of $150. Compensation in the amount of $15 is includible in E's gross income for the taxable year closing with his death, such $15 being the difference between the option price ($85) and the fair market value of the share when the option was granted ($100), since such value is less than the fair market value at date of death ($150). The basis of the share in the hands of E's estate is determined under section 113 (a) (5) without regard to the $15 includible in the decedent's gross income.

Example 6. Assume, in example 5 above, that E dies on August 1, 1952, at which time the share has a fair market value of $150. Although E's death occurred within two years from the date of the granting of the option and within six months after the transfer of the share to him, the income tax consequences are the same as in example 5.

Example 7. Assume the same facts as in example 1 above, except that the share of stock was issued in the names of E and his wife jointly with right of survivorship, and except that E and his wife sold the share on June 15, 1953, for $150, its fair market value on that date. Compensation in the amount of $15 is includible in E's gross income for 1953, the year of the disposition of the share. The basis of the share in the hands of E and his wife for the purpose of determining gain or loss on the sale is $100, that is, the cost of $85 increased by the amount of $15 includible as compensation in E's gross income. The gain of $50 on the sale is treated as long-term capital gain, and is divided equally between E and his wife.

Example 8. Assume the same facts as in example 1 above, except that the share of stock was issued in the names of E and his wife jointly with right of survivorship, and except that E predeceased his wife on August 1, 1953, at which time the share had a fair market value of $150. Compensation in the amount of $15 is includible in E's gross income for the taxable year closing with his death. See example 5, above. The basis of the share in the hands of E's wife as survivor is, under sections 113 (a) and 130A (b), the cost of $85 increased by the $15 includible in the decedent's gross income, or $100.

Example 9. Assume in example 8 above that E's wife predeceased him on July 1, 1953. Section 130A (b) does not apply in respect of her death. Upon the subsequent death of E on August 1, 1953, the income tax consequences in respect of E's taxable year closing with the date of his death, and in respect of the basis of the share in the hands of his estate, are the same as in example 5 above. If E had sold the share on July 15, 1953 (after the death of his wife), for $150, its fair market value at that time, the income tax consequences would be the same as in example 1 above.

(c) Acquisition of other stock or securities. Section 130A (c) provides that the special rules stated in subsections (a) and (b) of section 130A, if applicable with respect to stock transferred to an individual upon his exercise of an option, shall likewise be applicable with respect to (1) stock or securities acquired by such individual in exchange for such stock, if the exchange is within the provisions of section 112 (b) (2) or (3), and (2) new stock, as described in section 113 (a) (19), acquired upon a distribution with respect to such stock. Such new stock and such stock or securities so acquired shall, for the purpose of section 130A, be considered as having been transferred to the individual upon his exercise of the option. A similar rule shall be applied in the case of a series of such exchanges or acquisitions.

For example, if new stock, as described in section 113 (a) (19), is acquired upon a distribution with respect to stock transferred to the individual upon the timely exercise of a restricted stock option, and if such new stock is disposed of within two years from the date the option was granted or within six months after the original stock was transferred to such individual, section 130A is not applicable with respect to such new stock. If the disposition occurs after the 2-year and 6-month periods, section 130A is applicable.

PAR. 2. Section 29.22 (a)–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5500, approved February 2, 1948, is further amended as follows:

(A) By striking the first word of the third paragraph, and by inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except as otherwise provided in section 130A, if"; and

(B) By adding at the end of paragraph (c) thereof the following sentence: "See section 130A and the regulations prescribed thereunder for special rules with respect to stock transferred from an employer to an employee pursuant to the timely exercise of a restricted stock option."

PAR. 3. Section 29.113 (a)–1, as amended by Treasury Decision 5402, approved September 5, 1944, is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following sentence: "For special rules for determining the basis for gain or loss in the case of the disposition of a share of stock acquired pursuant to the timely exercise of a restricted stock option where the option price was between 85 percent and 95 percent of the fair market value of the stock at the time the option was granted, see section 130A (b)."

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 5, Supplementary Regulation 1]

CPR 5—IRON AND STEEL SCRAP

SR 1—CEILING FEES FOR STORAGE OF IRON AND STEEL SCRAP IN SPECIAL EMERGENCY CIRCUMSTANCES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 5 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation establishes a ceiling charge to be made for the service of unloading, storing and reloading iron or steel scrap when, because of a strike at a consumer's mill or in anticipation of such a strike, the consumer authorizes a person to perform such service. This regulation is an emergency measure only and permits such charges to be made only on shipments received after June 1, 1952 and not later than 24 hours after the termination of the strike at the mill for which the service is being performed.

It is customary in the iron and steel scrap industry for consumers in anticipation of and during a strike to have scrap which is in transit to them unloaded and stored at certain authorized locations because of their inability to handle the scrap at their mill. This action enables the consumers to stockpile vitally needed scrap and to minimize the demurrage charges which would otherwise accumulate.

In the opinion of the Director, the $1.50 per gross ton charge is reasonable for such services and is in line with charges otherwise authorized under CPR 5. While it may be noted that a $1.50 charge is allowed for merely loading scrap which is purchased "as is, where is," such loading is normally done without the aid of the efficient scrap handling equipment available in the average dealer or broker's yard where the material will be stored.

The charge for this service may be made only where the scrap originates at some point other than the yard at which the material is being stored.

Since the dealer preparing iron or steel scrap on an intransit preparation fee basis is already compensated for unloading and reloading the material, no additional charge for such services may be made by such person under this supplementary regulation.

In view of the nature of this supplementary regulation special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives including trade association representatives impracticable.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. What this regulation does.
2. Ceiling price.
3. Record-keeping requirements.
4. Incorporation of CPR 5 provisions.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 4 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong., 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong., 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101-2110; E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation establishes a flat ceiling fee of $1.50 per gross ton for the service of unloading, storing, weighing and reloading rail or vessel shipments of iron or steel scrap in anticipation of and for the duration of the steel strike within certain limitations set forth in section 2.

SEC. 2. Ceiling price. Any person may charge and any consumer may pay a fee not in excess of $1.50 per gross ton for the service of receiving, unloading, storing and reloading, inclusive, iron and steel scrap, provided that all of the following conditions are met:

(1) The person making such a charge has been requested in writing by the consumer to receive and unload rail or vessel shipments of iron and steel scrap at his yard or at some other location designated by the consumer for the duration of a strike affecting the consumer's mill;

(2) The rail or vessel shipment is unloaded for storing after June 1, 1952 and not later than 24 hours after the official termination of the strike at the mill for which the service is being performed;

(3) The iron and steel scrap for which the charge is being made originated neither in such person's yard nor at the location designated by the consumer for storing.

(b) In no case may a dealer charge a fee under this section for material for which he is also charging an intransit preparation fee under CPR 5.

(c) No additional charge may be made by such person for weighing the material so handled.

SEC. 3. Record-keeping requirements. Every person making a charge to a consumer under this supplementary regulation shall keep and maintain for inspection by the Office of Price Stabilization for a period of two years accurate records showing the charge made, the name and address of the consumer, the authorization from the consumer to store the scrap; the names and addresses of the shippers; the shipping points; the tonnage involved in each scrap shipment; the numbers of the railroad cars in which the scrap was received for unloading; the date when the scrap shipments were received for unloading and the date on which the scrap was reloaded and shipped to the consumer.

SEC. 4. Incorporation of CPR 5 provisions. Any person subject to this supplementary regulation is also subject to all provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 5 not inconsistent with the provision of this regulation including but not limited to the enforcement and evasion provisions thereof. All terms used in this regulation shall have the same meaning as those used in Ceiling Price Regulation 5.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 5 shall become effective June 6, 1952.

NOTE: All record-keeping requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

ELLIS ARNALL,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 24, Interpretation 1]

CPR 24—CEILING PRICES OF BEEF SOLD AT WHOLESALE

INT. 1—SALES OF BEEF WITH FREEZERS OR REFRIGERATORS

Several inquiries have been received about the regulations covering beef sales in conjunction with sales of freezers or refrigerators. Numerous plans have been developed recently whereby purchasers of such appliances are offered a supply of beef at the time of, and as an inducement for, such purchases. While the plans vary in detail, they have raised several common questions regarding the application of various sections of Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 24 and CPR 25, Revised. This interpretation answers basic or common questions in this regard which have come to the attention of the Office of Price Stabilization.

1. Sales must be separate. Any arrangement, agreement, contract, understanding, or other device between any persons, which requires a buyer to purchase a freezer or other appliance in order to purchase any beef item at retail, is a violation of sections 13 (a) and 13 (b) (6) of CPR 25, Revised. Purchases of freezers or other appliances and purchases of beef at retail must be separate and clearly distinguishable transactions. There must be an independent offer and acceptance for each transaction, and purchasers of either commodity must have a free choice as to whether or not they will buy the other commodity.

2. Offers may not be restrictive. Not only the sale but also the offer to sell a beef item at retail upon condition of the purchase of any other commodity or service is a violation of sections 13 (a) and 13 (b) (6) of CPR 25, Revised. The offer to sell a beef item exclusively to buyers of appliances is equivalent to forcing would-be purchasers of beef items to buy the appliances. This practice is a restriction of the sale of beef items to the buyers of the appliances only, and is therefore prohibited. Anyone wishing to sell beef items to appliance buyers must offer such items to the general retail trade.

3. Separate billing. Section 8 (b) of CPR 25, Revised, provides that on every sale of 25 pounds, or more, of beef at retail made in connection with the sale of refrigeration equipment, or any other appliance, a document must be given to the purchaser, listing the names of all beef cuts sold, together with the cost per pound and all charges for each cut. These facts must be shown on that document in such a manner that the costs and charges for the beef cuts can be clearly distinguished from the costs and charges for other commodities, and can be identified as relating only to the sale of beef cuts.

4. Overcharges to cover financing not permitted. Section 13 (b) (10) of CPR 25, Revised, prohibits charging or receiving any consideration for any service (in connection with the sale of beef at retail) for which a ceiling price has not been provided in the regulation. Financing the purchase of beef at retail is a "service" in connection with a sale within the meaning of this section, and no ceiling price has been provided in the regulation for financing service. Therefore, the seller may not make any charge for any financing service in connection with the purchase of a beef item at retail, in the form of interest or otherwise, if the addition of this charge to the price charged for the beef item will cause the total charges to exceed the regulation's ceiling price for the beef item.

Such an excess charge is also a violation of the regulation if made by an affiliate, subsidiary, principal or agent of the seller of beef.

This interpretation does not prohibit the retail sale or purchase of beef items on credit. It prohibits only the taking of any consideration for providing such credit in excess of CPR 25, Revised, ceilings.

5. Limitation on sale of wholesale cuts. Many of the combination plans apparently include the sale to consumers of sides or quarters of beef. Attention is called to section 13 (b) (3) of CPR 25, Revised, which prohibits the sale of wholesale beef cuts for which retail prices have not been set in section 40 of the regulation, except as provided in section 13 (c). While this interpretation does not purport to summarize section 13 (b) (3), it is appropriate to state here that only the following wholesale beef cuts may be sold to consumers by retailers not covered by section 13 (c): Round, sirloin, short loin, trimmed loin, rib, flank, regular chuck, short plate, brisket and fore shank. All such cuts must conform to the cutting definitions of CPR 25, Revised. Carcasses, sides, hindquarters and forequarters may be sold at retail only by sellers qualifying under section 13 (c). It is also noted that any charge in connection with the permitted sale of wholesale cuts, which results in an overceiling price, is a violation of sections 13 (a) and 13 (b) (10) thereof, except as provided in section 13 (c). Among the charges prohibited thereby are wrapping, cutting, packaging, processing and similar charges.

6. Sales of beef by appliance vendors. Any vendor of appliances who sells beef items to a consumer, who bills a consumer for beef items on his own account, or who receives a consideration for a sale of beef items to a consumer, is a seller of beef at retail and is subject to the provisions of CPR 25, Revised. As such he must keep the records and make the reports required of such sellers by sections 11 and 12 of the regulation. For the purposes of this regulation he must determine his store group according to Article III. A store which sells only appliances and food is not a store selling general merchandise under this regulation, and its group may not be determined under section 32 (a).

7. Sales of beef to appliance vendors. A sale of a beef item to an appliance vendor by a retailer for resale is not a sale to a consumer, but a sale to another retailer for resale. Therefore in such a transaction both the seller and the buyer must comply with the provisions of section 23 of CPR 25, Revised. This section, among other things, prohibits the sale of wholesale cuts by one retailer to another.

Under section 3 (h) of CPR 24, prefabricated retail cuts may be sold to a retailer at wholesale only if the conditions stated in section 11 (b) of that regulation are complied with. The sale of fabricated cuts (cuts usually sold to eating places) to domestic retailers is prohibited by section 8 (b) (3) of that regulation.

Any transaction in which a retailer of beef (a) transfers title to a beef item to an appliance vendor, or (b) receives a consideration from an appliance vendor for the sale, transfer, or delivery of a beef item to any person, is a sale of a beef item by the retailer to the appliance vendor. However, where an appliance vendor acts as an agent for collection or payment only, in connection with a sale of beef at retail, the transaction between the retailer and the appliance vendor is not a sale of beef and is not subject to the provisions of CPR 25, Revised.

CPR 25—REVISED CEILING PRICES OF BEEF ITEMS SOLD AT RETAIL

INT. 3—SALES OF BEEF WITH FREEZERS OR REFRIGERATORS

Several inquiries have been received about the regulations covering beef sales in conjunction with sales of freezers or refrigerators. Numerous plans have been developed recently whereby purchasers of such appliances are offered a supply of beef at the time of, and as an inducement for, such purchases. [General Ceiling Price Regulation, Interpretation 58]

GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

INT. 58—ROUNDING OF FRACTIONS IN THE SALE OF BUTTER AND MILK POWDER (SECTION 22)

Under section 22 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, in the case of a sale of a single unit of a commodity, a fraction of a cent in the price is dropped if it is less than one-half cent, and increased to the next highest cent if it is one-half cent or more; while in the case of a sale of more than one unit, the unrounded fraction in the unit ceiling price is multiplied by the number of units being sold and any resulting fraction in the total quantity price is dropped if it is less than one-half cent and increased to the next highest cent if it is one-half cent or more.

The different treatment of fractions set forth in Supplementary Regulation 20 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is adopted in recognition of the customary practice of the fluid milk industry to establish unit prices expressed in fractions of cents. This is limited to sales of milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption, the sales of which are covered by Supplementary Regulation 20, and has no application to sales of butter and milk powder, which are covered by the General Ceiling Price Regulation alone.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-2, Amendment 1 of June 6, 1952]

M-2—RUBBER

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

This amendment is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense. It is issued pursuant to both the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and the Rubber Act of 1948, as amended. In the formulation of this amendment, consultation with industry representatives has been impossible because of the need for immediate action.

NPA Order M-2, as last amended April 21, 1952, is further amended as follows:

1. Section 3 (j) is amended to eliminate number 3 pale latex crepe from the definition of "pale crepe". As so amended, section 3 (j) reads as follows:

(j) "Pale crepe" means dry natural rubber produced from the fresh coagula of natural liquid latex meeting the specifications of the Rubber Manufacturers Association for pale latex crepes, thick or thin, numbers IX, 1, or 2.

2. Section 6 is amended by increasing the percentage of GR–S which may be purchased in the form of cold rubber during the third calendar quarter. As amended section 6 reads as follows:

SEC. 6. Limitation on purchase of cold GR-S. No person may purchase for delivery during the second calendar quarter of 1952 a quantity of dry cold rubber in excess of 50 percent of all of the dry GR–S he purchases from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for delivery during that calendar quarter. No person may purchase for delivery during the third calendar quarter of 1952, or any subsequent calendar quarter, a quantity of dry cold rubber in excess of 70 percent of all of the dry GR–S he purchases from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for delivery during that calendar quarter.

3. Section 8 (a) is amended by increasing from 120 to 130 the permitted percentage of base-period usage of high-tenacity rayon. As so amended, section 8 (a) reads as follows:

SEC. 8. Limitation on high-tenacity rayon for rubber products. (a) Commencing with the second calendar quarter of 1952, no person shall, in any calendar quarter, use a greater quantity by weight of high-tenacity rayon in the manufacture of rubber products (including those products required to fill any contracts of the Department of Defense, or any division thereof, or of the Atomic Energy Commission) than 130 percent of his use of high-tenacity rayon in such manufacture during the 3 months ending June 30, 1951.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

This amendment shall take effect June 6, 1952.

CMP REG. 1—BASIC RULES OF THE CONTROLLED MATERIALS PLAN

DIR. 13—SPECIAL PREFERENCE STATUS OF CERTAIN AUTHORIZED CONTROLLED MATERIAL ORDERS

This direction under CMP Regulation No. 1 is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this direction, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the need for immediate action and because the direction affects many different industries.

1. What this direction does.
2. Status of certain ACM orders.
3. Relationship of inventory to special preference status.
4. Limitation on placement of orders.
5. Applicability of other regulations and orders.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 5 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong., 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply sec. 101, 64 Stat. 799, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2071; sec. 101, E. O. 10161; Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61; 3 CFR, 1951 Supp.; secs. 402, 405, E. O. 10281, Aug. 28, 1951, 16 F. R. 8789; 3 CFR, 1951 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this direction does. The purpose of this direction is to channel into defense programs, so far as practicable, the steel production of mills in which there are no work stoppages. This will be accomplished by temporarily according special preference status, at the mill level, to authorized controlled material orders placed in support of certain military, atomic energy, and machine tool programs. Such orders may be placed only by persons who are authorized to use designated program identifications, and whose inventory on the date of placement of the order does not exceed a 45-day supply.

SEC. 2. Status of certain ACM orders. (a) Within the limitation of the production directive which he has received from NPA, a steel controlled materials producer shall accept all authorized controlled material orders bearing a program identification listed in Schedule I of this direction, calling for delivery of an item of steel controlled material (other than castings) on or before September 15, 1952, even if such orders are tendered after the expiration of the lead time for that item specified in Schedule III to CMP Regulation No. 1. All such orders (including those previously placed which bear a program identification listed in Schedule I of this direction) shall have equal preferential status and must be accepted and filled by the producer in preference to all other orders previously or subsequently received, with the exception of orders placed pursuant to NPA directives.

(b) A steel controlled materials producer shall divert material in process to fill orders bearing a program identification listed in Schedule I of this direction, calling for delivery of steel controlled material (other than castings) on or before September 15, 1952, whenever it is possible to do so without interrupting his operations in a way which would cause a substantial loss of total production or a substantial delay in operations.

SEC. 3. Relationship of inventory to special preference status. Any person who is authorized to use a program identification listed in Schedule I of this direction may place an authorized controlled material order bearing such an identification with a steel controlled materials producer, calling for delivery of an item of steel controlled material (other than castings) on or before September 15, 1952, only if on the date of placement of such order, his inventory of that item of controlled material (as defined in CMP Regulation No. 2) is not in excess of the quantity of such item necessary to meet his deliveries, supply his services, or perform his operations, on the basis of his currently scheduled method and rate of operation during the succeeding 45 calendar day period.

SEC. 4. Limitation on placement of orders. No person who is authorized to use a program identification listed in Schedule I of this direction shall place an authorized controlled material order for steel controlled material unless the amount ordered is within the related allotment received by him, after deducting all allotments made by him and all orders for steel controlled material placed by him pursuant to the same allotment: Provided, however, That he may in addition place authorized controlled material orders for steel controlled material (other than castings), in a quantity equal to the quantity of orders previously placed by him pursuant to the same allotment with steel controlled materials producers whose operations have been interrupted by the current work stoppage.

SEC. 5. Applicability of other regulations and orders. The provisions of CMP Regulation No. 1, NPA Order M–1, including the directions and amendments thereto, and of any other NPA regulation and order heretofore issued are superseded to the extent to which they are inconsistent with the provisions of this direction, but in all other respects the provisions of such regulations and orders shall remain in full force and effect.

This direction shall take effect June 6, 1952.

NOTE: Sections 199.35 to 199.51 interpret or apply 53 Stat. 358; 26 U. S. C. 3105. Other statutory provisions interpreted or applied are cited to text in parentheses.

§ 199.35 General.—Alcohol may be withdrawn, without payment of tax, from an industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse established and operated under the provisions of Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182), for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone for exportation or for storage therein pending exportation, in accordance with the fourth proviso to section 3 of the Act of June 18, 1934, as amended.[1] Such withdrawals may be made from industrial alcohol plants or bonded warehouses in drums or barrels of any desired capacity; in tin, glass, or similar containers, completely encased in wood, fiber board, or other approved material; in metal containers of not less than 24 gauge, or of similar strength, having a capacity of not more than 10 gallons; in railroad tank cars; and in tank trucks. Alcohol may also be withdrawn from bonded warehouses in bottles or cases of any desired size. The withdrawal, transportation to and deposit in the foreign-trade zone and the accounting for any losses in transit shall be in accordance with this subpart and Subpart J. Except as otherwise provided in this subpart, the packaging, bottling, casing, marking, stamping, and reporting of alcohol prior to withdrawal shall be in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3, governing the exportation of alcohol.

§ 199.36 Application and entry. Whenever an exporter desires to remove alcohol from an industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone for exportation, he shall make application on Form 1701, in quintuplicate. Where the exporter is a person other than the proprietor of the premises from which the withdrawal is to be made, Form 1701 shall be delivered to such proprietor. Each application on Form 1701 will be given a serial number by the applicant, beginning with "1" for the first day of January of each year and running consecutively thereafter to December 31, inclusive. All of the information called for by the headings of the various columns and lines on the form and the instructions printed thereon or issued in respect thereto, and as required by this part, shall be furnished. The method of conveyance and the name of the carrier or carriers shall be shown whenever possible. If the alcohol is shipped on a through bill of lading and all the carriers handling the alcohol while in transit are not known, the name of the carrier to whom the alcohol is to be delivered at the shipping plant or warehouse must be shown. Where Form 1701 is signed by an agent, proper power of attorney on Form 1534, authorizing the agent to execute the form for the exporter, must be filed in triplicate with the district supervisor.

(53 Stat. 336; 26 U. S. C. 2885)

§ 199.37 Transportation bonds. The exporter shall file a bond with the district supervisor to cover the transportation of the alcohol from the industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse to the foreign-trade zone. If a bond is given only for a specific lot of alcohol to be withdrawn, the bond shall be executed on Form 1702, in triplicate. The penal sum of such bond shall be not less than the tax at the distilled spirits rate on the quantity of alcohol to be withdrawn: Provided, That the maximum penal sum of such bond shall not exceed $200,000. If alcohol is to be withdrawn from time to time for transfer to a foreign-trade zone, a continuing bond on Form 1703 may be executed, in triplicate: Provided, That if the exporter has on file a bond on Form 1495 or Form 1496, as the case may be, he may file a consent of surety on Form 1533 extending the terms of such bond to cover the tax on all alcohol withdrawn for transportation to and deposit in a zone. The penal sum of the bond on Form 1703 or on the bond Form 1495 or 1496, as the case may be, on which the consent has been filed, shall be sufficient to cover the tax at the distilled spirits rate on the maximum quantity of alcohol to be withdrawn and that may remain unaccounted for at any time: Provided, That the penal sum of such bonds shall not exceed $200,000 but in no case shall be less than $1,000. Bonds and consents of surety shall be executed and approved in accordance with Subpart J and the instructions printed on the form.

§ 199.38 Gauging of alcohol. The proprietor, after determining the exact quantity in each container to be transferred and deposited in the foreign-trade zone, shall prepare Form 1440, in quintuplicate. One copy of Form 1440 will be attached to each copy of Form 1701.

(53 Stat. 307; 26 U. S. C. 2808)

§ 199.39 Approval of application and issuance of permit. The proprietor of the industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse shall forward to the district supervisor all copies of Form 1701, with Form 1440 attached. If the bond Form 1702 or Form 1703, has been approved and is in a sufficient penal sum, or if a consent of surety, Form 1533, extending the terms of a bond in sufficient penal sum on Form 1495 or Form 1496 has been approved, and if the exporter has complied with the law and the regulations in this part in all respects, the district supervisor will issue permit on all copies of Form 1701 for removal and transportation of the alcohol to the zone and return Form 1701, with Form 1440 attached, to the proprietor: Provided, That if the exporter is not the proprietor, the district supervisor finds that he is entitled to a permit under section 3114, I. R. C., and the provisions of Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182).

§ 199.40 Export stamps. Every package of alcohol, including tank cars, tank trucks, and cases of bottled alcohol, intended for transfer to a foreign-trade zone must have an export stamp affixed thereto at the time of its removal from the industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse. Upon receipt of the district supervisor's permit for removal and transportation executed on Form 1701 with attached Form 1440, the proprietor will forward all copies together with remittance for the necessary number of export stamps to the collector of internal revenue. The collector will issue the export stamps, enter the kind and serial numbers of the stamps on all copies of Form 1440, retain one copy of each form and return the remaining four copies of each form with the export stamps to the proprietor. The proprietor will deliver the export stamps and Forms 1701, with the attached Forms 1440, to the storekeeper-gauger, who will verify the data on the stamps and affix his signature, or facsimile thereof, enter the serial numbers of the stamps on Forms 1701, and return the stamps to the proprietor.

§ 199.41 Marking and stamping containers. The containers will be marked and stamped in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182) for containers of alcohol withdrawn for exportation, except that the words, "For Export" will be followed by "via F. T. Z. No. ____", in lieu of the names of the ports and the export permit number.

§ 199.42 Release of alcohol. After the containers have been properly marked and stamped and, in the case of tank cars or tank trucks, sealed with Government cap seals, the storekeeper-gauger will, after the proprietor has noted the serial numbers of the cap seals, if any, on Form 1440, approve the proprietor's application on such form to withdraw the containers and will release the alcohol for shipment to the foreign-trade zone named in the application, Form 1701. Upon removal of the alcohol the storekeeper-gauger will execute the report of removal on Form 1701.

§ 199.43 Delivery to zone. Alcohol may be delivered directly to a zone by the exporter in vehicles owned or controlled by him, or to a carrier holding permit under Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182) to transport tax-free alcohol, for transportation to a zone. Where delivery is made to a carrier for transportation to a zone, the proprietor shall procure a copy of the bill of lading, if any, covering such transportation and deliver it to the storekeeper-gauger.

§ 199.44 Disposition of forms. When the alcohol has been withdrawn, the storekeeper-gauger will forward immediately one copy of the Form 1701, with Form 1440 attached, and a copy of the bill of lading, if any, to the supervisor of the district where the plant or warehouse is located, two copies of the forms to the collector of customs of the district in which the foreign-trade zone is located, and deliver the remaining copies of the forms to the proprietor for filing.

(53 Stat. 336; 26 U. S. C. 2885)

§ 199.45 Deposit in foreign-trade zone. Upon receipt at the foreign-trade zone, the containers of alcohol shall be inspected by a customs officer for evidence of loss or tampering. Packages of alcohol, including metal cans enclosed in wooden packages, must be gauged and a report of the gauge made on Form 696, in duplicate. If seals on tank cars or tank trucks are intact and bear the serial numbers shown on Form 1440 to have been affixed at the time of removal, and if there is no evidence of loss or tampering, no gauge of the tank car or tank truck need be made. However, if the seals are not intact or if the original seals (listed on Form 1440) have been replaced, the officer will open the car or truck, gauge the spirits, and make report of his gauge on Form 696, in duplicate. Containers bearing evidence of loss may be deposited in the zone, unless the circumstances indicate fraud, as distinguished from losses by leakage, minor pilferage or theft in transit, in which event the collector of customs will detain the alcohol and report the facts immediately to the supervisor of the district in which the zone is located, who will cause immediate investigation to be made and will take such action as the facts may warrant. Where alcohol is so detained, it shall be deemed not to have been deposited in the zone, and customs officers will hold in abeyance the processing of Forms 1701 and Zone Form D until the detained alcohol will have been released in accordance with § 199.51. Where the inspection or gauge discloses no loss, or where a loss is disclosed by such inspection or gauge and there is no evidence to indicate fraud, the officer shall execute his certificate of inspection on Form 1701, reporting thereon any discrepancy found, giving the serial numbers of the packages or cases or the tank car or tank truck number, as the case may be, the original contents in proof gallons, and the nature and extent of any losses or discrepancies. The officer shall cut out that portion of each of the export stamps extending from the top to the bottom and embracing the entire width between the borders thereof and attach them, together with a copy of Form 696, if any, to one copy of the form 1701. The collector of customs will execute his certificate of deposit on Form 1701 and forward one copy of the form with Forms 1440 and 696, if any, and the cut-out portions of the stamps to the district supervisor who approved the permit. The remaining copy of the Form 1701, with attachments, if any, will be retained by the collector of customs.

(53 Stat. 336; 26 U. S. C. 2885)

§ 199.46 Loss of alcohol in transit. The tax on alcohol lost by leakage, casualty, or unavoidable cause during shipment or transfer from an industrial alcohol plant or bonded warehouse to a foreign-trade zone may be remitted if satisfactory evidence establishes that such alcohol has not been diverted to any illegal use by the exporter or carrier or other person having legal custody or control thereof or with connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the exporter or carrier or such other person or the employees of any of them: Provided, That such allowance shall not be granted if the person claiming same is indemnified against such loss by a valid claim of insurance.

(53 Stat. 336, 360; 26 U. S. C. 2885, 3113)

§ 199.47 Notice to exporter. If, upon examination of Form 1701, and Form 696, if any, received from the collector of customs, the district supervisor is of the opinion that alcohol reported lost had been diverted to any illegal use, he will advise the exporter by letter (a) of the identity of the containers; (b) of the amount of the loss; (c) of the circumstances indicating diversion; and (d) that filing of proof of loss and claim for remission of tax is required.

(53 Stat. 336, 360; 26 U. S. C. 2885, 3113)

§ 199.48 Filing of claims. When the exporter has received a notice of loss from the district supervisor and that the filing of a claim is required, he shall, within 30 days from the date of the notification, submit a claim for remission of the tax on the alcohol lost. Such claim shall be made on letter-size paper, in duplicate, showing the name, address, and capacity of the claimant and setting forth, under oath, the following information:

(a) The serial numbers of the containers involved;

(b) The quantity of alcohol lost from each container and the total quantity of alcohol covered by the claim;

(c) The total amount of tax for which the claim is filed;

(d) The date, penal sum, and form number of the bond under which withdrawal and shipment were made;

(e) The name, registry number and location of the industrial alcohol plant or warehouse from which the alcohol was withdrawn;

(f) The date of the loss, if known, and the cause and nature thereof, together with all of the known facts related thereto;

(g) Whether the alleged loss occurred without any fraud or negligence on the part of the exporter, owner, carrier, or their agents or employees, and whether claim has been made or is contemplated

[1] • • • Provided further, That under the rules and regulations of the controlling Federal agencies, articles which have been taken into a zone from customs territory for the sole purpose of exportation, destruction (except destruction of distilled spirits, wines, and fermented malt liquors), or storage shall be considered to be exported for the purpose of—

(a) The draw-back, warehousing, and bonding, or any other provisions of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, and the regulations thereunder; and

(b) The statutes and bonds exacted for the payment of draw-back, refund, or exemption from liability for internal-revenue taxes and for the purposes of the internal-revenue laws generally and the regulations thereunder.

Such a transfer may also be considered an exportation for the purposes of other Federal laws insofar as Federal agencies charged with the enforcement of those laws deem it advisable. Upon completion of the claim investigation, the district supervisor will forward one copy of the claim and related papers, to the Commissioner with his recommendation as to the merits of the claim. In the event the exporter does not file proof of loss and claim for remission of tax, as provided in this subpart, the district supervisor will report the tax for assessment in accordance with the prescribed procedure. The withdrawal, transportation to and deposit in the foreign-trade zone, and the accounting for any losses, shall be in accordance with this subpart and Subpart J. Except as otherwise provided in this subpart, the packaging, marking and reporting of specially denatured alcohol prior to withdrawal, shall be in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3 governing the exportation of specially denatured alcohol.

§ 199.53 Application and entry. Whenever a denaturer or bonded dealer desires to withdraw specially denatured alcohol for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone for exportation, application will be filed on Form 1701 in accordance with the applicable provisions of § 199.36 covering the withdrawal of alcohol, except that an original and three copies will be prepared instead of an original and four copies.

§ 199.54 Consent of surety. The denaturer or bonded dealer must file a consent of surety, Form 1533, in triplicate, extending the terms of his bond, Form 1432–A or Form 1475, as the case may be, which consent shall contain the undertaking that—

The obligors agree to extend the terms of said bond to cover all liability that may be incurred by the principal on all specially denatured alcohol withdrawn by him for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone for which satisfactory evidence of deposit therein is not submitted to the district supervisor.

Consents of surety shall be executed and approved in accordance with Subpart J and the instructions printed on the form.

§ 199.55 Approval of application and issuance of permit. The denaturer or bonded dealer shall forward all copies of Form 1701 to the district supervisor. If the consent of surety, Form 1533, extending the terms of the bond, Form 1432–A or Form 1473, has been approved and the bond is in a sufficient penal sum, the district supervisor shall issue permit on Form 1701 for removal and transportation of the specially denatured alcohol to the zone, and shall return all copies of Form 1701 to the applicant.

§ 199.56 Marking of containers. The containers will be marked in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182) for containers of specially denatured alcohol withdrawn for exportation, except that the words "For Export" will be followed by "via F. (53 Stat. 307; 26 U. S. C. 2808)

[1] See footnote on p. 5228.

§ 199.57 Shipment from a denaturing plant. After the containers have been properly marked and, in the case of tank cars or tank trucks, sealed with Government cap seals, the storekeeper-gauger will, after the proprietor has noted the serial numbers of the cap seals, if any, on Form 1701, release the specially denatured alcohol for shipment to the foreign-trade zone named in the application. Upon removal of the specially denatured alcohol, the storekeeper-gauger will execute the report of removal on Form 1701.

(53 Stat. 307; 26 U. S. C. 2808)

§ 199.58 Shipment from a bonded dealer's premises. Upon removal of specially denatured alcohol, the dealer, after marking the containers thereof and sealing openings in the case of tank cars or tank trucks, shall execute the report of removal on all copies of Form 1701. Railroad or other appropriate seals, dissimilar in marking from cap seals used by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, for securing openings in tank cars or tank trucks, shall be furnished and affixed by the carrier or the dealer. The serial numbers of seals so used shall be noted on Form 1701.

(53 Stat. 307; 26 U. S. C. 2808)

§ 199.59 Delivery to zone. Specially denatured alcohol may be delivered directly to a zone by the denaturer or bonded dealer in vehicles owned or controlled by him, or to a carrier, holding permit under Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182) to transport specially denatured alcohol, for transportation to a zone. When delivery is made to a carrier for transportation to a zone, a copy of the bill of lading, if any, covering such transportation shall be procured by the shipper for attachment to the copy of Form 1701 to be transmitted to the district supervisor.

§ 199.60 Disposition of forms. When the specially denatured alcohol has been withdrawn and a copy of the bill of lading, if any, has been furnished the storekeeper-gauger at the denaturing plant, or procured by the bonded dealer, as the case may be, the storekeeper-gauger or the bonded dealer will forward immediately one copy of the Form 1701, and the bill of lading, if any, to the supervisor of the district in which the denaturing plant or bonded dealer is located, and two copies of Form 1701 to the collector of customs of the district in which the foreign-trade zone is located. The denaturer or bonded dealer, as the case may be, will retain the remaining copy of Form 1701.

§ 199.61 Deposit in foreign-trade zone. Upon receipt at the zone, the specially denatured alcohol shall be inspected by a customs officer, who will determine if it agrees in all respects with the description thereof on Form 1701. The officer will carefully examine the contents of any containers which are broken or tampered with and will report on both copies of Form 1701 any shortage and the apparent cause thereof. If the inspection discloses evidence of fraud, as distinguished from losses by leakage, minor pilferage or theft in transit, the collector of customs will detain the specially denatured alcohol and report the facts immediately to the supervisor of the district in which the zone is located, who will cause immediate investigation to be made and will take such action as the facts may warrant. Where specially denatured alcohol is so detained, it shall be deemed not to have been deposited in the zone, and customs officers will hold in abeyance the processing of Form 1701 and Zone Form D pertaining to such specially denatured alcohol, until the detained specialty denatured alcohol will have been released in accordance with the provisions of § 199.62. Where the inspection discloses no shortage, or where a shortage is disclosed but there is no evidence to indicate fraud, the customs officer will execute his certificate of inspection on Form 1701 and forward both copies thereof to the collector of customs, who will execute his certificate of deposit on Form 1701, retain one copy, and forward one copy to the district supervisor who approved the permit.

§ 199.62 Loss of specially denatured alcohol in transit. Losses of specially denatured alcohol by leakage, casualty, or unavoidable cause during shipment or transfer from a denaturing plant or premises of a bonded dealer to a foreign-trade zone may be allowed, if satisfactory evidence establishes that such specially denatured alcohol has not been diverted to any illegal use by the exporter or carrier or other person having legal custody or control thereof or with connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the exporter or carrier or such other person or the employees of any of them. The investigation of losses, notice to exporter, procedure for filing claims, action by the district supervisor, action by the Commissioner, and release of detained specially denatured alcohol shall be in accordance with the procedure prescribed in § 199.47 to 199.51, insofar as applicable, governing losses of alcohol.

§ 199.116 Notice to exporter. If, upon examination of Form 1701, and Form 696, if any, received from the collector of customs, the district supervisor is of the opinion that a reported loss resulted from theft, or unauthorized voluntary destruction, he will advise the principal on the bond by letter (a) of the identity of the containers; (b) of the amount of the loss; (c) of the circumstances indicating loss by theft or unauthorized voluntary destruction; and (d) that filing of proof of loss and claim for remission of tax is required.

§ 199.117 Filing of claims. When the exporter has received a notice of loss and a request from the district supervisor, for the filing of a claim, he shall, within 30 days from the date of notification, submit a claim for remission of the tax on the spirits lost. Such claims shall be made on letter-size paper, in duplicate, showing the name, address, and capacity of the claimant and setting forth, under oath, the following information:

(a) The name of the distiller who produced the spirits, and the registry number and location of the distillery;

(b) The serial numbers of the packages or cases from which the spirits were lost. In the case of tank cars, the car numbers will be stated;

(53 Stat. 340, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 2901)

§ 199.118 Action by district supervisor. Where large losses in transit are reported, the district supervisor will cause immediate investigation to be made. When a claim for remission of tax is received, the district supervisor will carefully examine it to see that the required information has been furnished and will cause such investigation to be made or require such additional evidence to be submitted as he may deem necessary. Upon completion of the claim investigation, the district supervisor will forward one copy of the claim and related papers, to the Commissioner with his recommendation as to the merits of the claim. In the event the exporter does not file proof of loss and claim for remission of tax as provided in this subpart, the district supervisor will report the tax for assessment in accordance with the prescribed procedure. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond in accordance with Subpart J.

(53 Stat. 340, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 2901)

§ 199.119 Action by Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that a loss of distilled spirits from a container resulted (a) from unauthorized voluntary destruction, or (b) from theft and the proprietor or other person responsible for the tax fails to establish that the theft did not occur as a result of connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the distiller, warehouseman, owner, consignor, consignee, bailee, or carrier, or the employees of any of them, the tax will be assessed.

(53 Stat. 340, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 2901)

SUBPART E—WITHDRAWAL OF WINES FOR DEPOSIT IN AND SUBSEQUENT EXPORTATION FROM A FOREIGN-TRADE ZONE

NOTE: Sections 199.150 to 199.158 interpret or apply 53 Stat. 353; 26 U. S. C. 3037. Other statutory provisions interpreted or applied are cited to text in parentheses.

§ 199.150 General. Wines may be withdrawn, free of tax, from bonded wineries and bonded storerooms established and operated under the provisions of Regulations 7 (26 CFR Part 178), for transportation to and deposit in foreign-trade zones for exportation or storage therein pending exportation, in accordance with the fourth proviso to section 3 of the Act of June 18, 1934, as amended.[1] Such withdrawals may be made in casks, barrels, kegs, tanks, tank cars, tank trucks and in bottles encased in wood, fiberboard or other suitable material. The withdrawal, transportation to and deposit in the foreign-trade zone and the accounting for any losses shall be in accordance with this subpart and Subpart J. Except as otherwise provided in this subpart, the packaging, bottling, casing, marking, and reporting of wines prior to withdrawal shall be in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 7 governing the exportation of wine.

§ 199.151 Application and entry. Whenever an exporter desires to remove wines from a bonded winery or storeroom for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone, application will be filed on Form 1701 in accordance with the requirements of § 199.36 covering withdrawal of alcohol, except that an original and three copies will be prepared instead of an original and four copies.

§ 199.152 Transportation bonds. The exporter shall file a bond with the district supervisor to cover the transportation of the wine from the bonded winery or storeroom to the foreign-trade zone. If a bond is given only for a specific lot of wine to be withdrawn, the bond shall be executed on Form 1702, in triplicate. The penal sum of such bond shall be not less than the tax on the quantity to be withdrawn, and in no case shall be less than $500. If wines are to be withdrawn from time to time for transfer to a foreign-trade zone, a continuing bond on Form 1703 shall be executed in triplicate: Provided, That if the exporter has on file a bond on Form 186, he may file a consent of surety on Form 1533 extending the terms of such bond to cover the tax on all wines withdrawn for transportation to and deposit in a zone. The penal sum of the bond on Form 1703, or of the bond on Form 186 on which the consent has been filed, shall be sufficient to cover the tax on the maximum quantity of any wines to be withdrawn and that may remain unaccounted for at any one time, and in no case shall be less than $500. Bonds and consents of surety shall be executed and approved in accordance with subpart J and the instructions printed on the form.

§ 199.153 Approval of application and issuance of permit. The proprietor of the bonded winery or storeroom shall forward to the district supervisor all copies of the Form 1701. If the bond, Form 1702 or Form 1703, has been approved and is in a sufficient penal sum, or if a consent of surety, Form 1533, extending the terms of a bond on Form 186, has been approved and such bond is in a sufficient penal sum, the district supervisor shall issue permit on Form 1701 for removal and transportation of the wines to the zone, and shall return all copies of the Form 1701 to the proprietor.

§ 199.154 Marking containers. The containers will be marked in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 7 (26 CFR Part 178) for containers of wine withdrawn for exportation, except that the words "For Export" will be followed by "via F. T. Z. No. ----".

§ 199.155 Delivery to zone. Wine may be delivered directly to a zone by the exporter or to a carrier for transportation to a zone. Where delivery is made to a carrier for transportation to a zone, the proprietor shall procure a copy of the bill of lading, if any, covering such transportation. When the wine is withdrawn from the bonded winery or storeroom, the proprietor shall execute his report of removal on Form 1701, forward the original and one copy to the collector of customs of the district in which the zone is located, one copy, to which shall be attached the copy of the bill of lading, if any, to the supervisor, and retain the remaining copy.

§ 199.156 Deposit in foreign-trade zone. Upon receipt at the zone, the wine shall be inspected by a customs officer, who will determine whether it agrees in all respects with the description thereof on Form 1701. The officer will carefully examine the contents of any containers which are found broken or tampered with and will report on both copies of Form 1701 any shortage and the apparent cause thereof. If the inspection discloses evidence of fraud, as distinguished from losses by leakage, minor pilferage or theft in transit, the collector of customs will detain the wines and report the facts immediately to the supervisor of the district in which the zone is located, who will cause immediate investigation to be made and will take such action as the facts may warrant. Where wines are so detained, they shall be deemed not to have been deposited in the zone, and customs officers will hold in abeyance the processing of Forms 1701 and Zone Form D pertaining to such wines, until the detained wines will have been released in accordance with the provisions of § 199.158. Where the inspection discloses no shortage, or where a shortage is disclosed but there is no evidence to indicate fraud, the customs officer will execute his certificate of inspection on Form 1701 and forward both copies thereof to the collector of customs, who will execute his certificate of deposit on Form 1701, retain one copy, and forward one copy to the district supervisor who approved the permit.

§ 199.157 Action by district supervisor. No provision is made in the law for remission of tax on wines lost in transit to foreign-trade zones. Where large losses in transit are reported, the district supervisor will cause immediate investigation to be made. If the investigation does not disclose evidence of fraud, the district supervisor will notify the exporter in writing of his liability under his bond for the tax upon such losses of wine and request that the tax thereon be tendered in the proper form immediately. In the case of fraud the tax on the wine diverted will be assessed, and the remainder will be subject to seizure and forfeiture under section 3116, I. R. C.

§ 199.158 Release of detained wines. When wine has been detained at a foreign-trade zone pending the district supervisor's investigation and determination of fraud in accordance with § 199.156, the collector of customs shall not release the wine for deposit until he is advised so to do by the district supervisor.

The removal, transportation to and deposit in the foreign-trade zone and the accounting for any losses in transit shall be in accordance with this subpart and Subpart J. Except as otherwise provided in this subpart, the packaging, bottling, casing, marking, and reporting of fermented liquor prior to removal shall be in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 18.

§ 199.176 Application and entry. Whenever an exporter desires to remove fermented liquor for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone, application will be filed on Form 1701 in accordance with the requirements of § 199.36 covering the withdrawal of alcohol, except that an original and three copies will be prepared instead of an original and four.

§ 199.177 Transportation bonds. The exporter shall file a bond with the district supervisor to cover the transportation of the fermented liquor from the place of manufacture or storage, as the case may be, to the foreign-trade zone. If the bond is given only for a specific lot of fermented liquor to be removed, the bond shall be executed on Form 1702, in triplicate. The penal sum of such bond shall be not less than the tax on the quantity to be removed, but shall not exceed $25,000 nor be less than $1,000. If fermented liquor is to be removed from time to time for transfer to a foreign-trade zone, a continuing bond on Form 1703 shall be executed in triplicate: Provided, That if the brewer has on file a bond on Form 263, he may file a consent of surety on Form 1533 extending the terms of such bond to cover the tax on all fermented liquor removed for transportation to and deposit in a zone. The penal sum of the bond on Form 1703, or of the bond on Form 263 on which consent has been filed, shall be sufficient to cover the tax on the maximum quantity of any fermented liquor to be withdrawn and that may remain unaccounted for at any time. Provided, That the penal sum of any such bond shall not exceed $25,000 nor be less than $1,000. Bonds and consents of surety shall be executed and approved in accordance with subpart J and the instructions printed on the form.

§ 199.178 Approval of application and issuance of permit. The brewer shall forward to the district supervisor all copies of Form 1701. If the bond, Form 1702 or 1703, has been approved and is in a sufficient penal sum, or if the consent of surety, Form 1533, extending the terms of the bond on Form 263 has been approved and such bond is in a sufficient penal sum, the district supervisor shall issue a permit on Form 1701 for removal and transportation of the fermented liquor to the zone, and shall return all copies of Form 1701 to the brewer.

§ 199.179 Marking containers. The containers will be marked in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 18 (26 CFR Part 192) for containers removed for exportation, except that the words "Fermented Liquor for Export via F. T. Z. No. ----, Lot No. ----" will be shown in lieu of "Fermented Liquor for Export, Lot No. ----".

§ 199.180 Delivery to zone. Fermented liquor may be delivered directly to a zone by the brewer or to a carrier for transportation to a zone. Where delivery is made to a carrier for transportation to a zone, the brewer shall procure a copy of the bill of lading, if any, covering such transportation. When the fermented liquor is removed, the brewer shall execute his report of removal on Form 1701, forward the original and one copy to the collector of customs of the district in which the zone is located, one copy, to which shall be attached one copy of the bill of lading, if any, to the supervisor of the district in which the brewery or place of storage is located, and retain the remaining copy.

The officer will carefully examine the contents of any containers which are broken or tampered with and will report on both copies of Form 1701 any shortage and the apparent cause thereof. If the inspection discloses the shipment not to be as described on Form 1701 and there is evidence indicative of fraud, as distinguished from losses by leakage, minor pilferage or theft in transit, the collector of customs will detain the fermented liquor and report the facts to the supervisor of the district in which the zone is located, who will cause immediate investigation to be made and will take such action as the facts may warrant. Where fermented liquor is so detained, it shall be deemed not to have been deposited in the zone, and customs officers will hold in abeyance the processing of Forms 1701 and Zone Form D pertaining to such fermented liquor until the detained liquor will have been released in accordance with the provisions of § 199.183. Where the inspection discloses no shortage, or where shortage is disclosed but there is no evidence to indicate fraud, the customs officer will execute his certificate of inspection on Form 1701 and forward both copies thereof to the collector of customs, who will execute his certificate of deposit on Form 1701, retain one copy, and forward one copy to the district supervisor who approved the permit.

§ 199.182 Losses in transit. Where large losses in transit are reported, the district supervisor will cause immediate investigation to be made. If it is found that losses in transit have occurred by casualty, leakage, or spillage, the losses will be allowed as provided in § 199.510. Unless immediate detention or seizure of the fermented liquor is deemed necessary in the event the investigation discloses evidence indicating that the losses resulted from fraud, the district supervisor will afford the exporter opportunity to submit written explanation with respect to the causes of such losses before the matter is reported to the Commissioner.

§ 199.183 Release of detained fermented liquor. When fermented liquor has been detained at a foreign-trade zone pending the district supervisor's investigation and determination of fraud in accordance with § 199.181, the collector of customs shall not release the liquor for deposit until he is advised so to do by the district supervisor.

The district supervisor or the Commissioner may require any further evidence as is deemed necessary. The operator of the foreign-trade zone shall countersign the application or otherwise indicate thereon his knowledge of and concurrence in the application to destroy the liquor. The exporter shall file the application with the collector of customs in whose district the foreign-trade zone is located; at the same time the exporter shall likewise file Zone Form E in accordance with Customs Regulations (19 CFR Part 30).

§ 199.227 Procurement of samples. Upon receipt of the application, the collector of customs will determine the correctness thereof and procure a representative sample, or samples, of the liquor for analysis to determine whether it is spoiled or unfit for beverage purposes. Each sample will consist of not less than one pint, or of not less than one quart in the case of barrels and tanks. The samples will be labeled in such a manner as will readily identify the liquor and will be forwarded at the applicant's expense to the district supervisor for the district in which the foreign-trade zone is located. The collector of customs will endorse upon the application, or append thereto, a statement that he has procured and forwarded representative samples of the liquor described in the application to the district supervisor, and shall report any facts relating to the condition of the liquor, or the cause thereof, of which he may have knowledge. The original and one copy of the application will be forwarded to the district supervisor for the district in which the foreign-trade zone is located and the collector shall retain the remaining copy for his files. The collector will retain all copies of Zone Form E pending notification by the Commissioner as to his decision with respect to the alleged spoiled or unfit liquor.

§ 199.228 Analysis of samples. The district chemist will analyze the samples of the liquor and furnish a report of such analysis to the district supervisor. The analysis will be for the purpose of determining whether the product is spoiled or otherwise unfit for beverage purposes, and the cause therefor if spoilage or unfitness is determined.

§ 199.229 Action by district supervisor. The district supervisor will carefully examine the application to see that all of the required information has been furnished and will cause such investigation to be made or require such additional evidence to be submitted as he may deem necessary. Upon the completion of his examination and investigation, if any, the district supervisor will forward the original copy of the application and accompanying papers, together with any pertinent reports and documentary evidence, to the Commissioner with his recommendation in respect to the merits of the application. The district supervisor will retain a copy of the application for his files.

§ 199.230 Action by Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that the domestic distilled spirits (including alcohol), wines, or fermented malt liquors were withdrawn for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone in good faith for the purpose of exportation or storage pending exportation, and that such liquors subsequently spoiled or became unfit for beverage use through no act, intent, fault, or negligence on the part of the exporter, carrier, or zone operator, or the agents or employees of any of them, he may approve the application and authorize the destruction of the liquor described therein under the supervision of the collector of customs. Upon his approval or disapproval of the application, the Commissioner will advise the collector of customs of his action. The Commissioner will furnish a copy of his letter to the district supervisor for the completion of his files.

§ 199.231 Action by collector of customs. Upon receipt of the Commissioner's authorization for destruction, of the liquor, or his disapproval of the application for destruction, the collector of customs will act upon the exporter's application on Zone Form E and dispose of it in accordance with the applicable provisions of Customs Regulations (19 CFR Part 30). Where the Commissioner has authorized the destruction of the liquor, such destruction shall be accomplished under the immediate supervision of an officer assigned for the purpose at the collector's convenience.

SUBPART I—REMOVAL OF STILLS OR DISTILLING APPARATUS FOR DEPOSIT IN A FOREIGN-TRADE ZONE FOR EXPORTATION, DESTRUCTION, OR STORAGE PENDING EXPORTATION

REMOVALS FREE OF TAX

§ 199.250 General. Stills and worms or condensers, to be used for purposes other than distilling as defined by § 199.251, may be withdrawn from the premises of the manufacturer or vendor, free of tax, for deposit in a foreign-trade zone for exportation, destruction, or

[1] See footnote on p. 5238

storage therein pending exportation, in accordance with the fourth proviso to section 3 of the Act of June 18, 1934, as amended.[1]

§ 199.251 "Distilling" defined. The term "distilling" used in § 199.250 shall mean the distillation of spirits or alcohol as defined by sections 2809 [2] and 3124,[3] I. R. C. Such distillation shall include: (a) The original manufacture of distilled spirits from mash, wort, or wash, or any material suitable for the production of spirits; (b) the redistillation of spirits in the course of original manufacture; (c) the redistillation of spirits, or products containing spirits within the provisions of section 3254 (g), I. R. C.;[4] (d) the distillation, redistillation, or recovery of ethyl alcohol or of completely or specially denatured alcohol, or of articles containing ethyl alcohol or completely or specially denatured alcohol; and (e) the redistillation or recovery of tax-free alcohol.

§ 199.252. Application and entry. When it is desired to remove stills, worms or condensers, free of tax, for deposit in a foreign-trade zone, for exportation, destruction, or storage therein pending exportation, the exporter will file with the collector of internal revenue an application and entry on Form 1690, in quadruplicate, properly modified to show deposit in a foreign-trade zone pending exportation. Each application, Form 1690, must be numbered serially commencing with number "1" for the first day of January of each year and running consecutively thereafter to December 31, inclusive. A statement by the person who intends to use the distilling apparatus must be filed by the exporter in support of the application when the still is to be exported or stored pending exportation. The statement must show the purchaser's name and address, the purpose for which the distilling apparatus will be used, the manufacturer's name and address and serial number of the apparatus. The serial number and the manufacturer's name and address may be entered on the statement by the exporter. If all required information has been furnished by the exporter and the collector of internal revenue finds the purpose for which the distilling apparatus will be used is other than distilling spirits or alcohol, as defined in § 199.251, or if the still is to be deposited in the zone for destruction, the collector will approve each copy of the application and entry, retain the original and return the remaining three copies to the exporter. The purchaser's statement will be retained by the collector. Upon receipt of the approved copies of the application and entry, the exporter may remove the distilling apparatus described therein for deposit in the zone. If evidence of deposit of the distilling apparatus in a zone is not received by the collector of internal revenue in due course, an appropriate inquiry will be made.

§ 199.253 Marking of stills, worms or condensers. Stills, worms or condensers intended for deposit in a foreign-trade zone pending exportation shall have branded or stamped thereon, in a conspicuous place, the words "For Export," followed by the serial number of the article and the manufacturer's name. Where such articles are manufactured from metal plates, the words "For Export," with the serial number of the article and the manufacturer's name directly thereunder, will be stamped (in letters and figures which must, in no case, be less than one-half inch in height) thereon with a suitable die, or otherwise permanently affixed to each article. Where the article is constructed of wood, the words "For Export," the serial number of the article and the manufacturer's name will be branded thereon. If the article is to be exported in a shipping container, the foregoing marks must also be shown on such container in a manner which will enable ready identification by customs officers.

§ 199.254 Delivery to and deposit in zone. The exporter, upon receipt of the approved copies of the application and entry, will execute his request for customs inspection on such form. The exporter will then deliver the still, worm or condenser either to the carrier or directly for customs inspection. Two copies of the Form 1690 will be transmitted to the collector of customs. Upon receipt at the zone, the distilling apparatus will be inspected by a customs officer, and he will, if he finds it to be otherwise than described, make a special report on the Form 1690. In the event the distilling apparatus is to be destroyed after its deposit in the zone, the exporter must file application for such destruction on Zone Form E with the collector of customs in accordance with the provisions of Customs Regulations (19 CFR Part 30). After the distilling apparatus has been inspected, and destroyed if deposited in the zone for that purpose, the customs officer will modify and sign his certificate on Form 1690 indicating receipt, and, where applicable, the destruction under his supervision, of the apparatus.

§ 199.255 Disposition of Form 1690. After executing his certificate, the customs officer will forward the forms to the collector of customs who will modify and sign his certificate, showing deposit, and where applicable the destruction, of the distilling apparatus in the foreign-trade zone, on each copy of the entry, Form 1690. The collector of customs will retain one copy for his entry record and transmit the remaining copy of the Form 1690 to the collector of internal revenue who approved the form.

REMOVALS WITH BENEFIT OF DRAWBACK

§ 199.256 General. Stills manufactured especially for export, upon which the excise (commodity) tax has been paid, may be removed with benefit of drawback from the premises of the manufacturer for deposit in a foreign-trade zone for exportation, destruction, or storage therein pending exportation, in accordance with the fourth proviso to section 3 of the Act of June 18, 1934, as amended.[1] Under the law, the allowance of drawback is restricted to the tax paid on stills manufactured for export. No drawback can be allowed on worms or condensers.

(53 Stat. 388, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 3250)

§ 199.257 Regulations made applicable. The provisions of Regulations 23 (26 CFR Part 181) relating to exportation of stills with benefit of drawback shall apply, to the extent applicable, to the removal of such stills for deposit, with benefit of drawback, in foreign-trade zones for exportation, destruction, or storage therein pending exportation. Form 1610 prescribed by Regulations 23 shall be modified to the extent necessary to indicate that the stills are to be removed for deposit in a foreign-trade zone and that they have been so deposited. In the event the distilling apparatus is to be destroyed after its deposit in the zone, the exporter must file application for such destruction on Zone Form E with the collector of customs in accordance with the provisions of Customs Regulations (19 CFR Part 30). After the distilling apparatus has been inspected, and destroyed if deposited in the zone for that purpose, the customs officer will modify and sign his certificate on Form 1610 indicating receipt, and where applicable the destruction under his supervision, of the apparatus. In lieu of showing the port of exportation and the date of clearance there shall be shown the number and location of the foreign-trade zone and the date of deposit, and where applicable the destruction, of the still.

SUBPART J—BOND AND CONSENTS OF SURETY

§ 199.300 General. Every person required by Subparts C through I of this part to file a bond or consent of surety shall prepare and execute it on the prescribed form, in triplicate. Bonds shall be given with surety or collateral security. Surety may be individual or corporate. A surety may not have any interest, either direct or indirect, in the business of the principal on the bond. District supervisors are authorized to approve or disapprove all bonds and consents of surety required by Subparts C through I of this part.

§ 199.301 Corporate surety. Bonds may be given with corporate surety authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to become surety on Federal bonds, subject to the limitations prescribed by the Secretary in Treasury Department Form 356, Commissioner of Accounts, Section of Surety Bonds, which is issued semiannually, and subject to such amendatory circulars as may be issued from time to time. A bond executed by two or more corporate sureties shall be the joint and several liability of the principal and the sureties: Provided, That each corporate surety may limit its liability in terms upon the face of the bond in a definite, specified amount, which amount shall not exceed the limitations prescribed for such corporate surety by the Secretary, as set forth in Treasury Department Form 356. When the sureties so limit their liability, the aggregate of such limited liabilities must equal the required penal sum of the bond.

§ 199.302 Powers of attorney. Powers of attorney and other evidence of appointment of agents and officers to execute bonds on behalf of corporate sureties are required to be filed with, and passed upon by, the Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits, Section of Surety Bonds, Treasury Department. Such powers and other evidence of appointment need not be filed with, or submitted to, district supervisors. Powers of attorney or other evidence of appointment of agents and officers to execute bonds on behalf of the principal, must be filed on Form 1534, in triplicate, with the district supervisor.

§ 199.303 Individual sureties. Bonds may be given with individual sureties of which there must be not less than two, each of whom must qualify by executing Form 33 (ATU), in triplicate. Individual sureties must be citizens of the United States and reside in the State in which the business of the principal is to be conducted. No person will be accepted as an individual surety in a State in which he is not authorized to become a surety.

§ 199.304 Ownership of real property. Each individual surety must own unencumbered real property, in fee simple, the appraised value of which, over and above any exemptions from execution allowed by the laws of the State, is equal to the penal sum of the bond. Such real property must be located within the State where the business of the principal is to be conducted. The real property must be described in the surety's affidavit, Form 33 (ATU), with all of the formalities required in conveyances of real estate by the laws of the State in which it is situated.

§ 199.305 Execution of Form 33. The surety's affidavit on Form 33 (ATU) shall contain all of the information required by this subpart and the instructions printed on the form. The form shall be subscribed and sworn to before an officer duly authorized to administer oaths, and one copy thereof shall be attached to each copy of the bond to which it relates.

§ 199.306 Certificate of title. There must be submitted with the surety's affidavit, Form 33 (ATU), a certificate of title, in triplicate, showing that the surety has a fee simple title free of encumbrances to the realty described in the form: Provided, That where recognized by the laws of the State in which the realty is located, there may be submitted, in lieu of a certificate of title, a document of comparable validity, such as a certified copy of a title insurance policy or a certificate of search and finding executed by an authorized attorney.

§ 199.307 Appraisal. There will also be submitted with Form 33 (ATU) an appraisal, in triplicate, by two or more competent persons, designated by the district supervisor for the purpose, showing separately the value of the land and buildings, and a full and clear statement of the method employed by them in determining their valuation. The appraisal shall be at the expense of the principal on the bond, unless it is made by Government officers.

§ 199.308 Investigation. The district supervisor must cause an investigation to be made of all the facts stated in the surety's affidavit on Form 33 (ATU) and supporting documents, and shall forward one copy of the report of such investigation to the Commissioner with the bond and accompanying Form 33.

§ 199.309 Requalification. The Commissioner or district supervisor may at any time, in his discretion, require the requalification of individual sureties on Form 33 (ATU).

§ 199.310 Deposit of collateral. Except as provided in this section, bonds or notes of the United States, or other obligations which are unconditionally guaranteed as to both interest and principal by the United States, may be pledged and deposited by principals as collateral security in lieu of individual or corporate sureties. District supervisors on receiving such bonds or notes, or other obligations, pledged and deposited by principals as collateral security in lieu of surety, shall deposit such securities as required by Department Circular No. 154, revised (31 CFR Part 225), United States Savings, Defense Savings, and War Savings Bonds issued under the authority of section 22 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, and other bonds and notes of the United States, which are nontransferable or the hypothecation of which will not be recognized by the Treasury Department, may not be pledge and deposited as security in lieu of corporate or individual sureties.

(Sec. 1126, 44 Stat. 122, as amended, sec. 7, 49 Stat. 22; 6 U. S. C. 15)

§ 199.311 Consents of surety. Consents of surety to a change in the terms of a bond must be executed on Form 1533, in as many copies as are required of the bond which they affect, by the principal and all sureties with the same formality and proof of authority to execute as are required for the execution of bonds. Form 1533 will be used by obligors on collateral bonds as well as those on surety bonds. The Form 1533 must properly identify the bond affected thereby and state specifically and precisely what is covered by the extended terms thereof. If the surety is a corporation, the consent may be executed by an agent or attorney in fact duly authorized so to do by power of attorney filed by the surety with the appropriate district supervisor, or the consent may be executed by the home office officials of such corporate surety; except that, in cases where the saving of time is an element, the consent may be executed by an agent or attorney in fact where the home office officials, by specific direction, order its execution. A copy of such specific direction should be attached to each copy of such consent.

§ 199.312 Approval required. No person intending to withdraw liquors or other articles under the provisions of Subparts C through I of this part for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone shall make any such withdrawal until all bonds required by law and Subparts C through I of this part have been approved by the district supervisor.

§ 199.313 Additional or strengthening bonds. In all cases where the penal sum of a bond on file and in effect is not sufficient, computed as prescribed by law and Subparts C through I of this part, the principal may give an additional or strengthening bond in a sufficient penal sum, provided the surety thereon is the same as on the bond already on file and in effect; otherwise a new bond covering the entire liability will be required. Such additional or strengthening bonds, being filed to increase the bond liability of the principal and the surety, shall not be construed in any sense to be substitute bonds, and the district supervisor will refuse to approve any additional or strengthening bond where any notation is made thereon which may be construed as a release of any former bond or as limiting the amount of either bond to less than its full penal sum. Additional or strengthening bonds must show the current date of execution and the effective date in the blank spaces provided therefor. Such bonds must have marked thereon, by the obligors at the time of execution, "Additional Bond," or "Strengthening Bond."

§ 199.314 New or superseding bonds. The principal on any bond filed pursuant to Subparts C through I of this part may, at any time, substitute a new bond therefor. Executors, administrators, assignees, receivers, trustees, or other persons acting in a fiduciary capacity, continuing or liquidating the business of the principal, must execute and file a new bond or obtain the consent of the surety or sureties on the existing bond or bonds. When, in the opinion of the Commissioner or district supervisor, the interests of the Government demand it or in any case where the security of the bond becomes impaired in whole or in part for any reason whatever, the principal will be required to give a new bond. A new bond shall be required immediately in case of death, removal from the State, or insolvency of an individual surety, or the insolvency of a corporate surety. Where a bond is found to be not acceptable or for any reason becomes invalid or of no effect, the principal shall be re-

DISTRICT SUPERVISOR'S ACCOUNTS WITH BONDS

§ 199.315 Alcohol and specially denatured rum. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond, Form 1702 and Form 1703. Where a consent of surety, Form 1533, is filed, specifically extending the terms of the exporter's continuing direct export bond (Form 1495), or continuing transportation for export bond (Form 1496), or the distiller's denaturing warehouse bond (Form 572), to cover withdrawals for deposit in a foreign-trade zone, the account shall be kept with such bond. Only one account covering all transactions under each bond need be kept. The principal will be charged with the internal revenue tax, or an amount equal thereto, on each lot of alcohol or specially denatured rum withdrawn under a bond for transfer to a foreign-trade zone. Alcohol or specially denatured rum so withdrawn shall remain unaccounted for until proof of deposit in a foreign-trade zone is filed with the district supervisor, or, where a loss is reported (a) until satisfactory evidence establishes that the alcohol or specially denatured rum has not been diverted to any illegal use by the exporter or carrier or other person having legal custody or control thereof, and that such loss occurred without connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the exporter or carrier or other such person, or the employees of any of them, or (b) until the tax on the loss has been paid or remitted.

§ 199.316 Specially denatured alcohol. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond covering transportation to foreign-trade zones of specially denatured alcohol in accordance with the procedure prescribed in § 199.315 for keeping accounts with bonds covering transportation of alcohol and specially denatured rum: Provided, That the principal will be charged with an amount equal to the internal revenue tax at double the distilled spirits rate of tax on each wine gallon of specially denatured alcohol withdrawn under an outstanding bond for transportation to a zone.

§ 199.317 Distilled spirits. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond, Form 1702 and Form 1703. Where a consent of surety, Form 1533, is filed, specifically extending the terms of the exporter's continuing direct export bond (Form 657), or continuing transportation for export bond (Form 658), to cover withdrawals for deposit in a foreign-trade zone, the account shall be kept with such bond. Only one account covering all transactions under each bond need be kept. The principal will be charged with the internal revenue tax on each lot of distilled spirits withdrawn under a bond for transfer to a foreign-trade zone. Spirits so withdrawn shall remain unaccounted for until proof of deposit in a foreign-trade zone is filed with the district supervisor, or, where a loss is reported (a) until satisfactory evidence establishes that the loss did not result from unauthorized voluntary destruction or, if from theft, that the theft occurred without connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the distiller, warehouseman, owner, consignor, consignee, bailee, or carrier, or the employees of any of them, or (b) until the tax on the loss has been paid or remitted.

(53 Stat. 336, 339, 344; 26 U. S. 2885, 2888, 2905)

§ 199.318 Wines. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond covering transportation of wines to foreign-trade zones. Where an approved consent of surety, Form 1533, which specifically extends the terms of the exporter's continuing export bond (Form 186) to cover withdrawals for deposit in a foreign-trade zone is on file, only one account covering all transactions under such bond need be kept. The principal will be charged with the internal revenue tax on each lot of wine removed under an outstanding bond for deposit in a foreign-trade zone and will be given credit for the tax on each lot concerning which satisfactory proof of deposit in the zone is received. In case a shortage is reported from any shipment, credit will be entered for the actual quantity deposited in the zone. Credit will not be entered for the loss until the tax has been paid thereon. Wine withdrawn for deposit in a zone will be carried as unaccounted for until the certificate of the collector of customs showing the deposit of the wine in the zone has been received, and until the tax has been paid on any wine lost in transit to the zone.

§ 199.319 Fermented liquors. The district supervisor will keep an account with each bond governing transportation of fermented liquors to foreign-trade zones. Where an approved consent of surety, Form 1533, which specifically extends the terms of the brewer's continuing export bond (Form 263) to cover withdrawals for deposit in a foreign-trade zone is on file, only one account covering all transactions under such bond need be kept. The principal will be charged with the internal revenue tax at the rate imposed on fermented malt liquors on each lot of fermented liquors removed under an outstanding bond for transportation to a zone. Credit will be given on fermented liquors for which proof of deposit in a foreign-trade zone is filed with the district supervisor and for losses of fermented liquors in transit where there is no evidence that such losses resulted from theft or pilferage or from fraud by the exporter.

TERMINATION OF TRANSPORTATION BONDS

§ 199.320 General. Bonds on Form 1702, covering a specific lot of liquors withdrawn for deposit in a zone, will be terminated by the district supervisor immediately upon receipt from the collector of customs of a certification that the liquors had been deposited in the zone to which consigned: Provided, That where there is a deficiency reported by the collector of customs, the bond will not be terminated by the district supervisor until liability for the deficiency has been cleared. Upon termination, the district supervisor will mark the bond "Cancelled" followed by the date of cancellation, and will issue a notice of release, Form 1491, as provided in § 199.324. Continuing bonds on Form 1703 will be terminated by the district supervisor as to liability for liquors consigned to a foreign-trade zone after a specified future date (a) pursuant to a notice by the surety, as provided in § 199.321, (b) following approval of a superseding bond, as provided in § 199.314, or (c) following notification by the principal of the discontinuance of the business covered by the bond. Upon termination, the district supervisor will mark the bond "Cancelled" followed by the date of cancellation, and will issue a notice of termination, Form 1490, or a notice of release, Form 1491, as provided in § 199.324.

§ 199.321 Application of surety for release from bond. A surety on any bond required by Subparts C through I of this part may at any time, in writing, notify the district supervisor in whose office the bond is on file, and the principal, that he desires to be relieved of liability under the bond at a date not less than 60 days after the date of the notification. One copy of the notice must be delivered to the principal and two copies shall be delivered to the district supervisor. If the notice is given by an agent of the surety it must be accompanied by a power of attorney authorizing the agent to give such notice, or by a verified statement that such power of attorney is on file with the Treasury Department. The surety must also file with the district supervisor an acknowledgment or other proof of service of such notice on the principal.

§ 199.322 Extent of release of surety from liability under bond. If the notice required by § 199.321 is not withdrawn thereafter in writing, the rights of the principal as supported by the said bond shall be terminated on the date named in the notice, and the surety will be relieved from liability for liquors withdrawn wholly subsequent to the date named. Liability under a bond on Form 1703 for liquors removed prior to the date named in the surety's notice will continue until such liquors are properly accounted for according to law and this part. Where the principal files a valid superseding bond, the surety on the bond superseded will be relieved from liability for liquors withdrawn wholly subsequent to the effective date of the superseding bond.

§ 199.323 Action by district supervisor. When an application by the surety for release as to future liability from a transportation bond required by Subparts C through I of this part is filed with the district supervisor, or when a superseding bond has been approved, or when the principal has discontinued business, the district supervisor will make a complete examination of records to determine whether there is any liability then due and payable outstanding against the bond. He shall also ascertain from the collector of internal revenue whether there are any outstanding unpaid assessments against the principal on liquors removed under the bond. If it is found that violations of law and regulations occurred during the period covered by the bond or that liabilities chargeable against the bond have not been paid or otherwise settled, no further action will be taken until all such liabilities have been settled. If the district supervisor finds that the bond may be properly terminated, he will issue notice of termination in accordance with the provisions of § 199.324.

§ 199.324 Notice of termination. Upon determining that a transportation bond filed pursuant to Subparts C through I of this part may be terminated, the district supervisor will execute a notice of termination, Form 1490, where a superseding bond has been approved, or a notice of release, Form 1491, where the principal has discontinued the business covered by the bond, or where the surety has made application for release from bond as provided in § 199.321. The notice of termination or the notice of release shall be prepared in quadruplicate where there is but one surety, and in quintuplicate where there are two sureties. The district supervisor will forward the original of the notice to the Commissioner, together with a copy of the surety's application, if any, furnish one copy to each obligor, and retain one copy of the notice and the surety's application, if any, on file with the bond to which it relates.

§ 199.325 Release of collateral. The release of collateral pledged and deposited to support bonds required by Subparts C through I of this part will be in accordance with the provisions of Department Circular No. 154, revised (31 CFR Part 225), subject to the conditions governing issuance of notices on Forms 1490 and 1491 of the termination of such bonds. When the district supervisor determines that there is no outstanding liability against the bond, and has satisfied himself that the interests of the Government will not be jeopardized, the security may be released and returned to the principal.

SUBPART K—INSTRUMENTS AND PAPERS

§ 199.350 Part of regulations. The terms, conditions, and instructions contained in instruments and papers required to be furnished by law or this part are hereby made a part of these regulations as fully and to the same extent as if incorporated herein.

SUBPART L—TOBACCO PRODUCTS

§ 199.375 General. The following regulations in this subpart shall govern the withdrawal of tobacco products, including chewing and smoking tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes, without payment of tax, from bonded domestic internal revenue factories and from bonded internal revenue tobacco export and sea stores warehouses for delivery to foreign-trade zones.

§ 199.376 Withdrawals of tobacco products to be covered by bond. No additional or special bonds will be required to cover withdrawals of nontaxpaid tobacco products from domestic internal revenue factories where produced, or withdrawals of such articles from internal revenue tobacco export and sea stores warehouses, for delivery to foreign-trade zones under these regulations. Liability to tax on such withdrawals shall be charged against the bonds under which the factories and tobacco export or sea stores warehouses are operated. However, a tobacco products manufacturer, or proprietor of a bonded internal revenue tobacco export or sea stores warehouse, who desires to make withdrawals of nontaxpaid tobacco products from his factory or warehouse for delivery to foreign-trade zones must furnish to the District Supervisor, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, of the district in which his factory or warehouse is located, consent of the surety on his factory or warehouse bond to cover such withdrawals.

§ 199.377 Requirements as to packing, marking or branding. Tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes may be put up in packages of any desired size or description for delivery to a foreign-trade zone. Any label, seal or closure appearing on a package of tobacco products which is shipped to a foreign-trade zone must be readily distinguishable from an internal revenue stamp.

§ 199.378 Shipping containers. Each shipping case, crate, or other package, containing nontaxpaid tobacco products, to be delivered to a foreign-trade zone under these regulations must be numbered.

§ 199.379 Application for withdrawal. For each intended withdrawal of nontaxpaid tobacco products from his factory, or withdrawal of nontaxpaid tobacco products from his bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse under these regulations, the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor shall file with the district supervisor of the district in which the factory or warehouse is located an application for withdrawal, Form 550–F, in triplicate, while for each intended withdrawal of such articles from a bonded internal revenue sea stores warehouse under the regulations in this part, the proprietor shall file with his district supervisor an application, Form 550–F, in quadruplicate. The front or face of each copy of the application, Form 550–F, shall be completely and legibly filled in and be given a serial number by the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor. All of the copies of the application shall show the same information, including the serial number. Upon receipt of the properly executed application, the district supervisor will sign each copy indicating his approval of the withdrawal of the shipment described on the application. If the shipment is to be withdrawn from a domestic factory, or from a bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse, inspection by an internal revenue officer prior to withdrawal will not be necessary or required. However, if the shipment is to be withdrawn from a bonded internal revenue sea stores warehouse, inspection by the officer in charge of the warehouse prior to withdrawal is required.

§ 199.380 Disposition of copies of Form 550–F. After the district supervisor has signed each copy of the application, Form 550–F, indicating his approval of the withdrawal of the shipment described on the form, he shall retain one copy for immediate transmittal to the Commissioner. If the shipment is to be withdrawn from a domestic factory or bonded internal revenue tobacco export warehouse, the district supervisor must return the other two approved copies of the Form 550–F to the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor concerned. If the shipment is to be withdrawn from a bonded internal revenue tobacco sea stores warehouse, the district supervisor must forward the other three approved copies of the Form 550–F to the officer in charge of the warehouse who shall permit withdrawal of the shipment described on the form. When the shipment has been removed from the factory or tobacco export warehouse, the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor shall execute the appropriate certificate on the back of both copies of the Form 550–F and forward these two copies to the customs officer in charge of the foreign-trade zone to which the shipment described on the form will be delivered. When the shipment from the tobacco sea stores warehouse has been withdrawn under the supervision of the officer in charge, that officer should execute the proper certificate on the back of each of the copies of the Form 550–F, retain one copy to be submitted with his report at the close of the month on Form 550–D to the district supervisor for the district in which the sea stores warehouse is located, and forward the other two copies of the Form 550–F to the customs officer in charge of the foreign-trade zone involved.

§ 199.381 Receipt of shipment into foreign-trade zone. When a shipment of nontaxpaid tobacco products is received at the foreign-trade zone, the customs officers at the zone shall inspect the shipment to satisfy themselves that it agrees with that described on the copies of the related Form 550–F received from the manufacturer, proprietor of the tobacco export warehouse, or officer in charge of the tobacco sea stores warehouse from which the shipment originated. The customs officers at the foreign-trade zone should not permit receipt into the zone of tobacco products other than those described on the related Form 550–F. After permitting receipt of the shipment into the zone, the officer in charge shall properly execute the certificate of receipt on the back of each of the two copies of the related Form 550–F, retain one copy for the records of his office, and transmit the other completed copy of the form to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

§ 199.382 Delay in removal; cancellation of shipment. In case the shipment of tobacco products is not removed from the factory, or internal revenue tobacco export or sea stores warehouse, within ten days after the date of approval of the related Form 550–F by the district supervisor, the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor must advise the supervisor as to the probable date of removal. If the order for the shipment has been canceled, the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor should so state request permission to cancel his application and retain the merchandise in stock in his factory or warehouse.

§ 199.383 Return of shipment to factory or warehouse. If, after removal from his factory, or internal revenue warehouse, and prior to delivery to and receipt in a foreign-trade zone, the manufactuer, or the proprietor of the internal revenue tobacco export or sea stores warehouse, desires to return a shipment of tobacco products to the premises of his factory, or into his warehouse, he must make application to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for permission so to do. The manufacturer or warehouse proprietor must identify the shipment set forth in such application, where it has been since it left his factory or warehouse, where it is held and in whose custody it is at the time of making application, and the reason for its return. Permission and appropriate instructions must be received by the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor from the Commissioner before the merchandise is returned to the premises of the factory or warehouse.

§ 199.384 Tax liability. Responsibility for the proper delivery of nontaxpaid tobacco products withdrawn from the factory, or tobacco export or sea stores warehouse, under the regulations in this part shall rest upon the manufacturer or warehouse proprietor making the withdrawal and he will be liable for the internal revenue tax on such articles shipped or delivered otherwise than in accordance with the regulations in this part, or for such articles shipped for this purpose where satisfactory evidence of delivery is not received by the Commissioner.

§ 199.385 Credit for shipment. Upon receipt by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of a copy of the application, Form 550–F, on which the officer in charge of the foreign-trade zone has executed the certificate of receipt, or other satisfactory evidence, credit will be allowed the shipper for the merchandise actually received into the foreign-trade zone as indicated by the officer in charge of the zone. In case a shortage is reported, the shipper will be required to pay the amount of tax due on the shortage.

§ 199.386 Penalties. Sections 2160 and 2173 of the Internal Revenue Code impose severe penalties for the illegal possession, use or dealing in, within the United States (including the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), of manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes upon which the tax has not been paid. These provisions of law apply to tobacco products removed without payment of tax under these regulations from a factory or internal revenue tobacco export or sea stores warehouse and, accordingly, any person possessing, using or dealing in such products otherwise than as authorized by these regulations may be subject to the penalties prescribed in such provisions of law.

SUBPART M—PLAYING CARDS

§ 199.425 General. The regulations in this subpart shall govern the withdrawal of playing cards, without payment of tax, from factories, for delivery to foreign-trade zones.

§ 199.426 Bond for withdrawals of playing cards. A manufacturer intending to withdraw playing cards, without the payment of tax, for transportation to and deposit in a foreign-trade zone shall, either before, or at the time of, filing his first application for withdrawal for delivery to foreign-trade zone on Form 550–F, furnish to the collector of internal revenue of the district in which the place of manufacture is located, an export bond, in duplicate, on Form 549, with surety satisfactory to the collector. If an export bond on Form 549 has already been furnished by the manufacturer, it will not be necessary that a new bond be filed, since liability to tax on such a withdrawal will be charged against the existing export bond, Form 549; however, in such case if a playing card manufacturer makes a withdrawal of tax-free playing cards from his factory for delivery to a foreign-trade zone he must furnish to the collector of the district in which the factory is located consent of the surety on the export bond to cover such withdrawal.

§ 199.427 Requirements as to packing, marking or branding. Playing cards must be put up in packs the same as for domestic use. Any label used to seal a package of playing cards which is shipped to a foreign-trade zone must be readily distinguishable from an internal revenue stamp.

§ 199.428 Shipping containers. Each shipping case, crate, or other package, containing nontaxpaid playing cards, to be delivered to a foreign-trade zone under the regulations in this part must be numbered.

§ 199.429 Application for withdrawal. For each intended withdrawal of nontaxpaid playing cards from his factory under the regulations in this part, the manufacturer shall file with the collector of internal revenue of the district in which the factory is located an application for withdrawal, Form 550–F, in triplicate. The front or face of each copy of the application, for 550–F, shall be completely and legibly filled in and be given a serial number by the manufacture. All of the copies of the application shall show the same information, including the serial number. Upon receipt of the properly executed application, the collector will sign his permit on each copy indicating his approval of the withdrawal of the shipment described on the application. Inspection of the shipment by an internal revenue officer prior to withdrawal from the factory will not be necessary or required.

§ 199.430 Disposition of copies of Form 550–F. After the collector has signed his permit on each copy of the application, Form 550–F, indicating his approval of the withdrawal of the shipment described on the form, he should retain one copy for transmittal to the Commissioner in accordance with the provisions of A&C Mimeograph Coll. No. 6280, dated June 29, 1948. The collector should return the other two approved copies of the Form 550–F to the manufacturer concerned. When the shipment has been removed from the factory the manufacturer shall execute the appropriate certificate on the back of each copy of the Form 550–F and forward both copies to the customs officer in charge of the foreign-trade zone to which the shipment described on the form will be delivered.

§ 199.431 Receipt of shipment into foreign-trade zone. When a shipment of playing cards is received at the foreign-trade zone, the customs officers at the zone shall inspect the shipment to satisfy themselves that it agrees with that described on the copies of the related Form 550–F received from the manufacturer. The customs officers at the foreign-trade zone should not permit receipt into the zone of playing cards other than those described on the related Form 550–F. After permitting receipt of the shipment into the zone, the officer in charge shall properly execute the certificate of receipt on the back of each of the two copies of the related Form 550–F, retain one copy for the records of his office, and transmit the other completed copy of the form to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

§ 199.432 Delay in removal; cancellation of shipment. In case a shipment is not removed from the factory within ten days after the date of approval of the related Form 550–F by the collector of internal revenue, the manufacturer must advise the collector as to the probable date of removal. If the order for the shipment has been canceled, the manufacturer must so state and request permission to cancel his application and retain the merchandise in stock in his factory.

§ 199.433 Return of shipment to factory. If, after removal from his factory, and prior to delivery to and receipt in a foreign-trade zone, the manufacturer desires to return a shipment of playing cards to the premises of his factory, he must make application to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for permission so to do. The manufacturer must identify the shipment set forth in such application, where it has been since it left his factory, where it is held and in whose custody it is at the time of making application, and the reason for its return. Permission and appropriate instructions must be received by the manufacturer from the Commissioner before the merchandise is returned to the premises of the factory.

§ 199.434 Tax liability. Responsibility for the proper delivery of nontaxpaid playing cards withdrawn from his factory under the regulations in this part shall rest upon the manufacturer making the withdrawal and he will be liable for the internal revenue tax on such articles shipped or delivered otherwise than in accordance with the regulations in this part, or for such articles shipped for this purpose where satisfactory evidence of delivery is not received by the Commissioner.

§ 199.435 Credit for shipment. Upon receipt by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of a copy of the application, Form 550–F, on which the officer in charge of the foreign-trade zone has executed the certificate of receipt, or other satisfactory evidence, credit will be allowed the shipper for the playing cards actually received into the foreign-trade zone as indicated by the officer in charge of the zone. In case a shortage is reported, the shipper will be required to pay the amount of tax due on the shortage.

§ 199.436 Penalties. Sections 1820 (b) and 3320(a) of the Internal Revenue Code impose severe penalties for dealing in, within the United States, playing cards upon which the tax properly due has not been paid, or for possessing playing cards with design to avoid payment of the tax thereon. These sections apply to playing cards removed without payment of tax under the regulations in this part, and accordingly, any person possessing, using, or dealing in, such playing cards otherwise than as authorized by these regulations may be subject to penalities prescribed therein.

3. These regulations will be effective on the 31st day after the date of their publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

MEAT INSPECTION REGULATIONS; LABELING

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003 (a)) that the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the authority vested in him by the Meat Inspection Act, as amended (21 U. S. C. 71–91) is considering amending Part 17 of the meat inspection regulations (9 CFR, Chapter I, and Subchapter A, Part 17) relating to labeling by adding to paragraph 17.8 (c) the following subparagraph:

(52) The application of curing solution to beef briskets shall not result in an increase in the weight of the finished cured product of more than 20 percent over the weight of the fresh uncured briskets. The application of curing solution to other beef cuts, such as navels, clods, middle ribs, rumps and the like, which are intended for bulk corned beef shall not result in an increase in the weight of the finished cured product of more than 10 percent over the weight of the fresh uncured meat.

The purpose of the foregoing proposed amendment is to control the composition of certain meat food products along lines which have been thoroughly investigated by the Meat Inspection Division of the Department of Agriculture and to bring into the regulations, orders and instructions that have been given to the field operating force of the Meat Inspection Division and inspected establishments during the past year.

Any person who wishes to submit written data, views or arguments concerning the proposed amendment may do so by filing them with the Chief of the Meat Inspection Division, Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within 15 days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[Docket No. AO 103-A12]

HANDLING OF MILK IN NEW ORLEANS, LA., MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGEEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER NOW IN EFFECT

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at New Orleans, Louisiana, on March 11–13, 1952, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued February 21, 1952 (17 F. R. 1625).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on May 1, 1952 filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 6, 1952 (17 F. R. 4171; F. R. Doc. 52–5071).

Within the period reserved, several interested parties filed exceptions to certain of the findings, conclusions, and actions recommended by the Assistant Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this decision, each of the exceptions received was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings, conclusions, and actions decided upon are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

The material issues of record are concerned with the following:

1. Revision of the terms "producer," "country plant," "city plant," "handler," "delivery period" and "other source milk" and the addition of definitions for "fluid milk plant" and "producer milk";

2. Incorporation of revised indexes of wholesale prices and New Orleans department store sales in the Class I pricing formula;

3. Revision of the Class I supply-demand arrangement and other Class I pricing provisions;

4. An increase of the Class III price;

5. Revision of the classification and transfer provisions;

6. A change in the method of determining monthly bases for individual producers and a change in the months included in the base forming and base operating periods;

7. Reissuance of Order 42 in accordance with regulations of the Division of Federal Register issued October 12, 1948.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the issues decided herein are hereby made upon the basis of the record of the hearing:

1. The terms "producer," "country plant," "city plant," "handler," "delivery period," and "other source milk" should be redefined and a definition of "producer milk" should be added.

At present, the designation of a dairy farmer as a producer under the order is dependent upon the receipt of such farmer's milk at a country or city plant. The definition of a country plant likewise is dependent upon receipt of milk from a producer. The difficulty caused by the interdependence of these definitions can be eliminated by redefining several terms. The wording in other order provisions also may be simplified by combining the definitions for country plant and city plant into a new definition "fluid milk plant."

Under the prevailing health ordinances, the New Orleans Health Department issues permits to milk plants located in the city of New Orleans. The approval of farms and the issuance of permits to suppliers of milk for New Orleans are handled by the state health departments of Louisiana and Mississippi. Producers and plants supplying milk for Louisiana areas outside of the city of New Orleans are issued permits by the health departments of the respective parishes in which the plants and farms are located. These health departments are local agencies of the Louisiana State Health Department. It is not possible, therefore, to readily distinguish between New Orleans marketing area milk plants and producers and other plants and dairy farmers on the basis of health department approval.

It is quite possible that under the present definitions of terms, dairy farmers who deliver milk to a milk plant located in either state would come within the scope of the current definition of a producer. If such plant transferred milk of any quantity to a plant distributing milk in the New Orleans marketing area, such plant would now be classified as a country plant and the operator of that plant would be a handler subject to the order. It is intended, however, that the order apply to milk supplied by dairy farmers and to operators of milk plants primarily engaged in serving the New Orleans marketing area. The order should not apply to so-called emergency shipments nor to reserve milk which might be transferred from a nearby market to a regulated handler during the flush production season. In order to preclude such possibilities, a basis is needed to distinguish between plants and producers who are considered as regular sources of supply for the marketing area and those who are not regularly associated with this area. This may be accomplished by defining a fluid milk plant as a milk plant (1) where milk is processed and packaged and from which Class I milk is disposed of on retail or wholesale outlets in the marketing area, or (2) from which milk or cream is transferred to a plant described in (1); and providing for the exclusion from this definition, plants transferring Class I–A, Class II or Class III milk only, or plants which may furnish emergency supplies during the short production season or infrequent shipments during other seasons. This may be accomplished by specifically excluding these plants which furnish milk for less than 20 days during each of the months of September through December or less than 5 days during other months. These qualifications have been changed on the basis of exceptions filed to the recommended decision. These qualifications are more appropriate than those set forth in the recommended decision for meeting the previously mentioned problem of distinguishing between regular and emergency or nonregular suppliers of milk under the individual handler pooling arrangement for the New Orleans marketing area. Fluid milk plant status will be determined on the basis of performance during the current delivery period rather than during the immediately preceding period of September through November. Milk received from dairy farmers delivering to plants qualifying as fluid milk plants in any given delivery period, therefore, will be subject to the minimum pricing provisions of the order in such month. The definition decided upon also will tend to preclude the possibility of certain handlers gaining a short run price advantage in procuring milk for Class I uses. Under the previously proposed definitions, this might have been achieved during the flush production season by dropping regular producers and procuring seasonal reserve milk from plants not previously qualified as fluid milk plants. The dropping of producers and procurement of other source milk would nullify the ends sought through the pricing and pooling provisions of the order. Such a loss of regular producers would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in this area. The revised definition, however, provides for importation of milk from outside sources to meet specified seasonal and emergency shortages without bringing the suppliers of such milk under the order. The intent of the present definition and the status of existing plants will remain unchanged.

A producer may then be defined as a person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk for consumption as milk in the marketing area and which is received at a fluid milk plant. The testimony showed that milk received by a handler from a producer-handler should not be subject to the pricing and payment provisions of the order. As discussed below, transfers of milk from producer-handlers to handlers under the order will be considered as other-source milk. At the time the current definition of a producer was formulated, producer-handlers supplied a substantial amount of milk to the market but the number has declined from more than 400 to less than 10 at the present time.

The term "handler" should be defined to mean any person operating a fluid milk plant. In case a handler operates other milk plants, this definition is not intended to include such person in his capacity as an operator of such nonfluid milk plants.

The term "delivery period" should be defined as a calendar month, or the portion thereof during which the marketing order is in effect. The term is thus defined for facility in developing the other provisions of the order and in the event the order is suspended, it clarifies the fact that the various order provisions would be applicable only to that portion of the month during which the order was effective.

The term "other source milk" should be defined to include all skim milk and butterfat received in any form from a source other than producers or other handlers, except any non-fluid product received and disposed of in the same form. Milk produced by producer-handlers is not available for regular purchases by handlers, particularly during the short production season. Producer-handlers normally distribute nearly all of their production in the form of Class I products during most of the year. During the flush months, they may dispose of seasonal reserve milk to handlers in the market but such milk is not needed in addition to regular producer receipts at this time of year. This milk should not be pooled and thereby credited with Class I utilization normally supplied by regular producers. The pooling of this reserve milk would result in producer-handlers realizing higher average returns for milk than regular producers. It is concluded, therefore, that such receipts from producer-handlers should be handled as other source milk and thus allocated to the lowest priced available utilization in the receiving handler's plant. Nonfluid milk products received and disposed of in the same form such as butter and other packaged manufactured products should be excluded as other source milk. Reporting by handlers of such products as other source milk is not necessary to carry out the classification, allocation and pricing functions of the order.

The term "producer milk" should be defined to mean any skim milk or butterfat contained in milk received directly from producers by a handler or from other handlers. Transfers of milk between handlers will be considered as producer milk in applying the transfer and allocation provisions of the order thus providing for the allocation of milk received from producers to the highest priced class utilization available in both handlers' plants. The use of this term will facilitate the construction of order language in various other provisions.

2. The Class I pricing provisions should be amended to incorporate revised indexes of wholesale prices and New Orleans department store sales.

Under the present order, the Class I price is determined from a base price by applying a composite index (1925–29 = 100) consisting of the index of wholesale prices in the United States, the index of department store sales in New Orleans, and an index of local feed-labor prices. In accordance with a general governmental policy, the indexes of wholesale prices and department store sales recently have been revised and are now published on a post-war base with 1947–49 equaling 100. It is therefore necessary to change the Class I pricing formula to incorporate these revised indexes.

The testimony indicates that the relative influence of the indexes comprising the component index, may be improved and a desired degree of stability may be achieved by applying a more recent base in computing the composite index rather than the 1925–29 base now used. For these reasons and also to permit the direct use of the two revised indexes as published without adjustment, it is concluded that the 1947–49 base period should be adopted for the composite index. The factors used in converting wage rates and feed prices to an index must be changed to reflect their respective 1947–49 averages as follows: Prices paid by Louisiana farmers for mixed feed, $4.34 per hundredweight; daily farm wages without room or board—Louisiana, $3.18 and Mississippi, $3.21. The testimony supports the incorporation of the new indexes so as to provide approximately the same relative level of Class I prices as have resulted from the present formula, during 1951 and the early months of 1952 for which prices were available at the time of the hearing. During this 15-month period, the average price resulting from the present Class I formula was $6.32 per hundredweight. The revised composite index for this same period averaged 110.8. Thus, in order for the revised formula to yield an average price of $6.32 during this period, a base price of $5.70 must be used in place of the present formula base price of $2.59. It is concluded, therefore, that a base price of $5.70 should be incorporated in the revised Class I pricing formula.

3. The supply-demand provisions of the Class I pricing arrangement should be changed.

The supply-demand adjustment is a device which accomplishes adjustments in the Class I price when supplies of milk get out of line with sales. With this type of adjustment prices are automatically raised when the indicated level of supplies are short, relative to sales, and are lowered when supplies are excessive. The Class I price along with other provisions of the order is intended to assure the market of an adequate supply of milk. The economic type formula has been adopted to assist in achieving this goal by keeping milk prices adjusted to general economic conditions. A supply-demand adjustment adds a further self-adjusting element in the pricing formula to reflect local and other influences on production and sales that may not be fully expressed by the economic formula.

At the time this formula was adopted in 1949, a supply-demand provision was incorporated in the order. That provision calls for an increase in the Class I price of 22 cents per hundredweight if the total volume of producer milk received by handlers during the preceding 5-month period of October through February is less than 110 percent of Class I sales; conversely, the Class I price is decreased by the same amount if producer receipts exceed 115 percent of total Class I sales. This type of a supply-demand arrangement for adjusting prices during the following 12 months has not been satisfactory for the New Orleans market. Suspension action was necessary, effective March 1, 1951. This experience indicates that there is a need to change the supply-demand arrangement to provide a method for adjustment of prices as soon as possible after an oversupply or shortage of milk is indicated. This may be accomplished, as proposed by producers, by adjustments in the Class I price each month. To apply a monthly adjustment in price, in view of the seasonal variation in receipts of milk from producers and in Class I sales, it is necessary to establish a representative or desired monthly relationship of receipts and sales to which the current relationship may be compared. An analysis of changes in receipts and sales shows that the relationship prevailing during the two most recent months for which data are available to the market administrator preceding the announcement of the Class I price, offers the most reliable basis for predicting conditions and making the necessary adjustment in such price.

A consideration of the market data for the past several years, indicates that the average relationship of receipts to Class I utilization during the two-year period, October 1949 through September 1951, will provide the most reasonable benchmark for developing a seasonal supply-demand index. During this period, producer receipts in relation to Class I utilization were lowest for the two months October and November and averaged 109 percent (Table 1). During the "short" production months of this 1949–1951 period, between one and two percent of the total Class I utilization in the market was derived from other source milk. In order to compensate for this imported milk and allow for some further improvement in the seasonal pattern of production, it is concluded that the supply-demand index derived from data for the months of September, October, and November should be increased 2 points and the index derived from data for the months of March, April, and May should be decreased 2 points. Although the effect of this adjustment is incidental to the principal objective, a minute degree of seasonal variation in the Class I price may result. Substantial changes in the seasonal pattern of production or in Class I sales over a period of time, of course, may necessitate a revision of the representative seasonal index. A change of approximately 2 cents per point deviation between the current index and the representative index offers a reasonable basis for adjusting the Class I price.

Period used for determination	Actual average relationship (1950–51)	Adjusted "supply-demand" or representative index	Month applicable

An adjustment based on the supply-utilization ratio for as short a period as 2 months may reflect minor random changes in this ratio which are not indicative of actual trends. It is necessary, therefore, to provide for some method of stabilizing this adjustment and of limiting it as to total magnitude. This has been accomplished by grouping the percentage deviations and setting limits on the amount of the adjustment (see § 942.50 (e) (1) (iii) of the order set forth below). The percentage groups are in such intervals that no adjustment occurs until the current ratio is 3 or 4 percentage points above or below the representative index. The next percentage group applies to deviations of 6 or 7 percentage points. In case a deviation falls between groups, the adjustment amount is determined by the adjacent group which is the same as or nearest to the percentage group used in the previous month. For example, a deviation of 5 percentage points would require the use of the group which includes 3 or 4 percent if the adjustment during the previous month had been determined by that group or a lower one. On the other hand, a 5 point difference would provide for an adjustment based on the 6 or 7 percent group if the adjustment during the previous month had been determined by the latter or a higher group. In the first month in which the amending order providing this adjustment is effective, if the applicable deviation percentage falls between groups, the adjustment amount shall be determined by the group nearest to a deviation percentage calculated without rounding to the nearest whole number.

The application of 1950 and 1951 data in this proposed supply-demand arrangement and the revised Class I price formula proposed above, results in an average Class I price for 1950 of $5.79 as compared with $5.87 under the present order. In 1951 the Class I price would have been $6.29 as compared with $6.21 actually received by producers. Because receipts of milk from producers decreased relative to Class I sales during the latter part of 1951 and the first few months of 1952, the Class I price for the first 3 months of 1952 would have been increased an average of 17 cents per hundredweight. Handlers paid premiums averaging approximately 6 cents per hundredweight during this period and thus, the actual difference is 11 cents per hundredweight. As long as receipts of producer milk in relation to Class I utilization are less than the corresponding indexes proposed herein, the Class I price differential should be increased in order to assure this market of an adequate supply of milk. A corresponding reduction in the Class I price will result if receipts of milk from producers in relation to Class I utilization exceeds the representative schedule figure. Under such circumstances, this supply-demand adjustment coupled with the formula method of establishing Class I prices will assure Class I prices which will reflect, in a large measure, local supply and demand conditions.

Other provisions of the Class I pricing section discussed at the hearing relate to: the determination of equivalent prices or index numbers, the basis for determining the mileage (zone price adjustments) applicable to Class I milk received at plants located outside the marketing area, and the bracketing of Class I price changes.

In case a price or prices for milk or any milk products specified by the present pricing provisions of the order are not reported or published in the manner described therein, the Secretary is required to determine a price, equivalent or comparable to the price specified. In view of the fact that prices of other commodities and index numbers are now used in the Class I price formula, § 942.5 (e) should be broadened to include such other prices and indexes.

Handlers proposed that the language of the order be modified to specifically state that the market administrator use the "practical" highway mileage in determining the zone location of country plants. This proposal was supported on the basis that one of the leading highways now used is a military highway which might be closed to commercial traffic in case of an emergency. Under the present order, the zone is determined by the market administrator on the basis of rail or "highway mileage distance." The present language would not preclude the application of the distance based on the shortest highway distance available to commercial traffic. There is no need for a revision of the present language.

Handlers operating more than one country plant raised some objection to the application of the Class I location adjustment first to milk received nearest to the marketing area. Handlers argue that this does not always conform to practical operations and that the quantity of milk to which location adjustments are applicable should be prorated among all country plants operated by the handler. The present provision should not be changed because it conforms to good marketing practice and tends to encourage the most economical use of marketing facilities and development of the milkshed in that, it encourages the use of nearby milk for fluid purposes and the milk located at greater distances for manufacture.

It was also requested that the pricing provisions provide Class I price changes in intervals of 20 to 22 cents per hundredweight. Under the proposed formula, the Class I price will change in intervals of 5.7 cents for each point change in the composite index and the supply-demand arrangement provides for adjustments in 6 or 7 cent intervals. Handlers favored a 22 cent bracket system in order to provide Class I price changes equivalent to one-half cent per quart. They argued that this would facilitate retail price changes and conform with the general price ceiling regulations which permit minimum ceiling price changes of one-half cent per quart. The testimony indicates that over a period of time, there will be little, if any, difference in the returns to producers (or handlers' costs of Class I milk) under the present or the bracket system of pricing. Experience has shown a 22 cent supply-demand arrangement to be unsatisfactory in this market because of its application in bracketed amounts of this size and consequence. It is concluded that it would be generally unsatisfactory to refrain from applying appropriate adjustments in the Class I price until the adjustment had reached the 22 cent level.

4. The Class III milk pricing formula should not be changed.

Producers proposed that the Class III price (applicable to milk for manufacturing uses, except cheese other than cheddar and ice cream) be increased approximately 25 cents per hundredweight by changing the formula for determining the butterfat value. The price for skim milk utilized in Class III milk would not be changed. The present method for determining the hundredweight butterfat price for Class III usage is to multiply by 100 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market during the delivery period. Under producers' proposal, 7 cents would be deducted from such butter price and the result multiplied by 120.

In support of their proposal, producers showed that the Class III price for 4 percent milk during the past several years has been less than the average price paid by certain Mississippi milk manufacturing plants. They contended that Class III prices should be increased more nearly in accordance with the prices paid by these plants.

It is generally recognized that reserve milk from a fluid market used in manufactured products should return to producers at least the competitive price for manufacturing milk in the area. This basis of pricing is difficult to apply in the New Orleans market because of the small amount of milk produced for manufacturing purposes in or near the milkshed. There are exceptionally limited manufacturing facilities located in the marketing area for processing reserve milk. There is but one milk manufacturing plant located in the entire milkshed. This plant, partially owned by a handler, has facilities for the conversion of limited quantities of whole milk to cream chiefly for use in ice cream (Class II milk), and nonfat dry milk solids. Since butterfat used for ice cream is classified and priced in Class II milk, the proposal would not affect the returns to producers for reserve milk utilized at this plant.

The next closest manufacturing outlet for reserve milk is located in Mississippi, approximately 150 miles from New Orleans and 35 miles outside the periphery of the supply area. This plant, a subsidiary of a handler, utilizes transferred producer milk primarily in butter-powder operations. Facilities also are available for the production of condensed milk and ice cream mix.

The two aforementioned plants do not have sufficient facilities to handle all of the seasonal reserve milk from the New Orleans market. Aside from very limited manufacturing facilities at Baton Rouge, the only other outlet for reserve milk is 180 miles beyond the northern limit of the milkshed and 300 miles from New Orleans. This plant engages in the production of evaporated milk. A substantial portion of the seasonal reserve from the New Orleans market has been transferred to this outlet. Because of the distance involved, reserve milk cannot be diverted directly from the farm to this manufacturing outlet. Such milk must be received at handlers' plants, refrigerated and accumulated in sufficient quantities to warrant tank truck deliveries.

It is generally accepted that competition in the open market has established lower paying prices for milk used in butter-powder operations than for milk used in the production of evaporated milk. Inasmuch as the former type operation is the only nearby manufacturing outlet available, and because of the long distance involved in transferring milk to Mississippi evaporating plants, it appears that a Class III price of somewhat less than prices paid by these plants is appropriate for this market. The prices resulting from the present Class III formula in conjunction with the individual-handler pooling arrangement have not encouraged handlers to expand Class III manufacturing operations.

For these reasons, it is concluded that no change should be made in the Class III pricing formula at this time.

5. The classification provisions of the order should be revised.

Producers proposed that the definition of Class I milk be revised to include concentrated milk and yogurt. Concentrated milk is fluid milk from which a portion of the water is removed by the means of heat in the presence of a vacuum. It may be distributed in either liquid or frozen form. To date, concentrated milk has not been sold in the New Orleans market; however, it is now being distributed in a number of fluid milk markets throughout the country. Yogurt and concentrated milk for disposition in the marketing area are required by the applicable health ordinances to be made from Grade A milk. They are disposed of in fluid form to the same retail and wholesale outlets as bottled fluid milk and other products now classified as Class I milk. Although the present class definitions have been construed to include these products as Class I milk, it appears desirable to clarify these definitions. The order language would be improved by specifically listing these products along with fluid milk and other fluid milk products in the Class I definition. Under the present classification scheme, Class I milk is defined as all skim milk and butterfat, the utilization of which is not established as Class II milk and Class III milk. Class II milk includes skim milk and butterfat used in ice cream and cheese, other than cheddar. Class III milk is defined as all skim milk and butterfat disposed of other than in certain specific products including those listed in Class II milk. These definitions would be clarified by direct and more specific definitions for each class. Class I milk should be defined, therefore, to include all skim milk and butterfat (a) disposed of as milk, skim milk, cream, or any mixture (except ice cream and frozen mixes) of milk or skim milk and cream, buttermilk, yogurt, flavored milk drinks (including eggnog), (b) used to produce concentrated milk, and (c) not specifically accounted for as Class I-A, Class II and Class III milk. Conforming changes should be made in the Class III definition.

A handler proposed that skim milk and butterfat disposed of as sterilized milk for export be classified as Class II milk. Sterilized milk is fluid milk that is hermetically sealed in cans and sterilized. It differs from evaporated, condensed, and other canned milk products in that it is not concentrated. This product is relatively stable and may be stored for a considerable period of time without refrigeration. It may be manufactured, therefore, during the flush production season from market reserves and stored for delivery during the short production season. At the present time, this product is being produced on an experimental basis in conjunction with a handler's regular fluid milk operations. In the immediate future, this handler expects to dispose of sterilized milk solely in export channels for military and foreign consumption. The testimony indicates that he desires to use local producer milk at times when reserve milk is available in the market. At the present time, ungraded milk may be used to produce sterilized milk for military and other export outlets.

Under the present order, skim milk and butterfat used for sterilized milk is classified and priced as Class I milk. The proponent testified that, in order to use producer milk for this product and be able to compete in the export market, such milk must be priced lower than the Class I price. No specific pricing plan was proposed at the hearing but the handler testified that milk used in this product should return to local producers something more than the Class II price. The testimony indicated that the price should bear an appropriate relationship to the competitive price for good quality manufacturing milk. According to the record, this would be the manufacturing price in the more dense midwestern manufacturing milk production area plus transportation to New Orleans.

In view of the fact that sterilized milk may be made from ungraded milk and it may offer an outlet for some seasonal reserve milk from the New Orleans market, it appears appropriate to price milk used for this purpose, during the months when seasonal reserves are available, below the Class I price but somewhat higher than the Class II price. The utilization of such reserve milk at prices slightly higher than the Class II price would increase the return to local producers for milk.

The so-called 18 condensery price is considered as representative of the previously mentioned midwestern manufacturing prices for 3.5 percent butterfat content milk. Proponents indicated that a 3.5 percent sterilized milk would be produced. Using the prices prevailing during the months of March through August 1950 and 1951, and adding a transportation allowance from midwestern areas to New Orleans of $1.25 per hundredweight, the resulting average price was approximately 80 percent of the Class I price under Order 42 for 3.5 percent milk.

As shown above, the proposal submitted for hearing and the testimony of proponents was concerned primarily with the pricing of milk used for sterilized milk during the flush production season and for disposition in export channels. It was concluded in the recommended decision, therefore, that a special pricing arrangement applicable only during the flush production season and to milk intended for export would meet the immediate future needs of the market. Proponents in their brief had argued for a special price applicable to all milk used for sterilized milk for export regardless of the season of the year produced.

Further consideration of this classification and pricing problem indicates that it would be more logical to apply the same pricing scheme to such milk used for either domestic or export disposition. It is concluded that a new class, Class I-A milk, should be established for sterilized milk. Milk used in this product, therefore, would not enter into the calculation of the Class I supply-demand index. Skim milk and butterfat used in sterilized milk during the months of March through August should be priced at 80 percent of the Class I prices as provided in § 942.50 of the order for the 60-71 mile zone. These are the months when reserves of milk in the market are more than adequate to meet variations in Class I milk requirements. Producer milk utilized in sterilized milk in other months of the year should be priced at the regular Class I price. The record shows no reason why local Grade A producer milk should be utlized for sterilized milk during the same period of the year that the market is relatively short of milk in relation to its fluid requirements and particularly at prices lower than are now needed to attract a sufficient supply to meet these requirements.

A proposal was made to amend the transfer provisions of the order to provide for the classification of fluid cream transferred during September through February to a person, other than a handler who distributes fluid milk or cream, in the same manner that transfers of both fluid milk and cream are now classified during March through August. Under this proposal, any skim milk or butterfat in cream transferred to a nonhandler at any time would be allocated to the highest price classification remaining in such non-handler's plant after first subtracting receipts of milk directly from dairy farmers at such plant from the highest price classification available. Under the present order, such transfers of milk or cream during October through February are classified as Class I milk. The order also provides for the classification of milk transferred to unregulated plants, not engaged in fluid distribution, according to the class in which the market administrator determines it was used. Obviously, the market administrator must apply some method of allocation to carry out this provision. The order should specifically set forth the method to be followed. The entire transfer section of the order should be redrafted to provide a uniform method of classifying all milk transferred to nonfluid milk plants and to simplify and eliminate obsolete order language.

Under the classification provisions, if a handler receives milk from outside sources, local producer milk is allocated to the highest price class available in such handler's plants. In case New Orleans producer milk is transferred to a nonregulated plant, it is reasonable that credit for Class I and Class II utilization in such plant likewise should be allocated first to local dairy farmers customarily supplying such plant. Milk transferred from the New Orleans market would then take any remaining Class I and Class II utilization. This method of classification is appropriate for both transfers of milk to non-regulated plants engaged in fluid disposition and to those not so engaged. If the transferee plant has no Class I or Class II utilization and the requirements for reports, records and verification are complied with, such transfers would then be classified as Class III milk. The recommended change not only eliminates the necessity for different methods of classification during certain months or a separate provision, as proposed, applicable to cream only, but it also greatly simplifies the transfer provisions. The provisions of the current order should be retained which provide that such transfers of milk shall be Class I milk unless the transferee plant maintains and makes available for verification, if requested, books and records showing the utilization of receipts at such plant.

Handlers also suggested that the allocation provisions be modified to provide for the proration of other source milk during specified "short-season" periods instead of allocating such milk first to the lowest priced available utilization. The testimony fails to show that the present method of allocation is unreasonable in providing a necessary safeguard to the classification plan. The proration of other source milk would tend to reduce returns to producers under supply conditions that would indicate a need for increased rather than decreased returns. No change should be made in the allocation provisions. Other provisions of the classification section have been rewritten to incorporate revised terms and eliminate unnecessary and obsolete language. No change is intended in the context of those provisions not otherwise discussed herein.

6. The base and excess plan should be changed by substituting March for September in the base operating period.

Producers proposed that the present base plan be amended to provide for the adjustment of all bases to equal Class I sales during the period producers are paid base and excess prices. Another proposal by handlers would substitute September for March in the period for establishing bases and March for September in the period the base and excess method of producer payments is applied.

Under the present plan (and under producers' proposal), the base for each producer is equal to his average daily deliveries of milk during the base forming period (October through March). The monthly base applied for each producer during the base operating period (April through September) is equal to his average daily base multiplied by the number of days he delivers milk in each month. For deliveries of milk up to his monthly base quantity, the producer receives a base blend price and for deliveries over base, the excess price. When Class I sales are less than base milk deliveries, the excess price is the Class III price. The base blend price for each handler is his total obligations to producers less the total value of excess milk divided by his total receipts of base milk. Because base milk delivered monthly by all producers usually exceeds total Class I utilization, the total value of base milk includes the value derived from some milk utilized and priced in a lower classification. Handlers' base blend prices, therefore, are less than the Class I price.

Under producers' proposal, the base established by each producer would be adjusted (reduced) in each month of the base operating period by applying the percentage that the Class I utilization of the handler, receiving the producers' milk, is of his total receipts of base milk. In case Class I utilization were equal to or greater than receipts of base milk, no adjustment would be made. The proposed plan would result in a base price equal to the Class I price (paid by handlers for Class I utilization) and an excess price equal to the Class III price. The application of adjusted bases would not change the total value of milk delivered to a particular handler or the amount due all producers; however, it would change the total amount of money paid out by a handler to individual producers in any given month as well as the relative returns received by different producers.

It would not be administratively feasible to determine adjusted bases and announce base and excess prices which will provide an exact balance between each handler's obligations and the total of payments due individual producers in the current month. This is because some producers may deliver less than their adjusted base quantity and because a quantity of milk in excess of total adjusted bases is utilized and priced to handlers in Class II milk, while the Class III price would be used for determining the amount paid producers for such excess for the current delivery period. Producers proposed that this problem be met by carrying over such difference to the next month and including such sum in the handlers' obligation on a "base-equivalent" basis.

Those producers delivering no more than their adjusted base quantity would receive a higher average price for milk than under the present plan. Under 1951 conditions, approximately one-fourth of the producers would have realized increased gross money returns and three-fourths of the producers lower returns. During April through September 1951, the base blend price averaged 28 cents per hundredweight less than the Class I price.

Although proponents claimed that producers prefer to know the base price in advance of delivery, their proposal appears to give producers in general no greater certainty of a given income in advance of delivery than the present plan. The plan would provide a known base price in advance of each delivery period but the producers' base quantity would not be known until after the end of the delivery period. Adjusted bases would vary in accordance with changes in the handler's Class I utilization and the amount of the "carry-over." Some producers may object to handlers holding over money due them from one month to the next. The proposed change also would complicate the base plan. In addition to the monthly "carry-over" for each handler and the necessity of computing its "base-equivalent," individual producer adjusted bases would have to be calculated each month. These difficulties argue against the plan from the standpoint of administrative feasibility.

One objection to the present plan was made on the grounds that a base blend price is confusing to producers, particularly in view of the fact that in several other Louisiana markets, the base price is equal to the Class I price. A base blend price is no different in principle than the blend price applied in paying producers during other months of the year. Furthermore, the class prices are provided in the order primarily to determine the amount of each handler's obligation to his producers on the basis of the class utilization of his milk. The base plan, on the other hand, is a method of distributing among individual producers the total obligations of the handler. Under the proposed plan and under the present plan, the excess price as well as the base price, enters into the determination of the amount of money payable to most producers during the base operating period.

The principal argument against the present plan was that producers who deliver less or no more than their "adjusted" bases (considered by proponents as the individual producers' share of the Class I sales) receive a blend base price which is lower than the Class I price. The base blend price reflects the lower utilization value of an amount of reserve milk equal to the difference between total delivered base milk and total Class I utilization of the handler. The testimony indicates that a monthly operating reserve of 10 to 15 percent of Class I sales is necessary to compensate for daily and weekly fluctuations in receipts and sales. The maintenance of this reserve is a desirable phenomenon and, in fact, its maintenance is one of the chief reasons for instituting a Federal order to stabilize marketing and price conditions. All producers should contribute to the maintenance of this reserve. The proposed plan, however, would tend to work against the maintenance of a necessary reserve. Under the proposed plan those producers who deliver only enough milk to cover Class I requirements during the period when bases apply (and who therefore do not contribute to the necessary reserve) would receive the highest prices. Those producers who produce enough milk for Class I use plus an amount for the necessary reserve would be penalized under the plan. At the present time, during the period of flush production, there appears to be no immediate danger that the necessary reserve would be eliminated by the application of the plan. The tendency, however, would be in that direction because those producers who produce during the period when bases apply in a manner consistent with the needs of the market would be penalized while those producers who are not so producing would be placed at an advantage. Actually the plan appears to be based on a misunderstanding of the ends to be gained by the base plan. The purpose of the base plan is not primarily one of allocating Class I sales among producers; rather, the purpose is to allocate the proceeds from the sale of milk among all producers in such a way as to obtain a reasonably even production of milk throughout the year.

The proposed change, as contended by producers, undoubtedly would offer greater incentive for lower receipts of milk during the summer months. In fact, the plan offers the greatest possible gross returns to those producers who establish a production pattern inverse to the present seasonal pattern of the market. It is quite possible, however, that many producers, who produce relatively more milk in the summer months but who contribute to the market supply during the fall months when additional milk is needed, may be forced to discontinue production as a result of decreased returns or of increased costs involved in achieving a more uniform or even an inverse pattern of production. Thus, a more stringent application of the base plan as proposed could very well result in a loss of producers and a serious shortage of milk under the same relative Class I price level as now prevails or the consequent necessity for a higher Class I price level than under the present plan. Even though all of these basic considerations cannot be fully appraised by the record evidence, they nevertheless raise further doubts as to justification of the proposed plan.

The testimony indicates that the chief difficulty with the present plan, as far as proponent producers are concerned, results from the fact that the total base quantity established by producers is higher in relation to Class I sales than they believe it should be. This may result in part from a high general level of production in relation to Class I sales during the base forming period (an indication that Class I prices may be higher than necessary) or the failure to apply the most appropriate base forming period. For the period of October 1951 through February 1952, receipts of milk from producers were 103 percent of Class I utilization and in November only 99 percent. These relationships indicate that the market has not been over supplied with producer milk. The corresponding relationship during this five month period of 1950–51 was 115 percent. This indicates that producers may find the present plan more satisfactory during the present base operating season than a year ago. March data are not included in these comparisons (March 1952 data were not available at the time of the hearing). In March 1951, producer receipts were 139 percent of the Class I utilization, an increase of 16 percentage points over the February relationship and 24 points greater than the average for the previous five months (October through February). In view of this substantial increase in this relationship from February to March, a closer relationship of Class I utilization and established bases would obtain by omitting March as a base forming month.

A handler proposed that March be excluded from the base forming period and included in the base operating period and September be excluded as a base operating month and included as a base forming month. Producers objected to the inclusion of September as a base forming month because of the difficulty of bringing cows into production during the usually hot weather preceding September and for the 1952–1953 season, particularly, because producers should have more advance notice of such a change. Market-wide data indicate that since the adoption of the base plan, production in March has increased substantially and September production has decreased in relation to other months. It is concluded, therefore, that the present plan could be improved and the objectives of all parties concerned could be attained in part by substituting March for September in the base operating period. The present plan may be improved also by omitting September from both the base operating and base forming periods. September, therefore, will be neither a base forming nor a base operating month. Producers will receive the blend price in September determined in the same manner as at present for October through February.

The exclusion of September from the base operating period will provide a transitional period for producers to make adjustments in production immediately prior to establishing bases. This will remove the conflicting tendencies of the present plan to encourage a producer to curtail production through September to no higher than his previously established base and on October 1 to increase production in order to establish a desirable new base. New producers will be able to enter the market prior to the base forming period, the season more milk is needed, without being required to receive the excess price during the first month. The testimony does not show a need for further changes in the plan at this time. The recommended change will achieve in part the objectives sought by producers' and handlers' proposals and will provide a method for equitably apportioning the total value of milk purchased by handlers among individual producers.

In view of the fact that producers established present bases on the expectation that September 1952 would be included as a base operating month, it is concluded that the present plan should continue through September 1952 and the recommended changes be made effective thereafter.

7. The entire order should be recodified in accordance with Revised Regulations of the Division of the Federal Register issued October 12, 1948. In so doing, several changes should be made in the organization of the order provisions. In accordance with the testimoney presented at the hearing and as discussed above, several of the definitions have been revised. The sections setting forth the powers and duties of the market administrator and those relating to reports and their verification have been rewritten and reorganized to conform more closely with the language and organization in other orders. The provisions relating to pricing, classification, allocation, and transfers of milk have been rewritten to incorporate changes recommended above. Other sections of the order have been rewritten to incorporate revised terms and make necessary conforming changes.

8. General: (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held; and

(c) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest.

ORDER DIRECTING THE CONDUCT OF A REFERENDUM, DETERMINATION OF REPRESENTATIVE PERIOD; AND DESIGNATION OF REFERENDUM AGENT

Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area) who during the month of April, 1952, which month is hereby determined to be the representative period for such referendum, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order, as amended, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of this order amending the order, as amended, which is a part of this decision.

M. M. Truxillo is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 20th day from the date this decision is issued.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part heerof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 5th day of June 1952.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN,

REPORTS, RECORDS, AND FACILITIES

§ 942.30 Reports of receipts and utilization. On or before the 5th day after the end of each delivery period each handler, except a producer-handler, shall report to the market administrator in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator:

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly, upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION OF MILK

§ 942.40 Basis of classification. All skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts at a fluid milk plant(s), within the delivery period, of (a) producer milk, (b) skim milk and butterfat in any form from other handlers, and (c) other source milk, shall be classified by the market administrator in the classes set forth in § 942.41.

§ 942.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in § 942.42 through § 942.45, the classes of utilization shall be as set forth in this section: Provided, That no skim milk or butterfat, as the case may be, contained in producer milk shall be classified as Class II milk or Class III milk, during any of the delivery periods of October through February if the total receipts of skim milk and butterfat in milk received from producers during the preceding delivery period is less than 90 percent of the utilization of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, by all handlers, in Class I milk.

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) disposed of in fluid form (except for livestock feed) as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks (including eggnog), yogurt, cream (for consumption as cream including any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk other than ice cream and ice cream mix), (2) used to produce concentrated (including frozen) milk, and (3) not specifically accounted for as Class I–A milk, Class II milk, or Class III milk.

(b) Class I–A milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of as sterilized milk.

(c) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat used to produce cheese other than cheddar, ice cream and ice cream mix; and

(d) Class III milk shall be (1) all skim milk and butterfat disposed of as any item other than those classified in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section; (2) skim milk and butterfat disposed of for livestock feed; (3) skim milk dumped, and (4) skim milk and butterfat accounted for as actual plant shrinkage but not in excess of 2 percent of receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, from producers.

§ 942.42 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk, unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat proves to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified as Class II or Class III milk.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified (except that transferred to a producer-handler) in one class shall be reclassified if used or reused by such handler or by another handler in another class.

§ 942.43 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler during any delivery period in fluid form as milk, skim milk, or cream, either by transfer or diversion shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if moved to a fluid milk plant of another handler (except a producer-handler), unless (1) utilization in another class is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period, in which such transaction occurred, but in no event shall the amount classified in any class exceed the total use in such class by the transferee-handler: Provided, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, such milk so disposed of shall be classified at both plants so as to return the highest available class utilization to producer milk.

(b) As Class I milk if moved in the form of any items specified in § 942.41 (a) to a producer-handler.

(c) As Class I milk if moved to any plant other than a fluid milk plant, unless:

(1) The handler claims utilization in another class;

(2) The operator of such non-fluid milk plant maintains books and records, showing the receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant, which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(3) The utilization of skim milk and butterfat, at such plant, in Class I milk, as defined in § 942.41 is less than the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from the transferor handler(s) and from dairy farmers whom the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of supply for fluid usage in such plant, in which case the skim milk and butterfat transferred shall be assigned to the remaining uses of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, during such delivery period in series starting with Class I milk after the similar assignment of the receipts of skim milk and butterfat from such dairy farmers.

§ 942.44 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and other obvious errors the delivery period report submitted by each handler and compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk, Class II milk, and Class III milk for such handler.

§ 942.45 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. (a) The pounds of skim milk remaining in each class after making the following computations for each handler for each delivery period shall be the pounds in such class allocated to producer milk:

(1) Subtract the shrinkage of skim milk, computed pursuant to § 942.41 (c) (4) from the total pounds of skim milk in Class III milk;

(2) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with the lowest available price class, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk;

(3) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, the pounds of skim milk received from other handlers and assigned to such class pursuant to § 942.43 (a);

(4) Add to the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class III milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; or if the pounds of skim milk remaining in all classes exceed the pounds of skim milk in producer milk, subtract such excess from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class III.

(b) Allocate the pounds of butterfat in each class to producer milk in the same manner prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 942.50 Class I prices. Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in § 942.80, for skim milk and butterfat in milk received at his fluid milk plant from such producers during each delivery period and classified as Class I skim milk and Class I butterfat, not less than the prices per hundredweight computed pursuant to this section. In determining the Class I price for skim milk and butterfat for each delivery period the latest reported figures available to the market administrator on the 25th day of the preceding month shall be used in making the following computations, except that if the 25th day of the preceding month falls on a Sunday or legal holiday the latest figures available on the next succeeding work day shall be used:

(a) The monthly wholesale price index for all commodities as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, with the years 1947–49 as the base period.

(b) Divide by 3 the sum of the 3 latest monthly indexes of department store sales in New Orleans adjusted for seasonal variations, as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, with the years 1947–49 as the base period.

(c) Compute an index of grain-labor prices in the New Orleans milkshed in the following manner:

(1) Divide by 0.0434 the average price paid per hundredweight by Louisiana farmers for all mixed dairy feed, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, and multiply by 0.6;

(2) Divide by 0.0321 and 0.0318, respectively, the daily farm wage rates without board or room for the latest available month for Mississippi and Louisiana, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture. Multiply by 0.4 the weighted average of the resulting totals. In computing the weighted average, weight Mississippi 0.25 and Louisiana 0.75;

(3) Add the results determined pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(d) Divide by 3 the sum of the final results computed pursuant to paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section. The result rounded to the nearest whole number shall be known as the formula index.

(e) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraphs (f) and (i) of this section, the minimum price for skim milk and butterfat received at a handler's plant located in the 61–70 mile zone shall be as follows:

(1) Multiply $5.70 by the formula index computed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section and add to or subtract from such result a supply-demand adjustment computed as follows:

(i) Divide the total receipts of producer milk in the two immediately preceding delivery periods by the total gross volume of Class I milk (less interhandler transfers) for such period, multiply the result by 100, and round to the nearest whole number. The result shall be known as the "current supply-demand relationship."

(ii) Compute a net deviation percentage by subtracting from the "current supply-demand relationship" computed pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, the "representative supply-demand index" shown below:

Delivery period for which the Class I price is computed	Delivery periods used to compute relationship	Representative supply-demand index
		Percent

August	May-June	141
September	June-July	140
October	July-August	132
November	August-September	118

(iii) Determine the amount of the supply-demand adjustment from the following schedule:

Net deviation (percentage points):	Adjustment amount (cents)
−24 or more	+49
−21 or −22	+43
−18 or −19	+37

+12 or +13	−25
+15 or +16	−31
+18 or +19	−37
+24 or more	−49

In case the net deviation percentage does not fall within the tabulated brackets, the adjustment amount shall be determined by the adjacent net deviation bracket which is the same as or nearest to the bracket used in the previous month.

(2) The price of butterfat shall be the sum obtained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph multiplied by 17.5.

(3) The price of skim milk shall be computed by (i) multiplying the price of butterfat pursuant to subparagraph (2) of this paragraph by 0.04; (ii) subtracting such amount from the sum obtained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; (iii) dividing such net amount by 0.96; and (iv) rounding off to the nearest full cent.

(f) For skim milk and butterfat received at such handler's plant located in a freight zone other than the 61–70 mile zone, the prices shall be those effective pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section adjusted by the respective amount indicated in the following schedule for the freight zone in which such plant is located:

Freight zone (miles):	Cents per hundredweight
Not more than 20	+8.0
More than 20 but not more than 30	+8.0
More than 30 but not more than 40	+6.0

More than 70 but not more than 80	−2.0
More than 80 but not more than 90	−4.0
More than 90 but not more than 100	−6.0
More than 100 but not more than 110	−7.0
More than 110	−8.0

(g) The market administrator shall from time to time determine and publicly announce the freight zone location of each plant of each handler, according to the railroad mileage distance between such country plant and the railroad terminal in New Orleans, or according to the highway mileage distance between such plant and the City Hall in New Orleans, whichever is shorter.

(h) For the purpose of this section, the skim milk and butterfat which was classified as Class I skim milk and Class I butterfat during each delivery period shall be considered to have been first that skim milk and butterfat which was received from producers at such handler's plant located in the 0–20 mile zone, then that skim milk and butterfat which was received from producers at such handler's plant in series beginning with plants located in the freight zone nearest to New Orleans.

(i) Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this section, the Class I prices for any of the delivery periods of April through June shall not be higher than the Class I prices for the immediately preceding delivery period, and the Class I prices for any of the delivery periods of October through December shall not be lower than the Class I prices for the immediately preceding delivery period.

§ 942.51 Class I–A prices. Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in § 942.80 for skim milk and butterfat received at his fluid milk plant from such producers during each delivery period and classified as Class I–A skim milk and Class I–A butterfat not less than the Class I prices for skim milk and butterfat, respectively, pursuant to § 942.50, except during the months of March through August when the price shall be 80 percent of such Class I prices pursuant to § 942.50 for the 60–71 mile zone.

§ 942.52 Class II prices. Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in § 942.80, for skim milk and butterfat in milk received from them during each delivery period and classified as Class II skim milk and Class II butterfat, not less than the following prices per hundredweight:

(a) The prices per hundredweight of skim milk shall be computed as follows: Deduct 4 cents from the average of the carlot prices per pound of nonfat dry milk solids (not including that specifically designated animal feed), spray and roller process, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, and multiply the result by 8.5.

(b) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be computed as follows: From the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent thereof and multiply by 100.

§ 942.53 Class III prices. Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in § 942.80, for skim milk and butterfat in milk received from them during each delivery period and classified as Class III skim milk and Class III butterfat, not less than the following prices per hundredweight:

(a) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be any plus amount resulting from the following computation: From the average of the carlot prices per pound for nonfat dry milk solids (not including that specifically designated animal feed), roller process, delivered at Chicago, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, deduct 7 cents, and then multiply by 7.5.

(b) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be computed as follows: Multiply by 100 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the delivery period.

§ 942.54 Use of equivalent factors. If for any reason a price, index, or wage rate specified by this order, for use in computing class prices and for other purposes is not reported or published in the manner described in this part, the market administrator shall use a price, index, or wage rate determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the factor which is specified.

BASE RATING

§ 942.60 Base operating period. The base operating period shall be the months of March through August; except for the year 1952, September shall be included.

§ 942.61 Base forming period. The base forming period for each year shall be the months of October through February, immediately preceding the base operating period; except for the year 1952, March shall be included in the base forming period.

§ 942.62 Determination of daily base. The daily base of each producer shall be an amount calculated by the handler(s) to whom such producer delivered milk during the base forming period, subject to verification by the market administrator, as follows: Divide the total pounds of milk received from such producer during the base forming period by the number of days in such period.

§ 942.63 Computation of base. The base of each producer to be applied during the base operating period shall be a quantity of milk calculated, by the handler who receives milk from such producer, in the following manner, subject to verification by the market administrator: Multiply the daily base of such producer with such handler by the number of days for which such producer's milk was delivered to such handler during the delivery period.

§ 942.64 Base rules. The following rules shall apply in connection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A landlord who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the tenant if the landlord owns the entire herd. A tenant who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the landlord if the tenant owns the entire herd. If the cattle are jointly owned by the tenant and landlord, the daily base shall be divided between the joint owners according to ownership of the cattle when such share basis is terminated.

(b) A producer, whether landlord or tenant, may retain his base when moving his entire herd of cows from one farm to another: Provided, That at the beginning of a tenant and landlord relationship the base of each landlord and tenant may be combined and may be divided when such relationship is terminated.

(c) Base may be transferred only under the following conditions:

(1) In case of the death of a producer, his base may be transferred to a surviving member or members of his immediate family who carry on the dairy operations; and

(2) In the case of retirement of a producer, his base may be transferred to a member or members of his immediate family who carry on the dairy operation.

(d) The entire daily base of a producer with a handler may be moved from such handler to another handler.

§ 942.65 Announcement of established bases. On or before the 25th day after the end of the base forming period, each handler shall notify each producer from whom he received milk during the base forming period of his established base and post publicly the base of such producers.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 942.70 Computation of the value of skim milk and butterfat for each handler. (a) For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute for each handler the value of skim milk received by such handler from producers during such delivery period as follows:

(1) Multiply the pounds of skim milk in each class by the price of skim milk for such class and combine the resulting sums into one total;

(2) Add to the value obtained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph an amount determined by multiplying the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to § 942.45 (a) (4) by the appropriate class price; and

(3) Add to or subtract from, as the case may be, the value obtained in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph an amount necessary to correct errors discovered by the market administrator in the verification of reports of such handler of his receipts and utilization of skim milk for previous delivery periods, including in such amount the value of any skim milk reclassified pursuant to § 942.42 (b).

(b) For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute for each handler the value of butterfat received by such handler from producers during such delivery period by making the same computations for butterfat as prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 942.71 Computation of uniform price for each handler. (a) For each of the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February the market administrator shall compute, to the nearest one-tenth cent, for each handler the uniform price per hundredweight of skim milk received by such handler from producers as follows:

(1) Add to the value of skim milk computed pursuant to § 942.70 (a) an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of skim milk received by such handler from producers at plants located in each freight zone farther from New Orleans than the 61–70 mile zone by the appropriate zone differential set forth in the schedule pursuant to § 942.50 (f).

(2) Subtract from the value of skim milk computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of skim milk received by such handler from producers at plants located in each freight zone nearer New Orleans than the 61–70 mile zone by the appropriate zone differential set forth in the schedule pursuant to § 942.50 (f); and

(3) Divide the value obtained pursuant to subparagraph (2) of this paragraph by the hundredweight of skim milk. This result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such handler of skim milk received from producers at plants located in the 61–70 mile zone.

(b) For each of the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February the market administrator shall compute, to the nearest one-tenth cent, for each handler the uniform price per hundredweight of butterfat received by such handler from producers at plants located in the 61–70 mile zone by making the same computations for butterfat as prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) For each of the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February the market administrator shall compute, to the nearest one-tenth cent, for each handler the uniform price per hundredweight of milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat received from producers at plants located in the 61–70 mile zone by combining the values of 96 pounds of skim milk and 4 pounds of butterfat at the respective uniform prices.

§ 942.72 Computation of the uniform price for base milk and excess milk for each handler. For each of the delivery periods of March through August and September 1952, the market administrator shall compute, to the nearest one-tenth cent, for each handler the uniform price per hundredweight of "base milk" and "excess milk" as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values of skim milk and butterfat computed pursuant to § 942.70.

(b) Subtract from the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, if the average butterfat content of milk received from producers by such handler is more than 4.0 percent, or add to such value, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows:

(1) Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of base milk received from producers varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers for base milk, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of base milk delivered by producers;

(2) Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of excess milk received from producers varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers for excess milk, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of excess milk delivered by producers; and

(3) Add the results obtained in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph;

(c) Add to the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of base milk received by such handler from producers at plants located in each freight zone farther from New Orleans than the 61–70 mile zone by the appropriate zone differential set forth in the schedule pursuant to § 942.50 (f).

(d) Subtract from the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of base milk received by such handler from producers at plants located in each freight zone nearer New Orleans than the 61–70 mile zone by the appropriate zone differential set forth in the schedule pursuant to § 942.50 (f).

(e) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (f) of this section, compute the total value of excess milk delivered by producers for such handler by multiplying the quantity of such milk by the Class III price for 4.0 percent milk;

(f) Compute the total value of base milk delivered by producers for such handler by subtracting the value computed pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section from the value computed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section: Provided, That if such resulting value is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of base milk delivered by producers by the Class I price computed pursuant to § 942.50 (e) (1) such value in excess thereof shall be added to the value computed pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section to the extent that the excess price shall not exceed the base price as calculated herein. Any additional value remaining shall be prorated on a volume basis between excess and base milk;

(g) Divide the result obtained in paragraph (f) of this section by the quantity of base milk received by such handler from producers. This result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such handler for "base milk" received from producers at plants located in the 61–70 mile zone; and

(h) Divide the result obtained in paragraph (e) of this section by the quantity of excess milk received by such handler from producers. This result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such handler for "excess milk" received from producers.

PAYMENTS

§ 942.80 Payments to producers. (a) On or before the last day of each delivery period, each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer by such handler during the first 15 days of the delivery period at not less than the price per hundredweight for Class III milk for the preceding delivery period.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February, each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer by such handler during the delivery period at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight computed for such handler pursuant to § 942.71, subject to the location and butterfat differentials computed pursuant to §§ 942.81 and 942.82, less payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the delivery periods of March through August and September 1952, each handler shall make payment, after deducting the amount of payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, to each producer for milk received from such producer by such handler during the delivery period as follows: (1) At not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for base milk computed pursuant to § 942.72 for the quantity of base milk received from such producer, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 942.81 (c) and the location differential set forth in § 942.82; and (2) at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for excess milk computed pursuant to § 942.72 for the quantity of excess milk received from such producer, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 942.81 (b)

§ 942.81 Butterfat differentials. If any handler has received from any producer milk having an average butterfat content other than 4.0 percent, such handler, in making payments pursuant to § 942.80 shall add to the uniform price of milk, base milk, or excess milk, as the case may be, for each $\frac{1}{10}$ of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent not less than, or shall deduct from the uniform price of milk, base milk, or excess milk, as the case may be, for each $\frac{1}{10}$ of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 4.0 percent not more than, the following amount computed to the nearest $\frac{1}{10}$ cent;

(a) For each of the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February, the butterfat differentials applicable with respect to such handler's payments for milk shall be computed by subtracting his uniform price per hundredweight of skim milk from his uniform price per hundredweight of butterfat and dividing the result by 1,000.

(b) For each of the delivery periods of March through August and September 1952, the butterfat differential applicable with respect to such handler's payments for excess milk shall be computed by subtracting the price per hundredweight of Class III skim milk from the price per hundredweight of Class III butterfat and dividing the result by 1,000.

(c) For each of the delivery periods of March through August and September 1952, the butterfat differential applicable with respect to such handler's payments for base milk shall be computed in a manner similar to paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 942.82 Location differentials. Each handler, in making payments prescribed in § 942.80, shall adjust the uniform price of base milk during the delivery periods of March through August and September 1952 and of all milk during the delivery periods of September (except September 1952) through February for each producer with respect to all such milk received from such producer at a plant of the handler not located in the 61–70 mile zone by the amount per hundredweight specified in the table pursuant to § 942.50 (f).

§ 942.83 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses payment to such producer of an amount which is less than is required by this section, the handler shall make up such payment to the producer not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

§ 942.84 Expense of administration. As his prorata share of the expense of administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, 4 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, to be announced by the market administrator on or before the 10th day after the end of such delivery period, with respect to all skim milk and butterfat received by such handler, during such delivery period, from producers, including that received from such handler's own farm production.

§ 942.85 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money irrespective of when such obligation arose.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part, shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate 2 years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligations, unless within such 2-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the 2-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said 2-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representative.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate 2 years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or 2 years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to Section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 942.102 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. (a) If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations arising hereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided: That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

(b) The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, shall (1) continue in such capacity until removed, (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and when so directed by the Secretary deliver all funds on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct, and (3) if so directed by the Secretary execute assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant thereto.

Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions of this part, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

Whether or not a hearing is held, written data, views or arguments on said proposed amendments which are received by the Secretary to the Home Loan Bank Board on or before July 10, 1952, or prior to the conclusion of the hearing, if held, will be considered by the Home Loan Bank Board in connection with its consideration of the proposed amendments of the said rules and regulations.

a. Amend § 143.5 by striking the phrase "in the form of Charter N" from the last sentence thereof.

b. Amend the last sentence of paragraph (c) of § 143.11 to read as follows: "Upon approval by the Board of a formal application for conversion into a Federal association, the Board will issue a Charter, as provided in § 144.1 of this subchapter; conversion into a Federal association is completed upon the issuance of such charter and upon compliance with all relevant requirements of law, if any, which expressly provide for such conversion."

c. Amend the provisions preceding the first colon in § 144.1 to read as follows:

§ 144.1 Issuance of charter—(a) Charter N. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section and in § 144.2, the following form of charter, which shall be known as Charter N, will be issued on and after the effective date of the rules and regulations in this part, upon approval by the Board of any petition for a charter for a Federal association pursuant to the provisions of subsections (a) or (i) of section 5 of Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended.

d. Amend § 144.1 by adding a new paragraph (b) at the end thereof, as follows:

(b) Charter K (rev.). If expressly requested in the Petition for Charter, or in the Application for Conversion into a Federal Association, the Board, in lieu of Charter N, will issue a Charter K (rev.), reading as follows:

CHARTER K (Rev.)

1. Corporate title. The full corporate title of the Federal association hereby chartered is _____

2. Office. The home office shall be located at _____

3. Objects and powers. The objects of the association are to promote thrift by providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes; and, in the accomplishment of such objects, it shall have perpetual succession and power: (1) To act as fiscal agent of the United States when designated for that purpose by the Secretary of the Treasury, under such regulations as he may prescribe, and shall perform all such reasonable duties as fiscal agent of the United States as he may require and to act as agent for any other instrumentality of the United States when designated for that purpose by any such instrumentality; (2) To sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity; (3) To have a corporate seal, affixed by imprint, facsimile or otherwise; (4) To appoint officers and agents as its business shall require, and allow them suitable compensation; (5) To adopt bylaws not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States and rules and regulations adopted thereunder and this charter; (6) To raise its capital, which shall be unlimited, by accepting payments on savings accounts representing share interests in the association; (7) To borrow money; (8) To lend and otherwise invest its funds; (9) To wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate, convert, or reorganize; (10) To purchase, hold, and convey real and personal estate consistent with its objects, purposes, and powers; (11) To mortgage or lease any real and personal estate and take such property by gift, devise, or bequest; and (12) To exercise all powers conferred by law. In addition to the foregoing powers expressly enumerated, this association shall have power to do all things reasonably incident to the accomplishment of its express objects and the performance of its express powers. It shall exercise its powers in conformity with all laws of the United States as they now are, or as they may hereafter be amended, and with all rules and regulations which are not in conflict with this charter now or hereafter made thereunder.

4. Members. All holders of the association's savings accounts and all borrowers therefrom are members. In the consideration of all questions requiring action by the members of the association, each holder of a savings account shall be permitted to cast one vote for each $100, or fraction thereof, of the withdrawal value of his account. A borrowing member shall be permitted, as a borrower, to cast one vote, and to cast the number of votes to which he may be entitled as the holder of a savings account. No member, however, shall cast more than 50 votes. Voting may be by proxy. Any number of members present at a regular or special meeting of the members shall constitute a quorum. A majority of all votes cast at any meeting of members shall determine any question. The members who shall be entitled to vote at any meeting of the members shall be those owning savings accounts and borrowing members of record on the books of the association at the end of the calendar month next preceding the date of such meeting. The number of votes which each member shall be entitled to cast at any meeting of the members shall be determined from the books of the association as of the end of the calendar month next preceding the date of such meeting. Those who were members at the end of the calendar month next preceding the date of a meeting of members but who shall have ceased to be members prior to such meeting shall not be entitled to vote thereat. All savings accounts shall be nonassessable.

5. Directors. The association shall be under the direction of a board of directors of not less than 5 nor more than 15, as fixed in the association's bylaws or, in the absence, of any such bylaw provision, as from time to time expressly determined by resolution of the association's members. Each director of the association shall be a member of the association, and a director shall cease to be a director when he ceases to be a member. Directors of the association shall be elected by its members by ballot: Provided, That in the event of a vacancy in the directorate, including vacancies created by an increase in the number of directors, the board of directors may fill such vacancy, if the members of the association fail so to do, by electing a director to serve until the next annual meeting of the members. Directors shall be elected for periods of 3 years and until their successors are elected and qualified, but provision shall be made for the election of approximately one-third of the board of directors each year.

6. Withdrawals. The association shall have the right to pay the withdrawal value of its savings accounts at any time upon application therefor and to pay the holders thereof the withdrawal value thereof. Upon receipt of a written request from any holder of a savings account of the association for the withdrawal from such account of all or any part of the withdrawal value thereof, the association shall within 30 days pay the amount requested: Provided, That if the association is unable to pay all withdrawals requested at the end of 30 days from the date of such requests, it shall then number and file all withdrawal requests in the order received and shall proceed in the following manner while any withdrawal request remains unpaid for more than 30 days:

Withdrawal requests shall be paid in the order received and if any holder of a savings account or accounts has requested the withdrawal of more than $1,000, he shall be paid $1,000 in order when reached and his withdrawal request shall be charged with such amount as paid and shall be renumbered and placed at the end of the list of withdrawal requests, and thereafter, upon again being reached, shall be paid a like amount, but not exceeding the withdrawal value of his savings account, and until such withdrawal request shall have been paid in full, shall continue to be so paid, renumbered, and replaced at the end of the withdrawal requests on file; Provided, That when any such request is reached for payment, the association shall so advise the holder of such savings account by registered mail to his last address as recorded on the books of the association and, unless such holder shall apply in person or in writing for the payment of such withdrawal request within 30 days from the date of the mailing of such notice, no payment on account of such withdrawal request shall be made and such request shall be cancelled; Provided further, That the board of directors shall have an absolute right to pay on an equitable basis an amount not exceeding $200 to any holder of a savings account or accounts in any calendar month without regard to any other provision of this section.

When unable to pay all withdrawal requests within a period not exceeding 30 days from the date of receipt of written request therefor, the association shall allot to the payment of such requests the remainder of the association's receipts from all sources after deducting from total receipts appropriate amounts for expenses, required payments on indebtedness, earnings distributable in cash to holders of savings accounts, and a fund for general corporate purposes equivalent to not more than 20 percent of the association's receipts from holders of its savings accounts and from its borrowers. The holder of a savings account for which application for withdrawal has been made shall remain a holder of a savings account until paid and shall not become a creditor. Provided, however, That the holder of such an account shall not be entitled to any distribution of earnings upon such account to the extent of the amount of the withdrawal request thereon as long as such withdrawal request remains upon the withdrawal list.

7. Redemption. At any time sufficient funds are on hand, the association shall have the right to redeem, by lot or otherwise as the board of directors may determine, all or any part of any of its savings accounts on June 30 or December 31, by giving 30 days' notice of such redemption by registered mail addressed to the holder of each such savings account at his last address as recorded on the books of the association. The association may not redeem any of its savings accounts when there is an impairment of its capital or when it has any request for withdrawal which has been on file and unpaid for more than 30 days. The redemption price of each savings account redeemed shall be the full value thereof, as determined by the board of directors, but in no event shall the redemption price be less than the withdrawal amount of such savings account. If a savings account which is redeemed is entitled to participate in any reserve for bonus, the amount in such reserve for bonus which is properly allocable to such savings account shall be paid as part of the redemption price thereof. If any notice of redemption shall have been duly given, and if the funds necessary for such redemption shall have been set aside so as to be and to continue to be available for that purpose, earnings upon such account shall cease to accrue from and after the date specified as the redemption date and all rights with respect to such such account shall forthwith, after such redemption date, terminate, except only the right of the holder of record of such savings account to receive the redemption price thereof without earnings.

8. Loans and investments. The association may make any loan or investment authorized by statute and the rules and regulations made by the Home Loan Bank Board and in effect on August 15, 1949; it may make such additional loans and investments as may thereafter be authorized by amendments of the said rules and regulations.

9. Power to borrow. The association may borrow money in an aggregate amount not exceeding one-half of its capital; the amount which may be borrowed from sources other than a Federal home loan bank shall not exceed one-tenth of such capital. Notwithstanding the foregoing limitations, the association may, with prior approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board borrow from any Federal agency or instrumentality without limitation, upon such terms and conditions as may be required by such bank or agency. The association may pledge and otherwise encumber any of its assets to secure its debts.

10. Reserves, surplus, and distribution of earnings. The association shall maintain general reserves for the sole purpose of meeting losses; such reserves shall include the reserve required for insurance of accounts. Any losses may be charged against general reserves. If and whenever the general reserves of the association are not equal to at least 10 percent of its capital, it shall, as of June 30 and December 31 of each year, credit to such reserves an amount equivalent to at least 5 percent of its net earnings for the 6 months' period, or the amount necessary for the reserve required for insurance of accounts, whichever is greater, until such reserves are equal to at least 10 percent of the association's capital. As of June 30 and December 31 of each year, after payment or provision for payment of all expenses, credits to general reserves and such credits to surplus as the board of directors may determine, and provision for bonus on savings accounts as authorized by regulations made by the Home Loan Bank Board, the board of directors of the association shall cause the remainder of the net earnings of the association for the 6 months' period to be distributed promptly on its savings accounts, ratably, as declared by the board of directors, to the withdrawal value thereof; in lieu of or in addition to such net earnings, any of the association's surplus funds may be likewise distributed. Such net earnings shall be credited to savings accounts or paid, as directed by the owner. All holders of savings accounts shall participate at the same rate and on the same basis in the distribution of earnings: Provided, That the association is not required to distribute earnings on short-term savings accounts or on accounts of $10 or less. Except as provided above, earnings shall be declared on all savings accounts of record at the close of each such 6 months' period, on the withdrawal value of each such account at the beginning of the said 6 months' period, plus the payments made thereon during such period (less amounts withdrawn, and, for purposes of participation in earnings, deducted from the latest previous payments), computed at the declared rate for the time invested, determined as provided below. The date of investment shall be the date of actual receipt of such payments by the association, unless the board of directors fixes a date, not later than the tenth of the month, for determining the date of investment of payments on savings accounts or designated classes thereof. Payments, affected by such determination date, received by the association on or before such determination date, shall receive earnings as if invested on the first of such month. Payments, affected by such determination date, received subsequent to such determination date shall receive earnings as if invested on the first of the next succeeding month. Notwithstanding any other provision of its charter, the association may distribute net earnings on its savings accounts on such other basis and in accordance with such other terms and conditions as may from time to time be authorized by regulations made by the Home Loan Bank Board. All holders of savings accounts of the association shall be entitled to equal distribution of assets, pro rata to the value of their savings accounts, in the event of voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution, or winding up of the association.

11. Amendment of charter. No amendment, addition, alteration, change, or repeal of this charter shall be made unless such proposal is made by the board of directors of the association, and submitted to and approved by the Home Loan Bank Board, and is thereafter submitted to and approved by the members at a legal meeting. Any amendment, addition, alteration, change, or repeal so acted upon and approved shall be effective, if filed with and approved by the Home Loan Bank Board, as of the date of the final approval of, or as fixed by, the members.

h. Amend paragraph (e) of § 144.6 to read as follows:

(e) Bonus for long-term savings. As a bonus for long-term savings, the association may, as from time to time determined by its board of directors, distribute to holders of savings accounts reward earnings, in addition to earnings distributed to the holders of all savings accounts, in accordance with rules and regulations made by the Home Loan Bank Board.

i. Amend Part 144 by adding a new § 144.8 at the end thereof, reading as follows:

§ 144.8 Charter amendments—(a) Charter K. The provisions of this section shall constitute the approval by the Home Loan Bank Board of the proposal by the board of directors of any Federal association that has a Charter K of the following amendments to said Federal association's charter: Provided, That such Federal association follows the requirements of section 16 of its charter in adopting such amendments: Amendment of the tenth sentence of section 9 by striking the period at the end thereof and adding: ": Provided further, That the association may provide for bonus payments in accordance with section 10 hereof," together with the amendment of section 10 to read as follows: "10. If such plan is adopted by a Federal association, it shall make such plan available to all its members qualifying therefor, without discrimination. Such reward earnings, as declared by the Board of Directors, shall be in addition to earnings distributed to the holders of all savings accounts but shall be declared and credited promptly, as of the same dates and computed in the same manner as other earnings for distribution and at the following maximum rates:

Beginning with the fifth year	½ of 1 percent per annum;
Beginning with the seventh year	¾ of 1 percent per annum;

(b) Lump-sum savings accounts. As a bonus for long-term savings other than periodic savings accounts, a Federal association which has a charter not inconsistent with the provisions of this section may pay reward earnings on balances of $500 or more that have remained continuously in such a bonus account for a period of two years or more in accordance with an agreement between the association and the account holder. If such plan is adopted by a Federal association, it shall make such plan available to all its members qualifying therefor, without discrimination. Such reward earnings shall be in addition to the regular earnings distributed to the holders of all savings accounts but shall be declared and credited or paid promptly, as of the same dates and computed in the same manner as other earnings for distribution and at the following maximum rates:

(c) Bonus operations. A Federal association that has a charter not inconsistent with the provisions of this section may credit to the accounts of all members holding bonus accounts in good standing, that amount in the bonus reserve to which they would be entitled if their bonus accounts were withdrawn at the time of such credit, and may transfer to surplus or to other reserves any other amounts in any Reserve for Bonus and further bonus earnings shall be credited to the accounts of the members thereto entitled; but shall not, after (insert effective date of regulation), enter into any bonus agreement or adopt any bonus plan inconsistent with the provisions of this section. Bonus rights existing on (insert effective date of regulation) are preserved and approval is given to the carrying out of any bonus agreements in existence on such date to their maturity in accordance with the terms thereof: Provided, That the holder of any such bonus account in good standing may surrender such account and receive in exchange a bonus account as provided herein; upon the surrender of such bonus account, the holder shall receive his participation in the bonus reserve heretofore required and shall participate in the installment bonus authorized by this section if continued as herein provided from the time of such exchange: Provided, That the time such account has been invested and qualified for participation in any such previous bonus plan shall be counted in computing future reward earnings on such account under this section.

(d) Bonus may be terminated. The members of a Federal association may at any time, by bylaw amendment, terminate any bonus plan under which the association is operating and the payment of a bonus on existing accounts issued under the provisions of this section as amended (insert effective date of amendment)."

n. Amend paragraph (b) of § 163.9 to read as follows:

(i) Make, or invest its funds in, loans secured by real estate located in other territory more than fifty, but not more than 100 miles from its principal office, which are insured or as to which such institution is insured, or as to which a commitment for any such insurance has been made under the provisions of the National Housing Act, as now or hereafter amended, and

(ii) Purchase from any member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System any loan secured by a first lien on a home, or a combination home and business property which is used in part for business purposes and in part for residential purposes for not more than four families where the use as a residence is of a bona fide character, located in other territory more than 50 miles from its principal office: Provided, That each such loan is serviced under a servicing agreement by an insured institution of the locality in which the security is situated.

NOTICE OF FILING OF PLAT OF SURVEY

JUNE 4, 1952.

Notice is given that the plat accepted October 31, 1950, of (1) dependent resurvey delineating the retracement and reestablishment of a portion of the original township boundary and subdivisional lines designed to restore all corners on the boundaries of sections 5 and 8 in their true original locations according to the best available evidence and (2) an extension survey to include lands erroneously omitted from the original survey and not shown upon the plat approved February 4, 1860, will be officially filed in the Bureau of Land Management, Washington 25, D. C., effective at 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of the notice as to the following described lands:

4TH PRINCIPAL MERIDIAN, WISCONSIN

T. 40 N., R. 11 E.,
Section 5, lots 4, 5, 6
Section 8, lots 4, 5, 6

The area described aggregates 129.77 acres.

Available information indicates that the greater portion of the lands are spruce and tamarack swamp. However, there is a considerable area of rolling upland having a sandy loam soil and having a fair stand of mixed pines, spruce and birch timber ranging up to 16 inches in diameter.

According to the field notes and as shown by the plat, lot 4 sec. 5; lots 4 and 6 sec. 8 are principally upland and that lots 5 and 6 sec. 5, and lot 5 sec. 8 are principally swamp in character and appear to be swamp and overflowed within the meaning of the act of September 28, 1850 (9 Stat. 519). Should the land finally be determined to be swamp and overflowed in character it must be held to have inured to the State and any application adverse to the State in conflict with swamp land claims will be governed by § 271.2 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

No applications for the described lands may be allowed under the homestead or small tract laws unless the land has already been classified as valuable or suitable for such application or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application.

At the hour and date specified above the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, or selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this notice shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended, by qualified veterans of World War II and other qualified persons entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944, 58 Stat. 747 (43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended, subject to the requirements of applicable law, and (2) application under any applicable public-land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications under subdivision (1) of this paragraph shall be subject to applications and claims of the classes described in subdivision (2) of this paragraph. All applications filed under this paragraph either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this notice shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at that time. All applications filed under this paragraph after 10:00 a. m. on the said 35th day shall be considered in the order of filing.

(b) Date for non-preference-right filings. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this notice, any lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, selection, or other appropriation by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws. All such applications filed either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this notice, shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at the hour specified on such 126th day. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

Applications for these lands, which shall be filed in the Bureau of Land Management, Washington 25, D. C., shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations and Part 256 of that title, to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the homestead laws shall be governed by the regulations contained in Parts 166 to 170, inclusive, of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, and applications under the said Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, shall be governed by the regulations contained in Part 257 of that title.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-1641]

MISSISSIPPI RIVER FUEL CORP.

FINDINGS AND ORDER OMITTING INTERMEDIATE DECISION PROCEDURE AND FIXING DATE FOR ORAL ARGUMENT

JUNE 3, 1952.

On April 23, 1952 Laclede Gas Company (Laclede), on April 29, 1952, Union Electric Power Company (Union Electric), and on April 30, 1952, MidSouth Gas Company (MidSouth), interveners in the above-entitled rate suspension proceeding under the National Gas Act, filed motions requesting that the Commission order that the intermediate decision procedure be omitted in the above-entitled proceeding in accordance with section 8 of the Administrative Procedure Act and § 1.30 of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.30) and that the Commission set this proceeding for oral argument. An answer opposing these motions was filed on May 8, 1952 by Mississippi River Fuel Corporation (Mississippi).

The increased rates at issue in this proceeding are those contained in the First Revised Sheet No. 4 and First Revised Sheet No. 6 to Mississippi's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1. The said sheets were filed on February 28, 1951, and this proceeding was instituted by the Commission's order issued March 28, 1951. Pursuant to that order the said First Revised Sheet No. 4 was suspended until September 1, 1951, at which time on motion of Mississippi the increased rates therein contained were put into effect under bond, upon the terms and conditions of the order entered herein by the Commission on August 31, 1951.

The Commission's order issued March 28, 1951, provided that public hearings be held concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges and classifications, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, as set forth in the said First Revised Sheets Nos. 4 and 6 to Mississippi's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1. It was indicated in that order that the changes in rates proposed, upon the basis of the sales then estimated by Mississippi for the 12 months next following April 1, 1951, would result in increased charges by Mississippi to its utility or resale customers [1] of approximately $3,100,000 per year.

After due notice and pursuant to the Commission's order issued March 28, 1951, hearings were held on May 14–16, September 5–7, and 10–13, and on October 10–12, 15–19, and 24–26, 1951. The recess between the initial hearings beginning on May 14, 1951 and the resumed hearings beginning September 5, 1951 was necessitated primarily by the need for investigation of Mississippi by the Commission Staff concerning the increased rates and the need of the Commission Staff for preparation to present the results of such investigation at the resumed hearings in order that a more complete record might be made available for consideration in reaching a decision upon the merits of the increased rates in question.

At the conclusion of the hearings a motion was made by Commission Staff Counsel for the omission of the intermediate decision procedure. That motion was denied by the Commission on October 30, 1951. At that time it was the view of the Commission that this case had proceeded as expeditiously as was reasonably possible in view of the character of the proceeding.

At the time of the Commission's action upon Staff Counsel's motion, the main brief of Mississippi was scheduled to be filed on November 27, 1951, the briefs of other parties, including Staff Counsel, were scheduled for December 17, 1951, and the reply brief of Mississippi was scheduled for December 28, 1951. However, through no fault of any party and largely because of illness, the filing of briefs was not completed until April 10, 1952.[2] The submission of briefs was thus delayed substantially beyond the time anticipated when the Commission on October 30, 1951 denied Staff Counsel's motion. This unexpected and extended delay in submission of briefs necessarily postponed the time that the Presiding Examiner could undertake to render an initial decision in this proceeding.

The Commission's docket and other public records disclose the increasing number and magnitude of formal proceedings that have been initiated in recent months and are now pending before the Commission, particularly rate suspension and other proceedings under the Natural Gas Act. These proceedings under that act, as well as proceedings under other statutes administered by the Commission, have placed a growing burden upon the Commission and its limited staff that is available to participate in, and its few examiners that are available to preside at, hearings in formal proceedings. The state of the Commission's docket, as its public records reveal, has necessitated that the Examiner who presided at the hearings in this case, preside in hearings in other proceedings during times not only before but also since the submission of the briefs in this proceeding. The result of this situation has been and is that such Presiding Examiner, as a practical matter, has not been afforded the opportunity needed to timely prepare and render an initial decision in this case. Consequently, though desirable, no initial decision has been rendered, and in the circumstances existing, the likelihood of the Examiner rendering such a decision in the reasonably near future seems remote due to no fault of the Examiner but rather due to the Commission's heavy hearing schedule. As a matter of fact, delay is now being occasioned unavoidably in a number of formal proceedings due primarily to the fact that the Commission does not have sufficient staff and examiners available to permit the scheduling of such matters for timely hearing and disposition.

Laclede, Union Electric and MidSouth in their motions herein point to the extended period of time that has elapsed since the initiation of this proceeding early in 1951. In fact, more than seven months have elapsed since the Commission's denial in October 1951 of the first motion herein for omission of the intermediate decision procedure. They call attention to that part of subsection 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act providing that the Commission in proceedings of this kind not only "shall give to the hearing and decision of such questions preference over other questions pending before it" but also shall "decide the same as speedily as possible." They also point to the magnitude of the rate increase sought by Mississippi and call attention to the position as disclosed by the briefs of interveners and of Staff Counsel that Mississippi is not entitled to any rate increases in this case, and to the need in the public interest that the uncertainty as to what rates Mississippi may lawfully charge its customers be removed as soon as possible by an early Commission decision in this proceeding.[3]

The motions in question are objected to by Mississippi in its answer filed on May 8, 1952, on grounds that a decision by the Presiding Examiner is, in the view of Mississippi, required in this case and that the denial of such a decision would deprive Mississippi of a hearing to which it is entitled under the Natural Gas Act and by the Constitutional requirement of due process of law. Mississippi cites subsection 8 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act and Universal Camera Corporation v. National Labor Relations Board, 340 U. S. 474 (1951), as authority prohibiting the omission of the intermediate procedure in this proceeding.

The case cited by Mississippi, however, does not hold that an examiner's decision is mandatory in a rule making proceeding such as the instant rate suspension proceeding under the Natural Gas Act. Moreover, the statutory provisions cited expressly authorize in rule making proceedings that, in lieu of a decision by the examiner or other officer who presided at the reception of the evidence, alternative intermediate decision procedures may be utilized, and also, that any such intermediate decision procedure may be omitted in any such rule making case in which the Commission finds upon the record that "due and timely execution of its functions imperatively and unavoidably so requires."

In the light of the circumstances that have developed and occurred since the Commission's denial on October 30, 1951, of Staff Counsel's motion, the Commission is clearly warranted in finding that the due and timely execution of the Commission's functions imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of the intermediate decision procedure as prayed for in the pending motions of Laclede, Union Electric and MidSouth. The public interest manifestly requires such finding and action in this case.

Laclede, Union Electric and MidSouth in their pending motions ask, in addition to omission of the intermediate decision procedure, that this proceeding be set for oral argument before the Commission as soon as possible and that the case be decided by the Commission on the record made, the briefs filed and such oral argument. In the circumstances the Commission deems that good cause exists for affording oral argument and, accordingly, concludes that the requests therefor should be granted.

The Commission further finds:

(1) It is necessary and appropriate for carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the aforesaid motions of Laclede, Union Electric and MidSouth be granted as hereinafter ordered and provided.

(2) Due and timely execution of its functions imperatively and unavoidably requires that the intermediate decision procedure be omitted in this proceeding as hereinafter ordered and provided and that the Commission forthwith render a decision in this proceeding.

The Commission orders:

(A) The intermediate decision procedure be and it is hereby omitted herein in accordance with provisions of § 1.30 (18 CFR 1.30) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

(B) Oral argument be had before the Commission on June 19, 1952, at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C. All parties to this proceeding shall notify the Secretary of the Commission on or before June 12, 1952, with respect to the time they deem necessary for argument.

Date of issuance: June 4, 1952.

By the Commission.

LEON M. FUQUAY,
Secretary.

SOUTHERN CO. ET AL.

ORDER PERMITTING SUBMISSION OF COMMON STOCK RIGHTS OFFERING TO COMPETITIVE BIDDING FOR UNDERWRITING, AND PERMITTING PURCHASE OF COMMON STOCK OF TWO SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES

JUNE 4, 1952.

In the matter of the Southern Company, Alabama Power Company, Georgia Power Company, File No. 70-2863.

The Southern Company ("Southern"), a registered holding company, and two of its public utility subsidiary companies, Alabama Power Company ("Alabama") and Georgia Power Company ("Georgia"), have filed a joint application-declaration, with amendments thereto, pursuant to sections 6, 7, 9 (a), 10, 12 (c) and 12 (f) of the act and Rules U-42, U-43, and U-50, promulgated thereunder, as applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

Southern proposes to issue 1,004,510 shares of its common stock $5 par value. The shares of common stock are to be offered during a period of approximately three weeks to the holders of the presently outstanding common stock of the company for subscription in the ratio of 1 share of common stock for each 16 shares of common stock now held. The rights to subscribe are to be evidenced by transferable subscription warrants. No fractional shares are to be issued. The warrants provide that persons subscribing for stock may direct the subscription agent to purchase additional rights required to complete a full share subscription or to sell rights in excess of full share subscriptions. In each case, the purchase or sale may not exceed 15 rights for any stockholder.

The above described offering is to be underwritten and the company proposes to select the purchasers of any unsubscribed stock and any stock acquired by the company through stabilizing operations, as described below, at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50. At least 42 hours prior to the time for the submission and opening of bids, Southern will advise the prospective bidders of the subscription price per share, which will also be the price per share at which unsubscribed shares and any shares acquired by the company through stabilization operations will be sold to the successful bidder. The bidders will be required to specify an aggregate amount of compensation to be paid by the company for their commitments. Under the terms of the bidding the purchasers must agree that in the event any shares purchased by them from the company shall be sold by them prior to 30 days following the expiration of the subscription period, for a price in excess of the subscription price plus 65 cents per share, the purchasers shall pay to the company 50 percent of such excess.

Southern proposes, if considered necessary or desirable, to stabilize the price of the common stock of the company for the purpose of facilitating the offering and distribution of the additional shares of common stock. In connection therewith the company may, during the period commencing with the close of business on the third full business day prior to the time for the submission of bids and continuing until such time, purchase shares of its common stock, but not in excess of 100,451 shares, on the New York Stock Exchange or otherwise. Such purchases are to be made through brokers with the payment of regular Stock Exchange commissions.

Southern, which owns all of the common stock of Alabama and Georgia, proposes to use the net proceeds derived from the sale of its common stock, plus other funds to the extent necessary, to invest in common stock of Alabama and Georgia and to repay outstanding short term bank loans. Under the present filing, Alabama proposes to issue and sell 40,000 shares of its common stock to Southern, and Georgia proposes to issue and sell 400,600 shares of its common stock to Southern. Southern will purchase these shares for $4,000,000 and $7,000,000, respectively, and the proceeds will be used by Alabama and Georgia for construction purposes.

Southern states that if for any reason delay should be encountered in its proposed common stock rights offering so that it will not have available prior to July 15, 1952, funds sufficient to invest in the common stock of Georgia, it proposes to borrow for such purposes up to $7,000,000 from banks on short term notes. In such event, Southern will file an amendment herein setting forth the names of such banks and the terms of such notes.

The filing indicates that the issuance and sale of common stock by Alabama and Georgia has been approved, respectively, by the Alabama Public Service Commission and the Georgia Public Service Commission.

It is requested that the Commission's order herein become effective upon issuance.

Notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to the act, and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said joint application-declaration, as amended, within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said joint application-declaration, as amended, that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the said joint application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that the said joint application-declaration, as amended, be, and hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and to the further condition that the proposed issuance and sale of the 1,004,510 shares of common stock by Southern shall not be consummated until the subscription price per share and the results of competitive bidding, pursuant to Rule U-50, have been made a matter of record in this proceeding and a further order shall have been entered, with respect thereto, which order shall contain such further terms and conditions as may then be deemed appropriate, for which purpose jurisdiction be, and the same hereby is reserved.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and the same hereby is, reserved over all fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions.

By the Commission.

UNITED GAS CORP. AND ATLANTIC GULF GAS CO.

ORDER CONCERNING MERGER OF INACTIVE SUBSIDIARY INTO PARENT

JUNE 4, 1952.

United Gas Corporation ("United"), a gas utility subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company, a registered holding company, and United's subsidiary, Atlantic Gulf Gas Company ("Atlantic"), having filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly section 12 (c) thereof and Rule U-46 of the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder with respect to the following proposed transactions:

United, as the owner of all the outstanding capital stock of Atlantic, proposes to merge it into United.

Atlantic, a Delaware corporation, was organized in 1947 by United for the purpose of constructing and operating natural gas pipeline properties in the southeastern portion of the United States. Subsequently, the application of Atlantic for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for this purpose was denied by the Federal Power Commission.

On organization, Atlantic issued to United 100,000 shares of its common stock for a cash consideration of $1,000,000. Atlantic's assets consist of cash in the amount of $1,000,000 and its liabilities consist solely of the capital stock held by United. The declaration states that United has expended $285,977.23 for the account of Atlantic which amount will be repaid by Atlantic to United prior to the merger.

The declaration states that since there is no longer any need for the continued corporate existence of Atlantic, the proposed merger will result in simplification of the United Gas system by the elimination of one subsidiary.

Said declaration having been filed on May 13, 1952, notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner required by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, the Commission not having received a request for hearing within the time specified in said notice, or otherwise, and the Commission not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding that the proposed transactions are in accordance with the applicable standards of the act, that no adverse findings are necessary thereunder, and that it is unnecessary to impose terms and conditions in connection herewith, and the Commission deeming it appropriate to permit said declaration to become effective, forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of said act, and subject to the terms and conditions contained in Rule U-24, that said declaration, be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith.

By the Commission.

DUQUESNE LIGHT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED INCREASE IN AUTHORIZED PREFERRED STOCK

JUNE 4, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration has been filed with this Commission by Duquesne Light Company ("Duquesne"), a public utility subsidiary of Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia"), a registered holding company. Declarant has designated section 6 (a) and 7 of the act and Rule U-62 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions which are summarized as follows:

Duquesne proposes, by appropriate corporate action, to increase its authorized preferred stock from 800,000 to 1,000,000 shares. It is stated that the proposed increase will facilitate the issuance and sale by Duquesne of preferred stock during 1952 and 1953 and thereby enable Duquesne to raise a portion of the funds required to meet the cost of its construction program. Appropriate applications will be filed with this Commission prior to the time when such issuance and sales are to be undertaken.

In order to effect the proposed increase of the authorized preferred stock, the consent of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock of Duquesne, as well as the consent of the holders of a majority of the outstanding preferred stock of Duquesne, with all series thereof voting as a class, is required. Philadelphia, which owns all of the 5,920,000 shares of common stock and all of the 550,000 shares of 4 percent Preferred Stock, which constitutes well over a majority of that class, has indicated that it will consent to the proposed increase. Duquesne proposes, however, as a matter of management policy, to solicit proxies from the holders of the 150,000 shares of its 3.75 percent Preferred Stock, which series is publicly held, but it states that it intends to increase its authorized preferred stock without reference to the number of consents it obtains from such holders. The proposed solicitation material has been submitted as an exhibit to the instant filing.

It is estimated that the fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions will amount to $1,860, of which $750 represents counsel fees. Duquesne requests that any order of this Commission granting the application shall become effective forthwith upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than June 17, 1952, at 1:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said declaration proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

United proposes to reinvest the proceeds from the sale of its holdings of South Jersey common stock in other securities in accordance with the investment program approved by the Commission by order dated May 2, 1952 (Holding Company Act Release No. 11209).

The declaration states that the representatives of United will resign from the Board of Directors of South Jersey as soon as United has disposed of the South Jersey stock.

§ 601.1851 Purpose. Sections 601.1851 to 601.1860 state additional specific requirements which, together with the general requirements contained in the 1952 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, 17 F. R. 3521, apply to loans and purchase agreements under the 1952-Crop Rice Price Support Program.

§ 601.1852 Availability of price support—(a) Method of support. Price support will be made available through farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and through purchase agreements.

(b) Area. Farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements will be available on eligible rice produced in the States of Arizona, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, and Texas.

(c) Where to apply. Application for rice price support must be made at the office of the PMA county committee which keeps the farm-program records for the farm.

(d) When to apply. Loans and purchase agreements will be available from the time of harvest through January 31, 1953, and the applicable documents must be signed by the producer and delivered to the county committee not later than such date.

(e) Eligible producer. (1) An eligible producer shall be any individual, partnership, association, corporation, or other legal entity producing rice in 1952 or having an interest in a 1952 rice crop as landlord, tenant, or sharecropper, and includes a person owning and operating his own farm, a tenant operating a farm rented for cash, a tenant operating a farm under a crop-share lease, contract, or agreement, a landlord leasing to share tenants, and an irrigation company furnishing water for a share of the crop.

(2) Cooperative marketing associations of producers shall be deemed to be eligible producers for warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements on eligible rice produced by eligible producer members: Provided, That:

(i) The terms and conditions under which producer members' rice is marketed through the association are set out in a Uniform Marketing Agreement and are applicable to all rice delivered to the association by producer members.

(ii) The major part of the rice marketed by the association is produced by members who are eligible producers.

(iii) The members share proportionately in the proceeds from marketings according to the quantity and quality of rice each delivers to the association.

(iv) The association has authority to obtain a loan on the security of the rice and to give a lien thereon as well as authority to sell such rice.

(3) The following special conditions of price support shall apply to cooperative marketing associations of producers:

(i) The association must maintain a record of the total quantity of rough rice acquired by or delivered to the association from all sources, and a separate record of the quantity of eligible rice delivered to the association by eligible producer members. The books of the association shall be made available to CCC for inspection at all reasonable times through May 1, 1953.

(ii) Rice placed under loan by the association must be stored separately from all other rice and kept separately stored until redeemed from the loan or delivered to CCC.

(iii) Rice delivered by the association to CCC under purchase agreements must have been physically segregated at all times from any rice under loan, any rice obtained from other than producer members, and from any ineligible rice. Where a member and a nonmember have a joint interest in the growing crop, this requirement shall apply from the time of physical division of the harvested crop.

§ 601.1853 Eligible rice. At the time the rice is placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, it must meet the following requirements:

(a) The rice must have been produced in 1952 in the States of Arizona, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, or Texas.

(b) Except in the case of eligible cooperative marketing associations, the beneficial interest in the rice must be in the person tendering the rice for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him, or must have been in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the rice was harvested. In the case of cooperative marketing associations, the beneficial interest in the rice must have been in the producer members who delivered the rice to the association and must always have been in them or in them and former producers whom they succeeded before the rice was harvested.

(c) In accordance with the Official Standards of the United States for Rough Rice, the rice may be of any class other than "mixed rough rice."

(d) The rice must (1) grade U. S. No. 5 or better (rice of special grades shall not be eligible rice); and (2) contain not more than 14 percent moisture.

(e) If offered as security for a farm-storage loan, the rice must have been stored in the granary at least 30 days prior to its inspection for measurement, sampling, and scaling, unless otherwise approved by the PMA State committee.

§ 601.1854 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing rice in approved warehouse storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the requirements below:

(a) Warehouse receipts must be issued in the name of the producer, or cooperative marketing association, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be issued by a warehouse approved under the Uniform Rice Storage Agreement (CCC Form 26). The receipts must be negotiable and must cover eligible rice actually in store in the warehouse.

(b) In order to be acceptable under the loan program, each warehouse receipt, or the accompanying supplemental certificate, must contain a statement that the rice is insured in accordance with CCC Form 26, "Uniform Rice Storage Agreement," and if such insurance was not effective as of the date of deposit of the rice in the warehouse, the warehouseman must certify as to the effective date of the insurance and that the rice is in the warehouse and undamaged. The insurance on rice with respect to which the warehouseman guarantees quality and quantity (hereinafter called commingled rice) must be obtained by the warehouseman. Insurance on rice with respect to which the warehouseman does not guarantee quality and quantity (hereinafter called identity-preserved rice) must be obtained by either the producer or the warehouseman. If the insurance is obtained by the producer, it must be assigned to the warehouseman, with the consent of the insurance company, before a loan will be made and the warehouseman must also certify that the insurance has been assigned to him with the consent of the insurance company. Insurance is not required in order for warehouse receipts to be purchased under the purchase agreement program.

(c) Each warehouse receipt must be accompanied by a supplemental certificate (CCC Rice Form B, Supplement) executed in duplicate and properly identified with the warehouse receipt. In addition to other information required on the supplemental certificate, the warehouse receipt or the supplemental certificate must show weight, class, grade, milling yield, moisture, and any of the following grade factors which determined the assigned grade: Total seeds and heat damaged kernels, heat damaged kernels and objectionable seeds, red rice and damaged kernels, chalky kernels, rice of contrasting classes. If the rice grades U. S. No. 1, no grade factors need be shown, and for rice grading below U. S. No. 1, only the factor(s) which caused the rice to receive the assigned grade need be shown. When the warehouse receipt represents rice stored on a commingled basis, the supplemental certificate must be executed by the warehouseman. When the warehouse receipt represents rice stored on an identity-preserved basis, the producer must execute the supplemental certificate and his responsibility will be as stated in § 601.1515 of the 1952 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1.

(d) A separate warehouse receipt must be submitted for each class, grade, and milling yield of rice.

(e) Warehouse receipts must carry an endorsement by the warehouseman in substantially the following form:

> Warehouse charges, except receiving and loading out charges, on the rice represented by this warehouse receipt have been paid or otherwise provided for through April 30, 1953, and a lien for such charges will not be claimed by the warehouseman from CCC or any subsequent holder of this warehouse receipt.

§ 601.1855 Determination of quantity. (a) Loans and purchase agreements shall be made on the basis of rough rice expressed in units of 100 pounds, and fractional units of less than 100 pounds shall be disregarded. The quantity of rice placed under farm-storage loan may be determined either by weight or by measurement. The quantity of rice placed under a warehouse-storage loan or delivered under a farm-storage loan or under a purchase agreement shall be determined by weight.

(b) In determining the quantity of sacked rice by weight, a deduction of $\frac{3}{4}$ of a pound for each 100 pounds of gross weight will be made.

(c) When the quantity of rice is determined by measurement, a cubic foot of rice testing 45 pounds per bushel, shall be 36 pounds. The quantity determined will be the following percentages of the quantity determined for 45 pounds rice:

For rice testing	Percent
45 pounds or over	100
44 pounds or over, but less than 45 pounds	98
43 pounds or over, but less than 44 pounds	96
42 pounds or over, but less than 43 pounds	93
41 pounds or over, but less than 42 pounds	91
40 pounds or over, but less than 41 pounds	89

Proportionately lower for rice testing below 40 pounds.

(d) In cases where the warehouseman guarantees the quantity and quality of rice shown on the warehouse receipt or the supplemental certificate, loans will be made on 100 percent of the quantity of rice determined in accordance with this section. In all other cases, loans will be made on 95 percent of the quantity of rice so determined, and at the time of delivery, settlement will be made on the basis of the actual quantity and quality of rice delivered.

§ 601.1856 Determination of quality. The class, grade, grade factors, milling yield and all quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the methods set forth in the official United States Standards for Rough Rice.

(a) At the time of making a loan on farm-stored rice or identity-preserved warehouse-stored rice, the county committee will draw a representative sample of each lot of rice and obtain an official (Federal or Federal-State) sample inspection certificate for each such lot. Sample inspection fees incurred by the county committee in connection with the making of loans will be for the account of CCC.

(b) Where quality and quantity are guaranteed by the warehouseman under a warehouse-storage loan, the quality and quantity shown on the warehouse receipt or supplemental certificate shall be the basis for settlement with the producer. In all other cases, the producer shall, prior to delivery of the rice to CCC, submit an official Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificate dated subsequent to April 15, 1953. Lot inspection fees incurred in connection with the delivery of rice to CCC will be for the account of the producer.

§ 601.1857 Maturity of loans. Loans mature on demand but not later than April 30, 1953.

§ 601.1858 Support rates. Loans will be made and rice delivered under purchase agreements will be purchased at the support rates set forth in this section.

(a) Basic rates. The basic support rate for 100 pounds of rough rice in approved storage and with all accrued charges, except receiving and loading out charges, paid through April 30, 1953, shall be computed as follows:

Multiply the yield (in pounds per hundredweight) of head rice by the applicable value factor for head rice (as shown in the table below according to class). Similarly, multiply the difference between the total yield and head rice yield in pounds per hundredweight) by the applicable value factor for broken rice. Add the results of these two computations to obtain the basic loan or purchase rate per 100 pounds of rough rice and express such rate in dollars and cents, rounded to the nearest whole cent.

VALUE FACTORS FOR HEAD AND BROKEN RICE[1]

Rough rice class	Head rice	Broken rice
Pecaro (including Remark), Pelion, Blue Bonnet, and Nira	.....	.....
Fortuna, R. N., and Edith	.....	.....
Blue Rose (including Improved Blue Rose, Greater Blue Rose, Esperanza, and Arkrose), Magnolia, Zenith, Prelude, and Lady Wright	.....	.....
Early Prolific, Pearl, Calady, Carina, and other classes	.....	.....

[1] The value factors will be published in an amendment to this section shortly after Aug. 1, 1952.

(b) Premiums and discounts. The basic support rates, determined under paragraph (a) of this section, per 100 pounds of rough rice shall be adjusted by the following premium or discount for the grade applicable to an individual lot of rough rice:

Grade U. S. No. 1: Premium of 20 cents per 100 pounds.

Grade U. S. No. 2: Premium of 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Grade U. S. No. 3: Discount of 5 cents per 100 pounds.

Grade U. S. No. 4: Discount of 20 cents per 100 pounds.

Grade U. S. No. 5: Discount of 40 cents per 100 pounds.

§ 601.1859 Warehouse charges. There shall be no storage allowance on rice placed under loan or delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement. CCC will not assume any warehouse charges accruing prior to May 1, 1953 except receiving and loading out charges on rice delivered to CCC, and warehouse receipts representing rice under loan or delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement must be endorsed by the warehouseman as provided in § 601.1854 (e).

§ 601.1860 Settlement—(a) Farm-storage and identity-preserved warehouse-storage loans. (1) In the case of rice delivered to CCC from farm-storage or identity-preserved warehouse storage under the loan program, settlement will be made at the applicable support rate for the grade and quality of the total quantity of rice delivered. The producer shall, at his expense, furnish to the county committee at the time of delivery official weight certificates and Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificates dated subsequent to April 15, 1953. If the producer fails to furnish such weight and inspection certificates and does not pay off his loan, the county committee shall order the rice weighed up and inspected, pay the costs of such weighing and inspection, and charge such costs to the producer when making settlement.

(2) If the rice under farm-storage or identity-preserved warehouse-storage loan is, upon delivery, of a grade for which no support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be the support rate established for the grade and milling yield of the rice placed under loan, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for the grade and milling yield placed under loan and the market price of the rice delivered, as determined by CCC.

(b) Purchase agreements. Eligible rice will be purchased at the support rate applicable to the grade and yield of the rice determined on the basis of an official Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificate dated subsequent to April 15, 1953.

Issued this 6th day of June 1952.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 117, Revision 1]

CPR 117—MALT BEVERAGES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Revision 1 of Ceiling Price Regulation 117 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This revision of Ceiling Price Regulation 117 makes a number of changes in that regulation. For the most part, these changes are technical in nature and intended to make the regulation conform more closely with trade practices. Generally, those changes which have to do with methods of determining prices for items not sold during the base period will have no effect upon the level of prices. Provision for a pass-through of the recent freight increase and a revised method of determining retailers ceilings may result in a price increase of roughly one cent per container in some localities. The changes applicable to brewers, wholesalers and retailers will be discussed separately.

BREWERS

A revised section 22 and a new section 23 provide methods for computing ceilings for new case and container sizes and types of items. In general section 22 provides that if a brewer merely changes the case size (or the barrel size) of an item for which he has a ceiling price, his ceiling price for the new item is to bear the same proportion to his ceiling price for the old item as the case sizes (or barrel sizes) of the two items bear to each other. If the brewer sells an item whose container size or container type differs from those of his other items of the same brand and type, other alternative methods of determining ceilings for that new item are provided. These methods reflect the industry's customary pricing techniques.

To avoid the necessity of applying for ceiling prices in those cases where brewers change the labels without otherwise changing the items, this revision provides that a brewer who produces a malt beverage under a new label may regard that malt beverage as the same item as the malt beverage for which he has a ceiling price, so long as the newly labeled item's quality is not inferior to that of the old. If the brewer chooses to use the ceiling price of a "comparable item" he must notify his wholesalers and retailers (and each wholesaler must, in turn, notify his retailers) that their ceiling prices for the newly labeled item are identical with their ceiling prices for the "comparable item."

This revision also provides that a brewer may determine his ceiling prices to wholly owned distributing outlets or to independent sole distributors, pursuant to the method customarily used by him to determine his selling prices to this class of purchaser. Because brewers' prices to such purchasers have no effect on resale prices to retailers and consumers, there is no reason to change the customary method by which brewers' prices to those purchasers have been determined.

Section 28 (formerly numbered 24) now requires brewers to send to the Office of Price Stabilization, Alcoholic Beverage Section, Washington 25, D. C., a copy of the ceiling price notice applicable to each class of purchaser to whom they sell and, if not already included in the notice, certain other related information. The notices and information submitted will aid the OPS in processing brewers' applications for ceiling prices for new items, and in solving other administrative problems which arise under CPR 117, Revision 1.

WHOLESALERS

The methods of determining ceiling prices for wholesalers who did not sell an item of a particular case and container size and container type during the base period have also been revised to conform more closely to customary industry pricing practices.

In general these new methods contained in sections 32 and 33 relate the ceiling price of a new item to ceiling prices already established by the seller or by a competitive wholesaler rather than by applying a markup to his acquisition cost.

RETAILERS

The provisions of CPR 117 which apply to retailers are also being extensively modified by this revision. Previously, retailers determined their ceiling prices for malt beverages by adding to the highest prices at which they sold an item during December 1951, the actual increase in his supplier's selling price between December 1951 and March 24, 1952, plus a markup on that increase. Two defects in this method have since become evident.

First, because the November 1, 1951 increase in Federal excise tax amounted to only 7.2 cents per case of 24 12-ounce containers (by far the largest volume item in the industry), which is less than ½ cent per container, retailers were, as a practical matter, unable to reflect that increase in their December 1951 GCPR prices for a single container.

Second, it had been assumed that brewers and wholesalers would, before March 24, 1952, increase their selling prices to retailers to their full CPR 117 ceilings. Were this done retailers' ceilings would then reflect the total increase in their suppliers' ceilings. Provision for the recalculation of retail ceiling prices was, therefore, not included in the regulation. However, in some cases, brewers and wholesalers did not increase their selling prices to the level of their ceiling prices prior to the end of March. In such cases, retailers' previous ceilings were based upon their suppliers' selling prices which were subject to later adjustment. Consequently, unless a recalculation of retailers' ceiling prices is provided for, these retailers would absorb subsequent increases in their suppliers' selling prices to them. This absorption is prohibited by section 402 (k) of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

This revision, therefore, provides that retailers are to adjust their highest October 1951 (rather than December 1951) ceiling prices to reflect cost increases incurred following that month. It also provides that a retailer may recalculate his ceiling price whenever his supplier increases the price of an item to him, and must recalculate his ceiling price whenever his supplier decreases the price of an item to him. Recalculation is also provided for items which were not sold before November 1, 1951, and which are, therefore, initially priced under other sections of the regulation.

In addition, the methods by which retailers are to establish ceiling prices for new items not sold during the base period have been revised. Changes in technique are similar to those previously mentioned with respect to wholesalers. They are intended to maintain the customary uniformity of prices among competitive retailers who operate the same kinds of businesses.

The requirement that retailers mail to the OPS reports of the competitors' ceiling prices they adopt has been found unnecessary and, therefore, is discontinued.

SALES TO HOME DISTRIBUTORS AND DELIVERED SALES TO CONSUMERS BY ALL SELLERS

The type of distributor found primarily in New York State and called a "wagon vendor" in CPR 117, is more commonly known in the trade as a "home distributor." All references to those sellers have been changed accordingly. "Home distributors" may engage in two types of operations. First, they may buy from breweries at prices applicable to wholesalers and sell to both retailers and consumers. Second, they may buy from certain breweries at prices slightly lower than their prices to retailers (but not as low as the breweries' prices to ordinary wholesalers) and resell only to consumers (except for occasional and incidental sales to retailers, private clubs, etc.). In this latter case, they have customarily been considered by the brewer as a different class of purchaser from the wholesaler who buys at an f. o. b. wholesale price and sells primarily to retailers. In fact, in the past, these brewers almost invariably increased their prices to retailers and to "home distributors" by the same dollar-and-cent amount, thus maintaining a constant dollar-and-cent differential between their prices to retailers and their prices to "home distributors."

Since, in the first situation described above, the "home distributor" has historically been treated by the brewer as an ordinary wholesaler, the method established in CPR 117 for the determination of such a brewer's ceiling prices for sales to him is left undisturbed. However, to deal effectively with the second situation, section 24 (a) now provides that where a brewer, during the base period, treated "home distributors" as a class of purchaser different from ordinary wholesalers the brewer is to determine his ceiling prices to such distributors just as he would determine his ceiling prices to retailers. Section 24 (a), therefore, assures that that brewer's customary dollar-and-cent differentials between his prices to retailers and his prices to "home distributors" will be maintained.

To the extent that the "home distributor" sells to purchasers other than consumers, or to consumers on an f. o. b. basis, his operations are similar to those of an ordinary wholesaler. Therefore, he is to determine his ceiling prices for those sales under the provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers. However, when "home distributors" or any other sellers (brewers, brewer's branches, wholesalers, etc.) sell to consumers on a delivered basis they are performing a retailer's function and incurring additional expenses similar to those incurred by retailers. Consequently, sections 24 (b) and 35 provide for the calculation of ceiling prices for sales to consumers on a delivered basis under the provisions which apply to retailers.

MISCELLANEOUS

Minor changes have been made in sections 36 (formerly 33) and 53, relating to reporting of cost information, and in sections 71 and 73.

Section 71 permits the addition of deposit charges for cases and containers provided they do not exceed the particular seller's own cost for the cases and containers. In some areas, however, sellers have customarily used uniform deposit charges of standard amounts irrespective of their own costs. To permit this practice to be continued in those cases where it is not in conflict with the principles of price control, section 71 now authorizes OPS to prescribe uniform deposit charges for any group of sellers.

A general increase in interstate railroad freight rates has recently been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is likely that motor carrier freight rates (as well as interstate railroad freight rates) may also be increased. Data presently available indicate that the effect of these freight rate increases would be to reduce malt beverage wholesalers' earnings below the minimum level required by the industry earnings standard. Failure to authorize price adjustments to reflect these freight increases would also be likely to disrupt marketing practices. Therefore, section 78 now provides that wholesalers may increase their ceiling prices by the dollar-and-cent amount of any increases in freight costs actually incurred by them after January 1, 1952, but must also decrease their ceiling prices by the amount of any decreases, after January 1, 1952, in freight costs included in their ceiling prices. Furthermore, to prevent market disruptions, the provisions of that section are made applicable to those few brewers who sell on a delivered basis. Retailers are not affected by this section since retailers are permitted to recalculate their ceiling prices on the basis of changes in "cost of acquisition" (which includes freight costs).

Other minor changes include provisions relating to (a) the rounding of fractional cents (section 70); (b) transfers of businesses (section 86); (c) on-premise licensees selling for off-premise consumption (section 60); (d) the definitions of "cost of acquisition" (section 90 (c) (1)) and of "case size" (section 90 (b) (3)). The last of these refers especially to "special pack" cases which are considered as different items from standard cases with the same number of containers.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR

In the formulation of this revised regulation, the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable and has given full consideration to their recommendations. In the Director's judgment the ceiling prices established by this revised regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

Every effort has been made to conform this revised regulation to existing business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution. Insofar as any provisions of this revised regulation may operate to compel changes in the business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution, such provisions are found by the Director of Price Stabilization to be necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of this revised regulation.

As far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in the furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to parity prices and the other minimum requirements of the law, including prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; to the standards set forth in sections 402 (d) (4) and 402 (k) of the act; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 100 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 806, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101–2110. E. O. 10161, Sept 9, 1950. 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

ARTICLE I—INTRODUCTORY PROVISIONS

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation provides methods by which all sellers of imported and domestic malt beverages for off-premise consumption (except importers who sell other than to retailers) are to determine their ceiling prices. If you are one of those sellers, you are to determine your ceiling prices under whichever of the following sections apply to you: Brewers, sections 20 through 28; wholesalers, sections 30 through 38; brewers' branches, section 40; importers selling to retailers, section 41; home distributors, section 42; retailers, sections 50 through 55; and "on-premise licensees" selling for off-premise consumption, section 60. You should also, of course, read those general provisions contained in Article VII of this regulation which apply to you. As a result of this regulation (and after its effective date) the ceiling prices for brewers' and distributors' sales of domestic malt beverages for off-premise consumption are no longer to be established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR), as amended, and the ceiling prices for those distributors' sales of imported malt beverages for off-premise consumption which are covered by this regulation are no longer governed by Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 31.

SEC. 2. Where this regulation applies. This regulation applies in the 48 States of the United States and in the District of Columbia.

ARTICLE II—BREWERS

SEC. 20. Brewers' "base period." If you are a brewer of domestic malt beverages, your "base period" is the period May 24, 1950, through June 24, 1950. Therefore, any reference to a "base period" in those provisions of this regulation which apply to you, means May 24, 1950, through June 24, 1950.

SEC. 21. How a brewer is to determine his ceiling prices for items dealt in during the "base period." This section applies to you if you are a brewer who sells to a particular class of purchaser an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) which you sold or offered for sale to that same class of purchaser during the "base period." In that case, you must figure your ceiling price for those sales (except for delivered sales to consumers, to which section 24 (b) applies) as follows:

(a) Determine the highest price at which you made a customary sale of the item to the particular class of purchaser during the "base period." If no such sale was made, you must use the highest price at which you offered the item for sale to that class of purchaser during the "base period," if the offer, or its acceptance, is proven by some written or printed evidence such as a price list, price posting, printed advertisement, etc. (If, however, your offering price was intended to withhold the item from the market, or if it was merely a bargaining price, your usual practice being to sell at a price lower than that asked, you may not use that offering price as your offering price under this paragraph.) The "base period" price you determine under this paragraph must not include any deposit charge for case or containers or any amount that the purchaser may (pursuant to a repurchase agreement) recover for return of the case and containers purchased. In addition, if your "base period" price includes any excise or similar tax which has been reduced or eliminated since the beginning of the "base period," you must lower that price to reflect the amount of such reduction or elimination. If you cannot determine your "base period" sales price or offering price for the item under this paragraph, then you must determine your ceiling price for the item under section 22, 23, or 25, whichever is applicable.

(b) If you are calculating your ceiling price for sales of the particular item to wholesalers, home distributors, retailers or "on-premise licensees": (1) consult Column 2 of Table 1 for the dollar-and-cent "permitted increase" figure applicable to that item, if your "base period" price (determined in paragraph (a)) to the particular class of purchaser was an f. o. b. price; (2) consult either Column 3 or 4 (whichever applies) of Table I for the dollar-and-cent "permitted increase" figure applicable to that item, if your "base period" price (determined in paragraph (a)) to the particular class of purchaser was a delivered price (and note section 24 (a) which tells you whether to use Column 3 or 4 for your "permitted increase" figure to home distributors). If you are calculating your ceiling price for f. o. b. sales of the particular item to consumers, consult Column 5 of Table I for the dollar-and-cent "permitted increase" figure applicable to that item. (The "permitted increase" figures in Table I include adjustments for the increase in United States excise tax on malt beverages, which became effective November 1, 1951.) If a "permitted increase" figure for the particular item you are pricing is not listed in Table I, you must determine your ceiling price for the item under section 22, 23, or 25, whichever is applicable.

(c) Add together your "base period" price (determined in paragraph (a)) and the applicable dollar-and-cent "permitted increase" figure (determined in paragraph (b)). The resulting figure is your ceiling price for sales of the item to the particular class of purchaser and is (1) an f. o. b. price, if your "base period" price was an f. o. b. price; (2) a delivered price, if your "base period" price was a delivered price. That price, however, may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, 77 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable. In addition, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

EXAMPLE 1: You wish to calculate your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. Your "base period" price for sales of that item to wholesalers was $2.50, and was an f. o. b. price. In Column 1 of Table I you find the line on which is listed the item you are pricing (24 12-ounce returnable bottles). Following that line across to Column 2, you find 25 cents, the "permitted increase" figure for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of beer. Your f. o. b. ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is, therefore, $2.75 ($2.50+25¢=$2.75).

EXAMPLE 2: You wish to calculate your ceiling price for sales to "on-premise licensees" of a half-barrel of A Brand ale. Your "base period" price for sales of that item to "on-premise licensees" was $9.50 and was a delivered price. In Column 1 of Table I you find the line on which is listed the item you are pricing (a half-barrel). Following that line across to Column 4, you find $1.73, the "permitted increase" figure for delivered sales to "on-premise licensees" of a half-barrel of ale. Your delivered ceiling price for sales to "on-premise licensees" of a half-barrel of A Brand Ale is, therefore, $11.23 ($9.50+$1.73=$11.23).

SEC. 22. How a brewer is to determine his ceiling prices for items of a different container size, container type or case size from those dealt in during the "base period"—(a) How to use this section. This section applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a particular class of purchaser except to consumers on a delivered basis an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) for which you cannot determine your ceiling price under section 21, to that class of purchaser, but which differs only in case size or container size or container type (or any combination of those three characteristics) from an item for which you have already determined a ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. In that case, you must determine your ceiling price for sale of the particular item you wish to sell to that class of purchaser under the provisions of paragraph (b), (c), (d), or (e) of this section, whichever is applicable (except that your ceiling price for delivered sales to consumers must be determined as directed in section 24 (b)). However, in determining your ceiling prices under this section you must always regard a "special pack" case (defined in section 90 (b) (3)) of 11, 11½ or 12-ounce containers as an item of a different container size and container type (as well as case size) from a case which is not a "special pack" case. Of course, all "special pack" cases that have containers which are actually of the same container size and container type, are regarded as being items of the same container size and container type. (For example: A standard case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles is considered as an item of a different case size, container size and container type from a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each. But, a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each, is an item of the same case size, container size and container type as a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of three containers each; and a "special pack" case of 48 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of six containers each is an item of the same container size and container type, though not of the same case size as a "special pack" case of 36 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in nine units of four containers each.) If you cannot calculate your ceiling prices for a particular item under paragraph (b), (c) or (d) of this section and cannot or do not wish to determine your ceiling price for the item under paragraph (e), you must determine that ceiling price under section 23 or 25, whichever is applicable.

(b) Ceiling prices for items of different case size only. This paragraph (b) applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, an item (in bottles or cans) that differs only in case size from an item of the same brand and type for which you have determined a ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. (The item for which you have determined a ceiling price under this regulation is hereafter called your "key item".) In that case your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser, as the proportion of the case size of the item you are pricing to the case size of your "key item." The ceiling price you determine is (1) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (2) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

(c) Ceiling prices for barrels of different size only. (1) This paragraph (c) applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, a barrel (or fraction of a barrel) of malt beverages that differs only in size from a barrel (or fraction of a barrel) of the same brand and type for which you have determined a ceiling price to that particular class of purchaser under this regulation. (The barrel, or fraction thereof, for which you have determined a ceiling price under this regulation is hereafter called your "key item.") In that case, your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser, as the proportion of the size of the item you are pricing to the size of your "key item." In addition, if the container size of the item you are pricing is ⅛ barrel you may increase that ceiling price 25 cents. However, if your "key item" is ⅛ barrel your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser less 25 cents, as the proportion of the size of the item you are pricing to the size of your "key item."

(2) The ceiling price determined in subparagraph (1) is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

EXAMPLE: The ceiling price you have previously determined under this regulation for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of a half-barrel of Z beer is $8. Therefore, you select a half-barrel of Z beer as your "key item." You now wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of ¼ barrel of Z beer. Since ¼ barrel of beer is ½ the size of your "key item", your ceiling price for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of ¼ barrel of Z beer is $4, which is ½ of your ceiling price of $8 for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of your "key item."

(d) Ceiling prices for items by reference to another brand produced by the same brewer. (1) This paragraph (d) applies to you under the following circumstances:

(i) You are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, an item whose ceiling price you cannot determine under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, and that item differs only in container size or container type or both container size and container type (or any combination of those two characteristics along with case size) from an item or items of the same brand and type for which you have determined your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation; and

(ii) You have determined a ceiling price under this regulation for sale to that class of purchaser of an item of the same container size, container type and (if the item you are pricing is sold in bottles or cans) case size as the item you are pricing but of a different brand (which will be called the "comparable brand") from that of the item you are pricing; and

(iii) You have determined a ceiling price under this regulation for sale to that class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as that of the item you are pricing, and that ceiling price is identical with the ceiling price (to the same class of purchaser) of the "comparable brand" item of the same container size, container type and (if your largest selling item is sold in bottles or cans) case size as that largest selling item.

If this paragraph applies to you, your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the same as the ceiling price for sales to that class of purchaser of the "comparable brand" item of the same container size, container type and (if the item you are pricing is sold in bottles or cans) case size as the item you are pricing.

(2) The ceiling price determined in subparagraph (1) is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76 and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

EXAMPLE: You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of a case of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of Y Brand ale. You sell cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer to wholesalers and your ceiling price for such sales (previously determined under this regulation) is $3.25. Your largest selling item of Y Brand ale is the 24 12-ounce returnable bottle size for which your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers is $3. Three dollars is also your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. Therefore, your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of Y Brand ale is $3.25, the same as your ceiling price of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer.

(e) Ceiling prices for items by reference to conversion table. This paragraph (e) applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, an item whose ceiling price you cannot determine under paragraph (b), (c), or (d) of this section, and that item differs only in container size or container type or both container size and container type (or any combination of those two characteristics along with case size), from an item (or items) of the same brand and type for which you have determined your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. In that case you may, if you wish, calculate your ceiling price for sale of that item to the particular class of purchaser under the provisions of this paragraph (e). If you do not choose to calculate that ceiling price under this paragraph or if, for any reason, you cannot calculate that ceiling price under this paragraph, you must determine that ceiling price under section 23, 24, or 25, whichever is applicable. However, if you cannot determine your ceiling price for an item under this paragraph because a "dollar-and-cent adjustment" for the item is not contained in Table II, but Table II does contain a "dollar-and-cent adjustment" for an item of the same container size and container type as the item you wish to price, you may first determine a ceiling price under this paragraph for that item (of the same container size and container type) for which a "dollar-and-cent adjustment" is contained in Table II, then calculate your ceiling price for the item you wish to price under the provisions of section 22 (b).

The method for determining your ceiling price under this paragraph for sales of an item to a particular class of purchaser is as follows:

(1) There are five case and container sizes and types listed, in the table labeled Specifications for "Key Items," at the end of this subparagraph. If (i) you can determine your ceiling price under this regulation for sale of an item to the same class of purchaser as the class to which you wish to sell the item you are pricing, and (ii) that item is of the same brand, type, and container material (glass or metal) as the item you are pricing, and (iii) that item is of the same case size, container size, and container type as one of the five items listed in the table labeled Specification for "Key Items," then that item is your "key item." However, if there is more than one item that would qualify as a "key item" (under the standards set up in the last sentence) then your "key item" is that item which, of the items that qualify, accounted for the largest amount of sales, by dollar volume, in either the calendar year 1950, or your last fiscal year ending before January 1, 1952.

(2) Consult Table II for the column headed with the case and container designations of your "key item," then select the figure in that column which applies to the case and container designations of the item for which you are determining a ceiling price. That figure is the "dollar-and-cent adjustment" for the item you are pricing.

(3) To the ceiling price (determined under this regulation) for sales of your "key item" to the particular class of purchaser, add, or subtract from it (as the case may be) the "dollar-and-cent adjustment" arrived at under subparagraph (2) for the item you are pricing. The resulting figure is your ceiling price for sale of the item you are pricing to the particular class of purchaser and is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. The ceiling price arrived at under this subparagraph (3) may, however, be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. In addition, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

(1) You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of a case of 36 8-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. You can determine your ceiling price under this regulation for sales of X Brand beer in cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles, 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles, and 24 12-ounce cans. However, X Brand beer in cases of 24 12-ounce cans cannot be your "key item" because it is packed in metal, which is not the same container material as the container material (glass) of the item you are pricing. As between the other two items, your total sales by dollar volume in your fiscal year ending June 30, 1951 (your last fiscal year ending before January 1, 1952), of X Brand beer in cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles was greater than your total sales of that item in cases of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles. Your "key item," therefore, is a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer.

(2) The case and container designations of your "key item" (24 12-ounce returnable bottles) are listed in Column 1 of Table II, but there is no "dollar-and-cent adjustment" in Column 1 for the item you are pricing (36 8-ounce returnable bottles). There is, however, a "dollar-and-cent adjustment" in Column 1 for 24 8-ounce returnable bottles, which is the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing. That "dollar-and-cent adjustment" is "−44" cents.

(3) Your ceiling price (determined under this regulation) for sale of your "key item" (a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer) to wholesalers is $2.65, and is your ceiling price for f. o. b. sales. Subtracting 44 cents (your Table II "dollar-and-cent adjustment" for 24 8-ounce returnable bottles) from $2.65, gives you $2.21, which is what your ceiling price would be for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of a case of 24 8-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. Applying the provisions of section 22 (b) you multiply that $2.21 ceiling price by 1½, since the case size of the item you are pricing (36 8-ounce returnable bottles) is 1½ times the case size of 24 8-ounce returnable bottles. Your ceiling price for f. o. b. sales to wholesalers of a case of 36 8-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is, therefore, $3.31½ ($2.21 × 1½ = $3.31½) which, under section (70) (b) (1), you may round to $3.32.

SEC. 23. How a brewer is to determine his ceiling prices for certain items by reference to a competitive brewer. This section applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser (1) an item whose ceiling price you cannot determine under either section 21 or 22 and cannot, or do not wish to, determine under section 22 (e), and (2) that item differs only in container size or container type or both container size and container type (or any combination of those two characteristics along with case size) from an item (or items) of the same brand and type for which you have determined your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. However, in determining your ceiling prices under this section you must always regard a "special pack" case (defined in section 90 (b) (3)) of 11, 11½ or 12-ounce containers as an item of a different container size and container type (as well as case size) from a case which is not a "special pack" case. Of course, all "special pack" cases that have containers which actually are of the same container size and container type, are regarded as being items of the same container size and container type. (For example: A standard case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles is considered as an item of a different case size, container size and container type from a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each. But, a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each, is an item of the same case size, container size and container type as a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of three containers each; and a "special pack" case of 48 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of six containers each is an item of the same container size and container type, though not of the same case size, as a "special pack" case of 36 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in nine units of four containers each.) If this section applies to you, you must determine your ceiling price for sale of that item to the particular class of purchaser (except for delivered sales to consumers, to which section 24 (b) applies) as follows:

(a) Of the items for which you have already determined ceiling prices under this regulation (for sales to the same class of purchaser as the class to which you wish to sell the item you are pricing) determine your largest selling item of the same brand and type as the item you are pricing. That largest selling item is your "key item."

(b) Select, as your "competitive brewer," a brewer who sells to the particular class of purchaser both: (1) an item of the same container size, container type and (if your "key item" is sold in bottles or cans) case size as your "key item" and whose ceiling price per case for such sales is equal to, or no more than 10 cents higher or lower than, your "key item's" ceiling price per case for sales to that class of purchaser, and (2) an item of the same container size and container type (but not necessarily of the same case size) as the item you are pricing (and of the same brand and type as that one of his items referred to in (b) (1)).

(c) Determine your "base figure" as follows: (1) if the item you are pricing is packed in cases, then

(i) If the case size of the "competitive brewer's" item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing is the same as the case size of the item you are pricing, the "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of that case size, container size, and container type of item is your "base figure."

(ii) If the case size of the "competitive brewer's" item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing is different from the case size of the item you are pricing, your "base figure" is the price which is in the same proportion to your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of his item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing, as the proportion of the case size of the item you are pricing to the case size of your "competitive brewer's" item of the same container size and container type.

(2) If the item you are pricing is a barrel (or fraction of a barrel), then the "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of that container size and container type of item is your "base figure."

EXAMPLE: You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of cases of 24 7-ounce returnable bottles. Your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price to wholesalers for 36 7-ounce returnable bottles is $3.30 per case. Since the case size of the item you are pricing is $\frac{2}{3}$ the case size of your "competitive brewer's" item, your "base figure" is $2.20, which is $\frac{2}{3}$ of your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sale of 36 7-ounce returnable bottles.

(d) Divide your ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to the particular class of purchaser, by your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sales to that class of purchaser of his item of the same container size, container type, and (if your "key item" is sold in bottles or cans) case size as your "key item." The resulting figure is your "comparison factor." Your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is determined by multiplying your "base figure" (arrived at in (c)) by that "comparison factor." The ceiling price you determine is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 27 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 28.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

(a) You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer. The largest selling case and container size and type of X Brand beer for which you have already calculated a ceiling price to wholesalers under this regulation is 24 12-ounce returnable bottles, and that ceiling price was $2.50 per case. Therefore, your "key item" is 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X brand beer.

(b) Brewer Y:

(1) sells Y Brand beer to wholesalers in 24 12-ounce returnable bottles (the same container size, container type, and case size as your "key item"), for which his ceiling price is $2.54 per case, and

(2) though he does not sell Y Brand beer to wholesalers in 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles (the case size of the item you are pricing), he does sell it in 24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles, for which his ceiling price is $2.44 per case.

Since Y sells items of the same container size, container type and case size as your "key item" and of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing, and since Y's ceiling price of $2.54 for sale of the same case and container size and type as your "key item" is less than 10 cents higher than your "key item's" ceiling price of $2.50, you may select Y as your "competitive brewer."

(c) The case size of the item you are pricing (36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles) is $1\frac{1}{2}$ times larger than the case size of the "competitive brewer's" item of the same container size and container type (24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles). Therefore, your "base figure" is $3.66, which is $1\frac{1}{2}$ times greater than your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price of $2.44 for sales of 24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles to wholesalers.

(d) Dividing $2.50 (your ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of your "key item") by $2.54 (your "competitive brewer's" ceiling price for sales to wholesalers of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles, the same case and container size and type as your "key item"), you arrive at 0.9842, which is your "comparison factor" ($2.50 ÷ $2.54 = .9842). Multiplying $3.66 (your "base figure") by 0.9842 (your "comparison factor") gives you your ceiling price, for sales to wholesalers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer, of $3.60.

SEC. 24. How a brewer is to determine his ceiling prices for sales to home distributors and for delivered sales to consumers—(a) Sales to home distributors. This paragraph (a) applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell an item or items to home distributors (defined in section 90 (a) (13)) in a particular State. In that case if, during the "base period," you treated those home distributors as a different class of purchaser from wholesalers in that State who were not home distributors, you must determine your ceiling prices for sales to those home distributors as you would determine your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation for sales to retailers. However if, during the "base period," you did not treat those home distributors as a different class of purchaser from wholesalers in that State who were not home distributors, you must determine your ceiling prices for sales to those home distributors as you would determine your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation for sales to wholesalers.

(b) Delivered sales to consumers. This paragraph (b) applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell an item or items to consumers on a delivered basis. In that case you must determine your ceiling prices for such delivered sales to consumers under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers. If however, in determining your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers, it is necessary for you to determine your "cost of acquisition" for a particular customary purchase of an item, you must regard your "cost of acquisition" for that particular customary purchase as the "cost of acquisition" you would have incurred if you purchased that item for the same price and under the same conditions as a retailer.

SEC. 25. How a brewer is to determine his ceiling prices for sales of items when the ceiling prices for those sales cannot be determined under any other section of this regulation. This section applies to you if you are a brewer who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) for which you cannot determine a ceiling price for that class of purchaser under sections 21, 22, 23, or 24 of this regulation, and for which you cannot or do not wish to determine your ceiling price to that class of purchaser as permitted under section 22 (e), 24 or 26. In that case, you may apply to the Office of Price Stabilization, Alcoholic Beverage Section, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a ceiling price for sale of the item to the particular class of purchaser. Your application must be in writing, signed by you or a duly authorized officer, shall state that it is filed under this section, and shall contain the following information:

(a) A description of the item for which you wish a ceiling price (that is, the item's brand, type, container size, container type and, if sold in returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles or cans, its case size).

(b) The class of purchaser to whom you wish to sell the item.

(c) An explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under sections 21, 22 (b), (c) or (d), 23 or 24 for sales of the item to the particular class of purchaser.

(d) The names and addresses (if available) of the two brewers who you think are selling the items that are (or will be) the most closely competitive items to the one for which you wish a ceiling price, and a description of those items (that is, the brand, type, container size, container type and, if sold in returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles or cans, the case size of each of those items). In addition, also state (if you can obtain the information) the ceiling prices in effect for sales of those two most closely competitive items to the same class of purchaser as that to which you wish to sell the item for which you are making application under this section.

After your application is filed, the Office of Price Stabilization may, by amendment or order, establish a ceiling price for sales of the item to the particular class of purchaser which is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established under this regulation. You may not, however, sell the item to the particular class of purchaser until after such amendment or order is issued and becomes effective. However, if you have established a ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR) or CPR 117 for sale of the item to that class of purchaser, you may continue to make such sales at or below your GCPR or CPR 117 ceiling price until the amendment or order applied for under this section is issued and takes effect. In any event you may not sell the item to the particular class of purchaser either at or below your GCPR or CPR 117 ceiling price after July 21, 1952, unless you have by that date placed in the mail, properly addressed and completed, your application for a ceiling price under this section.

SEC. 26. Optional method of determination of brewers' ceiling prices to sole distributors and wholly owned distributors. This section applies to you if you are a brewer who sells or delivers malt beverages to a sole distributor (as defined in section 90 (a) (16)) of your malt beverages or to a corporation or other outlet engaged in the distribution of your malt beverages and wholly owned by you. In that case you may determine our ceiling prices for the items you sell to any one of those types of purchasers either (a) under the other provisions of this regulation which apply to you, or (b) pursuant to a contract, formula or other method customarily used by you to determine selling prices to that type of purchaser before the issuance of this regulation.

SEC. 27. Optional method for determination of brewers' ceiling prices for newly labeled malt beverages—(a) Optional method of determination of ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are a brewer who, after June 24, 1950, sells or intends to sell a malt beverage under a different label than your other malt beverages, but the quality of that newly labeled malt beverage is equal to, or better than, the quality of a malt beverage (the "comparable malt beverage") you are or were selling. In that case, you may regard the malt beverage with the new label as being the same brand and type as the "comparable malt beverage," and you may determine your ceiling price for a particular container size, container type and (if sold in bottles or cans) case size of that newly labeled malt beverage under sections 21, 22, 23, 24 or 26 (whichever applies), just as if it were the same "item" as the identical container size, container type and (if sold in bottles or cans) case size of the "comparable malt beverage." (For example: If (i) you sold cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer during the "base period" and now wish to produce and to determine your ceiling prices for cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand ale, and (ii) the quality of Y brand ale is not inferior to that of X Brand beer, then (iii) you may adopt as your ceiling prices for sales of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand ale, your ceiling prices for sales to the same classes of purchasers of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. As a further example, if (i) you wish to produce Z Brand beer in 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles, and (ii) you sold X Brand beer during the "base period" but not in that container type (non-returnable bottles), and (iii) the quality of Z Brand beer is not inferior to that of X Brand beer, then (iv) you may determine your ceiling prices for sales of Z Brand beer under section 22 (e) assuming, for purposes of that calculation only, that you are merely pricing a different container type of X Brand beer.

(b) Required notification to purchasers. If you choose to determine your ceiling prices for a newly labeled malt beverage in the manner stated in paragraph (a) you must give (in writing) the notice set forth below to: (1) all wholesalers who purchased the "comparable malt beverage" from you during the "base period" and now purchase the newly labeled malt beverage from you; (2) all retailers and "on-premise licensees" who (i) purchased the "comparable malt beverage" from you between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive; (ii) did not purchase the newly labeled malt beverage from you between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, and (iii) purchase (or purchased) the newly labeled malt beverage from you within 2 months after you first offer (or offered) it for sale. That notice must be given to each such wholesaler or retailer or "on-premise licensee" either on or before the day you first deliver the newly labeled malt beverage to him after July 21, 1952. In addition, you must mail a copy of the notice to the Office of Price Stabilization, Alcoholic Beverage Section, Washington 25, D. C., on or before the day you make your first delivery of the newly labeled malt beverage after July 21, 1952.

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR ITEM WITH NEW LABEL

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to inform you that, for purposes of calculating your ceiling prices under CPR 117, Revision 1, you must regard (list brand and type of the newly labeled malt beverage) and (list brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage") as the same item. Therefore, you must determine your ceiling prices for each container size, container type and case size of (list brand and type of the newly labeled malt beverage) under the applicable sections of CPR 117, Revision 1, just as if it were the same item as the particular container size, container type and case size of (list brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage").

The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

SEC. 28. Brewers' notification of ceiling prices. (a) If you are a brewer who determines your ceiling prices under this regulation you must give to each of your purchasers (other than consumers), either at the time of, or before, your first delivery of any of your items to that purchaser after January 28, 1952, a written notice as follows:

NOTICE OF CEILING PRICES

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to establish the following ceiling prices for sales to you of our malt beverages:

Item	Ceiling price
----------	----------
----------	----------
----------	----------

(List each item, defined in section 90 (b) (8), for which you have established a ceiling price for sale to the class of purchaser to whom the notice is given.)

Our ceiling prices include all Federal taxes and (specify State and local taxes, if any, included). The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

In addition, you may not sell an item to a class of purchaser after July 21, 1952 until you first send to the Office of Price Stabilization, Alcoholic Beverage Section, Washington 25, D. C., a copy of the above notice applicable to that class of purchaser, and (if the information is not already included in the notice) a statement indicating: (1) the class of purchaser to whom the notice applies, and (2) whether the ceiling prices listed in the notice are f. o. b. or delivered prices.

(b) You need only give the above notice to a purchaser once and, of course, you need not give a second notice to a purchaser to whom you gave a notice under section 24 of the original CPR 117. However, (1) if you establish a ceiling price for sale to a purchaser of an item not listed in any previous notice you gave to him (under this section or section 24 of the original CPR 117), or (2) if, for any reason, there is a change in the ceiling price which was listed for sale of an item to a purchaser in that last notice you gave him (under this section or section 24 of the original CPR 117) which covered that item, then you must give that purchaser an additional notice (listing the new ceiling prices for the particular item) at or before the time you make your first delivery of the item to him at that new ceiling price. You must also, before the time you make your first delivery of the particular item to any purchaser at that new ceiling price, send to the Office of Price Stabilization, Alcoholic Beverage Section, Washington 25, D. C., a copy of the notice listing the new ceiling price applicable to purchasers in that particular class, and (if the information is not already included in that notice), a statement indicating: (i) The class of purchaser to whom the notice applies, and (ii) whether the ceiling prices listed in the notice are f. o. b. or delivered prices.

ARTICLE III—WHOLESALERS

SEC. 30. Wholesalers' "base period." If you are a wholesaler of imported or domestic malt beverages your "base period" is the period May 24, 1950 through June 24, 1950. Therefore, any reference to a "base period" in those provisions of this regulation which apply to you, means May 24, 1950 through June 24, 1950.

SEC. 31. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for items dealt in during the "base period." This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler who sells to a particular class of purchaser an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) of imported or domestic malt beverages which you sold or offered for sale to that same class of purchaser during the "base period." In that case, you must figure your ceiling price for those sales (except for delivered sales to consumers, to which section 35 applies) as follows:

(a) (1) Determine the highest price at which you made a customary sale of the item to the particular class of purchaser during the "base period." If no such sale was made, you must use the highest price at which you offered the item for sale to that class of purchaser during the "base period" if the offer, or its acceptance, is proven by some written or printed evidence such as a price list, price posting, printed advertisement, etc. (If, however, your offering price was intended to withhold the item from the market, or if it was merely a bargaining price, your usual practice being to sell at a price lower than that asked, you may not use that offering price as your offering price under this paragraph.) In addition, if during the entire "base period," you were selling the item to the particular class of purchaser under the terms of a "special deal" (as defined in section 90 (c) (8)), you may use as your "base period" price the price last in effect for the item to that class of purchaser before the day the "special deal" started.

(2) The "base period" price you determine under subparagraph (1) must not include any charge for case or containers or any amount that the purchaser could (pursuant to a repurchase agreement) have recovered for return of the case and containers purchased. Furthermore, if your "base period" price includes any excise or similar tax which has been reduced or eliminated since the beginning of the "base period," you must lower that price to reflect the amount of such reduction or elimination. If you cannot determine your "base period" sales price or offering price of the item under this paragraph (a), then you must determine your ceiling price for the item under sections 32, 33, 34 or 36, whichever is applicable.

(b) Consult either Column 2 or Column 3 (whichever applies) of Table III for the dollar-and-cent "permitted increase" figure applicable for sales of the particular item to the particular class of purchaser. (The "permitted increase" figures in Table III include adjustments for the increase in the United States excise tax on malt beverages, which became effective November 1, 1951.) If a "permitted increase" figure for the particular item you are pricing is not listed in Table III, you must determine your ceiling price for the item under sections 32, 33, 34, or 36 whichever is applicable.

(c) Consult Column 2 of Table IV for the amount of the "compensated freight increase" applicable to the particular item you are pricing. If your "freight cost" has (between the end of the "base period" and December 31, 1951) increased more than the amount of that "compensated freight increase," you may add an "additional freight cost adjustment" equal in amount to the excess of your "freight cost" increase over that "compensated freight increase." For purposes of this paragraph "freight cost" means:

(1) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)) applicable to the particular item and actually incurred by you to transport the item from the supplier's customary shipping point to your customary receiving point, to the extent that those charges were not already included in the gross invoice price for the item; plus

(2) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)) that (under the arrangement you have with your supplier) must be incurred by you (in addition to the gross invoice price for the item) to return to that supplier the empty case and containers in which the item is packed.

EXAMPLE 1: You wish to calculate your ceiling price for sales to retailers (one of your classes of purchasers) of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. Your "base period" price for sales of that item to retailers was $3.50, and was a delivered price. In Column 1 of Table III you find the line on which is listed the item you are pricing (24 12-ounce returnable bottles). Following that line across to Column 2 you find 35 cents, the "permitted increase" figure for delivered sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of beer. In addition, since your "freight cost" for the item increased 4½ cents between the "base period" and December 31, 1951, which is 1½ cents higher than the amount of the "compensated freight increase" shown in Table IV for that item, your "additional freight cost adjustment" is 1½ cents. Your delivered ceiling price for sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is, therefore, $3.86½ ($3.50+35 cents+1½ cents=$3.86½) which, under section 70 (b) (1), you may round up to $3.87.

EXAMPLE 2: You wish to calculate your ceiling price for f. o. b. sales to consumers of a case of 12 32-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. (Your ceiling price for delivered sales to consumers must be calculated as directed in section 35.) Your "base period" price for f. o. b. sales of that item to consumers was $4.10. In Column 1 of Table III you find the line on which is listed the item you are pricing (12 32-ounce returnable bottles). Following that line across to Column 3, you find 51 cents, the "permitted increase" figure for f. o. b. sales to consumers of a case of 12 32-ounce returnable bottles of beer. (Since your "freight cost" for the item increased by only 2 cents between the "base period" and December 31, 1951, which is not in excess of the "compensated freight increase" for that item listed in Table IV, you are not entitled to any "additional freight cost adjustment.") Your f. o. b. ceiling price for sales to consumers of a case of 12 32-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is, therefore, $4.61 (4.10+51 cents=$4.61).

SEC. 32. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling price for items of a different container size, container type or case size than those dealt in during the "base period"—(a) How to use this section. This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a particular class of purchaser an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) for which you cannot determine your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under section 31 but which differs only in case size or container size or container type (or any combination of those three characteristics) from an item for which you have already determined a ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. In that case, you must determine your ceiling price for sale of the particular item you wish to sell to that class of purchaser under the provisions of this section (except that your ceiling price for delivered sales to consumers must be determined as directed in section 35). However, in determining your ceiling prices under this section you must always regard a "special pack" case (defined in section 90 (b) (3)) of 11, 11½ or 12-ounce containers as an item of a different container size and container type (as well as case size) from a case which is not a "special pack" case. Of course, all "special pack" cases that have containers which actually are of the same container size and container type, are regarded as being items of the same container size and container type. (For example: A standard case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles is considered as an item of a different case size, container size and container type from a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each. But, a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each, is an item of the same case size, container size and container type as a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of three containers each; and a "special pack" case of 48 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of six containers each is an item of the same container size and container type, though not of the same case size, as a "special pack" case of 36 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in nine units of four containers each.) If you cannot calculate your ceiling prices for a particular item under the provisions of this section, you must determine that ceiling price under section 33, 34, or 36, whichever is applicable.

(b) Ceiling prices for items of different case size only. This paragraph (b) applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, an item (in bottles or cans) that differs only in case size from an item of the same brand and type for which you have determined a ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. (The item for which you have determined a ceiling price under this regulation is hereafter called your "key item".) In that case your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser, as the proportion of the case size of the item you are pricing to the case size of your "key item". The ceiling price you determine is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

(c) Ceiling prices for barrels of different size only. (1) This paragraph (c) applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, a barrel (or fraction of a barrel) of malt beverages that differs only in size from a barrel (or fraction of a barrel) of the same brand and type for which you have determined a ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. (The barrel, or fraction thereof, for which you have determined a ceiling price under this regulation is hereafter called your "key item.") In that case, your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser, as the proportion of the size of the item you are pricing is to the size of your "key item." In addition, if the container size of the item you are pricing is ⅛ barrel you may increase that ceiling price 30 cents. However, if your "key item" is ⅛ barrel your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the price which is in the same proportion to the ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to that class of purchaser less 30 cents, as the proportion of the size of the item you are pricing to the size of your "key item."

(2) The ceiling price determined in subparagraph (1) is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

EXAMPLE: The ceiling price you have previously determined under this regulation for delivered sales to retailers of a half-barrel of Z Beer is $10. Therefore, you select a half-barrel of Z Beer as your "key item". You now wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to retailers of ¼ barrel of Z Beer. Since ¼ barrel of beer is ½ the size of your "key item", your ceiling price for delivered sales to retailers of ¼ barrel of Z Beer is $5, which is ½ of your ceiling price of $10 for delivered sales to retailers of your "key item".

(d) Ceiling prices for items by reference to another brand sold by you. (1) This paragraph (d) applies to you under the following circumstances:

(i) You are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser, except to consumers on a delivered basis, an item whose ceiling price you cannot determine under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, and that item differs only in container size or container type or both container size and container type (or any combination of those two characteristics along with case size) from an item or items of the same brand and type for which you have determined your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation; and

(ii) You have determined a ceiling price under this regulation for sale to that class of purchaser of an item of the same container size, container type and (if the item you are pricing is sold in bottles or cans) case size as the item you are pricing but of a different brand (which will be called the "comparable brand") from that of the item you are pricing; and

(iii) You have determined a ceiling price under this regulation for sale to that class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as that of the item you are pricing, and that ceiling price is identical with the ceiling price (to the same class of purchaser) of the "comparable brand" item of the same container size, container type and (if your largest selling item is sold in bottles or cans) case size as that largest selling item.

If this paragraph applies to you, your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is the same as the ceiling price for sales to that class of purchaser of the "comparable brand" item of the same container size, container type and (if the item you are pricing is sold in bottles or cans) case size as the item you are pricing.

(2) The ceiling price determined in subparagraph (1) is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of section 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales to the same class of purchaser of your largest selling item of the same brand as the item you are pricing. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

EXAMPLE: You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to retailers of a case of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of Y Brand ale. You sell cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottle of X Brand beer to retailers and your ceiling price for such sales (previously determined under this regulation) is $3.90. Your largest selling item of Y Brand ale is the 24 12-ounce returnable bottle size for which your ceiling price for sales to retailers is $3.60. $3.60 is also your ceiling price for sale to retailers of cases of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. Therefore, your ceiling price for sales to retailers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of Y Brand ale is $3.90, the same as your ceiling price for 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer.

SEC. 33. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for certain items by reference to a competitive wholesaler. This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser an item whose ceiling price you cannot determine under either section 31 or 32, and that item differs only in container size or container type or both container size and container type (or any combination of those two characteristics along with case size) from an item (or items) of the same brand and type for which you have determined your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under this regulation. However, in determining your ceiling prices under this section you must always regard a "special pack" case (defined in section 90 (b) (3)) of 11, 11½ or 12-ounce containers as an item of a different container size and container type (as well as case size) from a case which is not a "special pack" case. Of course, all "special pack" cases that have containers which actually are of the same container size and container type, are regarded as being items of the same container size and container type. (For example: A standard case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles is considered as an item of a different case size, container size and container type from a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each. But, a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in four units of six containers each, is an item of the same case size, container size and container type as a "special pack" case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of three containers each; and a "special pack" case of 48 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in eight units of six containers each is an item of the same container size and container type, though not of the same case size, as a "special pack" case of 36 12-ounce returnable bottles packed in nine units of four containers each.) If this section applies to you, you must determine your ceiling price for sale of that item to the particular class of purchaser (except for delivered sales to consumers, to which section 35 applies) as follows:

(a) Of the items for which you have already determined ceiling prices under this regulation (for sales to the same class of purchaser as the class to which you wish to sell the item you are pricing) determine your largest selling item of the same brand and type as the item you are pricing. That largest selling item is your "key item."

(b) Select, as your "competitive wholesaler," a wholesaler who sells to the particular class of purchaser both: (1) An item of the same container size, container type and (if your "key item" is sold in bottles or cans) case size as your "key item" and whose ceiling price per case for such sales is equal to, or no more than 10 cents higher or lower than, your "key item's" ceiling price per case for sales to that class of purchaser, and (2) an item of the same container size and container type (but not necessarily of the same case size) as the item you are pricing (and of the same brand and type as that one of his items referred to in paragraph (b) (1)).

(c) Determine your "base figure" as follows: (1) If the item you are pricing is packed in cases, then

(i) If the case size of the "competitive wholesaler's" item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing is the same as the case size of the item you are pricing, the "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of that case size, container size and container type of item is your "base figure."

(ii) If the case size of the "competitive wholesaler's" item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing is different from the case size of the item you are pricing, your "base figure" is the price which is in the same proportion to your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of his item of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing, as the proportion of the case size of the item you are pricing to the case size of your "competitive wholesaler's" item of the same container size and container type.

(2) If the item you are pricing is a barrel (or fraction of a barrel), then the "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sale to the particular class of purchaser of that container size and container type of item is your "base figure."

(For example: You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to retailers of cases of 24 7-ounce returnable bottles. Your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price to retailers for 36 7-ounce returnable bottles is $3.90 per case. Since the case size of the item you are pricing is ⅔ the case size of your "competitive wholesaler's" item, your "base figure" is $2.60, which is ⅔ of your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sale of 36 7-ounce returnable bottles.)

(d) Divide your ceiling price for sales of your "key item" to the particular class of purchaser, by your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sales to that class of purchaser of his item of the same container size, container type, and (if your "key item" is sold in bottles or cans) case size as your "key item." The resulting figure is your "comparison factor." Your ceiling price for sales to the particular class of purchaser of the item you are pricing is determined by multiplying your "base figure" (arrived at in (c)) by that "comparison factor." The ceiling price you determine is (1) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (2) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "key item" to the same class of purchaser. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of this regulation if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

(a) You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to retailers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer. The largest selling case and container size and type of X Brand beer for which you have already calculated a ceiling price to retailers under this regulation is 24 12-ounce returnable bottles, and that ceiling price was $3 per case. Therefore, your "key item" is 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer.

(b) Wholesaler W:

(1) sells Y Brand beer to retailers in 24 12-ounce returnable bottles (the same container size, container type, and case size as your "key item"), for which his ceiling price is $3.08 per case, and

(2) though he does not sell Y Brand beer to retailers in 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles (the case size of the item you are pricing), he does sell it in 24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles, for which his ceiling price is $2.90 per case.

Since W sells items of the same container size, container type and case size as your "key item" and of the same container size and container type as the item you are pricing, and since W's ceiling price of $3.08 for sale of the same case and container size and type as your "key item" is less than 10 cents higher than your "key item's" ceiling price of $3, you may select W as your "competitive wholesaler."

(c) The case size of the item you are pricing (36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles) is 1½ times larger than the case size of the

"competitive wholesaler's" item of the same container size and container type (24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles). Therefore, your "base figure" is $4.35, which is 1½ times greater than your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price of $2.90 for sales of 24 7-ounce non-returnable bottles to retailers.

(d) Dividing $3 (your ceiling price for sales to retailers of your "key item") by $3.08 (your "competitive wholesaler's" ceiling price for sales to retailers of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles, the same case and container size and type as your "key item"), you arrive at .974, which is your "comparison factor" ($3÷$3.08=.974). Multiplying $4.35 (your "base figure") by .974 (your "comparison factor") gives you your ceiling price, for sales to retailers of cases of 36 7-ounce non-returnable bottles of X Brand beer, of $4.23+9 which, under section 70 (b) (1), you may round up to $4.24.

SEC. 34. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for sales of items when the ceiling prices for those sales cannot be determined under either section 31, 32 or 33—(a) How to use this section. This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell to a class of purchaser an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) of imported or domestic malt beverages for which you cannot determine your ceiling price to that class of purchaser under either section 31, 32, or 33. In that case, you must determine your ceiling price for such sales (except for delivered sales to consumers, to which section 35 applies) under paragraph (c) of this section and, in determining that ceiling price, you must use the definition of "cost of acquisition" contained in paragraph (b) of this section (rather than the definition in section 90 (c) (1)).

(b) Definition of "cost of acquisition." For purposes of this section only, "cost of acquisition" means the total of:

(1) Your supplier's ceiling price per item for sale of the item to you less (i) all United States, State, and local taxes (other than excise taxes), fees and charges included in that ceiling price, and (ii) all charges, included in that ceiling price, which may be recovered upon return to your supplier of the containers and case in which the item is shipped.

(2) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)) applicable to the particular item and actually incurred by you to transport the item from the supplier's customary shipping point to your customary receiving point, to the extent that those charges are not already included in the supplier's ceiling price.

(3) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)), at rates currently in effect, that (under the arrangement you have with your supplier) must be incurred by you (in addition to the price you pay your supplier) to return to that supplier the empty case and containers in which the item is packed.

(4) All United States, State and local excise taxes, and United States customs duties applicable to the particular item and actually incurred by you, to the extent that those taxes and duties are not already included in your supplier's ceiling price.

(5) In the case of an imported item, the costs actually incurred by you to withdraw that item from customs custody, to the extent that those costs are not already included in your supplier's ceiling price.

(c) Determination of ceiling prices. If you are a wholesaler to whom this section applies, you must determine your ceiling price for sales of the item you are pricing to the particular class of purchaser (except for delivered sales of that item to consumers) as follows:

(1) Determine (i) the domestic items (if you are pricing a domestic item) of the same "container type" as the item you are pricing, or (ii) the imported items (if you are pricing an imported item) of the same "container type" as the item you are pricing, for which you have figured ceiling prices under this regulation for sales to that particular class of purchaser. (For purposes of this subparagraph (1) "container type" means "container type" as defined in section 90 (b) (5), except that returnable bottles and non-returnable bottles are considered the same "container type".) Of the items determined select the one whose "cost of acquisition" (defined in paragraph (b)) for a current customary purchase by you would be nearest to your "cost of acquisition" for a current customary purchase of the item for which you are calculating a ceiling price. That item is your "comparison item".

(2) Divide your ceiling price for sales of your "comparison item" to the particular class of purchaser by the "cost of acquisition" which you would incur if you made a customary purchase of that "comparison item" just before you calculate your ceiling price under this section. The resulting figure is your "markup factor" for sales of the item you are pricing to the particular class of purchaser.

(3) Multiply the "cost of acquisition" you would incur for a customary purchase of the item you are pricing just before you calculate your ceiling price under this section, by your "markup factor" (arrived at under subparagraph (2)). The resulting figure is your ceiling price for all subsequent sales of that item to the particular class of purchaser and is (i) an f. o. b. price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "comparison item" to the same class of purchaser is an f. o. b. price; (ii) a delivered price, if the ceiling price for sale of your "comparison item" to the same class of purchaser is a delivered price. In addition, that ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, and 78 of this regulation, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "comparison item" to the same class of purchaser. You must also comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of this regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

EXAMPLES: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

(1) You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to retailers of cases of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer, a domestic item. Of the domestic items of the same container type (returnable and non-returnable bottles) for which you have already figured ceiling prices under this regulation, 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Stars and Stripes ale is the item whose "cost of acquisition" for a current customary purchase by you would be nearest to your "cost of acquisition" for a current customary purchase of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer. Therefore, your "comparison item" is a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Stars and Stripes ale.

(2) Your ceiling price for sales of your "comparison item" to retailers is $3.42 and is a delivered price. The "cost of acquisition" you would incur for a current customary purchase of that "comparison item" is $2.80. (Note that "cost of acquisition", as defined in paragraph (b), is based on your supplier's ceiling price to you, whether or not your supplier is actually selling the item at his ceiling price.) Dividing $3.42 by $2.80 gives you 1.22, which is your "markup factor" for sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer ($3.42÷$2.80=1.22).

(3) The "cost of acquisition" you would incur for a current customary purchase of a case of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer is $3.00. Multiplying $3.00 by 1.22 (your "markup factor" arrived at in (2)) gives you $3.66 ($3 x 1.22=$3.66) which is your ceiling price for delivered sales of that item to retailers.

SEC. 35. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for delivered sales to consumers. This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler who wishes to sell an item or items to consumers on a delivered basis. In that case you must determine your ceiling prices for such delivered sales to consumers under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers. If, however, in determining your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers, it is necessary for you to determine your "cost of acquisition" for a particular customary purchase of an item, you must regard your "cost of acquisition" for that particular customary purchase as the "cost of acquisition" you would have incurred if you purchased that item for the same price and under the same conditions as a retailer.

SEC. 36. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for sales of items when the ceiling prices for those sales cannot be determined under any other section of this regulation. This section applies to you if you are, or intend to start in business as, a wholesaler of imported or domestic malt beverages and, for any reason, cannot determine your ceiling price for sales of an item to a particular class of purchaser under either section 31, 32, 33, 34 or 35. In that case, you may apply to your OPS District Office for the establishment of a ceiling price for sales of that item to the particular class of purchaser. Your application must be in writing, signed by you or a duly authorized officer, shall state that it is filed under this section and must contain the following information:

(a) A description of the item for which you wish a ceiling price (that is, the item's brand, type, container size, container type, and, if sold in returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles or cans, its case size), and what your "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 34 (b)) for a current customary purchase of that item would be.

(b) The class of purchaser to whom you wish to sell the item.

(c) An explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under sections 31, 32, 33, 34 or 35 for sales of the item to the particular class of purchaser.

(d) The names and addresses (if available) of the two wholesalers who you think are selling the items that are (or will be) the most closely competitive items to the one for which you wish a ceiling price, and a description of those items (that is, the brand, type, container size, container type, and, if sold in returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles or cans, the case size of each of the items). In addition, also state (if you can obtain the information) the ceiling prices in effect for sales of those two most closely competitive items to the same class of purchaser as that to whom you wish to sell the item for which you are making application under this section.

(NOTE: If, before June 9, 1952, you filed an application for ceiling prices under section 33 of the original CPR 117, but did not supply information as to what your "cost of acquisition" for a current customary purchase would be for each item covered by that application, you need not file a second application for those items under this section 38 and need only supply information as to your "costs of acquisition" for current customary purchases of those items if OPS sends you a letter requesting you to do so.)

After your application is filed, the Office of Price Stabilization may, by amendment or order, establish a ceiling price for sales of the item to the particular class of purchaser which is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established under this regulation. You may not sell the item to the particular class of purchaser until after such amendment or order is issued and becomes effective. However, if you have established a ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR), CPR 31, or CPR 117 for sale of the item to that class of purchaser, you may continue to make such sales at or below your GCPR, CPR 31, or CPR 117 ceiling price until the amendment or order applied for under this section is issued and takes effect. In any event you may not sell the item to the particular class of purchaser either at or below your GCPR, CPR 31, or CPR 117 ceiling price after August 4, 1952, unless you have by that date placed in the mail, properly addressed and completed, your application for a ceiling price under this section. Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of section 37 (b) of the regulation, if that section applies to you, and of section 38.

SEC. 37. How a wholesaler is to determine his ceiling prices for sales of certain newly labeled items—(a) How you must compute your ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are a wholesaler of imported or domestic malt beverages who receives the following notice from your supplier:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR ITEM WITH NEW LABEL

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to inform you that, for purposes of calculating your ceiling prices under CPR 117, Revision 1, you must regard (brand and type of newly labeled malt beverage) and (brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage") as the same item. Therefore, you must determine your ceiling prices for each container size, container type and case size of (brand and type of newly labeled malt beverage) under the applicable sections of CPR 117, Revision 1, just as if it were the same item as the particular container size, container type and case size of (brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage").

The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

In that case you must determine your ceiling prices for the newly labeled malt beverage under section 31, 32, 33, 34, 35 or 36 (whichever applies) just as if it were the "comparable malt beverage", and for purposes of pricing under those sections, you must regard the newly labeled item as if it were an item of the same brand and type as the "comparable malt beverage". In other words, the ceiling prices determined for the newly labeled malt beverage must be identical with the ceiling prices you have (or could have) determined for the "comparable malt beverage". Finally, you must comply with the notification provisions of paragraph (b) of this section.

EXAMPLE: You are a wholesaler who has received the following notice from your supplier:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR ITEM WITH NEW LABEL

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to inform you that, for purposes of calculating your ceiling prices under CPR 117, Revision 1, you must regard Y Brand beer and X Brand beer as the same item. Therefore, you must determine your ceiling prices for each container size, container type and case size of Y Brand beer under the applicable sections of CPR 117, Revision 1, just as if it were the same item as the particular container size, container type and case size of X Brand beer.

The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

The last time you sold X Brand beer was September 1950 and you now want to start selling Y Brand beer. However, if you were calculating your ceiling price for sales to retailers of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer you would do so under section 31. Your "base period" (May 24–June 24, 1950) price for sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer was $3.50, delivered. That is now considered your "base period" price for sales of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer to retailers.

In Column 1 of Table III you find the line on which is listed the item you are pricing (24 12-ounce returnable bottles). Following that line across to Column 2, you find 35 cents, the "permitted increase" figure for delivered sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of beer. In addition, since (as of December 31, 1951) it cost you 4½ cents more to transport a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer from your supplier to you, and return the empty case and container to him, than it cost you to transport and return a similar case of X Brand beer during the "base period", your "freight cost" for Y Brand beer is 4½ cents. This is 1½ cents higher than the amount of the "compensated freight increase" shown in Table IV for that item and, therefore, your "additional freight cost adjustment" is 1½ cents. Your delivered ceiling price for sales to retailers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer is, therefore, $3.86½ ($3.50+35 cents +1½ cents = $3.86½) which, under section 70 (b) (1) you may round up to $3.87. In addition, you must give to your purchasers the written notice required under paragraph (b).

(b) Notification to purchasers. If you are a wholesaler to whom this section applies and who has determined his ceiling prices (as directed in paragraph (a)) for sales of a newly labeled malt beverage, you must, in turn, give copies of the written notice you have received to: (1) all wholesalers who purchased the "comparable malt beverage" from you during the "base period" and now purchase the newly labeled malt beverage from you; (2) all retailers and "on-premise licensees" who (i) purchased the "comparable malt beverage" from you between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, (ii) did not purchase the newly labeled malt beverage from you between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, and (iii) purchase (or purchased) the newly labeled malt beverage from you within 2 months after you first offer (or offered) it for sale. That notice must be given to each such wholesaler, retailer, or "on-premise licensee" either on or before the day you first deliver the newly labeled malt beverage to him after August 4, 1952. In addition, you must mail a copy of the notice to your OPS District Office on or before the day you make your first delivery of the newly labeled malt beverage after August 4, 1952.

SEC. 38. Wholesalers' notification of ceiling prices. (a) If you are a wholesaler and you determine your ceiling prices under this regulation for sales of imported or domestic malt beverages, you must give to each of your purchasers (other than consumers) either at the time of, or before, your first delivery of any of your items to that purchaser after January 28, 1952, a written notice as follows:

NOTICE OF CEILING PRICES

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to establish the following prices for sales to you of our malt beverages.

Item	Ceiling price

(List each item, defined in section 90 (a) (8), for which you have established a ceiling price for sale to the class of purchaser to whom your notice is given.)

Our ceiling prices include all Federal taxes and (specify State or local taxes, if any included). The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

(b) You need only give the above notice to a purchaser once and, of course, you need not give a second notice to a purchaser to whom you gave a notice under section 24 of the original CPR 117. However, (1) if you establish a ceiling price for sale to a purchaser of an item not listed in any previous notice you gave to him (under this section or section 24 of the original CPR 117) or (2) if, for any reason, there is a change in the ceiling price which was listed for sale of an item to a purchaser in the last notice you gave to him (under this section or section 24 of the original CPR 117) which covered that item, then you must give that purchaser an additional notice (listing the new ceiling prices for the particular item) at or before the time you make your first delivery of the item to him at that new ceiling price.

ARTICLE IV—SELLERS WHO PRICE AS WHOLESALERS

SEC. 40. How brewers' branches are to determine their ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are a brewer's branch (defined in section 90 (a) (2)). In that case, you are to determine your ceiling prices for sales of malt beverages, as a wholesaler under the provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers. Therefore, for purposes of those provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers, a brewer's branch is considered a wholesaler.

SEC. 41. How an importer is to determine his ceiling prices for certain items. This section applies to you if you are an importer who sells the same item of imported malt beverages to both wholesalers and retailers (or "on-premise licensees"). In that case, you are to determine your ceiling price for sales of that item to retailers and "on-premise licensees" under the provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers. Therefore, for purposes of those provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers, you are considered a wholesaler of that item to the extent that you sell it to retailers and "on-premise licensees." (Your ceiling prices for sales of that item to any class of purchaser other than retailers and "on-premise licensees" continue, of course, to be covered by CPR 31, or whichever other regulation may become applicable to you.)

SEC. 42. How home distributors are to determine their ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are a home distributor (defined in section 90 (a) (13)). In that case you are to determine your ceiling prices, for sales of malt beverages, as a wholesaler under the provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers. For purposes of those provisions of this regulation which apply to wholesalers, therefore, a home distributor is considered a wholesaler.

ARTICLE V—RETAILERS

SEC. 50. How retailers are to calculate and recalculate their ceiling prices for items sold between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive—(a) How to use this section. This section applies to you if you are a retailer of imported or domestic malt beverages. It tells you how to calculate and recalculate your ceiling prices both for case sales and individual container sales to consumers of items you sold between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive. It also refers you to other provisions of this regulation which relate to those ceiling prices. In general, it is provided that your ceiling price for sales of an item to consumers is figured by adjusting your October, 1951 ceiling price to reflect changes in your "cost of acquisition" for that item. It is important for you to remember that, after you have first calculated your ceiling price for an item under this section, you may recalculate the item's ceiling price whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it increases, but you must recalculate the item's ceiling price whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it decreases. Before reading this section you should first read section 90 (b) (8), which tells you what is meant by an "item" and section 90 (c) (1), which tells you what "cost of acquisition" is. If you did not sell a particular item to consumers between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, you must determine your ceiling price for that item under section 51, 52 or 53 of this regulation, whichever is applicable.

(b) Determination of your ceiling prices for case sales. If you are a retailer of an item of imported or domestic malt beverages to whom this section applies your ceiling price for sale of a case of that item to consumers is figured as follows:

(1) Determine the highest price at which you made a customary sale of a case of that item to consumers during the month of October, 1951. If you did not sell a case of that item to consumers during October, 1951, determine the price at which you made your last customary sale of a case of that item to consumers before October 1, 1951 (but you must not use the price charged for a sale made before December 19, 1950). In no event may the price you determine under this subparagraph (1) exceed your ceiling price for the item which was established under the GCPR, as amended, or CPR 31, as amended (whichever was applicable to you), nor may that price include any deposit charge for case or containers.

(2) Determine the difference between: (i) Your base "cost of acquisition", that is, your highest "cost of acquisition" for a customary purchase of the item during October 1951 (or, if you made no customary purchase of the item during October, 1951, the "cost of acquisition" for your last customary purchase before October 1, 1951), and

(ii) Your current "cost of acquisition", that is, the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of the item.

If that difference ends in a fraction of a cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but you must reduce it to the next lower full cent if the fraction is less than one-half cent. The resulting figure is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Consult the first column of Table V (in Appendix A) for the line on which is listed the amount of your "cost change per case" for the item. Then follow that line across to the figure applicable to cases in the column which is headed with the same case size as the case size of the item you are pricing. That figure is your "adjustment factor per case" for the item you are pricing.

(4) (i) Add your "adjustment factor per case" to the price determined in subparagraph (1), if your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition"; but (ii) subtract your "adjustment factor per case" from the price determined in subparagraph (1), if your current "cost of acquisition" is less than your base "cost of acquisition." The resulting figure is your ceiling price for sales of a case of the particular item to consumers. That ceiling price, however, may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, 77 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable. In addition, you may recalculate your ceiling price for the item (under the provisions of this section) whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it increases above that upon which the last calculation (or recalculation) of your ceiling price was based, but must recalculate your ceiling price for the item (under the provisions of this section) whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it decreases below that upon which the last calculation (or recalculation) of your ceiling price was based. Finally, you must comply with the provisions of section 78 of this regulation, which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

Part I

(1) The highest price at which you made a customary sale to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer during October, 1951, was $4.

(2) Your base "cost of acquisition" for that item was $3. (Base "cost of acquisition" is your highest "cost of acquisition" for a customary purchase of the item during October, 1951.) Your "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of that item before the effective date of this regulation was $3.20. That $3.20 is your current "cost of acquisition." The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" therefore, is 20 cents ($3.20−$3=20 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Following the line, in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "20" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that 26 cents is your "adjustment factor per case" for the item.

(4) Since your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition" you add your 26 cents "adjustment factor per case" to $4 (the price determined in (1)), to arrive at $4.26, your ceiling price for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer.

Part II

After the date you calculated your ceiling price of $4.26 for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer, you made a customary purchase of that item for $3.15. Since, therefore, your "cost of acquisition" for that item has changed from the $3.20 "cost of acquisition" upon which your $4.26 ceiling price was based, you must recalculate your ceiling price as follows:

(1) As stated in Part I of this Example, the highest price at which you made a customary sale to consumers of a case of 24

12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer during October, 1951, was $4.

(2) Your base "cost of acquisition" for that item was (as shown in Part I of this Example) $3. Your "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of that item was $3.15. That $3.15 is your current "cost of acquisition." The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" therefore, is 15 cents ($3.15−$3=15 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Following the line in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "15" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that 20 cents is your "adjustment factor per case" for the item.

(4) Since your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition" you add your 20 cents "adjustment factor per case" to $4 (the price determined in (1)), to arrive at $4.20, your recalculated ceiling price for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. (Note that although your $4.20 recalculated ceiling price is higher than the $4 price you were charging in October, 1951, because your cost increased since that time, it is lower than your previous ceiling price of $4.26 because your cost decreased after you calculated that $4.26 ceiling price.)

(c) Determination of your ceiling prices for sales of individual containers. If you are a retailer of an item of imported or domestic malt beverages to whom this section applies your ceiling price for sales of individual containers of that item to consumers is figured as follows:

(1) Determine the highest price at which you made a customary sale of an individual container of that item to consumers during the month of October, 1951. If you did not sell individual containers of that item to consumers during October, 1951, determine the price at which you made your last customary sale of an individual container of that item to consumers before October 1, 1951 (but you must not use the price charged for a sale made before December 19, 1950). In no event may the price you determine under this subparagraph (1) exceed your ceiling price for the item which was established under the GCPR, as amended, or CPR 31, as amended (whichever was applicable to you) nor may that price include any deposit charge for case or containers.

(2) Determine the difference between: (i) Your base "cost of acquisition", this is, your highest "cost of acquisition" for a customary purchase of the item during October, 1951 (or, if you made no customary purchase of the item during October, 1951, the "cost of acquisition" for your last customary purchase before October 1, 1951), and

(ii) Your current "cost of acquisition", that is, the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of the item.

If that difference ends in a fraction of a cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but you must reduce it to the next lower full cent if the fraction is less than one-half cent. The resulting figure is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Consult the first column of Table V (in Appendix A) for the line on which is listed the amount of your "cost change per case" for the item. Then follow that line across to the figure applicable to individual containers in the column which is headed with the same case size as the case size of the item you are pricing. That figure is your "adjustment factor per individual container" for the item you are pricing.

(4) (i) Add your "adjustment factor per individual container" to the price determined in subparagraph (1), if your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition"; but (ii) subtract your "adjustment factor per individual container" from the price determined in subparagraph (1) if your current "cost of acquisition" is less than your base "cost of acquisition."

(5) Your ceiling price for sale of one individual container of the particular item is the figure arrived at in subparagraph (4), except that if that figure ends in one-half cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent. Your ceiling price for sale of more than one individual container of the item (but less than a full case of the item) is determined by multiplying the figure arrived at in subparagraph (4) by the number of containers being sold and, if the resulting price ends in one-half cent, rounding it to the next higher full cent. The ceiling price you determine (either for sales of one individual container or of more than one individual container) may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 70, 71, 76, 77 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable. In addition, you may recalculate your ceiling price for the item (under the provisions of this section) whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it increases above that upon which the last calculation (or recalculation) of your ceiling price was based, but must recalculate your ceiling price for the item (under the provisions of this section) whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it decreases below that upon which the last calculation (or recalculation) of your ceiling price was based. Finally, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation, which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

Part I

(1) The highest price at which you made a customary sale of an individual container of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer during October, 1951, was 18 cents.

(2) Your base "cost of acquisition" for that item was $3. (Base "cost of acquisition" is your highest "cost of acquisition" for a customary purchase of the item during October, 1951.) Your "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of that item before the effective date of this regulation was $3.05. That $3.05 is your current "cost of acquisition". The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" is 5 cents ($3.05−$3=5 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Following the line, in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "5" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that ½ cent is your "adjustment factor per individual container" for the item.

(4) Your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition". Therefore, you add your ½ cent "adjustment factor per individual container" to 18 cents (the price determined in (1)) and arrive at 18½ cents.

(5) Your ceiling price for sales to consumers of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of X Brand beer is determined by rounding the 18½ cent figure, arrived at in subparagraph (4), to the next higher full cent, and is 19 cents. But the ceiling price for sale of two 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is determined by multiplying 18½ cents (the figure arrived at in subparagraph (4)) by 2 and is 37 cents (18½ cents×2=37 cents). Moreover, your ceiling price for sale of three 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is determined by multiplying 18½ cents by 3, which gives you 55½ cents (18½ cents ×3=55½ cents), and rounding that price up to 56 cents.

Part II

After the date you calculated your ceiling price, for sale of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of X Brand beer, of 19 cents (2 for 37 cents), you made a customary purchase of a case of that item for $3.25. Since, therefore, your "cost of acquisition" for that item has changed from the $3.05 "cost of acquisition" upon which your 19 cents (2 for 37 cents) ceiling price was based, you may recalculate your ceiling price as follows:

(1) As stated in Part I of this Example, the highest price at which you made a customary sale to consumers of an individual container of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer during October, 1951, was 18 cents.

(2) Your base "cost of acquisition" for that item was (as shown in Part I of this Example) $3. Your "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of that item was $3.25. That $3.25 is your current "cost of acquisition." The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" therefore, is 25 cents ($3.25−$3=25 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(3) Following the line in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "25" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that 1½ cents is your "adjustment factor per individual container" for the item.

(4) Your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition". Therefore, you add your 1½ cent "adjustment factor per individual container" to 18 cents (the price determined in (1)) and arrive at 19½ cents.

(5) Your recalculated ceiling price for sales to consumers of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of X Brand beer is determined by rounding the 19½ cent figure, arrived at in subparagraph (4), to the next higher full cent, and is 20 cents. But the recalculated ceiling price for sale of two 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is determined by multiplying 19½ cents (the figure arrived at in subparagraph (4)) by 2 and is 39 cents (19½ cents x 2=39 cents). Moreover, your recalculated ceiling price for sale of three 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is determined by multiplying 19½ cents by 3, which gives you 58½ cents (19½ cents × 3=58½ cents), and rounding that price up to 59 cents. (Note that your 20 cents (2 for 39 cents) recalculated ceiling price is higher than both the 18 cent price you were charging in October, 1951 and your previous ceiling price of 19 cents (2 for 37 cents) because your cost increased after October, 1951 and increased again after you calculated your previous ceiling price.)

SEC. 51. How a retailer is to determine his initial ceiling prices for items not sold between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive. This section applies to you if you are (or intend to be) a retailer who wishes to sell to consumers an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) of imported or domestic malt beverages which you did not sell to consumers between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, or for which you cannot determine your ceiling price under section 50. In that case, your initial ceiling prices to consumers, for case sales and individual container sales of the item you wish to sell, must be the same as the ceiling prices for sales to consumers (in cases and individual containers, respectively) of the identical item by your most closely competitive seller. Those initial ceiling prices may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 54, 70, 71, 76 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as your most closely competitive seller is required by section 77 to maintain for sales of that item to consumers. In addition, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation (which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers). If you cannot find out the ceiling price of your most closely competitive seller for sales of the item you wish to sell, or if, for any other reason, you cannot determine your ceiling price under this section, you must determine your initial ceiling price under section 52 or 53 (whichever applies).

SEC. 52. How a retailer is to determine his initial ceiling prices for sales of items when the ceiling prices for those sales can not be determined under either section 50 or 51—(a) How to use this section. This section applies to you if you are a retailer who wishes to sell to consumers an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) of imported or domestic malt beverages for which you cannot determine your initial ceiling price to consumers under either section 50 or 51. (For example: You may not be able to determine your initial ceiling price for the item under section 50 because you did not sell that particular item between December 19, 1950 and October 31, 1951, inclusive, and you may not be able to determine your initial ceiling price for the item under section 51 because you cannot find a competitor who sells that particular item.) In that case, paragraph (b) of this section tells you how to determine your initial ceiling price for case sales of the item, and paragraph (c) tells you how to convert that per case ceiling price into ceiling prices for sales of individual containers. Before reading this section, however, you should first read the definition of "cost of acquisition" in section 90 (c) (1). If, for any reason, you cannot determine your initial ceiling price for the item under this section you must apply for your initial ceiling price under section 53.

(b) Determination of initial ceiling prices for case sales. If you are a retailer to whom this section applies you must calculate your initial ceiling price for case sales of a particular item to consumers as follows:

(1) Determine (i) the domestic items (if you are pricing a domestic item) of the same "container type" as the item you are pricing, or (ii) the imported items (if you are pricing an imported item) of the same "container type" as the item you are pricing, for which you have figured ceiling prices under this regulation for case sales to consumers. (For purposes of this subparagraph (1) "container type" means "container type" as defined in section 90 (b) (5), except that returnable bottles and nonreturnable bottles are considered the same "container type.") Of the items determined, select the one whose supplier's ceiling price to you is nearest to the supplier's ceiling price to you of the item you are pricing. That item is your "comparison item."

(2) Divide your current ceiling price per case for sales of your "comparison item" to consumers, by the "cost of acquisition" which you would incur if you made a customary purchase of that "comparison item" just before you calculate your ceiling price under this section. The resulting figure is your "markup factor" for case sales of the item you are pricing to consumers.

(3) Multiply the "cost of acquisition" for your last customary purchase of the item you are pricing before you make your calculations under this section, by your "markup factor" (arrived at under subparagraph (2)). The resulting figure is your initial ceiling price for case sales of that item to consumers. That initial ceiling price may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of Sections 54, 70, 71, 76 and 78, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for case sales of your "comparison item" to consumers. In addition, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation, which requires you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.

(1) You wish to determine your ceiling price for sales to consumers of cases of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer, a domestic item. Of the domestic items of the same container type (returnable and non-returnable bottles) for which you have already figured ceiling prices under this regulation, 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Stars and Stripes ale is the item whose supplier's ceiling price to you is nearest to the supplier's ceiling price to you for 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer. Therefore, your "comparison item" is a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Stars and Stripes ale.

(2) Your ceiling price for sales of your "comparison item" to consumers is $4.45 and is a delivered price. The "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) you would incur for a current customary purchase of that "comparison item" is $3.42. Dividing $4.45 by $3.42 gives you 1.30, which is your "markup factor" for sales to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer ($4.45÷$3.42=1.30).

(3) The "cost of acquisition" you would incur for a current customary purchase of a case of 24 12-ounce non-returnable bottles of Uncle Sam beer is $3.66. Multiplying $3.66 by 1.30 (your "markup factor" arrived at in (2)) gives you $4.76 ($3.66×1.30=$4.76) which is your ceiling price for sales of that item to consumers.

(c) Determination of initial ceiling prices for sales of individual containers. If you are a retailer and have calculated your ceiling price under paragraph (b) for case sales of a particular item to consumers, your initial ceiling price for sales to consumers of individual containers of that item is figured as follows:

(1) Divide your current ceiling price for case sales of the "comparison item" to consumers, by the number of containers of that "comparison item" customarily packed in a case by your supplier.

(2) Determine the dollar-and-cent difference between the figure arrived at in subparagraph (1) and your current ceiling price for sales to consumers of an individual container of that "comparison item". The resulting figure is your "customary differential" for sales of individual containers of the item you are pricing.

(3) Divide your initial ceiling price (determined under paragraph (b)), for case sales to consumers of the item you are pricing, by the number of containers of that item customarily packed in a case by your supplier.

(4) (i) Add your "customary differential" to the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3), if your current ceiling price for sale to consumers of an individual container of your "comparison item" is greater than the figure determined under subparagraph (1); but (ii) subtract your "customary differential" from the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3), if your current ceiling price for sale to consumers of an individual container of your "comparison item" is less than the figure determined under subparagraph (1). If the resulting figure ends in a fraction of a cent you are to adjust it as follows:

(a) If the fraction is less than ¼ cent, you must reduce that figure to the next lower full cent;

(b) If the fraction is ¼ cent or more, but less than ½ cent, you may increase that figure to the next higher half cent;

(c) If the fraction is ½ cent or more, but less than ¾ cent, you must reduce that figure to the next lower half cent;

(d) If the fraction is ¾ cent or more, you may increase that figure to the next higher full cent.

(5) Your initial ceiling price for sale of one individual container of the particular item is the final figure arrived at in subparagraph (4), except that if that figure ends in one-half cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent. Your initial ceiling price for sale of more than one individual container of the item (but less than a full case of the item) is determined by multiplying the final figure arrived at in subparagraph (4) by the number of containers being sold and, if the resulting price ends in one-half cent, rounding it to the next higher full cent. The initial ceiling price you determine (either for sales of one individual container or of more than one individual container) may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of sections 54, 70, 71, 76 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable, but you must maintain the same terms and conditions of sale and delivery as you are required by section 77 to maintain for sales of your "comparison item" to consumers. In addition, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation, which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

(1) The item for which you are determining your initial ceiling price is a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer. The "comparison item", by reference to which you determined your initial ceiling price (under paragraph (b)) for case sales of the item you are pricing, is a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. The section 50 (b) current ceiling price for case sales of X Brand beer is $3.60. Dividing that by 24 (the number of containers packed in a case of that "comparison item") gives you 15 cents ($3.60÷24=15 cents).

(2) Your current ceiling price (which you determined under section 50 (c)) for sales to consumers of an individual container of X Brand beer is 16 cents. The difference between that 16 cents and 15 cents (the figure arrived at in subparagraph (1)) is 1 cent, which is your "customary differential".

(3) Your initial ceiling price (determined under paragraph (b)) for sales to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer is $3.68. Dividing that by 24 (the number of containers packed in a case of that item) gives you 15.3 cents ($3.68÷24=15.3 cents).

(4) Since your current ceiling price of 16 cents for sale of an individual container of your "comparison item" (X Brand beer) is greater than 15 cents, the figure determined under subparagraph (1), you add your "customary differential" of 1 cent to 15.3 cents (the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3)), which gives you 16.3 cents. 16.3 cents ends in a fraction which is more than ¼ cent (but less than ½ cent), therefore you may increase it to 16½ cents, the next higher ½ cent.

(5) Your initial ceiling price for sales to consumers of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of Y Brand beer is determined by rounding the 16½ cent figure, arrived at in subparagraph (4), to the next higher full cent, and is 17 cents. But the initial ceiling price for sale of two 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer is determined by multiplying 16½ cents (the final figure arrived at in subparagraph (4)) by 2 and is 33 cents (16½ cents × 2=33 cents). Moreover, your initial ceiling price for sale of three 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer is determined by multiplying 16½ cents by 3, which gives you 49½ cents (16½ cents × 3=49½ cents), and rounding that price up to 50 cents.

SEC. 53. How a retailer is to determine his initial ceiling prices for sales of items when the ceiling prices for those sales cannot be determined under any other section of this regulation. This section applies to you if you are (or intend to be) a retailer of imported or domestic malt beverages and, for any reason, cannot determine your ceiling price for sales to consumers of an item under either section 50, 51 or 52. In that case, you may apply to your OPS District Office for the establishment of an initial ceiling price for sales of that item to consumers. Your application must be in writing, signed by you or a duly authorized officer, shall state that it is filed under this section and must contain the following information:

(a) A description of the item for which you wish an initial ceiling price (that is, the item's brand, type, container size, container type and, if sold in returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles or cans, its case size), and what your "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) for a current customary purchase of that item would be.

(b) An explanation of why you are unable to determine your initial ceiling price under either section 50, 51 or 52 for sales of the item to consumers.

NOTE: If, before June 9, 1952, you filed an application for ceiling prices under section 53 of the original CPR 117, but did not supply information as to what your "cost of acquisition" for a current customary purchase would be for each item covered by that application, you need not file a second application for those items under this section 53 and need only supply information as to your "costs of acquisition" for current customary purchases of those items if OPS sends you a letter requesting you to do so.

After your application is filed, the OPS may, by amendment or order, establish initial ceiling prices for case sales and individual container sales of the item to consumers which are in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established under this regulation. You may not sell the item to consumers until after such amendment or order is issued and becomes effective. However, if you have established a ceiling price under the GCPR, CPR 31 or CPR 117 for sales of the item to consumers, you may continue to make such sales at or below your GCPR, CPR 31 or CPR 117 ceiling price until the amendment or order applied for under this section is issued and takes effect. In any event, you may not sell the item to consumers either at or below your GCPR, CPR 31 or CPR 117 ceiling prices after August 18, 1952, unless and until you first place in the mail, properly addressed and completed, your application for a ceiling price under this section. Finally, the initial ceiling prices established for you under this section may subsequently be recalculated under the provisions of section 54.

SEC. 54. Recalculation of ceiling prices initially determined under section 51, 52 or 53.—(a) How to use this section.—(1) When a retailer must recalculate his ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are a retailer of imported or domestic malt beverages who initially determined the ceiling price for a particular item either under section 51, 52 or 53. In that case you may recalculate your ceiling price for that item under this section whenever the "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) incurred for it increases either (i) above your base "cost of acquisition," or (ii) if you have previously recalculated your ceiling price under this section, above the "cost of acquisition" upon which the last recalculation of your ceiling price was based. However, you must recalculate your ceiling price for that item under this section whenever the "cost of acquisition" incurred for it decreases either (i) below your base "cost of acquisition" or (ii) if you have previously recalculated your ceiling price under this section, below the "cost of acquisition" upon which the last recalculation of your ceiling price was based.

(2) Definition of base "cost of acquisition." Before reading this section it is important for you to know what your base "cost of acquisition" is. If you determined your initial ceiling price for an item under either section 51 or 52 your base "cost of acquisition" is the "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) incurred for your most recent customary purchase prior to the date you first offered the item for sale. If you determined your initial ceiling price under section 53 your base "cost of acquisition" is (i) the "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) incurred for your most recent customary purchase prior to the date upon which you mailed the report or application required under those sections, or (ii) if you made no customary purchase prior to the date you mailed the required report or application, the "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) incurred for your first customary purchase between that mailing date and the date you first offered the item for sale.

(b) Recalculation of your ceiling prices for case sales. If you are a retailer of an item of imported or domestic malt beverages (priced under section 51, 52 or 53) who, because of a change in your "cost of acquisition," must recalculate your ceiling price for sale of a case of that item to consumers under this section, that per case ceiling price is recalculated as follows:

(1) Determine the difference between:

(i) Your base "cost of acquisition" for the item (defined in paragraph (a) (2)), and

(ii) Your current "cost of acquisition," that is, the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of the item.

If that difference ends in a fraction of a cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but you must reduce it to the next lower full cent if the fraction is less than one-half cent. The resulting figure is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(2) Consult the first column of Table V (in Appendix A) for the line on which is listed the amount of your "cost change per case" for the item. Then follow that line across to the figure applicable to cases in the column which is headed with the same case size as the case size of the item you are pricing. That figure is your "adjustment factor per case" for the item you are pricing.

(3) (i) Add your "adjustment factor per case" to your initial ceiling price per case (established under section 51, 52 or 53) if your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition"; but (ii) subtract your "adjustment factor per case" from your initial ceiling price per case (established under section 51, 52 or 53) if your current "cost of acquisition" is less than your base "cost of acquisition." The resulting figure is your recalculated ceiling price for sales of a case of the particular item to consumers. That price, however, may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of this section and sections 70, 71, 76, 77 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable, and must be put into effect on the day set out in paragraph (d) of this section. In addition, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation, which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

Your initial ceiling price of $3.90 for sales to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of JRG beer was established under section 51. The "cost of acquisition" (defined in section 90 (c) (1)) per case incurred for your last customary purchase of that item before the date you first offered it for sale was $2.92. That $2.92 is your base "cost of acquisition." Because the "cost of acquisition" you incurred for that item later increased to $3.10 per case, you previously recalculated your ceiling price under this section and that recalculated ceiling price is $4.13. However, the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of the item was $3. Since $3 is lower than the $3.10 "cost of acquisition" upon which you based the last recalculation of your ceiling price for the item under this section, you must again recalculate your ceiling price for sales to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of JRG, as follows:

(1) Your base "cost of acquisition" for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of JRG beer was $2.92. Your current "cost of acquisition" for a case of that item (the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase) was $3. The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" therefore is 8 cents ($3−$2.92=8 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(2) Following the line, in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "8" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that 10 cents is your "adjustment factor per case" for the item.

(3) Since your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition" you add your 10 cents "adjustment factor per case" to $3.90 (your initial ceiling price established under section 51), to arrive at $4, your recalculated ceiling price for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of JRG beer. (Note that although your $4 recalculated ceiling price is higher than your initial ceiling price of $3.90, because your cost increased since you determined that initial ceiling price, it is lower than your previously recalculated ceiling price of $4.13 because your cost decreased since that previous recalculation.)

(c) Recalculation of your ceiling prices for sales of individual containers. If you are a retailer of an item of imported or domestic malt beverages (priced under section 51, 52 or 53) who, because of a change in your "cost of acquisition," must recalculate your ceiling price for sales of individual containers of that item to consumers under this section, that ceiling price per individual container is recalculated as follows:

(1) Determine the difference between:

(i) Your base "cost of acquisition" for the item (defined in paragraph (a) (2)), and

(ii) Your current "cost of acquisition", that is, the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase of the item.

If that difference ends in a fraction of a cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but you must reduce it to the next lower full cent if the fraction is less than one-half cent. The resulting figure is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(2) Consult the first column of Table V (in Appendix A) for the line on which is listed the amount of your "cost change per case" for the item. Then follow that line across to the figure applicable to individual containers in the column which is headed with the same case size as the case size of the item you are pricing. That figure is your "adjustment factor per individual container" for the item you are pricing.

(3) (i) Add your "adjustment factor per individual container" to your initial ceiling price per individual container (established under section 51, 52, or 53) if your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition"; but (ii) subtract your "adjustment factor per individual container" from your initial ceiling price per individual container (established under section 51, 52 or 53) if your current "cost of acquisition" is less than your base "cost of acquisition."

(4) Your recalculated ceiling price for sale of one individual container of the particular item is the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3), except that if that figure ends in one-half cent you may increase it to the next higher full cent. Your recalculated ceiling price for sale of more than one individual container of the item (but less than a full case of the item) is determined by multiplying the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3) by the number of containers being sold and, if the resulting price ends in one-half cent, rounding it to the next higher full cent. The ceiling price you recalculate (either for sales of one individual container or of more than one individual container) may be adjusted or modified under the provisions of this section and sections 70, 71, 76, 77 and 78 of this regulation, if applicable, and must be put into effect on the day set out in paragraph (d) of this section. In addition, you must comply with the provisions of section 73 of this regulation, which require you to post your ceiling prices to consumers.

EXAMPLE: (The steps in this example are marked with the same numbers as the above subparagraphs, which outline the method of calculation.)

Your last customary purchase of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Liebeskind Lager before the day you first offered it for sale (after calculating its initial ceiling price of 18 cents per bottle under section 52) cost you $3. That $3 is your base "cost of acquisition." The "cost of acquisition" incurred for your most recent customary purchase of that item increased to $3.05. You may, therefore, recalculate your ceiling price as follows:

(1) Your base "cost of acquisition" for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Liebeskind Lager was $3. Your current "cost of acquisition" for a case of that item (the "cost of acquisition" for your most recent customary purchase) was $3.05. The difference between your base "cost of acquisition" and current "cost of acquisition" therefore, is 5 cents ($3.05−$3=5 cents) which is your "cost change per case" for the item.

(2) Following the line, in the first column of Table V (appearing in Appendix A), on which is listed "5" across to the column headed "24 containers" (the same case size as that of the item you are pricing) you find that ½ cent is your "adjustment factor per individual container" for the item.

(3) Your current "cost of acquisition" is greater than your base "cost of acquisition." Therefore, you add your ½ cent "adjustment factor per individual container" to 18 cents (your initial ceiling price established under section 52) to arrive at 18½ cents.

(4) Your recalculated ceiling price for sales to consumers of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of Liebeskind Lager is determined by rounding the 18½-cent figure, arrived at in subparagraph (3), to the next higher full cent, and is 19 cents. But the recalculated ceiling price for sale of two 12-ounce returnable bottles of Liebeskind Lager is determined by multiplying 18½ cents (the figure arrived at in subparagraph (3)) by 2 and is 37 cents (18½ cents × 2=37 cents). Moreover, your recalculated ceiling price for sale of three 12-ounce returnable bottles of Liebeskind Lager is determined by multiplying 18½ cents by 3, which gives you 55½ cents (18½ cents × 3=55½ cents), and rounding that price up to 56 cents.

SEC. 55. How a retailer is to determine his ceiling prices for sales of certain newly labeled items. This section applies to you if you are a retailer of imported or domestic malt beverages who receives the following notice from your supplier:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR ITEM WITH NEW LABEL

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to inform you that, for purposes of calculating your ceiling prices under CPR 117, Revision 1, you must regard (brand and type of newly labeled malt beverage) and (brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage") as the same item. Therefore, you must determine your ceiling prices for each container size, container type and case size of (brand and type of newly labeled malt beverage) under the applicable sections of CPR 117, Revision 1, just as if it were the same item as the particular container size, container type and case size of (brand and type of the "comparable malt beverage").

The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

In that case you must determine your ceiling prices for sales to consumers of the newly labeled malt beverage under section 50, 51, 52, 53 or 54 (whichever applies) just as if it were the "comparable malt beverage" and, for purposes of pricing under those sections, you must regard the newly labeled item as if it were an item of the same brand and type as the "comparable malt beverage." In other words, the ceiling prices determined for sales to consumers of the newly labeled malt beverage must be identical with the ceiling prices you have (or could have) determined for the "comparable malt beverage."

EXAMPLE: You are a retailer who received the following notice from your supplier:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR ITEM WITH NEW LABEL

The Office of Price Stabilization has authorized us to inform you that, for purposes of calculating your ceiling prices under CPR 117, Revision 1, you must regard Y Brand beer and X Brand beer as the same item. Therefore, you must determine your ceiling prices for each container size, container type and case size of Y Brand beer under the applicable sections of CPR 117, Revision 1, just as if it were the same item as the particular container size, container type and case size of X Brand beer.

The Office of Price Stabilization requires you to keep a copy of this notice for examination.

You calculated your ceiling price, under section 50, of $4.26 for sales to consumers of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer. That ceiling price was determined on the basis of a base "cost of acquisition" of $3 and a current "cost of acquisition" of $3.20, which gave you a 26 cent "adjustment factor per case" to add to $4 (your highest selling price for sales of the item to consumers during October, 1951). The "cost of acquisition" for your first customary purchase of a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer was also $3.20. Therefore, your ceiling price for sale of that item to consumers is $4.26 (the same as your ceiling price for X Brand beer). (Note that in computing your ceiling prices for Y Brand beer you assume that you were selling Y Brand beer during October, 1951 for $4, the price at which you were selling X, and that your base "cost of acquisition" for Y is $3, which is your base "cost of acquisition" for X.)

Subsequently, you purchase a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer for $3.25. That $3.25, which is your current "cost of acquisition", is higher than the $3.20 "cost of acquisition" upon which the last calculation of your ceiling price for Y was based. Therefore, you may recalculate your ceiling price for Y Brand beer. Since your base "cost of acquisition" for Y Brand beer is $3 (the same as for X Brand beer) and your current "cost of acquisition" is $3.25, your "cost change per case" is 25 cents ($3.25 − $3 = 25 cents). Consulting Table V, you find that your "adjustment factor per case" for the item is 33 cents. Your current "cost of acquisition" ($3.25) for Y Brand beer is greater than your base "cost of acquisition" ($3), therefore, you add your 33 cents "adjustment factor per case" to $4 (your highest selling price during October, 1951, for sales to consumers of X Brand beer) to arrive at $4.33, your ceiling price for a case of 24 12-ounce returnable bottles of Y Brand beer.

ARTICLE VI—"ON-PREMISE LICENSEES"

SEC. 60. How "on-premise licensees" are to determine their ceiling prices. This section applies to you if you are an "on-premise licensee" selling an item of imported or domestic malt beverages in its original container for off-premise consumption. In that case you are to determine your ceiling prices for sales of that item for off-premise consumption (except when the item is sold as part of a meal for off-premise consumption or is not sold in its original container) as a retailer under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers. For purposes of those provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers, therefore, an "on-premise licensee," to the extent that he sells an item for off-premise consumption (other than as part of a meal for off-premise consumption or not in its original container), is considered a retailer. The term "meal," as used in this section, means a combination of food and beverage items sold at a single price.

ARTICLE VII—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 70. Treatment of fractional parts of a cent in figuring ceiling prices. Unless otherwise provided in this regulation, you shall treat fractional parts of a cent as follows in determining your ceiling price:

(a) Amounts computed in the process of, or as a step in figuring a ceiling price (other than the ceiling price itself) may only be carried to four decimal places (hundredths of a cent). Any further fraction is to be disregarded and in no case, even if your computations are carried to less than four decimal places, may you round up any fraction. (Example: If you choose to carry your computations to four decimal places (the maximum permitted) and come out with the fraction .45689, you must drop the final 9 and use only .4568; you could not round up to .4569. If you wish to carry your computations to only two decimal places, you could only use .45; you could not round up to .46.)

(b) (1) If you are a brewer or a wholesaler, or if you are a seller who determines your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation which apply to brewers or wholesalers, and the ceiling price you calculate for an item and adjust under sections 76, 77, and 78 includes a fractional part of a cent, you may increase that ceiling price to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but must reduce that ceiling price to the next lower full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or less. However, the ceiling price for sale of an item to the United States or any of its agencies must in all cases be carried to four decimal places, and any further fraction is to be disregarded.

(2) If you are a retailer, or if you are a seller who determines your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation which apply to retailers, and the ceiling price calculated for the total sale of a unit or units of an item includes a fractional part of a cent, you may increase that total price to the next higher full cent if the fraction is one-half cent or more, but must reduce that total price to the next lower full cent if the fraction is less than one-half cent.

SEC. 71. Addition of case and container charges to ceiling prices—(a) How you may add case and container charges to your ceiling prices. If you are a seller who has established a ceiling price under this regulation for sales of an item to a particular class of purchaser, you may (regardless of your prior practice) do one of the following things:

(1) Require the purchaser to pay (in addition to your ceiling price) a deposit to assure return of the cases or containers in which the item is delivered, or

(2) Add to your ceiling price an amount to cover the sale of those cases or containers to the purchaser (but only if you have an agreement with the purchaser to repurchase those cases or containers for the identical amount, if offered to you in usable condition within 6 months, or within any longer period you wish to specify, after the sale of them to that purchaser).

The amount charged or the deposit required of the purchaser for cases or containers under subparagraph (1) or (2) must not exceed (i) the amount you must pay your supplier for such cases or containers, or (ii) if you own the cases or containers, your lawful replacement costs for those materials. However a duly authorized Regional or District Director of the Office of Price Stabilization may, upon application (filed pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section) or his own motion and in accordance with the practice existing before January 14, 1952 for any seller or group of sellers within his jurisdiction, establish for that seller or group of sellers uniform maximum charges for cases and containers of an item. If such a uniform maximum charge is established and applies to you, it, rather than the amount specified in subdivisions (i) or (ii) above, must be regarded as your maximum deposit charge or the maximum amount you may charge pursuant to a repurchase agreement. You may not, in addition to the case or container charge imposed by you (as permitted above) require the purchaser to pay separately for reasonable wear and tear of cases or containers, or for loss or damage to them in transit. In addition, you may not in any event refuse to accept from the purchaser any cases or containers for which he was charged and which he offers to return to you in usable condition within the particular time specified (if any), nor, in such event, may you refuse to repay him the full amount of the deposit or the purchase price (paid pursuant to a repurchase agreement) that you charged him for those cases or containers under this section.

(b) Application for uniform maximum case and container charges. If you are a seller who wishes uniform maximum case and container charges to be established you must send a written application, signed by you or a duly authorized officer, to your local OPS District Office. That application must state that it is filed under section 71 of CPR 117, Revision 1, and must contain the following information:

(1) The amount you must pay your supplier for the case and containers of each of the items for which you wish a uniform maximum case and container charge to be established, or, if you own the case or containers, your lawful replacement costs for those materials.

(2) The uniform maximum case and container charge you wish to charge your purchasers for each of the items mentioned in (1).

(3) The amount of the deposit charge or purchase price (pursuant to a repurchase agreement) you were charging your purchasers just before January 14, 1952, for the case and containers of each of the items mentioned in (1).

SEC. 72. When ceiling prices go into effect for sellers in price-posting states. If you are a seller of imported or domestic malt beverages who is required by State or local statute, ordinance, regulation, order or other official action of a State or local authority, to file, post or give notice of your price for any item, and such a requirement prevents you from placing a ceiling price determined under this regulation into effect on the date otherwise specified in this regulation, you are to place that ceiling price into effect on the next earliest date (after that specified date) permitted under the State or local law. You must, of course, file, post, or give notice of the ceiling price for the item at the first opportunity provided under the State or local law after determination of that ceiling price under this regulation.

SEC. 73. How you must post your ceiling prices to consumers. This section applies to you if you sell imported or domestic malt beverages to consumers, and tells you how you must post your ceiling prices for sales to those consumers.

(a) Who must post ceiling prices. (1) If you are a retailer who sells imported or domestic malt beverages to consumers you must, before you sell an item, post your ceiling price both for case sales and for sales of individual containers of that item, in accordance with the method set out in paragraph (b). If, however, your ceiling price for sales of two individual containers of an item is one cent less than twice your ceiling price for sale of one individual container of that item, the ceiling price you post, as your individual container ceiling price, must be your ceiling price for sales of two individual containers of that item. (For example: You are a retailer who, under section 50 (c), determined a 16½¢ price for sale of one 12-ounce returnable bottle of X Brand beer. In accordance with that section, the 16½¢ price was rounded to a ceiling price of 17¢ for sale of one such bottle. However, your ceiling price (under section 50 (c)) for sales of two 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is 33¢ (16½¢ × 2 = 33¢). Therefore, the ceiling price you must post for individual containers of 12-ounce returnable bottles of X Brand beer is "2 for 33¢.").

(2) If you are a seller (other than a retailer) who sells imported or domestic malt beverages to consumers, you must, before you sell an item, post your ceiling price, for sale of a case of that item to consumers, in accordance with the method set out in paragraph (b).

(b) Method of posting your ceiling prices. You must list your ceiling prices to consumers on white paper, white cardboard, or something similar. The price list must be posted in clear view of purchasing consumers, either where the malt beverages are displayed or where the consumers make payment for the malt beverages. In all cases the list must be posted in such a manner that it can easily be read and so that the purchasing consumers can approach it within a distance of two feet. The list must contain the following information, legibly printed:

(1) The heading "OPS Ceiling Prices for Beer, Ale, Etc." in letters at least one-half inch high.

(2) The brand and type of each item of malt beverages sold by you and your ceiling price for each of those items, in letters and numbers at least as large as those produced by use of a typewriter. (Paragraph (a) of this section tells you exactly what ceiling prices you must post.) Each item of malt beverages means each brand, type, container size, container type and case size of malt beverage.

A suggested layout for a retailer's price list is as follows:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR BEER, ALE, ETC.

Brand (list here the brand and type of each of your items)	Case and container sizes and types (list here the case and container sizes and types of each of your items) — Example—
	12-ounce returnable bottle	Case of 24	32-ounce nonreturnable bottle	Case of 12	7-ounce returnable bottle	Case of 36
Henry's beer	$0.13	$2.90	2 for $0.59	$3.48
Bruce beer	2 for $0.27	3.00	$0.31	3.60
Bruce ale	$0.14	3.24	$0.33	3.88	$0.11	$3.80

A suggested layout for the price list of a seller other than a retailer is as follows:

OPS CEILING PRICES FOR BEER, ALE, ETC.

Brand (list here the brand and type of each of your items)	Ceiling prices per case to consumers (list here the case and container sizes and types of each of your items) — Example—
	24 12-ounce returnable bottles	24 12-ounce cans	12 32-ounce returnable bottles
Heather ale	$3.10	$3.65	$3.60
Blodgett beer	2.90	3.40	3.35

SEC. 74. Payment of brokerage. Every broker shall be considered the agent of the seller and not the agent of the buyer. In every case, therefore, the amount paid for an item by a buyer to any seller covered by this regulation, plus any amount paid by that buyer to a broker, must not exceed the ceiling price established under this regulation for sale by the seller of the item to that buyer (plus any additional charges allowed under sections 71 and 78 of this regulation). In other words, the seller may not collect from the buyer any more than his ceiling price established under this regulation for the item (plus any additional charges allowed under sections 71 and 78 of this regulation), less any amount the buyer pays the broker.

SEC. 75. Establishing minimum resale prices under State Fair Trade laws. You may, if otherwise permitted by law, establish by contract or otherwise, a minimum price for resale of an item by another person, and such minimum price may be posted or listed with a State or other public authority. In no event, however, is such minimum price to exceed the lowest ceiling price established under this regulation for resale of the item by or for any person to whom the minimum price applies.

SEC. 76. Reduction of ceiling prices for tax exempt sales to the United States or any of its agencies. Your ceiling price established under this regulation for sale of an item shall, if the item is being sold to the United States or any of its agencies, be reduced by the amount of any reduction, elimination or possible refund of any United States, State or local taxes included in figuring that ceiling price.

SEC. 77. Customary price differentials and terms and conditions of sale and delivery. Your ceiling price for an item, when determined, shall reflect your customary price differentials in effect during the base period, or other period, used to calculate a ceiling price or markup for the item under this regulation, including discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, based upon differences in classes or location of purchasers, or in terms and conditions of sale or delivery. For example: If the selling or offering price used by you as a base period price was a delivered price, then the ceiling price you calculate for that item is also a delivered price. (You may, however, sell the item to a purchaser on an f. o. b. basis if you reduce that delivered ceiling price by the actual amount of the transportation charges, defined in section 90 (c) (9), which would be incurred to transport the item to that particular purchaser.) If your ceiling price is an f. o. b. price you may, of course, sell to a purchaser on a delivered basis provided that the amount added to the f. o. b. price does not exceed the transportation charges actually incurred by you to transport the item to the particular purchaser.

SEC. 78. Freight cost and sales, excise, and other similar taxes—(a) Taxes. In addition to your ceiling price determined under this regulation, you may collect the amount of any sales tax, excise tax or other similar tax actually paid (or payable) by you if that tax is not already included in your ceiling price. If such a tax is imposed by a law which is not effective until after January 14, 1952, or if there is any increase in such a tax after January 14, 1952, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid (or payable) by you (1) if not prohibited by law, and (2) if that tax is not already included in your ceiling price. However, if the amount of any such tax which is included in your ceiling price has been or is reduced or eliminated, you must lower your ceiling price to reflect the amount of such reduction or elimination.

(b) Freight cost. (1) This paragraph applies to you if you are a brewer or wholesaler or if you are a seller who determines your ceiling prices under the provisions of this regulation which apply to brewers or wholesalers. In that case, if, after January 1, 1952, there is any increase in your "freight cost" (defined in subparagraph (2)), or (if you price as a wholesaler and buy on a delivered basis) there is any increase in your supplier's ceiling price to you as a result of an increase in his "freight cost", you may collect the amount of that increase actually paid (or payable) by you if that increase is not already included in your ceiling price. However, if, after January 1, 1952, the amount of any "freight cost" which is included in your ceiling price is reduced or eliminated, or (if you price as a wholesaler and buy on a delivered basis) your supplier's ceiling price to you is reduced as a result of a reduction or elimination in his "freight cost", you must lower your ceiling price to reflect the amount of such reduction or elimination.

(2) For purposes of this paragraph (b) "freight cost" means:

(i) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)) applicable to the particular item that must be incurred to transport the item from the seller's customary shipping point to the purchaser's customary receiving point; plus

(ii) All transportation charges (as defined in section 90 (c) (9)) that must be incurred to return to the supplier the empty case and containers in which the item is packed.

SEC. 79. Prohibitions. After the effective date of this regulation, you shall not do any act prohibited or omit to do any act required by this regulation, nor shall you offer, solicit, attempt, or agree to do or omit to do any such acts. Specifically (but not in limitation of the above) you shall not, regardless of any contract or other obligation, sell or supply, and no person in the regular course of trade or business shall buy or receive any malt beverage at a price higher than the ceiling price established for its sale, and you shall keep, make and preserve true and accurate records and reports required by this regulation. Of course, prices lower than the ceiling prices established under this regulation may be charged or paid for malt beverages. If you violate any provisions of this regulation, you are subject to criminal penalties, enforcement action, and action for damages.

SEC. 80. Evasion. (a) Any means or device which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation or in concealing or falsely representing information as to which this regulation requires records to be kept is a violation of this regulation. This prohibition includes, but is not limited to, means or devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, up-grading, tie-in agreements and trade understandings, as well as the omission from records of true data and the inclusion in records of false data.

(b) The following are specifically, but not exclusively, among the means and devices prohibited by paragraph (a) of this section and are itemized here only to lessen the frequency of interpretative inquiries which experience indicates are likely to be made in this industry under the general evasion provisions:

(1) Changes in kinds, grades and proportions of ingredients resulting in depreciation of the quality of a malt beverage other than as the result of a normal variation;

(2) The reduction or elimination of customary discounts, allowances or price differentials;

(3) Making a separate charge to a purchaser for local hauling or handling, loading or unloading, for breakage of barrels, containers or cases, for reconditioning barrels, containers or cases, or for hauling or handling empty barrels, containers or cases.

SEC. 81. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1, Revision 2 (17 F. R. 3787).

SEC. 82. Modification of ceiling prices by the Director of Price Stabilization. The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or reduce ceiling prices proposed to be used or being used under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established under this regulation.

SEC. 83. Interest on advance payments. If you directly or indirectly require a buyer to make any payment (either to you or to another person) in advance of delivery you must pay the buyer an amount equal to interest at the rate of six percent per annum on the amount of the advance payment from the date such advance payment is made to the date on which the item is delivered or the advance payment is refunded to the buyer. The interest shall be payable on the date of delivery of the item or the date on which the advance payment is refunded. You may in no case increase your ceiling price by reason of the interest payment and the buyer shall not be required to reduce either, as the case may be, his ceiling price or his supplier's price (as an element in the calculation of his cost) by the amount of the interest on the advance payment.

SEC. 84. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit your making a contract or offer to sell a commodity at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, unless authorized by the Office of Price Stabilization, deliver or offer to deliver a commodity at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery. Such authorization may be given only when a request to establish a ceiling price or for a change in an applicable ceiling price is pending and only if the authorization is necessary to promote distribution or production and if it will not interfere with the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. Permission may be given by letter addressed to you, signed by the Director of Price Stabilization or by any official of the Office of Price Stabilization having authority to act on the pending request for establishment of or change in your ceiling price.

SEC. 85. Export sales. Your ceiling prices for export sales of the commodities covered by this regulation are to be determined under the provisions of the general or specific regulations (other than this regulation) of the Office of Price Stabilization, now or hereafter issued, which deal with such export sales.

SEC. 86. Transfer of business or stock in trade. If the business, assets, or stock in trade of any business are sold or otherwise transferred to you after the base period specified for you in this regulation (or, if you are a retailer, after October 31, 1951) and you carry on the business, or continue to deal in the same type of commodities, in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by you, your ceiling prices shall be the same as those to which your transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and your obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor is hereby required by this section to either preserve and make available, or turn over to you all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable you to comply with the record provisions of this regulation. However, (a) if the transfer was made between June 25, 1950 and January 14, 1952, inclusive, you may (instead of using the ceiling prices of your transferor) apply for ceiling prices under section 25, 36 or 53, whichever is applicable, or (b) if you are a brewer who, in an establishment you purchased, intends to produce an item (defined in section 90 (b) (8)) which you are already producing in another establishment, you may (instead of using the ceiling prices of your transferor) apply, under section 25 of this regulation, for ceiling prices for sales of those units of the item you intend to produce in the establishment you purchased.

SEC. 87. Sales slips and receipts. If you have customarily given a purchaser a sales slip, receipt, or similar evidence of purchase you shall continue to do so. Upon request from a purchaser you shall, regardless of previous custom, give the purchaser a receipt showing the date, your name and address, the name of each commodity sold, and the price received for it.

SEC. 88. Records. This section tells you what records you must preserve and what additional records you must prepare.

(a) Base period records. (1) If you are required, under this regulation, to adopt as your ceiling prices the prices you had in effect in a prescribed prior period (base period) or to use those base period prices in the calculation of your ceiling prices, you must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization, for as long as the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, is in effect and for two years thereafter, those records in your possession showing the prices in effect for the commodities which you delivered or offered to deliver during the base period.

(2) Within 30 days after the effective date of this regulation, you must also prepare and preserve a price list showing each commodity delivered or offered for delivery by you during the base period referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and the prices in effect for those commodities in the base period. Such list may refer to an attached price list or catalog.

(3) You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials for different terms and conditions of sale and classes of purchasers which you had in effect during the base period.

(b) Current records. (1) Every person who sells malt beverages other than to consumers, and every person who in the regular course of trade or business buys malt beverages, shall make and keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years accurate records of each sale or purchase made after the effective date of this regulation. The records must show the date of sale or purchase, the name and address of the seller and purchaser, and the prices charged or paid, itemized by brand, type, container size, container type and (if the type of container is a returnable bottle, non-returnable bottle or can) case size. Records must also show all premiums, discounts and allowances. Every person who sells malt beverages to consumers shall keep records of the same kind as those customarily kept by him, relating to the prices which he charged for such of those commodities he sold or offered for sale after the date on which ceiling prices under this regulation became effective.

(2) Every seller shall keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years:

(i) All bills, invoices, receipts and records employed to determine any cost which is used for the purpose of calculating or applying a markup factor under this regulation.

(ii) His computations, showing as precisely as possible the methods and figures used to determine his ceiling prices under this regulation.

(c) All records required to be preserved under this regulation may, 90 days after the date of the transaction to which they relate, be transferred to and preserved thereafter on microfilm.

SEC. 89. Interpretations. If you have any doubt as to the meaning of this regulation, you should write to the District Counsel of the proper OPS District Office for an interpretation. Any action taken by you in reliance upon and in conformity with a written official interpretation will constitute action in good faith pursuant to this regulation. Further information on obtaining official interpretations is contained in Price Procedural Regulation 1, Revision 2 (17 F. R. 3787).

SEC. 90. Definitions—(a) Definitions of persons to whom this regulation refers—(1) Brewer. "Brewer" means the person who is the manufacturer of a domestic malt beverage being priced. For purposes of this regulation, however, each separately established and operated brewery is regarded as a different "brewer."

(2) Brewer's branch. "Brewer's branch" means a separately established and operated branch of a brewer which is not physically attached to the brewery, but which is controlled and managed by the brewer and engaged in the distribution of the item being priced.

(3) Broker. "Broker" means a person acting as an intermediary between a seller and a purchaser. It includes, but is not restricted to, a "finder," "buyer's agent," and "seller's agent."

(4) Class of purchaser or purchaser of same class. "Class of purchaser" or "purchaser of same class" refers to a seller's practice in setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or kinds of purchasers, or for purchasers located in different areas, or for different quantities or container sizes or under different conditions of sale.

(5) Consumer. "Consumer" means any person purchasing malt beverages for consumption and not for resale.

(6) Importer. An "importer" of an item is the person who (i) orders the imported item from a foreign shipper, (ii) is responsible for payment to the foreign shipper, (iii) actually pays the foreign shipper (or on behalf of whom payment is made to the foreign shipper) and (iv) holds an importer's permit issued under the provisions of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act. For purposes of this definition, one who ships an item from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands (belonging to the United States) is a foreign shipper of that item.

(7) Most closely competitive seller. Your "most closely competitive seller" is the seller with whom you are in most direct competition even though he may perform a different function with respect to the item. (For example: if you are a retailer, your most closely competitive seller may be a wholesaler; or, if you are a wholesaler, your most closely competitive seller may be a brewer or a brewer's branch.) You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same item to the same class of purchaser in similar quantities, on similar terms and who supplies approximately the same amount of service.

(8) OPS. "OPS" means the Office of Price Stabilization.

(9) Your OPS District Office. This means the OPS District Office for the district in which your principal place of business is located.

(10) On-premise licensee. "On-premise licensee" means a person licensed by statute, ordinance or regulation, or otherwise legally authorized to sell malt beverages for consumption on the licensed premises. For the sales subject to this regulation made by an "on-premise licensee," he shall be deemed a retailer.

(11) Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or their political subdivisions or agencies.

(12) Retailer. "Retailer" means a person licensed as a retailer under applicable laws, statutes, or regulations and engaged in the business of buying and selling malt beverages, without changing the form thereof, primarily to consumers. Each separately established and maintained selling outlet of a retailer is to determine its ceiling price as a separate retailer under this regulation. However, a home distributor who is engaged primarily in selling malt beverages directly to consumers, is not to be considered a retailer even though he may hold a retailer's license, and an importer of an item is not also to be considered a retailer of that item. A sale to an "on-premise licensee" shall be deemed a sale to a retailer.

(13) Home distributor. A "home distributor" means a person who obtains his entire supply of one or more items of domestic malt beverages from brewers and wholesalers and sells those items in case lots primarily to consumers from a vehicle owner or operated by him or his employees.

(14) Wholesaler. "Wholesaler" means a person licensed as a wholesaler under applicable laws, statutes, or regulations and engaged in the business of buying and selling malt beverages, without changing the form thereof, primarily to persons other than consumers, but who when licensed and permitted by applicable State or local statute or ordinance to do so, may also sell such malt beverages to consumers. Each separately established and maintained selling outlet of a wholesaler is to determine its ceiling prices as a separate wholesaler under this regulation. Finally, an importer of an item is not also to be considered a wholesaler of that item.

(15) You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "yours" are construed accordingly.

(16) Sole distributor. A "sole distributor" means a person to whom the particular brewer sells all or substantially all of his production of the malt beverages being priced and who is engaged in the distribution of those malt beverages.

(b) Definitions of commodities and terms describing and identifying commodities—(1) Barrel. "Barrel" means a container for malt beverages having a capacity of 31 U. S. standard gallons of 123 fluid ounces. Fractions of a barrel, referred to in this regulation, are fractions of a barrel as so defined.

(2) Brand. "Brand" means the distinctive name of a malt beverage as shown on its label. It also includes other words, lettering, or figures used on that label in association with the name for the primary purpose of giving the malt beverage a distinctive identity in the mind of a consumer.

(3) Case and case size. "Case" means a carton or box used for shipping or delivery of malt beverages in bottles or cans. "Case size" means the particular number of containers (that is, returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles, or cans) in a case. However, if a case of 11, 11½ or 12-ounce containers is specially packed in groups of smaller units (of at least two containers) within the case, and customarily sold to consumers in those smaller units (rather than sold an individual container or a full case at a time) it is an item of a different "case size" from a case of the same number of containers which is not specially packed in such smaller units. For purposes of this regulation such specially packed cases are called "special packs" (e. g., a case of 24 12-ounce containers packed in units of six containers, four units to a case, is a "special pack"; similarly, a case of 36 11-ounce containers packed in units of four containers, nine units to a case, is a "special pack"). All "special pack" cases containing the same total number of containers are items of the same "case size", even though the number of containers in the smaller units may differ (e. g., a case of 24 12-ounce containers packed in units of six containers, four units per case; and a case of 24 12-ounce containers packed in units of three containers, eight units per case, are items of the same "case size").

(4) Container size. "Container size" means the particular weight or unit capacity of the individual container in which the malt beverage is sold.

(5) Container type. "Container type" means any one of the following types of containers in which the malt beverage is sold: returnable bottles, non-returnable bottles, cans, barrels (or fractions of barrels).

(6) Domestic. A "domestic" item is one that is produced in the 48 states of the United States or the District of Columbia.

(7) Imported. An "imported" item is one that is produced outside of (and introduced into) the 48 states of the United States or the District of Columbia.

(8) Item. An "item" is a particular brand, type, container size, container type and (if the type of container is a returnable bottle, non-returnable bottle or can) case size of imported or domestic malt beverage. (The terms "brand," "type," "container size," "container type" and "case size" are all defined in this section.)

(9) Malt beverages. "Malt beverages" means any beverage made by the alcoholic fermentation of an infusion or decoction, or combination of both, in potable brewing water, of malted barley with hops, or their parts, or their products, and with or without other malted cereals, and with or without the addition of unmalted or prepared cereals, other carbohydrates or products prepared therefrom, and with or without the addition of carbon dioxide, and with or without other wholesome products suitable for human consumption.

(10) Type. "Type", with reference to a malt beverage, means the class of malt beverage as recognized under the provisions of Regulations No. 7, as amended, issued under the Federal Alcohol Administration Act, as amended. However, in determining "type" under this regulation, class subdivisions under Regulations No. 7 must be disregarded.

(c) General definitions—(1) Cost of acquisition. "Cost of acquisition" means the total of:

(i) The gross invoice price charged per item by your supplier (so long as that gross invoice price does not exceed the supplier's ceiling price) less (a) all discounts or allowances you took or could have taken (except discounts for prompt payment), (b) all United States, State and local taxes (other than excise taxes), fees and charges included in that invoice price, and (c) all charges, included in that invoice price, which may be recovered upon return to the supplier of the containers and case in which the item was shipped.

(ii) All transportation charges (as defined in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph) applicable to the particular item and actually incurred by you to transport the item from the supplier's customary shipping point to your customary receiving point, to the extent that those charges are not already included in the invoice price.

(iii) All transportation charges (as defined in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph), at rates in effect at the time of the particular purchase, that (under the arrangement you have with your supplier) must be incurred by you (in addition to the invoice price) to return to that supplier the empty case and containers in which the item is packed.

(iv) All United States, State and local excise taxes and United States customs duties applicable to the particular item and actually incurred by you, to the extent that those taxes and duties are not already included in the invoice price.

(v) In the case of an imported item, the costs actually incurred by you to withdraw that item from customs custody, to the extent that those costs are not already included in the invoice price.

(2) Customary purchase. A "customary purchase" means a purchase of the same type as was customary for you in quantity, type of supplier, receiving point and means of transportation during the "relevant period." For purposes of this definition, the "relevant period" is the base period (or a reasonable length of time surrounding any other period or day) specified in this regulation either (i) for your selection of a dollar-and-cent price to be used (either as is, or after adjustment) as your ceiling price for the particular item, or (ii) as the basis for some other means of figuring your ceiling price for the particular item.

(3) Customary receiving point. "Customary receiving point" means the place where the purchaser normally receives delivery of the item from the particular type of supplier. With respect to deliveries made by motor vehicle, "customary receiving point" means the purchaser's premises; with respect to delivery made by rail, "customary receiving point" means the railroad siding nearest to the purchaser's premises.

(4) Customary shipping point. "Customary shipping point" means the place from which the seller normally makes shipment of the item to purchasers in a particular area. With respect to shipment made by motor vehicle, "customary shipping point" means the seller's premises; with respect to shipment made by rail, "customary shipping point" means the railroad siding nearest to the seller's premises.

(5) Price. "Price" means the consideration requested or received in connection with the sale of a malt beverage.

(6) Records. The term "records" means written evidence of transactions, including books of account, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, a copy of any application or report to the OPS, and other papers and documents necessary to determine prices charged, offered or paid and the method used to determine them.

(7) Sale. "Sale" includes transfer of title, disposition, exchange, barter, delivery, lease and other transfers, and contracts or offers to do any of these things. The terms "sell," "seller," "buy," "buyer," "purchase," and "purchaser" shall be construed accordingly.

(8) "Special deal." A "special deal" means a reduction in the price of an item (as a sales promotion or similar device) from the price last in effect prior to the day the "special deal" started. The reduction must not have been in effect for a period of time exceeding 123 days. (It, of course, makes no difference if the reduction continued in effect after the "base period" so long as it was not in effect for more than 123 days.) Offers of free goods, combination sales, increased quantities and additional discounts may (but need not necessarily) be considered "special deals."

(9) Transportation charges. "Transportation charges", except as otherwise expressly provided, means the lawful charges for the movement of the article by the most direct route from the seller's customary shipping point (as defined in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph) to the purchaser's customary receiving point (as defined in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph), or between any other specified points, at the rate charged by the cheapest available common or contract carrier customarily used. The term includes any applicable Federal tax on transportation now or hereafter imposed. If a seller uses his own vehicle, however, such charges shall be figured at the rate for transportation over the same distance by the cheapest available common or contract carrier customarily used, exclusive of Federal tax on transportation. No amounts may be added for refrigerating or heating of cars or vehicles used in the transportation of the article. No amount may be added for local hauling, drayage and handling.

SEC. 100. When this revised regulation becomes effective. The effective date of this revised regulation, insofar as it changes any of the provisions of the original CPR 117 is July 21, 1952, or any earlier effective date between June 9, 1952 and July 21, 1952, that you may select for any or all of your items. However, to the extent that the original CPR 117 is not changed by this revised regulation the effective dates in the original CPR 117 continue to apply, that is, as to retailers and "on-premise licensees" the effective date is March 24, 1952, and for all other sellers January 28, 1952.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

ELLIS ARNALL,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[General Overriding Regulation 14, Amdt. 15]

PART 1499—GENERAL OVERRIDING REGULATIONS

SUBPART—GOR 14—EXCEPTED AND SUSPENDED SERVICES

MAKING AND SUPPLYING ABSTRACTS OF TITLE TO REAL PROPERTY

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.) as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 15 to General Overriding Regulation 14 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment removes from price control fees and charges for making and supplying abstracts of title to real property.

By a prior amendment to General Overriding Regulation 14, other services in connection with real property transfers rendered by real estate brokers, agents, appraisers and mortgage brokers have been exempted from price control. The nature of the service of making and supplying abstracts of title to real property is closely allied to those services already exempted.

It is estimated that the average person requires a title abstract once during his lifetime. Furthermore, the Director has been advised that on the average there are one to five persons in each county engaged in the business of supplying abstracts of title to real property. Further, their charges, in many instances, are subject to state control. In view of the non-recurrent need for this service by purchasers and the comparatively small number of sellers, it is expected that this exemption will have little, if any, effect upon the cost of living. The administrative burden of retaining control over such fees and charges is out of proportion to the benefits gained.

This amendment was prepared after the Director of Price Stabilization had consulted with industry representatives, trade associations and individual title abstract companies and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 14, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

Paragraph (a) of section 3 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

(102) Fees and charges for making and supplying abstracts of title to real property.

Effective date. This Amendment 15 to General Overriding Regulation 14 shall become effective June 9, 1952.

ELLIS ARNALL,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 123, Amdt. 1]

CPR 123—CEILING PRICES FOR UNTREATED EASTERN RAILROAD TIES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 123 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment provides for a number of clarifications and changes in Ceiling Price Regulation 123. Specifically, the following changes are made:

(1) The boundaries of Zones D, G, E and F, are relocated and two new Zones, M and N, are established. This change recognizes the historical differential in prices within the areas covered. The ceiling prices established for the new zones are lower than the ceiling prices already established for Zones D, G and E.

(2) The ceiling prices in Zone A for Group TB cross ties are increased by 10 cents per cross tie. The ceiling prices in the regulation as issued for Group TB ties in Zone A were inadvertently based upon prices prevailing before the issuance date of the regulation for such ties when sold unpeeled. As the basic ceiling prices set forth in section 5 of the regulation are prices for peeled ties, and as section 8 requires that such ceiling prices be reduced 10 cents per tie when ties are sold unpeeled, this change brings the ceiling prices for Group TB cross ties in Zone A into line with the other basic ceiling prices set forth in the regulation.

(3) Producers' dollar-and-cents ceiling prices are established for "Heart" Cypress (Group UC) cross ties in Zone F. When the regulation was issued, it was believed that "Heart" Cypress cross ties were not being produced; and, for that reason, no dollar-and-cents ceiling prices were established for such ties. Since the issuance of the regulation, however, it has been found that "Heart" Cypress cross ties are presently being produced in Zone F. The addition will therefore eliminate the necessity to issue individual orders to producers of "Heart" Cypress ties in Zone F. Because "Heart" Cypress cross ties (Group UC) are used untreated, the ceiling prices established by this amendment are 30 cents higher per cross tie than the ceiling prices for "Sap" Cypress ties (Group TB) which require preservative treatment before they are ultimately used.

(4) Producers' ceiling prices in Zone H are increased by approximately 12 cents per cross tie. In the original regulation producers' ceiling prices were established generally by deducting from railroad purchase prices the tie contractor's markup that was thought to be applicable throughout all zones. However, after the issuance of CPR 123, it was found that most of the tie contractors in Zone H do not perform all the services in the procurement of ties that are normally performed by tie contractors, and they therefore receive a smaller markup than is generally received by tie contractors in other zones. Consequently, Zone H producers' ceiling prices, as established in the regulation, do not reflect the differential that actually existed in that zone between the producers' selling prices and tie contractors' markups. Therefore, the present adjustment in Zone H producers' ceiling prices remedies that situation, and thereby restores the normal relationship between the prices of ties and comparable lumber grades.

(5) The definition of a "tie contractor" in CPR 123 is changed. After the issuance of the regulation it was found that the definition of a tie contractor was too limited in scope and thereby excluded certain persons who historically have been considered by the industry as tie contractors. Therefore, the definition of a "tie contractor" is changed to include persons who produce ties for direct sale to railroads, and to include persons who produce at least 33⅓ percent of the ties they sell; provided they satisfy the other criteria.

(6) The other revisions made by this amendment accomplish minor changes in form.

In the formulation of this amendment, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. This consultation included a meeting with the subcommittee of the Untreated Eastern Railroad Tie Industry Advisory Committee.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 123 is hereby amended in the following respects:

1. Section 3 (a) (4) is amended to read as follows:

(4) Zone D which includes the portion of Indiana lying south of the south boundaries of the following counties: Adams, Wells, Huntington, Wabash, Fulton, Pulaski, Jasper, and Newton; the portion of Kentucky lying east of the east boundary of Wayne county and north of the south boundaries of the following counties: Henderson, Daviess, Hancock, Breckenridge, Hardin, LaRue, Taylor, Casey, Pulaski; and the counties of Wayne and Mingo in West Virginia.

2. Section 3 (a) (5) is amended to read as follows:

(5) Zone E which includes Virginia, except the portion lying north of the south boundaries of the following counties: Bath, Augusta, Rockingham, Page, Warren, Clarke and Loudoun; and North Carolina, except the portion lying south of the north boundaries of the following counties: Avery, Caldwell, Alexander, Iredell, Davie, Davidson, Randolph, Chatham, Harnett, Cumberland, Sampson, Duplin, Caslow and Carteret.

3. Section 3 (a) (6) is amended to read as follows:

(6) Zone F which includes Georgia; the portion of South Carolina south of the south boundaries of the following counties: Oconee, Pickens, Greenville, Spartanburg, Union, Fairfield, Kershaw, Chesterfield, Marlboro, and Dillon; and Florida, except the portion lying west of the east boundaries of the following counties: Jackson, Calhoun, and Gulf.

4. Section 3 (a) (7) is amended to read as follows:

(7) Zone G which includes Nebraska; the portion of Missouri lying north of the Missouri River; the portion of Illinois lying south of the south boundaries of the following counties: Iroquois, Ford, Livingston, Woodford, Peoria, Knox, Warren and Henderson; and the portion of Illinois lying north of the south boundaries of the following counties: St. Clair, Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and White.

5. Section 3 (a) is further amended by adding at the end thereof two new subparagraphs, (13) and (14), to read as follows:

(13) Zone M which includes Massac, Pope, Hardin, Gallatin and Saline counties in Illinois; and Union, Webster, McLean, Ohio and Grayson counties in Kentucky.

(14) Zone N which includes the portion of North Carolina east of the west boundaries of the following counties: Cherokee, Graham, Swain, Haywood, Madison, Yancey and Mitchell; and the portion of North Carolina south of the north boundaries of the following counties: Avery, Caldwell, Alexander, Iredell, Davie, Davidson, Randolph, Chatham, Harnett, Cumberland, Sampson, Duplin, Onslow, and Carteret; and the portion of South Carolina north of the south boundaries of the following counties:

Oconee, Pickens, Greenville, Spartanburg, Union, Fairfield, Kershaw, Chesterfield, Marlboro, and Dillon.

6. Section 4 (a) (2) is amended by deleting the word "and" following the letter "K", and by adding the letters "M and N" following the letter "L", so that section 4 (a) (2) now reads as follows:

(2) For ties produced in Zones C, D, E, F, G, I, J, K, L, M, and N, the normal loading out point is the tie yard at a railroad shipping point or at a barge landing nearest the place of production where untreated ties are normally sold.

7. Section 5 (a) is amended by inserting the words and figures "in effect January 31, 1952," between the word "Association" and the word "and," so that section 5 (a) now reads as follows:

SEC. 5. Producers' ceiling prices.—(a) Ties covered. The ceiling prices set forth in this section apply to unseasoned and untreated Eastern railroad cross ties and switch ties conforming to the specifications of the American Railway Engineering Association in effect January 31, 1952, and delivered at a normal loading out point.

8. Section 5 (b) is amended by inserting the new symbol "UC" between symbol "TD" and the word "used," so that paragraph (b) now reads as follows:

(b) Price tables. (The symbols TA, TB, TC, TD, UC, used in the tables below are explained in section 21).

9. Section 5 (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

15. Paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 12 are amended to read as follows:

(a) Markup. If you are a tie contractor, you determine your ceiling prices for sales of ties subject to this regulation in the following manner: Add to your current cost (not to exceed the producers' ceiling price) of ties you purchase or produce, not more than the highest dollar and cents markup, or percentage markup, or a combination of both, as computed in your customary manner, which you made on a representative sale of that item during the base period January 1, 1950 to October 2, 1951, inclusive. The current cost to which a markup is applied in determining your ceiling prices may not include cost elements other than those included in the base period cost on the basis of which you computed the markup. Only one tie contractor's markup may be made under this section.

(b) Tie contractor defined. The term "tie contractor" means a person who:

(1) Maintains a concentration yard with supervisory and other employees, who purchase from producers all the ties that he sells, and who sells those ties either to persons purchasing for resale, or to ultimate users, such as railroads, street railways, industrial plants maintaining track facilities, switching and terminal companies, or to persons engaged in building or maintaining tracks for defense projects; or

(i) Maintains a concentration yard, with supervisory and other employees, where he purchases ties either for sale to persons for resale, or for sale to ultimate users, such as railroads, street railways, industrial plants maintaining track facilities, switching and terminal companies, or for sale to persons engaged in building or maintaining tracks for defense projects; and

(ii) Purchased from producers, during the three calendar months next preceding any calendar month in which he does business as a tie contractor, at least 33⅓ percent of the total amount of ties he sold.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 63, Area Milk Price Regulation 19, Revocation]

GCPR, SR 63—AREA MILK PRICE ADJUSTMENTS

AMPR 19—NORTH TEXAS MILK MARKETING AREA, STATE OF TEXAS

REVOCATION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), Delegation of Authority No. 41 (16 F. R. 12679), Supplementary Regulation 63, as amended, to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 9559), Area Milk Price Regulation 19 (17 F. R. 2721) is hereby revoked.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Area Milk Price Regulation 19 was issued effective April 14, 1952. Amendment 1 extended the effective date of the regulation until June 9, 1952, to allow the Regional Director of the Office of Price Stabilization sufficient time to study historical discount practices peculiar to the North Texas Milk Marketing Area. This information was not submitted by the petitioners prior to the original issuance of the regulation.

In addition to the inclusion of discount data, the petitioners suggested a minor change in the method employed for allocation of raw material costs. The new study was completed and showed only slightly different results than were obtained from the original study.

During the time in which the study was being completed, certain events occurred in this milk marketing area which caused the petitioners to request the Regional Director to consider the advisability of revoking AMPR 19 prior to its effective date. Among these events was an amendment to Federal Milk Marketing Order No. 43 for the North Texas Milk Marketing Area which, among other provisions, established a minimum producer price of $6.68 per cwt. for Class I milk. This was done during the flush production period. Normal seasonal declines in producer prices have occurred in several other milk sheds adjacent to this area.

Another factor bearing on the question of revocation of AMPR 19 is a possible change in the customary practice of having no differential between home delivered and store sales of fluid milk. This change, if put into effect by the processor-distributors, will of necessity result in a lower retail store sale price.

A third factor considered in this revocation is that, based on the study of the Regional Director which took into consideration customary discounts and used the minor change in allocation as suggested by the petitioners, the processor-distributors would obtain approximately the same revenue by remaining under the GCPR. Also, no saving to the consumers would result from AMPR 19 becoming effective.

The Regional Director has consulted with industry representatives and has given due consideration to their recommendations in issuing this revocation of AMPR 19.

REVOCATORY PROVISION

Area Milk Price Regulation 19, as amended, issued pursuant to Supplementary Regulation 63 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, is revoked as of June 9, 1952.

[NPA Order M-103, Amdt. 1 of June 10, 1952]

M-103—DIAMOND GRINDING WHEELS

RESTRICTIONS ON PRODUCERS

This amendment to NPA Order M-103 is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued under the authority granted by the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this amendment, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the necessity for immediate action.

This amendment affects NPA Order M-103 by changing the provisions of section 5 (a).

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

1. NPA Order M-103 is hereby amended by changing section 5 (a) to read as follows:

(a) On and after May 12, 1952, no producer shall make a diamond grinding wheel having a depth of the diamond section of such wheel in excess of one-eighth inch. Depth shall be considered as the smallest dimension of the diamond section. This limitation on the depth of the diamond section shall not apply to lens-generating tools, cut-off wheels, saws, pencil-edging wheels, wheels 1- by ¾-inch and smaller, or mounted wheels and points.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154)

This amendment shall take effect June 10, 1952.

[NPA Reg. 2, Interpretation 3 of June 10, 1952]

REG. 2—BASIC RULES OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

INT. 3—USE OF DO RATING FOR THE LEASE OF MACHINERY OR EQUIPMENT

1. This is an interpretation of paragraph (d) of section 2 of NPA Reg. 2 which paragraph defines what is meant by a "rated order." Generally, where a DO rating may properly be used pursuant to NPA Reg. 2 to obtain delivery of materials or products, it may be used only for the purpose of acquiring them by purchase. However, where a DO rating may properly be used to obtain delivery of an item of machinery or equipment, the DO rating may be used (unless otherwise expressly provided in any other regulation or order of NPA) to lease the item, but only if all the following conditions are fulfilled:

(a) The item is leased from the manufacturer thereof, either directly or through a wholly-owned subsidiary corporation.

(b) It is the established custom of such manufacturer not to sell but only to rent, in said manner, the machine or equipment.

(c) The lease is a long-term arrangement in which both parties contemplate a comparatively permanent installation of the machine or equipment. For instance, a rating could be used to obtain a machine under lease where the lease is for 1 year with provision for renewal by the lessee at the end of each year, and both parties expect that the lease will be renewed from time to time. However, the rating cannot be used to obtain a machine for use only during a short period of time, such as a year or a month.

2. If an authorization issued by the National Production Authority grants the right to use a rating and specifically authorizes the use of the rating to lease a machine or item of equipment, compliance with the above conditions is not necessary.

a. In paragraph (e) of section 5 strike out the words "real estate construction credit as to which" and insert therefor the following: "real estate construction credit (1) which is extended pursuant to a program established by the Housing and Home Finance Administrator to relieve distress caused by flood, fire, or other similar disaster, or (2) as to which".

b. Add the following sentence at the end of paragraph (f) of section 5: "None of the provisions of this regulation shall apply to any contract to sell real property under which the purchaser is not to receive title, and not to have any occupancy or other use of the property, until the terms of the credit conform to the applicable provisions of this regulation in effect on the date the contract was entered into."

c. In subparagraph (1) of paragraph (a) of section 7 (the supplement to the regulation) delete the table and insert therefor the following:

If the "value per family unit" is—	The "maximum loan value per family unit" is—
Not more than $7,000	95% of "value per family unit."

More than $10,000 but not more than $15,000.	$8,550 plus 55% of excess of "value per family unit" over $10,000.
More than $15,000 but not more than $21,000.	$11,300 plus 45% of excess of "value per family unit" over $15,000.

Over $25,000	60% of "value per family unit."

d. In subparagraph (1) of paragraph (b) of section 7 delete the table and insert therefor the following:

If the "value per family unit" is—	The "maximum loan value per family unit" is—
Not more than $7,000	90% of "value per family unit."
More than $7,000 but not more than $10,000.	$6,300 plus 55% of "value per family unit" in excess of $7,000.

Over $25,000	60% of "value per family unit."

2. a. The above amendment is issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, with the concurrence of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator with respect to provisions relating to real estate construction credit involving residential property and multi-unit residential property, under authority of the Defense Production Act of 1950, approved September 8, 1950, as amended, and Executive Order No. 10161, dated September 9, 1950.

The amendment is designed primarily to modify and relax previous credit restrictions as to one- to four-unit residential and multi-unit residential property. It also contains provisions of a technical nature intended to clarify those provisions of the regulation which exempt (1) extensions of credit which are necessary for restoring property damaged or destroyed by flood, fire, or other casualty, and (2) certain contracts to sell real property.

b. Section 709 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 provides that the functions exercised under such act shall be excluded from the operations of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) except as to the requirements of section 3 thereof.

The change in section 7 was adopted by the Board after consideration of all relevant matter, including the recommendations received from time to time in consultations with industry and trade association representatives. Special circumstances prevented or rendered impracticable consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, in the formulation of certain provisions of the amendment which are of a technical nature, and, therefore, as authorized by the aforesaid section 709, these provisions have been included in the amendment without such consultation.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Production and Marketing Administration (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 42—UNITED STATES STANDARDS, GRADES, AND WEIGHT CLASSES FOR SHELL EGGS

CONSUMER, PROCUREMENT AND WHOLESALE GRADES, AND WEIGHT CLASSES FOR SHELL EGGS

A notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on April 23, 1952 (17 F. R. 3606) regarding a proposed revision of Subpart B, United States Consumer Grades and Weight Classes for Shell Eggs; Subpart D, United States Wholesale Grades and Weight Classes for Shell Eggs; and the addition of a new Subpart C, United States Procurement Grades and Weight Classes for Shell Eggs.

After consideration of all relevant matters presented including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the grades and weight classes hereinafter set forth are promulgated pursuant to authority contained in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act of 1952 (Pub. Law 135, 82d Cong., approved August 31, 1951) to become effective on July 1, 1952.

It is hereby found that it is impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to public interest to postpone the effective date of these grades for thirty (30) days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER for the reasons that (1) the consumer and wholesale grades are essentially the same as those currently in effect, (2) the revisions are to effect greater coordination between the United States standards and grades and the Federal Specifications used in the Armed Forces procurement program, and delay in the effective date would not be in the best interests of the defense food procurement program, and (3) additional time is not required in order for the industry to make preparation for compliance with the grades and weight classes hereinafter promulgated.

The grades and weight classes for shell eggs are as follows:

AUTHORITY: §§ 42.30 to 42.54 issued under sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, Pub. Law 135, 82d Cong.; 7 U. S. C. 1624.

SUBPART B—UNITED STATES CONSUMER GRADES AND WEIGHT CLASSES FOR SHELL EGGS

§ 42.30 General. (a) These grades are applicable to edible shell eggs in "lot" quantities rather than on an "individual" egg basis. A lot may contain any quantity of 2 or more eggs. Reference in these standards to the term "case" means 30 dozen egg cases as used in commercial practice in the United States.

(b) Terms used in this part that are defined in the United States standards for quality of individual shell eggs (§ 42.1 et seq.) have the same meaning in this part as in those standards.

(c) An aggregate tolerance of 20 percent is permitted within each consumer grade only as an allowance for variable efficiency and interpretation of graders, normal changes under favorable conditions during reasonable periods between grading and inspection, and reasonable variation of inspector's interpretation.

(d) Substitution of higher qualities for the lower qualities specified is permitted.

§ 42.31 Grades. (a) "U. S. Consumer Grade AA" shall consist of eggs of which at least 80 percent are AA Quality. Within the maximum tolerance of 20 percent, which may be below AA Quality, not more than 5 percent may be of the qualities below A, in any combination, but not including Dirties and Leakers.

(b) "U. S. Consumer Grade A" shall consist of eggs of which at least 80 percent are A Quality or better. Within the maximum tolerance of 20 percent which may be below A Quality, not more than 5 percent may be of the qualities below B, in any combination but not including Dirties and Leakers.

(c) "U. S. Consumer Grade B" shall consist of eggs of which at least 80 percent are B Quality or better. Within the maximum tolerance of 20 percent which may be below B Quality, 10 percent may be C Quality or Stained, in any combination, and not over 10 percent may be Dirties or Checks in any combination.

(d) "U. S. Consumer Grade C" shall consist of eggs of which at least 80 percent are C Quality or Stained, in any combination, or better, and the balance may be Dirties or Checks in any combination.

(e) Eggs with stained shells but otherwise conforming to U. S. Consumer Grade A or U. S. Consumer Grade B may be classified as "U. S. Consumer Grade A, Stained", or "U. S. Consumer Grade B, Stained", respectively.

(f) Additional tolerances. (1) Within the maximum tolerance permitted an allowance will be made at receiving points or shipping destination for ½ percent Leakers in U. S. Consumer Grades AA, A, and B, and one percent in Grade C.

(2) In lots of more than 30 cases no individual case may fall below 70 percent of the specified quality and in lots of 30 cases or less the 80 percent minimum requirement shall apply to each individual case.

(g) "No grade" means eggs of possible edible quality that fail to meet the requirements of an official U. S. Grade or that have been contaminated by smoke, chemicals, or other foreign material which has seriously affected the character, appearance, or flavor of the eggs.

§ 42.32 Summary of grades. The summary of the U. S. Consumer Grades for Shell Eggs follows as Table I of this section:

(a) Clearing debris.

(b) Emergency ditchings.

(c) Cleaning out, repairing, or replacing drainage systems.

(d) Leveling land by filling holes or gullies caused by floodwaters.

(e) Turning under sand deposits by deep plowing.

(f) Repairing or replacing fences necessary for proper land use.

(g) Planting or replanting pastures and hay crops.

(h) Planting cover crops or emergency forage crops.

(i) Replacing or repairing erosion control structures.

(j) Rehabilitation of stock water ponds and other stock water facilities.

(k) Special tillage of silted and waterlogged land.

(l) Rehabilitation of farm irrigation systems, including land leveling, dams, and reservoirs, but excluding motors and pumps.

§ 707.205 Rates of assistance. The rate of assistance for each restoration practice will be that recommended by the county committee and approved by the State committee, but not in excess of 80 percent of the average cost of performing the practice. The average cost of performing the practice may be the average cost for a State, a county, a part of a county, or a farm, as determined by the State committee.

§ 707.206 Prior approval. Prior approval of the county committee is required for all restoration practices for which assistance is obtained under this program, except that retroactive approval may be given for practices started by August 1, 1952.

§ 707.207 Practices carried out with State or Federal aid. The assistance for any practice shall not be reduced because it is carried out with materials or services furnished by the Agricultural Conservation Programs Branch (referred to in this subpart as the ACP Branch) under this program or by any agency of a State to another agency of the same State, or with technical advisory services furnished by a State or Federal agency. In other cases of State or Federal aid, the total assistance for any practice performed shall be reduced for purposes of payment by the value of the aid, as determined by the county committee. Materials or services furnished or used by a State or Federal agency for the performance of practices on its land shall not be regarded as State or Federal aid for the purposes of this section.

§ 707.208 Pooling agreements. Producers in any local area may agree in writing, with the approval of the county and State committees, to perform designated amounts of practices which the State committee determines are necessary to restore the agricultural resources of the community. For purposes of payment, practices carried out under such an approved written agreement will be regarded as having been carried out on the farms of the producers who performed the practices.

§ 707.209 Compliance with regulatory measures. Producers who carry out restoration practices for assistance under this program shall be responsible for obtaining the authorities, rights, easements, or other approvals necessary to the performance and maintenance of the practices in keeping with applicable laws and regulations. The producer who receives assistance for the practices shall be responsible to the Federal Government for any losses it may sustain because the producer infringes on the rights of others, or fails to comply with applicable laws.

PAYMENTS

§ 707.215 Division of restoration payments. The payment earned in carrying out practices with restoration materials or services shall be credited to the producer to whom the materials or services are furnished. Payment for practices performed with restoration materials and services shall have priority over payment for other practices. The payment earned in carrying out other practices shall be paid to the producer who carried out the practices. If more than one producer contributed to the carrying out of such practices, the payment shall be divided in the proportion that the county committee determines the producers contributed to the carrying out of the practices. In making this determination, the county committee shall take into consideration the value of the labor, equipment, or material contributed by each producer toward the carrying out of each practice on a particular acreage, assuming that each contributed equally, unless it is established to the satisfaction of the county committee that their respective contributions thereto were not in equal proportion. The furnishing of land will not be considered as a contribution to the carrying out of any practice.

§ 707.216 Death, incompetency, or disappearance of producer. In case of death, incompetency, or disappearance of any producer, his share of the payment shall be paid to his successor, determined in accordance with the provisions of Part 716 of this chapter (ACP-122).

§ 707.217 Payments limited to $2,500. (a) The total of all payments made in connection with the 1953 Farm Land Restoration Program to any person shall not exceed the sum of $2,500, except that with the written prior approval of the State committee, assistance may be authorized in a total amount not to exceed $10,000 in individual cases where the State committee finds that the approval of such amount of assistance is equitable considering the damage to the farm land involved and the approvals made for comparable damage on other farms.

(b) All or any part of any payment which has been or otherwise would be made to any person under this program may be withheld, or required to be refunded, if he has adopted, or participated in adopting, any scheme or device, including the dissolution, reorganization, revival, formation, or use of any corporation, partnership, estate, trust, or any other means, designed to evade, or which has the effect of evading, the provisions of this section.

RESTORATION MATERIALS AND SERVICES

§ 707.220 Availability. (a) Liming materials, phosphates, seeds, and other farming materials or services may be furnished by the ACP Branch to producers for carrying out approved practices. Materials or services may not be furnished to producers who are on the register of indebtedness, except in those cases where the agency to which the debt is owed notifies the ACP Branch that it temporarily waives its rights to set-off in order to permit the furnishing of materials and services.

(b) Title to any material distributed by the ACP Branch, either directly or through purchase orders, shall vest in the ACP Branch until the material is applied or planted, or all charges for the materials are satisfied.

§ 707.221 Cost to producer in cash. The producer shall pay that part of the cost of the material or service, as established by the ACP Branch, which is in excess of the credit for the use of the material or service in carrying out approved practices.

§ 707.222 Deduction. (a) A deduction shall be made for materials or services furnished by the ACP Branch from the payment of the producer to whom materials or services are furnished. The deduction shall be the credit value of the materials and services furnished, except that where the cost to the ACP Branch is less than the credit rate, the deduction shall be equal to the cost. If the producer misuses any material or service furnished, an additional deduction equal to the original amount of the deduction for the material or service misused shall be made.

(b) Materials or services will be considered as misused, for the purpose of this section, in the following instances:

(1) Where the county committee determines that any restoration material has been applied to crops which are not designated as eligible crops by the county and State committees, unless failure to properly use the material was due to conditions beyond the producer's control.

(2) Where the county committee determines that a structure, such as a terrace or dam, has been willfully or negligently destroyed by a producer in the program year in which the structure was completed.

(3) Where the county committee determines that material has been willfully or negligently destroyed, or has been rendered unusable, by the producer.

(4) Where the county committee determines that, with respect to seed furnished in connection with a crop, the crop is harvested for grain or hay, or is too heavily grazed, and such uses are prohibited by the practice specifications.

(5) Where the county committee determines that a producer has disposed of material by sale, barter, or some other unauthorized means.

(6) Where the county committee is unable to determine the use or disposition of material because of the failure of a producer to furnish requested information by the closing date designated by the ACP Branch for filing performance reports. However, if the requested information is filed at a later date and the material was properly used, the material will not be considered as misused.

(c) If the deduction for the materials or services exceeds the payment for the producer to whom the materials or services are furnished, the amount of the difference shall be paid by the producer to the Treasurer of the United States.

(d) Any producer to whom materials are furnished shall be responsible to the ACP Branch for any damage to the materials, unless he shows that the damage was caused by circumstances beyond his control. If materials are abandoned or not used during the program year, they may, at the option of the ACP Branch, be transferred to another producer or otherwise disposed of by the ACP Branch at the expense of the producer who abandoned or failed to use the material.

(e) Notwithstanding other provisions of this section and § 707.220 (b), in cases where the county committee, in accordance with standards approved by the State committee, determines (1) that due to reasons beyond his control, the producer to whom materials were furnished cannot use them to carry out the practice for which the materials were furnished, (2) that the materials cannot be used effectively by the producer to carry out other approved restoration measures on the farm before there is a likelihood of deterioration of the materials, and (3) that it is impracticable to repossess the materials or transfer the materials to another producer, title to the material may be transferred to the producer upon payment to the Treasurer of the United States of an amount equal to the deduction determined under the provisions of this section.

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO PAYMENTS

§ 707.230 Payments. Payment will not be made under this program for any practice, or part thereof, for which payment is made under the 1952 Agricultural Conservation Program, the 1952 Farm Land Restoration Program, or the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program with respect to the same acreage or location. However, payment may be made under this program for the restoration of a practice for which payment was made under the 1952 Agricultural Conservation Program or under a previous Agricultural Conservation Program or the 1951 or 1952 Farm Land Restoration Program and which has been damaged or destroyed by excessive rains, runoff, and floodwaters.

§ 707.231 Practices defeating purposes of program. If the State committee finds that any person has adopted or participated in any practice which tends to defeat the purpose of this program, it may withhold, or require to be refunded, all or any part of any payment which has been or would be computed for such person.

§ 707.232 Depriving others of payments. If the State committee finds that any person has employed any scheme or device (including coercion, fraud, or misrepresentation), the effect of which would be or has been to deprive any other person of any payment under the program, it may withhold, in whole or in part, from the person participating in or employing such a scheme or device, or require him to refund in whole or in part, the amount of any payment which has been or would otherwise be made to him in connection with the program.

§ 707.233 Filing of false claims. If the State committee finds that any person has knowingly filed claim for payment under the program for practices not carried out, or for practices carried out in such a manner that they do not meet the required specifications therefor, such person shall not be eligible to receive any payment under the program and shall refund all payments that may have been made to him under the program. The withholding or refunding of payments will be in addition to and not in substitution of any other penalty or liability which might otherwise be imposed.

§ 707.234 Misuse of purchase orders. If the State committee finds that any person has knowingly used a purchase order issued to him for restoration materials or services for a purpose other than that for which it was issued, and that such misuse of the purchase order tends to defeat the purpose for which it was issued, such person shall not be eligible to receive any payment under the program and shall refund all payments that may have been made to him under the program. The withholding or refunding of payments will be in addition to and not in substitution of any other penalty or liability which might otherwise be imposed.

§ 707.235 Payment computed and made without regard to claims. Any payment or share of payment shall be computed and made without regard to questions of title under State law; without deduction of claims for advances (except as provided in § 707.236, and except for indebtedness to the United States subject to set-off under orders issued by the Secretary (Part 718 of this chapter)); and without regard to any claim or lien against any crop, or proceeds thereof, in favor of the owner or any other creditor.

§ 707.236 Assignments. Any person who may be entitled to any payment in connection with the program may assign his payment, in whole or in part, as security cash loaned or advances made for the purpose of financing the making of a crop in 1952 or 1953. No assignment will be recognized unless it is made in writing on Form ACP-69 and in accordance with the instructions in ACP-70.

APPLICATION FOR ASSISTANCE

§ 707.240 Persons eligible to file application. An application for payment with respect to a farm may be made by any producer who is entitled to share in the payment determined for the farm.

§ 707.241 Time and manner of filing application and information required. Payment will be made only upon application submitted on the prescribed form to the county office. Payment may be withheld from any person who fails to file any form or furnish any information required with respect to any farm which such person is operating or renting to another. Any application for payment may be rejected if any form or information required of the applicant is not submitted to the county office within the time fixed by the Director, ACP Branch, which time shall be not later than June 30, 1954. At least 2 weeks' notice to the public shall be given of the expiration of a time limit for filing prescribed forms or required information, and any time limit fixed shall afford a full and fair opportunity to those eligible to file the form or information within the period prescribed. Such notice shall be given by mailing notice to the office of each county committee and making copies available to the press.

APPEALS

§ 707.245 Appeals. Any producer may, within 15 days after notice thereof is forwarded to or made available to him, request the county committee in writing to reconsider its recommendation or determination in any matter affecting the right to or the amount of his payment with respect to the farm. The county committee shall notify him of its decision in writing within 15 days after receipt of written request for reconsideration. If the producer is dissatisfied with the decision of the county committee he may, within 15 days after the decision is forwarded to or made available to him, appeal in writing to the State committee. The State committee shall notify him of its decision in writing within 30 days after the submission of the appeal. If he is dissatisfied with the decision of the State committee, he may, within 15 days after its decision is forwarded to or made available to him, request the Director, ACP Branch, to review the decision of the State committee. Written notice of any decision rendered under this section by the county or State committee shall also be issued to each other producer on the farm who may be adversely affected by the decision.

STATE HANDBOOKS, BULLETINS, INSTRUCTIONS, AND FORMS

§ 707.246 State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms. The ACP Branch is authorized to make determinations and to prepare and issue State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms required in administering this program. Copies of State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms containing detailed information with respect to this program as it applies to specific States, counties, areas, and farms will be available in the office of the State committee (11 F. R. 177A-285) and the office of the county committee. AUTHORITY: §§ 961.1 to 961.102 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c.

§ 961.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, February 25–28, 1952, upon a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making effective not later than June 11, 1952, this order amending the said order, as amended. This action is necessary in the public interest in order to reflect current marketing conditions. Accordingly, any further delay in the effective date of this order, amending the said order, as amended, will seriously impair orderly marketing of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area. The provisions of the said amendatory order are well known to handlers—the public hearing have been held February 25–28, 1952, the recommended decision having been issued by the Acting Assistant Administrator on May 7, 1952, and the final decision by the Secretary on May 27, 1952. Reasonable time under the circumstances has been afforded persons affected to prepare for its effective date. Therefore, it would be impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendatory order 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (see section 4 (c) Administrative Procedure Act, Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong., 60 Stat. 237).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping milk covered by this order, amending the order, as amended, which is marketed within the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area) of more than 50 percent of the milk which is marketed within the said marketing area, refused or failed to sign the proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the said marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said proposed marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order amending the order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the said marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order amending the order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who, during the determined representative period (February 1952), were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions:

(i) Promptly verify the information contained in the reports submitted by handlers.

CLASSIFICATION OF MILK

§ 961.30 Basis of classification. Milk received by each handler, including milk produced by him, if any, shall be classified, in the classes set forth in § 961.31, in accordance with its utilization by such handler, subject to §§ 961.32 through 961.35.

§ 961.31 Classes of utilization. The classes of utilization of milk shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all milk (1) sold, distributed, or disposed of as or in milk, skim milk and flavored milk drinks for fluid consumption containing less than 18 percent butterfat, including concentrated milk not sterilized and not in hermetically sealed cans, and including all milk or skim milk disposed of from a handler's plant to retail establishments which dispose of milk for both fluid and other uses, and (2) all other milk not accounted for as Class II; and

(b) Class II milk shall be (1) all milk disposed of in products other than those included in paragraph (a) of this section, (2) milk dumped or disposed of for animal feed, and (3) all milk accounted for as actual plant shrinkage but not to exceed 2 percent of the total pounds of milk, skim milk, and cream received by a handler at all of his producer milk plants.

§ 961.32 Transfers of milk. Milk and skim milk containing less than 18 percent butterfat, transferred from a producer milk plant to another handler's producer milk plant or to a nonproducer milk plant, shall be allocated to Class I unless such milk or skim milk was disposed of under a written agreement submitted to the market administrator or by proof of use if the transfer is from a handler's producer plant to the same handler's nonproducer milk plant that such milk or skim milk be allocated to Class II and the receiving handler or nonproducer milk plant has used in Class II products a quantity of milk or skim milk equivalent to the milk or skim milk received during the month from producer milk plants under an agreement for classification in Class II.

§ 961.33 Transfers of cream. Cream containing 18 percent or more butterfat, received by a handler from a nonproducer plant, shall be considered Class II up to the amount of Class II disposed of by the handler and cream containing 18 percent or more butterfat disposed of by a handler to a nonproducer milk plant shall be considered Class II.

§ 961.34 Allocation of milk or skim milk received at producer milk plants from nonproducer milk plants. (a) During the months of October to January, inclusive, milk or skim milk received at a producer milk plant from a nonproducer milk plant shall be allocated by the receiving handler to each of the classes and price subdivisions of each class in the same proportion as milk received from producers at all of the producer milk plants of the receiving handler during the month, except that a greater proportion of such milk from nonproducer plants may be allocated by the receiving handler to Class II and in the absence of an allocation by the handler reported to the market administrator such milk shall be allocated by the market administrator to Class II up to the amount of Class II utilized by the handler during the month.

(b) During the months February to September inclusive, milk or skim milk received at a producer milk plant from a nonproducer milk plant shall be allocated to Class I only if the receiving handler has allocated all of the milk received from producers at all of his producer milk plants to Class I during the month.

(c) The equivalent in milk or skim milk of dry milk, nonfat dry milk, condensed milk, and condensed skim milk utilized at a producer milk plant shall be allocated by the handler to Class II up to the amount of Class II utilized by him.

§ 961.35 Allocation of milk or skim milk received by a handler from a producer-handler. Milk or skim milk received in bulk by a handler from another handler who is also a producer and receives no milk from producers may be classified in Class I up to the same proportionate amount as such handler classifies in Class I milk received from producers who are not handlers.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 961.40 Class prices. Except as set forth in § 961.43, each handler shall pay, at the time and in the manner set forth in §§ 961.80 through 961.85, for milk received during each month from producers or an association of producers not less than the following prices, subject to the differentials set forth in §§ 961.41 and 961.42:

(a) Class I milk. The market administrator shall compute and announce on the 15th day of each month (or on the next business day if the 15th is a holiday) from the latest available data the index values computed pursuant to subparagraphs (1) through (6) of this paragraph, the Class I price, and the utilization percentages computed pursuant to subparagraphs (7) and (8) of this paragraph.

(1) Compute an index of wholesale commodity prices by averaging the four latest weekly index figures of wholesale commodity prices published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, and convert the result to a 1936–1940 base period by dividing by .5108.

(2) Compute an index of prices paid by Pennsylvania farmers per hundredweight for 20 percent protein mixed dairy feed, using a 1936–1940 base period, by dividing by .01776 the monthly price for such feed published by the Pennsylvania Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

(3) Compute an index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for farm products except dairy, in a 1936–1940 base period, by dividing the monthly index published by the Pennsylvania Federal-State Crop Reporting Service on a 1910–1914 base by 1.0915, and adjust the result for seasonal variation by dividing by the applicable figure indicated below for each month:

January, February, March			96
April, May, June			1.00
July, August, September			1.04
October, November, December			1.00

(4) Compute an index of prices paid for milk by 18 Midwest condenseries, using a 1936–40 base period, by dividing by 0.013945 the monthly average price paid by 18 Midwest condenseries as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, and adjust the result for seasonal variation by dividing by the applicable figure indicated below for each month:

January	1.02	July	0.97
February	1.02	August	1.00
March	1.01	September	1.00
April	.99	October	1.00
May	.98	November	1.02
June	.96	December	1.03

(5) Compute an index of average daily pounds of Class I milk sold by all handlers during the previous month, except that milk which is moved to plants outside of New Jersey and Delaware from which no routes are operated in the marketing area, using a 1936–40 base period, by dividing the monthly figure by 16,640, and adjust the result for seasonal variation by dividing by the applicable figure indicated below for each month:

January	0.98	July	0.99
February	.99	August	.99
March	1.00	September	1.04
April	.99	October	1.05
May	.98	November	1.02
June	.98	December	.99

(6) Divide the sum of the indexes calculated in subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph by 5. This figure shall be the formula index, and shall determine the Class I price for each calender quarter in accordance with the following table, subject to the provisions of subparagraphs (7) and (8) of this paragraph. The price for each calendar quarter shall be determined by the index value calculated and announced in the month preceding the calendar quarter, in accordance with the bracket shown in the following table in which such index value is included, or if such index value is not within a bracket, the price for the calendar quarter shall be determined by the adjacent index bracket which is the same as or nearest to the price in the previous quarter.

If the formula index is more than 260.4, this table shall be extended at the same rate as in the three highest index brackets shown above.

(7) For any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 40 cents more than the price prescribed in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month, excluding receipts at plants which were not producer milk plants during 3 consecutive months, are less than 115 percent of total Class I sales by handlers in the same period; except that a price adjustment pursuant to this subdivision shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year plus 80 cents.

(8) For any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 40 cents less than the price prescribed in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month, excluding receipts at plants which were not producer milk plants during 3 consecutive months, are more than 137 percent of total Class I sales by handlers in the same period; except that a price adjustment pursuant to this subdivision shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year minus 80 cents.

(b) Class II milk. The price per hundredweight during each month shall be the sum of the values calculated as follows by the market administrator:

(1) Butterfat. Add all market quotations (using midpoint of any weekly range as one quotation) of prices for a 40-quart can of fresh sweet cream of bottling quality in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, market, reported for each week ending within the month by the United States Department of Agriculture (or such other Federal agency as is authorized to perform this price reporting function), divide by the number of quotations, divide by 33.48, multiply by 4 and subtract 26½ cents: Provided, That for butterfat established as used in butter, the price shall be 4 times 120 percent of the average of the daily wholesale selling prices for Grade A (92-score) butter at New York as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the month for which payment is to be made, less 19 cents, but in no event shall this butter value be greater than the butterfat value established otherwise by this subparagraph.

(2) Skim milk. Multiply by 7.5 the average of all the prices per pound quoted for nonfat dry milk solids under the designation "roller, other brands, human consumption, carlots, bags, or barrels" (using midpoint of any range as one quotation), as published for such month in the "Producers Price Current", and subtract 54 cents in the computation of prices for the months of April, May and June, and 44 cents in other months.

(3) During the months of April, May and June, 1952, in the case of milk used in the manufacture of evaporated milk, milk chocolate, cheese other than cottage cheese, and nonfat dry milk, subtract from the sum of the values computed in subparagraph (1) and (2) of this paragraph any excess over the sum of the butterfat and skim milk values computed as follows:

Compute a butterfat value by adding to the average butter price per pound computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph 2 cents, multiply the sum by 1.22 and by 4, and deduct 19 cents; and compute a skim milk value by multiplying by 7.8 the weighted average (using the weight of 70 for roller process prices and a weight of 30 for spray process prices) of the prices per pound of roller process and spray process nonfat dry milk solids, for human consumption, in carlots, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published by the United States Department of Agriculture for the period from the 26th day of the immediately preceding month through the 25th day of the current month, and subtract 54 cents.

§ 961.41 Butterfat differential. (a) The Class I price shall be subject to a butterfat differential of 5 cents for each one-tenth of 1 percent variation above or below 4.0 percent: Provided, That in case of Class I items containing less than 3.0 percent butterfat or more than 6.0 percent butterfat, the rate of differential prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section based on cream quotations shall apply.

(b) The Class II price shall be subject to a butterfat differential for each one-tenth of 1 percent variation above or below 4.0 percent, calculated as follows: divide the average of the cream quotations used calculating the Class II price by 334.8, and subtract 0.67 cents; or in the case of butterfat in Class II to which the "butter-value" is applicable, divide the butter value by 40; and in the case of milk used in the manufacture of evaporated milk, milk chocolate, cheese other than cottage cheese, and nonfat dry milk, during April, May and June 1952, divide the butterfat value computed pursuant to § 961.40 (b) (3) by 40.

§ 961.42 Differentials for place of receipt of milk. In the case of milk received from producers by any handler at plants 31 miles or more from the City Hall in Philadelphia, there shall be deducted from the prices set forth in § 961.40 the following amounts:

(a) Class I milk. At plants 31 to 40 miles from the City Hall in Philadelphia, 31 cents per hundredweight, and for plants within each additional 10 miles in excess of 40 miles, an additional 1 cent, provided the total amount does not exceed 64 cents per hundredweight.

(b) Class II milk. At plants 31 to 70 miles from the City Hall in Philadelphia, 5 cents per hundredweight, and for plants within each additional 70 miles an additional cent.

The distance of any plant from the City Hall in Philadelphia shall be that recognized by the Interstate Commerce Commission for rate-making purposes on highways over which the Highway Departments of the several States permit milk tank trucks to move, or if no such distance is recognized, the distance shall be that ascertained and announced by the market administrator.

§ 961.43 Class I milk disposed of outside the marketing area. The price to be paid by handlers for Class I milk disposed of outside the marketing area on any wholesale or retail routes from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area on the same trip, in lieu of the price otherwise applicable pursuant to this section, shall be, as ascertained by the market administrator, such price as is being paid to farmers in the market where such milk was disposed of, for milk of equivalent use, less the applicable transportation allowance in such outside market, but in no case more than 64 cents: Provided, That Class I milk disposed of in markets where the market administrator is unable to determine such a price the Class I price plus or minus the applicable differentials specified in this order shall apply: And provided further, That in the case of Class I milk disposed of in an area where the handling of milk is regulated by another order of the Secretary the price effective under such other order shall apply, except that when disposed of in the New York metropolitan milk marketing area during the months of April through August 1952, the price for such milk shall be the Class II price pursuant to subparagraphs (1) (exclusive of the proviso) and (2) of § 961.40 (b).

REPORTS OF HANDLERS

§ 961.50 Periodic reports. On or before the 8th day after the end of each month each handler, with respect to milk, milk products or cream which was, during such month, (a) received from producers, handlers, or other sources; and (b) produced by such handler, shall report to the market administrator, in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator, as follows:

(1) The receipts at each plant from producers who are not handlers;

(2) The receipts at each plant from any other handler, including any handler who is also a producer;

(3) The quantity, if any, produced by such handler;

(4) The receipts at each plant from any other source;

(5) The respective quantities of milk and milk products disposed of or on hand at each plant, with the butterfat content thereof; and

(6) The shipments of milk to the marketing area from each plant.

§ 961.51 Reports of handlers who receive no milk from producers. Handlers who receive no milk from producers shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require.

§ 961.52 Reports as to producers. Each handler shall report to the market administrator:

(a) Within 10 days after the market administrator's request, with respect to any producer for whom such information is not in the files of the market administrator, and with respect to a period or periods of time designated by the market administrator, (1) the name and address, (2) the total pounds of milk received, (3) the average butterfat test of milk received, and (4) the number of days upon which milk was received; and

(b) As soon as possible after first receiving milk from any producer, (1) the name and address of such producer, (2) the date upon which such milk was first received, and (3) the plant at which such milk was received.

§ 961.53 Reports of payments to producers. Each handler shall submit to the market administrator on or before the 25th day after the end of each month his producer pay roll for such month which shall show for each producer (a) the net amount of such producer's payment with the prices, deductions, and charges involved, and (b) the total delivery of milk with the average butterfat test thereof.

§ 961.54 Outside cream purchases. Each handler shall report as requested by the market administrator his purchases, if any, of sweet cream, showing the quantity and source of each such purchase and the cost thereof at Philadelphia.

§ 961.55 Verification of reports. Each handler shall permit the market administrator or his agent, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, during the usual hours of business, to (a) verify the information contained in reports submitted in accordance with this section and (b) weigh milk received from each producer and sample and test milk for butterfat.

§ 961.56 Retention of records. All books and records required under this order to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the calendar month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three year period, the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that the retention of such books and records, or of specified books and records, is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 961.60 Handlers who receive no milk from producers. The provisions hereof, except those set forth in §§ 961.50 through 961.56 and § 961.90, shall not apply to a producer-handler who receives no milk from producers nor to a handler whose sole source of milk supply consists of receipts from other handlers.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 961.70 Computation of the value of milk for each handler. For each month the market administrator shall compute, subject to the provisions of § 961.60, the value of milk of producers disposed of by each handler, by (a) multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in each class, computed pursuant to §§ 961.30 through 961.35 by the prices applicable pursuant to § 961.40, plus or minus the applicable differentials in §§ 961.41 through 961.43, and (b) adding together the resulting values.

§ 961.71 Computation and announcement of uniform price for each handler. The market administrator shall compute and announce for each handler the uniform price per hundredweight of milk received by him at each plant from producers during each month as follows:

(a) Add to the value computed pursuant to § 961.70 the amount of the adjustment to be made pursuant to § 961.83, and add or subtract the amount to be subtracted or added, respectively, by the handler pursuant to § 961.82.

(b) Divide the amount computed in paragraph (a) of this section by the total quantity of milk received from producers, including milk of his own production; and

(c) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month, notify each handler and publicly announce the uniform price computed for each handler pursuant to this section with the differentials applicable pursuant to §§ 961.82 through 961.84.

PAYMENTS FOR MILK

§ 961.80 Time and method of payment—(a) Semimonthly payments. On or before the last day of each month each handler shall make a payment to producers for milk delivered during the first 15 days of such month at not less than a rate per hundredweight which he estimates will be his uniform price for such month.

(b) Final payment. On or before the 20th day after the end of each month, each handler shall make full payment, subject to §§ 961.82 through 961.85, to each producer, for the total value of milk received from such producer during such month, at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight computed for such handler pursuant to §§ 961.70 and 961.71 after taking credit for payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 961.81 Errors in payment. Errors in making payments for milk shall be corrected not later than the date for making payments next following the determination of such errors.

§ 961.82 Butterfat differential. If any handler has received from any producer, during the month, milk having an average butterfat content other than 4.0 percent, such handler, in making payments pursuant to § 961.80, shall add to the uniform price for such producer for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk above 4.0 percent not less than, or shall deduct from the uniform price for such producer for each one-tenth of 1 percent of average butterfat content in milk below 4.0 percent not more than 5 cents per hundredweight.

§ 961.83 Location differentials. In making payments pursuant to § 961.80, each handler shall deduct from payments to producers delivering milk to a plant located in a mileage zone set forth in § 961.42 a differential equal to the percentage of the pounds of all milk received from producers at all of the producer milk plants of the handler which was used in Class I times the Class I differential rate pursuant to § 961.42 at such plant plus the percentage of Class II at the Class II rate pursuant to § 961.42.

§ 961.84 Additional deductions. In the case of milk received from producers at plants more than 11 miles from City Hall in Philadelphia, the handler may deduct from the payments otherwise specified in §§ 961.80 through 961.83 to be paid 7 cents per hundredweight at plants 11 to 16 miles from the City Hall in Philadelphia, and an additional 2 cents per hundredweight for plants within each additional 5 miles in excess of 16 miles but less than 31 miles.

§ 961.85 Premium for Grade A milk. In addition to the uniform price and all other payments required pursuant to §§ 961.80 through 961.84, each handler shall pay for milk, which he has designated as qualified under the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Department of Health or the New Jersey Department of Health requirements for sale as Grade A milk and which is delivered to a plant similarly qualified (so long as such requirements are in effect as a separate grade), 40 cents per hundredweight of Grade A milk received from producers of 10,000 bacteria or less per c.c. and 25 cents per hundredweight of Grade A milk received from producers of more than 10,000 but less than 25,000 bacteria, times the ratio of such milk sold as Grade A either in fluid form or as products manufactured from Grade A milk to the total quantity of Grade A milk received from producers, plus 2 cents for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the butterfat content is above 3.7 percent. In addition to the above payments each handler shall add to the value of his milk computed pursuant to § 961.70, 40 cents per hundredweight of milk sold by a handler as Grade A in excess of the milk received from designated Grade A producers for whom the handler has maintained adequate laboratory records which qualify such producers for the 40-cent or 25-cent premiums described in this section.

EXPENSE OF ADMINISTRATION

§ 961.90 Payments by handlers. As his pro rata share of the expense of the administration hereof, each handler, on or before the 20th day after the end of each month shall pay to the market administrator, with respect to all milk received by such handler directly from producers, and all milk received from nonproducer milk plants which is allocated to Class I under § 961.34, an amount not exceeding 2 cents per hundredweight, the exact amount to be determined by the market administrator subject to review by the Secretary.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 961.100 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this order for the payment of money irrespective of when such obligation arose, except an obligation involved in an action instituted before August 1, 1949, under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or before a court.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this order shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this order, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this order to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this order to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him, under the terms of this order shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

§ 961.101 Equivalent prices or indexes. If for any reason a price or index specified by this order for use in computing class prices or other purposes is not reported or published in the manner described in this order, the market administrator shall use a price or index determined by the Secretary to be equivalent or comparable with the factor which is specified.

§ 961.102 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employe of the United States or name any bureau or division of the United States Department of Agriculture to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions hereof.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 6th day of June 1952, to be effective on and after the 11th day of June 1952.

[Amdt. 1]

PART 501—AIRCRAFT REGISTRATION CERTIFICATES

ISSUANCE OF REGISTRATION CERTIFICATES

This amendment revises § 501.4 which concerns the issuance of registration certificates for aircraft owned by citizens of the United States. In order to eliminate some of the difficulties now experienced in the registration of imported aircraft and to implement Article IX of the Convention on the International Recognition of Rights in Aircraft, a new paragraph (c) has been added. A proposal to revise § 501.4 was published on April 26, 1952, in 17 F. R. 3746. Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit data, views, and arguments. Consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented. The following revision of § 501.4 is hereby adopted:

§ 501.4 Issuance of registration certificate—(a) New or previously unregistered aircraft. A registration certificate will be issued by the Administrator for aircraft not previously registered under the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or the laws of any foreign country, if the applicant:

(1) Mails or delivers a duly executed application for registration to the Administrator accompanied by the required registration fee (see § 406.14 (c) of this chapter); and

(2) Certifies that applicant is a citizen of the United States;[1] and that the aircraft is not validly registered under the laws of any foreign country; and

(3) Submits with the application proof satisfactory to the Administrator that the applicant is the owner of such aircraft.

(b) Aircraft previously registered in the United States. A registration certificate will be issued by the Administrator for aircraft which have been last registered under the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, if:

(1) The applicant mails or delivers a duly executed application for registration to the Administrator accompanied by the required registration fee (see § 406.14 (c) of this chapter); and

(2) The applicant certifies that he is a citizen of the United States; and

(3) The applicant submits with the application for registration a conveyance which meets the requirements prescribed in Part 503 of this chapter, evidencing applicant's ownership of the aircraft; and

(4) The conveyance submitted with the above application establishes in the recordation system of the Administrator, title to the aircraft in the applicant: Provided, That this requirement shall not be applicable to contracts of conditional sale in which the seller is the recorded owner of the aircraft: And provided further, That if for good reason an applicant for registration cannot comply with the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and this subparagraph, other proof of ownership satisfactory to the Administrator must be submitted.

(c) Aircraft previously registered in foreign countries. A registration certificate will be issued by the Administrator for aircraft which have been last registered under the laws of a foreign country if the applicant:

(1) Complies with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section; and

(2) Submits a statement signed by a proper official of the country of foreign registry to the effect that all holders of recorded rights against the aircraft have been satisfied or have consented to the transfer of registry; or

(3) Submits evidence satisfactory to the Administrator that the foreign registry has terminated or is invalid,[2] or that the country of foreign registry does not supply information with respect to recorded rights in aircraft.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies sec. 501, 52 Stat. 1005, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 521)

This amendment shall become effective thirty (30) days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[SEAL] F. B. LEE,
Acting Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

[1] As defined by section 1 (13) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, "'Citizen of the United States' means (a) an individual who is a citizen of the United States or of one of its possessions, or (b) a partnership of which each member is such an individual, or (c) a corporation or association created or organized under the laws of the United States or of any State, Territory or possession of the United States, of which the president and two-thirds or more of the board of directors and other managing officers thereof are such individuals and in which at least 75 per centum of the voting interest is owned or controlled by persons who are citizens of the United States or of one of its possessions."

[2] The United States is a party to and has ratified the Convention on International Recognition of Rights in Aircraft, signed at Geneva on June 19, 1948. Ratification of this Convention by other signatory countries may result in limiting the application of this clause to cases in which ownership in the country of export has been terminated by a sale in execution carried out in conformity with the provisions of the Convention.

Chapter IV—Foreign-Trade Zones Board

[Order 29]

PART 400—GENERAL REGULATIONS GOVERNING FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES IN THE UNITED STATES, WITH RULES OF PROCEDURE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Notice of proposed rule making having been given, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 19, 1951 (16 F. R. 10706–10708), consideration having been given to all suggested revisions, views and arguments submitted in writing by interested persons, and required notice having been given of the disposition thereof, the General Regulations Governing Foreign-Trade Zones in the United States, with Rules of Procedure of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board (15 CFR Part 400), are hereby amended, and become effective 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, as follows:

1. Amend § 400.100 to read as follows:

§ 400.100 Act. The term "Act" means the Foreign-Trade Zones Act of June 18, 1934 (48 Stat. 998–1003; 19 U. S. C. 81a–81u), as amended by Pub. Law 566, 81st Cong., approved June 17, 1950.

2. Amend § 400.101 to read as follows:

§ 400.101 Zone. The term "zone" means a "foreign-trade zone." It is an isolated, enclosed, and policed area, operated as a public utility, in or adjacent to a port of entry, furnished with facilities for lading, unlading, handling, storing, manipulating, manufacturing, and exhibiting goods, and for reshipping them by land, water, or air. Any foreign and domestic merchandise, except such as is prohibited by law or such as the Board may order to be excluded as detrimental to the public interest, health, or safety, may be brought into a zone without being subject to the customs laws of the United States governing the entry of goods or the payment of duty thereon; and such merchandise permitted in a zone may be stored, exhibited, manufactured, mixed or manipulated in any manner, except as provided in the act and other applicable laws or regulations. The merchandise may be exported, destroyed, or sent into customs territory from the zone, in the original package or otherwise. It is subject to customs duties if sent into customs territory, but not if reshipped to foreign points.

3. Add new § 400.304.

§ 400.304 Zones for specialized purposes. The establishment of a zone, or a sub-zone in an area separate from an existing zone, for one or more of the specialized purposes of storing, manipulating, manufacturing, or exhibiting goods, may be authorized if the Board finds that existing or authorized zones will not serve adequately the convenience of commerce with respect to the proposed purposes.

4. Delete § 400.800 and substitute the following:

§ 400.800 Operations in zone, and forms and procedures. The merchandise and operations permitted in a zone, the disposition of merchandise in a zone, the zone status of the merchandise and special provisions applicable to each status, the subsequent importation of merchandise exported from a zone, and other operations in a zone authorized by the act, are hereinafter in this part generally described. The zone forms[1] required are appended to these regulations and made a part thereof, and the procedures required are set forth in Customs regulations relating to foreign-trade zones (19 CFR Part 30), and the regulations and schedules of rates and charges made and fixed by the zone grantee and approved by the Board.

5. Delete §§ 400.801 and 400.802 and substitute the following:

§ 400.801 Merchandise permitted in a zone. Foreign and domestic merchandise of every description, except such as is prohibited by law, may, without being subject to the customs laws of the United States, except as otherwise provided in the act and the regulations made thereunder, be brought into a zone.

(a) Merchandise which is specifically and absolutely prohibited by law shall not be admitted into a zone. Any merchandise so prohibited by law which is found within a zone shall be disposed of in the manner provided for in the laws and regulations applicable to such merchandise. A distinction is made between (1) merchandise which is specifically and absolutely prohibited by law on the grounds of policy or morals, such as immoral or subversive literature, obscene articles, or lottery matter, and (2) merchandise which is subject to conditional prohibition only, for example, articles which are subject to permits or licenses for the protection of economic or national security or which may be reconditioned to bring them into compliance with the laws administered by various Federal agencies. Collectors of customs are required to exclude the first class of articles and may not permit them to be transferred to a zone if they are aware of their prohibited status, except that the collector may permit the temporary deposit of any such merchandise in the zone pending final determination of its status. The transfer of articles of the second class to a zone is subject to any requirements of the Federal agency concerned. There is no prohibition against placing over-quota merchandise in a zone pending its right to transfer to customs territory pursuant to the applicable quota provisions.

(b) The application for the admission of merchandise into a zone shall be approved or disapproved by the collector, as the representative of the Board, where the merchandise is not excluded by any other Federal agency having jurisdiction over the merchandise.

6. Add new § 400.802.

§ 400.802 Disposition of merchandise in a zone. In general, merchandise lawfully brought into a zone may, in accordance with these and other regulations made under the provisions of the act be exported, destroyed, or sent into customs territory of the United States therefrom, in the original package or otherwise; but when foreign merchandise, and domestic merchandise whose identity has been lost, is so sent from a zone into customs territory of the United States it shall be subject to the laws and regulations of the United States affecting imported merchandise.

7. Change the number of § 400.803, Exclusion from zone of goods or process of treatment, to § 400.807.

8. Add new § 400.803.

§ 400.803 Manipulation, manufacture, and exhibition of merchandise. In general, merchandise, lawfully brought into a zone may, in accordance with these and other regulations made under the provisions of the act, be stored, sold, exhibited, broken up, repacked, assembled, distributed, sorted, graded, cleaned, mixed with foreign and domestic merchandise, or otherwise manipulated, or be manufactured, except as otherwise provided by the act.

(a) Permission for any manipulation, manufacture, or exhibition in a zone shall be obtained from the collector, as the representative of the Board, subject to such application and procedure prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury for the protection of the revenue.

(b) In the event of the denial of any application by the collector for any reason, the applicant, the grantee, or the operator of the zone may appeal the adverse ruling to the Board. If any revenue-protection considerations are involved in such an application, the Board shall be guided by the determinations of the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to them.

9. Delete § 400.803a Handling of gold.

10. Change the number of § 400.804 Retail trade within zone, to § 400.808.

11. Add new § 400.804.

§ 400.804 Status of merchandise in a zone. (a) For the purposes of the act and the regulations of this part, all merchandise within a zone, except merchandise in transit through a zone as provided in § 30.5 of Customs regulations,[1] and except merchandise temporarily transferred to a zone for manipulation as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, shall be given a zone status as:

(1) Privileged foreign merchandise,
(2) Privileged domestic merchandise,
(3) Non-privileged foreign merchandise,
(4) Non-privileged domestic merchandise, or
(5) Zone-restricted merchandise, in accordance with §§ 30.6, 30.7, 30.8, 30.9, and 30.10 of Customs regulations.

(b) Imported merchandise which has been entered and which has remained in continuous customs custody may be temporarily transferred to a zone for manipulation under customs supervision pursuant to section 562, Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, and for return to customs territory. Any such merchandise shall not be considered within the purview of the Foreign-Trade Zones Act, but shall be treated in all respects as though remaining in customs territory. Therefore no zone form or procedure shall be considered applicable, but the merchandise shall remain subject in the zone to such requirements as are necessary for the enforcement of section 562 and other pertinent customs laws.

12. Delete § 400.805 and substitute the following:

§ 400.805 Use of zone by carriers. The water area, docking facilities, and loading or unloading stations of a zone are intended primarily for the use of vessels, vehicles, or aircraft unlading merchandise into the zone or lading merchandise from the zone, and their use for other purposes may be terminated by the Secretary of the Treasury if found to endanger the revenue, or by the Board if found to interfere with the primary uses of the zone.

13. Add new § 400.806.

§ 400.806 Subsequent importation of zone merchandise. Articles produced or manufactured in a zone and exported therefrom shall, on subsequent importation into the customs territory of the United States, be subject to the import laws applicable to like articles manufactured in a foreign country, except that articles produced or manufactured in a zone exclusively with the use of domestic merchandise, the identity of which has been maintained in accordance with the Second Proviso of section 3 of the Act, as amended, may, on such importation, be entered as American goods returned.

14. Change the numbers of sections as follows:

a. Section 400.806 Residence within zone, to § 400.809.

b. Section 400.807 Employees and persons entering and leaving zone, to § 400.810.

c. Section 400.808 All persons entering zone bound by regulations, to § 400.811.

d. Section 400.809 Identification of employees within zone, to § 400.812.

[1] 19 CFR, Part 30.

15. Change the number of § 400.810 to 400.813, and amend to read as follows:

§ 400.813 Hours of business and service. Hours of business and service, for customs purposes, shall be the same as those prescribed in Customs regulations.

16. Change the number of § 400.811 to § 400.814, and amend to read as follows:

§ 400.814 Payment of customs officers and employees. (a) The cost of maintaining the customs service in a zone shall be paid monthly by the grantee of such zone to the collector of customs.

(b) Customs officers and employees performing services in a zone at night, or on Sundays and holidays, shall receive extra compensation, to be computed as and under the conditions prescribed by Customs regulations.

(c) For the purpose of computing extra compensation the word "night" shall be construed to mean the time from 5:00 p. m. to 8:00 a. m. and the word "holiday" shall include only national holidays, viz., January 1, February 22, May 30, July 4, the first Monday in September, November 11, the fourth Thursday in November, and December 25, and such other days as may be made national holidays.

(d) In a zone at a port where customary working hours are other than those herein mentioned, the collector of customs is authorized to regulate the hours of customs officers and employees assigned to the zone so as to agree with prevailing working hours in said port, but nothing herein shall be construed in any manner to affect or alter the length of a working day for customs officers or employees, or the overtime pay.

17. Change the number of § 400.812 Erection of buildings within zone by persons other than grantee, to § 400.815.

18. Delete § 400.1000 and substitute the following:

§ 400.1000 Operation, maintenance, and administration. The zone shall be operated, maintained, and administered by the grantee under (a) the supervision, direction, and control of the Board in accordance with the provisions of the act and the regulations of the Board in this part, (b) the regulations relating to foreign-trade zones of the Bureau of Customs for the protection of the revenue (19 CFR Part 30) and any other law, regulation, or instruction the Customs Service is required or authorized to enforce, (c) such other applicable laws and regulations thereunder of other Federal agencies, and (d) the regulations and schedules of rates and charges made and fixed by the grantee and approved by the Board. The collector in whose district the zone is located shall, in addition to his duties as Collector of Customs, be in local charge of the zone as the resident representative of the Board. He may call upon the district engineer and local representatives of other governmental departments and agencies for advice in matters of operation, maintenance, and administration.

19. Amend § 400.1001 to read as follows:

§ 400.1001 Regulations promulgated by grantee, and posting of regulations within zone. The grantee shall, before beginning operation of a zone submit to the Board its own rules, regulations, and practices for the operation of the zone, subject to disapproval of the Board. There shall be posted in a conspicuous place within the zone copies of the regulations issued by the Board and the approved regulations of the grantee, or of such extracts from either or both of such regulations as the Board may designate.

20. Amend § 400.1002a to read as follows:

§ 400.1002a Uniform system of accounts, records, and reports. Every grantee of a zone shall keep its books, records, and accounts in the form and manner prescribed in "Uniform System of Accounts, Records, and Reports", approved February 6, 1939.

AUTHORITY: §§ 30.1 to 30.18 issued under R. S. 161, sec. 624, 46 Stat. 759; 5 U. S. C. 22, 19 U. S. C. 1624. Interpret or apply R. S. 251, sec. 3, 44 Stat. 1382, secs. 1–24, 48 Stat. 998; 5 U. S. C. 281b, 19 U. S. C. 66, 81a–81u.

§ 30.1 Merchandise permitted in a zone. Foreign and domestic merchandise of every description, except such as is prohibited by law, may be brought into a foreign-trade zone (hereinafter in this part referred to as a "zone") established pursuant to the act of June 18, 1934, as amended by section 1 of the act of June 17, 1950 (19 U. S. C. 81a–81u, and Pub. Law 566, 81st Cong., hereinafter in this part referred to as "the act"). Merchandise which is specifically and absolutely prohibited by law shall not be admitted into a zone.[1] Any merchandise so prohibited by law which is found within a zone shall be disposed of in the manner provided for in the laws and regulations applicable to such merchandise. A distinction is made between (a) merchandise which is specifically and absolutely prohibited by law on the grounds of policy or morals, such as immoral or subversive literature, obscene articles or lottery matter, and (b) merchandise which is subject to conditional prohibition only, for example, articles which are subject to permits or licenses for the protection of economic or national security or which may be reconditioned to bring them into compliance with the laws administered by various Federal Agencies. Collectors of customs are required to exclude the first class of articles and may not permit them to be transferred to a zone if they are aware of their prohibited status, except that the collector may permit the temporary deposit of any such merchandise in the zone pending final determination of its status. The transfer of articles of the second class to a zone is subject to any requirements of the Federal agency concerned. There is no prohibition against placing over-quota merchandise in a zone pending its right to transfer to customs territory pursuant to the applicable quota provisions. The application for the admission of merchandise into a zone shall be approved or disapproved by the collector, as the representative of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board (hereinafter in this part referred to as "the Board"), where the merchandise is not excluded by any other Federal agency having jurisdiction over it.

§ 30.2 Use of zone by carriers. (a) The water area, docking facilities, or any loading or unloading stations of a zone are intended primarily for the use of vessels, vehicles, or aircraft unlading merchandise[2] into the zone or lading merchandise from the zone, and their use for other purposes may be terminated by the Secretary of the Treasury if found to endanger the revenue, or by the Board if found to impede the primary uses of the zone.

(b) Nothing in the act or the regulations in this part shall be construed as excepting any carrier entering, remaining in, or leaving a zone from the application of any other pertinent law or regulation.

§ 30.3 Transportation of merchandise to a zone.[3] (a) Merchandise may be brought directly to a zone from any place outside customs territory[4] by vessel, vehicle, or aircraft.

(b) Domestic merchandise[5] may be brought to a zone from customs territory by any means of transportation which will not interfere with the orderly conduct of business in the zone.

(c) Foreign merchandise[6] destined to a zone and moving through customs territory outside a port shall be subject to the laws and regulations pertaining to the movement of like merchandise between two ports in customs territory.

(d) Foreign merchandise being transferred within a port to a zone shall be subject to the laws and regulations pertaining to the movement of like merchandise within the customs territory of the port before delivery to the importer.

§ 30.4 Who may file a zone application. (a) This section tells who is authorized to apply for permission to transfer merchandise into a zone, to do anything with respect to the merchandise within the zone, or remove the merchandise from the zone. In general, the zone grantee shall have the sole responsibility for determining the legal right of the applicant to make the application. Accordingly, such applications shall show a written concurrence of the zone grantee, except where the regulations in this part provide for the filing of applications by the zone grantee itself, or permit the filing of blanket concurrences by the zone grantee. Government officers acting in their official capacities may question the zone grantee's concurrence if in their opinion it is improperly given. In the case of foreign merchandise brought into a zone through customs territory, the appropriate application as prescribed in § 30.5 must be filed by the person having a right to apply for release.

(b) The forms of application provided for in this part shall be filed in the number of copies required for the purposes of local administration.

§ 30.5 Admission of merchandise into a zone. (a) This section tells how to obtain the right to unlade or bring merchandise into a foreign-trade zone.

(b) If the merchandise is to be unladen from any carrier in the zone for immediate transfer to customs territory, or if it is to be transferred from customs territory through the zone for immediate lading on any carrier therein, an application for permission to unlade or lade shall be filed on customs Form 3171 and the collector shall permit the unlading or lading unless he has reason to believe that the merchandise will not be moved promptly from the zone or made the subject of an application for zone status in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section. Any such merchandise shall not be considered within the purview of the act, but shall be treated in all respects as though the unlading or lading were in customs territory. Merchandise brought into a zone for lading on a carrier which is not laden without delay which will endanger the revenue must be made the subject of an application for zone status in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section or be removed from the zone.

(c) Imported merchandise which has been entered and which has remained in continuous customs custody may be temporarily transferred to a zone for manipulation under customs supervision pursuant to section 562, Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, and for return to customs territory. Any such merchandise shall not be considered within the purview of the Foreign-Trade Zones Act, but shall be treated in all respects as though remaining in customs territory. Therefore, no zone form or procedure shall be considered applicable, but the merchandise shall remain subject in the zone to such requirements as are necessary for the enforcement of section 562 and other pertinent customs laws.

(d) If the merchandise is to be unladen or brought into the zone for purposes other than as provided for in paragraph (b) of this section an application to transfer into the zone shall be filed on zone Form D. The approval of the grantee shall be noted on this application unless the grantee furnishes a specific or blanket approval separately in writing. In the case of merchandise to be unladen within a zone directly from an importing vessel or aircraft and intended to have zone status, an application for permission to unlade shall also be filed on customs Form 3171. Before foreign merchandise being transported through customs territory may be brought into a foreign trade zone, a release order authorizing the transfer of the merchandise to the zone must be obtained from the carrier bringing the merchandise to the port at which the zone is located. The release order shall be noted on the application Form D unless the carrier has given the release order as a separate document. Whether the release order is noted on application Form D or is given as a separate document, application Form D shall be supported by evidence of the right of the applicant to transfer the merchandise to the zone. This evidence shall be the same as would be required to establish the right of the applicant to apply for release of the merchandise from customs custody at the end of its transit through customs territory. Such evidence usually consists of an original bill of lading in the name of the applicant, an original bill of lading endorsed to him, or a carrier's certificate.

Every application made under this paragraph shall indicate the zone status desired as follows:[7]

(1) Privileged foreign merchandise,
(2) Privileged domestic merchandise,
(3) Non-privileged foreign merchandise,
(4) Non-privileged domestic merchandise, or
(5) Zone-restricted merchandise.

(e) No merchandise shall be transferred into a zone until an application has been filed and a permit issued for the transfer, as set forth in paragraph (b) or (d) of this section.

(f) The collector may cause any merchandise in a zone to be examined at the time of admission, or at any time thereafter, if the examination is deemed necessary to facilitate the proper administration of any law, regulation, or instruction which the Customs Service is authorized to enforce.

(g) Whenever a certificate as to the arrival of any merchandise in a zone is required by a Federal agency the collector shall issue the certificate, properly describing and identifying the merchandise involved.

§ 30.6 Privileged foreign merchandise. (a) This section tells how to obtain a privileged status for foreign merchandise, and what are the legal incidents of such status.

(b) Merchandise within the purview of the first proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended,[8] shall be given status as privileged foreign merchandise on proper application. Each application for this status shall be filed on zone Form B, with the application for admission of the merchandise into the zone, or at any time thereafter and before the merchandise has been manipulated or manufactured in the zone in a manner which has effected a change in its tariff classification. Each applicant for such status shall file with his application a zone customs entry on customs Form 7502. Upon acceptance of the entry, the collector shall cause the merchandise to be appraised and taxes determined and duties liquidated thereon promptly. The taxes to be determined are those of the same nature as are indicated in the liquidation of entries of imported merchandise in customs territory.

(c) A status as privileged foreign merchandise and the consequent determination of taxes and liquidation of duties cannot be bandoned, but remain applicable to the merchandise even if changed in form by manipulation or manufacture, except in the case of recoverable waste, as long as the merchandise remains within the purview of the act.

(d) The procedure in connection with the preparation, filing, and acceptance of the entry, the making of notations on invoices, the preparation of customs Form 6417, the designation of examination packages or quantities, and the examination and appraisement of the merchandise shall be the same as that prescribed in the case of an entry for warehouse made in customs territory, except that no bond shall be required.

(e) Application may be made for permission to manipulate, manufacture, or exhibit any privileged foreign merchandise before taxes have been determined and duties liquidated thereon, but in such case the examination for purposes of appraisement must be completed, or the packages or samples required for such examination must be segregated, before the collector approves the application.

(f) Privileged foreign merchandise shall be subject to appraisement and tariff classification according to its condition and quantity, and to the rates of duty and tax in force, on the date of the filing with the collector, in complete and proper form for approval, of the request on zone Form B for privileged foreign status and the zone customs entry which is required to accompany it. The value of such merchandise shall be determined in accordance with sections 402 and 503 of the Tariff Act of 1930 and the related provisions of law.

(g) For all customs purposes, the date of exportation of privileged foreign merchandise from the country whence it was exported to the United States is the date of its final departure from that country, in accordance with § 14.3 (b) of this chapter.

(h) The value declared in any zone customs entry for privileged merchandise may be amended in accordance with the provisions of section 487, Tariff Act of 1930, and the regulations thereunder.[9]

(i) With respect to privileged foreign merchandise, the requirements, privileges, and procedures of notices of appraisement, appeals for reappraisement, posting of liquidations, and protests against decisions of the collector are the same as those prescribed in the case of merchandise covered by an entry for warehouse in customs territory.

§ 30.7 Privileged domestic merchandise. Merchandise within the purview of the second proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended,[10] shall be given status as privileged domestic merchandise on proper application. Application for this status shall be included in the application to transfer the merchandise into the zone on zone Form D, as provided for in § 30.5 (d). In such cases the evidence of the right of the applicant to transfer the merchandise to the zone provided for in that section and the release order of the carrier are not required. If the collector is satisfied that the revenue will be protected, and the rights of importers will not be prejudiced, he may permit the transfer to a zone of domestic packing and repair materials and other adjunctive articles without re-

[1] "Foreign and domestic merchandise of every description, except such as is prohibited by law, may, without being subject to the customs laws of the United States, except as otherwise provided in this Act, be brought into a zone * * *." (Sec. 1, Pub. Law No. 566, 81st Cong.)

[2] As used in this part the term "merchandise" means goods, wares and chattels of every description, except prohibited articles, and except the usual wearing apparel and accouterments of persons entitled to enter a zone.

[3] For transfer of merchandise from one zone to another zone, see § 30.17.

[4] As used in this part the term "customs territory" means territory of the United States in which the general tariff law of the United States applies but which is not included in any zone.

[5] As used in the act and in this part, the term "domestic merchandise" means merchandise of every description (not including prohibited articles) which has been (1) produced in the United States and not exported therefrom or (2) previously imported into customs territory and properly released from customs custody.

[6] As used in the act and in this part the term "foreign merchandise" means imported merchandise of every description (not including prohibited articles) which has not been properly released from customs custody in customs territory.

[7] See § 8.6, Customs Regulations of 1943 (19 CFR 8.6).

[8] * * * Provided, That whenever the privilege shall be requested and there has been no manipulation or manufacture effecting a change in tariff classification, the collector of customs shall take under supervision any lot or part of a lot of foreign merchandise in a zone, cause it to be appraised and taxes determined and duties liquidated thereon. Merchandise so taken under supervision may be stored, manipulated, or manufactured under the supervision and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, be exported or destroyed, or may be sent into customs territory upon the payment of such liquidated duties and determined taxes thereon. If merchandise so taken under supervision has been manipulated or manufactured, such duties and taxes shall be payable on the quantity of such foreign merchandise used in the manipulation or manufacture of the entered article. Allowance shall be made for recoverable and irrecoverable waste; and if recoverable waste is sent into customs territory, it shall be dutiable and taxable in its condition and quantity and at its weight at the time of entry. Where two or more products result from the manipulation or manufacture of merchandise in a zone the liquidated duties and determined taxes shall be distributed to the several products in accordance with their relative value at the time of separation with due allowance for waste as provided for above: * * * (Sec. 1, Pub. Law No. 566, 81st Cong.).

[9] See § 8.16, Customs Regulations of 1943 (19 CFR 8.16).

[10] * * * Provided further, That subject to such regulations respecting identity and the safeguarding of the revenue as the Secretary of the Treasury may deem necessary, articles, the growth, product, or manufacture of the United States, on which all internal-revenue taxes have been paid, if subject thereto, and articles previously imported on which duty and/or tax has been paid, or which have been admitted free of duty and tax, may be taken into a zone from the customs territory of the United States, placed under the supervision of the collector, and whether or not they have been combined with or made a part, while in such zone, of other articles, may be brought back thereto free of quotas, duty or tax: * * *. (Sec. 1, Pub. Law No. 566, 81st Cong.).

quiring an application on zone Form D. If the requirements of the second proviso are complied with, any of the foregoing may subsequently be brought back to customs territory free of quotas, duty, or tax

§ 30.8 Non-privileged foreign merchandise. (a) All the following shall have the status of non-privileged foreign merchandise:

(1) Foreign merchandise properly in a zone which does not have the status of privileged foreign merchandise or of zone-restricted merchandise;

(2) Waste recovered from any manipulation or manufacture of privileged foreign merchandise; and

(3) Domestic merchandise which will be subject to treatment as foreign merchandise as provided for in the third proviso to section 3 of the act as amended,[11] if removed to customs territory

(b) Any domestic merchandise shall be deemed to have lost its identity as such for the purposes of paragraph (a) (3) of this section if the collector shall determine that it cannot be identified positively by customs officers as domestic merchandise on the basis of their examination of the articles and their consideration of any proof that may be submitted promptly by a party in interest.

§ 30.9 Non-privileged domestic merchandise. All merchandise which could have obtained the status of privileged domestic merchandise but for which no application for such status has been approved (not including any merchandise within the purview of § 30.8 (a) (3)) shall have the status of non-privileged domestic merchandise.

§ 30.10 Zone-restricted merchandise. (a) Merchandise within the purview of the fourth proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended,[12] shall be given status as zone-restricted merchandise on proper application. Application for this status shall be included in the application to transfer the merchandise into the zone on zone Form D, as provided for in § 30.5 (d).

(b) If the merchandise is to be considered exported for the purpose of any Federal law other than the customs laws, the collector shall be satisfied that all pertinent laws, regulations, and rules administered by the Federal agency concerned have been complied with before he approves the application provided for in § 30.5 (d).

(c) If the applicant desires a zone-restricted status in order that the merchandise may be considered exported for the purpose of any customs laws, all pertinent customs requirements relating to actual exportations shall be complied with as though the admission of the merchandise into the zone constituted a lading on an exporting carrier at a port of final exit from the United States. Any declaration or form required for a case of actual exportation shall be modified to show that the merchandise has been deposited in a zone in lieu of actual exportation, and a copy of the approved application provided for in § 30.5 (d) may be accepted in lieu of any proof of shipment required in cases of actual exportation.

(d) If merchandise is transferred from a customs bonded warehouse into a zone, it shall have the status of zone-restricted merchandise when admitted into the zone in view of the provisions of the fourth proviso to section 3 of the act, and in all such cases the application provided for in § 30.5 (d) shall state that a zone-restricted status is desired for the merchandise. Merchandise taken into a zone for manipulation elsewhere than in a bonded warehouse under the provisions of section 562, Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, is not considered within the purview of the fourth proviso of section 3 of the act.

§ 30.11 Customs control of merchandise in a zone. (a) No merchandise in a zone shall be removed therefrom in any manner or for any purpose except as provided for in the regulations in this part.

(b) If the collector deems it necessary for the protection of the revenue, he may require segregation of privileged foreign, privileged domestic, zone-restricted, and such other merchandise as he determines to be subject to special risks to the revenue.

(c) The operator of the zone shall keep the collector's office currently informed as to the location of any merchandise in the zone which is not within the purview of paragraph (b) of this section, and shall notify the collector promptly of any loss or damage that may occur to any merchandise in the zone.

§ 30.12 Manipulation, manufacture, or exhibition in a zone. (a) Permission for manipulation, manufacture, or exhibition of merchandise in a zone may be obtained by filing with the collector an application on zone Form E. No such operation shall be carried on until the collector has approved the application.

(b) The application shall include a full description of the proposed operation; a designation of the exact place in the zone where the operation is to be performed; the identification of the involved merchandise by lot number, marks and numbers of the packages, description, quantity, and zone status; and in the case of manipulation or manufacture a statement as to whether articles with one zone status are to be packed, commingled, or combined with articles having a different zone status.

(c) The collector shall approve the application unless the proposed operation would be in violation of the fourth or fifth proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended,[11] or the place designated for its performance is not suitable for preventing confusion as to the identity or status of the merchandise and for safeguarding the revenue.

(d) In the event of the denial of any application by the collector for any reason, the applicant, the grantee of the zone, or the operator of the zone, may appeal the adverse ruling to the Board. If any revenue protection considerations are involved in such an application, the Board shall be guided by the determinations of the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to them.

(e) When any privileged merchandise is to be manipulated in any way or manufactured, the person performing the operation shall maintain records containing the following information:

(1) A full identification, as specified in paragraph (b) of this section, of each lot of privileged merchandise used in the operation,

(2) The unit and total values of each such lot, the values in the case of privileged foreign merchandise to be those declared in the zone customs entry, including any amendment thereof,

(3) The commercial name or description of the product resulting from the operation, or of each such product if there are more than one,

(4) The quantity of such product or of each such product, as the case may be,

(5) The commercial name or description and quantity of each kind of waste recovered from the operation, and

(6) The description (i. e., evaporation, leakage, spillage, dust, etc.) and quantity of each kind of total physical loss resulting from the operation.

If any non-privileged merchandise is to be used in the operation, records shall be maintained containing a full identification, as specified in paragraph (b) of this section, and the unit and total values of each lot of the merchandise used in the operation.

§ 30.13 Destruction of merchandise in a zone. (a) Each application to destroy merchandise in a zone shall be filed with the collector on zone Form E.

(b) The application shall include a description of the proposed method of destruction, a designation of the place where the destruction is to be accomplished, and an identification of the merchandise as in the case of an application for permission to manipulate (§ 30.12 (b)).

(c) The destruction of distilled spirits, wines, and fermented malt liquors having a zone-restricted status may not be authorized in view of the exception in the fourth proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended. In any other case, if the collector is satisfied that the destruction will be effective and that the revenue will be adequately protected, he shall approve the application. If proper destruction can not be effectively accomplished within the zone, the collector may permit it to be done elsewhere, in whole or in part, under such conditions as he shall specify for protecting the revenue. Any residue of destruction which is entirely worthless may be removed to customs territory for disposal.

§ 30.14 Sending merchandise from a zone into customs territory. (a) When privileged domestic merchandise which has not been mixed, combined, or repacked in the zone with merchandise having a different zone status is to be transferred from the zone to customs territory, the zone grantee shall submit to the collector a description of the proposed transaction, in triplicate, and signed by him which shall include:

(1) The proposed date of transfer;

(2) The identification of the carrier;

(3) The destination of the shipment;

(4) Identification of the merchandise by zone storage location, lot number, marks and numbers of the packages, description, quantity, and zone status; and

(5) A notation as to any shortage or damage.

If the transfer is aproved by the collector the original of the description shall be so stamped to serve as a permit of delivery, the original and one copy shall be returned to the grantee, and the triplicate shall be retained by the collector. If a form of tally prepared by the zone grantee for its purposes contains the necessary information, it may be accepted by the collector as the description required by this paragraph. No document other than the permit of delivery shall be required to release the merchandise to the grantee and authorize is transfer into customs territory.

(b) When privileged foreign merchandise which has not been mixed, combined, or repacked in the zone is to be transferred to customs territory otherwise than for exportation, a zone withdrawal on customs Form 7505 shall be filed as an application for the transfer (see § 30.4). Such withdrawal shall be supported by a bond on customs Forms 7551, 7553, or other appropriate form, and the applicant shall pay the liquidated duties and determined taxes, as assessed in the liquidation of the pertinent zone customs entry, for the quantity of merchandise to be transferred. Such bond shall not be required when all the merchandise to be transferred to customs territory has been inspected, examined, and appraised, and has been found to comply with all laws and regulations governing its admission into the commerce of the United States, and there have been produced all documents for the production of which a bond is required by law or regulations if not filed at the time of entry. If the pertinent zone customs entry has not been liquidated estimated duties and taxes shall be deposited. Upon acceptance of the withdrawal, the collector shall release the merchandise to the grantee for delivery.

(c) When a product of a manipulation or manufacture in a zone composed of or derived from privileged merchandise only, whether all foreign, or partly foreign and partly domestic, is to be transferred to customs territory otherwise than for exportation, a zone withdrawal shall be filed as prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section. There shall be filed with the withdrawal a statement in the form of an invoice containing the information specified in § 30.12 (e), and when necessary to support the withdrawal, application may be made for a certificate on zone Form F covering identification as shown by the customs records of any privileged domestic or privileged foreign merchandise used in the manipulation or manufacture.

(d) When merchandise described in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section is to be transferred to customs territory otherwise than for exportation and it is desired to pay the duties and taxes at a port other than the port in which the zone is located, the merchandise shall be withdrawn for transportation to the other port on customs Form 7512 which shall clearly indicate the status of the merchandise, and the withdrawal for consumption at the other port shall be made in the manner prescribed in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section except that customs Form 7519 shall be used. The collector at the zone port shall issue a certificate in triplicate, describing the merchandise in its present condition and certifying the amount of duties and taxes and applicable to the shipment, and the duplicate copy of such certificate shall be given to the importer to be filed with the withdrawal for consumption.

(e) When merchandise described in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section is to be transferred to customs territory for exportation, a withdrawal for exportation, or for transportation and exportation, shall be filed on customs Form 7512. Upon acceptance of the withdrawal the collector shall make a notation as to the status of the merchandise on the document, and release the merchandise to the grantee for delivery to the bonded cartman, lighterman, or carrier.

(f) When merchandise not covered by paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e) of this section, or either of the last two sentences of § 30.13 (c), is to be transferred from a zone to customs territory, the grantee shall make an application to the collector on zone Form C. The applicant shall state the name and address of the person who will be deemed the consignee of the merchandise when it is transferred to customs territory. The collector shall not accept a term application on Form C. The applicant shall also include a complete identification of the merchandise as it entered the zone, including the lot numbers, marks and numbers of the packages, status of each lot, description, and quantities. If any change in respect of any of the foregoing items of identification occurred while the merchandise was in the zone, the current information with respect to each such item which has been changed shall also be stated.

(g) Upon the approval by the collector of an application on zone Form C, the merchandise is transferred to constructive customs territory, without physical removal from the zone. The collector shall note on the application the date of such constructive transfer and the zone status of the merchandise. Merchandise so constructively transferred shall be marked or labeled with the initials "C. T.". For all customs and internal revenue purposes the merchandise shall be considered to have been imported into customs territory at the time of the constructive transfer.

(h) (1) If a customs entry for disposition in customs territory of the constructively transferred merchandise has not been filed in proper form before 5 p. m. of the second working day after the constructive transfer of the merchandise, or within such longer time as may be specified in a lay-order issued by the collector upon a written application of the grantee or designated consignee filed with the collector on customs Form 3189, and approved by the grantee if made by the consignee, the merchandise shall be deposited by the collector in general order storage. However, if it is desired to restore the merchandise to a zone status after it has been constructively transferred and before the expiration of the lay-order period specified above, a new zone Form D may be filed and the same procedure followed as though the merchandise had then first arrived in the zone from or through customs territory (§ 30.5 (d)). In such a case, the zone grantee shall be deemed the carrier which brought the merchandise to the port.

(2) As an alternative to the filing of a new zone Form D the applicant may, if he so desires, arrange for the redelivery to the collector, prior to the filing of a customs entry and prior to the expiration of the lay-order period specified above, of the grantee's original copy of the zone Form C with a request that it be cancelled.

(i) The original of zone Form C, when approved by the collector and endorsed as provided for in paragraph (g) of this

[11] "Provided further, That if in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury their identit yhas been lost, such articles not entitled to free entry by reason of non-compliance with the requirements made hereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury shall be treated when they reenter customs territory of the United States as foreign merchandise under the provisions of the tariff and internal-revenue laws in force at that time: • • • (Sec. 1, Pub. Law No. 566, 81st Cong.).

[12] • • • Provided further, That under the rules and regulations of the controlling Federal agencies, articles which have been taken into a zone from customs territory for the sole purpose of exportation, destruction (except destruction of distilled spirits, wines, and fermented malt liquors), or storage shall be considered to be exported for the purpose of—

(a) The draw-back, warehousing, and bonding, or any other provisions of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, and the regulations thereunder; and

(b) The statutes and bonds exacted for the payment of draw-back, refund, or exemption from liability for internal-revenue laws generally and the regulations thereunder.

Such a transfer may also be considered an exportation for the purposes of other Federal laws insofar as Federal agencies charged with the enforcement of those laws deem it advisable. Such articles may not be returned to customs territory for domestic consumption except where the Foreign-Trade Zones Board deems such return to be in the public interest, in which event the articles shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph 1615 (f) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended: • • •." section, shall be accepted by the collector as the equivalent of a bill of lading or carrier's certificate to identify the person designated in such Form C as the consignee of the merchandise and its owner for customs purposes.

(j) When a consumption entry is accepted for zone merchandise which is in constructive customs territory, the collector shall release the merchandise to the grantee for delivery to the consignee. When any other entry is accepted for such merchandise, the release of the merchandise by the collector for physical removal to the designated destination in customs territory shall be in accordance with the customs regulations as to merchandise imported into customs territory, the zone grantee to be considered as the importing carrier.

(k) The products described in subparagraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph, upon transfer from a zone and entry for consumption, either immediately or after transportation in bond, shall be subject to appraisement and tariff classification in accordance with their character, condition, and quantity at the time of their constructive transfer to customs territory in accordance with paragraph (g) of this section, and at the rate or rates of duty and tax in force at the time a permit of delivery is issued to the designated consignee or his agent. The value of such products shall be determined in accordance with sections 402 and 503 of the Tariff Act of 1930 and the related provisions of law.

(1) Articles composed entirely of, or derived entirely from, non-privileged merchandise, foreign or domestic.

(2) Articles composed in part of, or derived in part from, non-privileged merchandise, domestic or foreign, and in part of or from privileged merchandise, domestic or foreign.

(3) Recoverable waste resulting from the manipulation or manufacture in a zone of privileged foreign merchandise. Any of the articles described in subparagraphs (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph, except articles composed in part of, or derived in part from, privileged foreign merchandise, may be transferred from a zone for entry for warehousing, either immediately or after transportation in bond, subject to the treatment specified in the first two sentences of this paragraph. There shall be filed with each entry covering articles described in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph a statement in the form of an invoice containing the information specified in § 30.12 (e). When necessary to support the entry, application may be made for a certificate on zone Form F covering identification as shown by the customs records of any privileged domestic or privileged foreign merchandise in the articles.

(l) The consumption or warehouse entry covering a product provided for in paragraph (k) of this section shall be liquidated in accordance with Part 16 of this chapter, except that in the case of articles described in subparagraph (2) of paragraph (k) of this section adjustment shall be made for that part of the product which consists of or has been derived from privileged merchandise.

(m) Unless the Foreign-Trade Zones Board has ruled that the return of the merchandise to customs territory for domestic consumption is in the public interest, zone-restricted merchandise shall not be transferred to customs territory except under an entry for exportation or for transportation and exportation, or for destruction (except destruction of distilled spirits, wines, and fermented malt liquors), or for transfer from one zone to another. Each such entry shall be subject to the pertinent provisions of paragraphs (f) to (j), inclusive, of this section, except that if the entry has not been filed in proper form before the expiration of the period mentioned in the first sentence of paragraph (h) of this section, the merchandise shall not be deposited by the collector in general-order storage but shall be considered as having been returned from constructive customs territory to the zone. Upon acceptance of the entry, it shall be endorsed by a customs officer to show that actual exportation of the merchandise is required by the fourth proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended. If the Board has ruled that the return of the merchandise to customs territory is in the public interest, after the merchandise has been constructively transferred to customs territory it may be entered for consumption, warehousing, or immediate transportation without appraisement, unless the Board in its ruling has specified which of these forms of entry shall be made. The entry shall be endorsed by the collector to show the authority under which the entry was made and that the merchandise is subject to the provisions of paragraph 1615 (f) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended. '

(n) Articles produced or manufactured in a zone and returned to customs territory of the United States after having been exported without first having been transferred to customs territory otherwise than for exportation or for transportation and exportation shall be subject to the duties and taxes applicable to like articles of wholly foreign origin, unless it is conclusively established that they were produced or manufactured exclusively with the use of privileged domestic merchandise, the identity of which was maintained in accordance with the pertinent provisions of these foreign-trade zone regulations, in which case they shall be subject to the pertinent provisions of paragraph 1615, Tariff Act of 1930."

§ 30.15 Direct exportation from a zone. Regardless of its zone status, any merchandise in a zone may be exported directly therefrom upon compliance with the procedure prescribed in § 30.14 (a) for the transfer of privileged domestic merchandise to customs territory.

§ 30.16 Supplies, equipment, and repair material for vessels or aircraft. (a) This section tells what merchandise may be laden on a vessel or aircraft in a zone as supplies, equipment, or repair material, and the legal incidents of such lading.

(b) Inasmuch as the fourth proviso to section 3 of the act, as amended, provides that zone-restricted merchandise may be taken into a zone for the sole purpose of exportation, destruction, or storage, zone-restricted merchandise may not be laden on a vessel or aircraft for use thereon as supplies, equipment, or repair material.

(c) Although the act does not specifically authorize the lading of other merchandise as supplies, equipment, or repair material on a vessel or aircraft in a zone, such lading is considered not in conflict with the provisions of the act, provided such merchandise is subject to the same duty or tax, or exemption from duty or tax, and the same requirements which would be applicable if the merchandise were physically transferred to customs territory before the lading. Therefore merchandise other than zone-restricted merchandise may be laden on a vessel or aircraft in a zone for use thereon as supplies, equipment, or repair material as follows:

(1) Privileged domestic merchandise which has not been mixed, combined, or repacked in a zone with merchandise having a different zone status may be laden without liability for duty or tax. In order to accomplish such lading, the procedure prescribed in § 30.14 (f) and (g) shall be followed and the merchandise shall then be transferred from constructive customs territory to the vessel or aircraft in the manner prescribed in § 30.14 (a).

(2) Merchandise having a zone status, other than zone-restricted and privileged domestic merchandise covered by paragraphs (b) and (c) (1) of this section, may be so laden. In order to accomplish the lading, the procedure prescribed in § 30.14 (f) and (g) shall be followed, and the provisions of § 30.14 (h) and (i) shall be applicable. When the constructive transfer to customs territory has been accomplished, the merchandise shall thereafter be liable to or exempt from duty or tax and be subject to any other applicable provisions of sections 309 and 317, Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, I. R. C. section 3451, and §§ 10.59 to 10.65, inclusive, of this chapter as though it were imported merchandise which had remained in continuous customs custody in customs territory elsewhere than in a bonded warehouse.

§ 30.17 Transfer of merchandise from one zone to another. (a) The transfer of merchandise, other than privileged domestic, from a zone in one port of entry to a zone in another port shall be by bonded carrier under an entry for immediate transportation on customs Form 7512. The sending of the merchandise from the first zone into customs territory and its admission into the zone of destination shall be in accordance with § 30.14 (f) through (i) and § 30.5 (d), respectively. All copies of the entry for immediate transportation shall bear a notation that the merchandise is being taken from the first zone for the purpose of transfer to the second zone.

(b) Upon removal of merchandise as specified in paragraph (a) of this section from the first zone, the collector in charge of the port in which such zone is located shall immediately forward to the collector in charge of the port in which the zone of destination is located a history of the merchandise as shown by the records of the first zone.

(c) The transfer of privileged domestic merchandise from one zone to another is not subject to customs control except that the removal of the merchandise from the first zone and its admission into the zone of destination shall be in accordance with §§ 30.14 (a) and 30.5 (d), respectively.

§ 30.18 Reimbursement of customs expenses. (a) The Commissioner of Customs will assign to each zone the necessary customs officers and guards to maintain appropriate customs control over merchandise in a zone and to protect the revenue.

(b) All necessary cost of maintaining the additional customs services required under the act and these foreign-trade zone regulations shall be reimbursed to the Government by the grantee of the zone," payment to be made monthly to the collector of customs.

Notice of the proposed issuance of the above amendments to the customs regulations was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 19, 1951 (16 F. R. 10699–10708), pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003). After consideration of all relevant data, views or arguments submitted in writing by interested persons the amendments set forth above have been adopted and shall become effective 30 days after the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Commissioner of Customs.

Approved: May 16, 1952.

JOHN S. GRAHAM,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 36—SERVICEMEN'S READJUSTMENT ACT OF 1944

SUBPART A—TITLE III; LOAN GUARANTY

REAL ESTATE LOAN CREDIT RESTRICTIONS; DIRECT LOAN CLOSING EXPENSES

1. In § 36.4356, paragraphs (a) and (h) are amended to read as follows:

§ 36.4356 Credit restrictions. (a) No loan for the purchase, construction, repair, alteration, or improvement of residential property will be eligible for guaranty or insurance unless the veteran makes a down payment in cash or its equivalent (e. g., equity in land) of an amount which when related to the sales price or transaction price will not be less than that specified in the following schedules:

	Minimum down payment
Sales price (applicable if sales price is $12,000 or less):
Not more than $2,500	None.
More than $2,500 but not more than $7,000.	Closing costs, but not to exceed 4 percent of sales price.
More than $7,000 but not more than $10,000.	$280 plus 10 percent of sales price in excess of $7,000.
More than $10,000 but not more than $12,000.	$580 plus 16 percent of sales price in excess of $10,000.
Transaction price (applicable if sales price exceeds $12,000):
More than $12,000 but not more than $16,000.	$900 plus 55 percent of transaction price in excess of $12,000.
More than $16,000 but not more than $21,000.	$3,100 plus 57 percent of transaction price in excess of $16,000.
More than $21,000 but not more than $25,000.	$5,950 plus 70 percent of transaction price in excess of $21,000.
Over $25,000	35 percent of transaction price.

For the purpose of determining transaction price, the costs of closing the loan or financing the transaction shall be added to the sales price, i. e., the purchase price or to the cost of construction, repairs, alterations, or improvements. The minimum down payment prescribed in this paragraph may in all instances be used to pay such closing costs: Provided, That the pro rata portion of the ground rents, hazard insurance premiums, current year's taxes, and other prepaid items required to be paid by the borrower incidental to closing the transaction will not be treated as closing costs but must be paid in cash by the borrower in addition to the down payment. With respect to construction loans in cases where the land is owned by the veteran, the sales price or transaction price will include the reasonable value of the land, which in the case of farm housing shall be deemed, for the purpose of this paragraph, to be 5 percent of the cost of construction, and the value of the veteran's interest in the land will pro tanto satisfy the down payment requirement.

• • • • • •

(h) If the loan is related to the purchase of residential property and the repair, alteration or improvement thereof, the down payment will be determinable in the same manner as though separate loans were being made, one to cover the purchase of the property and the other the repairs, alterations or improvements, and the maximum maturity shall not exceed that which would be permissible if the larger component were being financed separately.

2. In § 36.4504, paragraph (e) is amended and a new paragraph (h) is added as follows:

(e) The veteran will be required to make a down payment in cash or its equivalent (e. g., equity in land) of an amount which when related to the sales price or transaction price will not be less than that specified in the following schedules:

	Minimum down payment
Sales price (applicable if sales price is $12,000 or less):
Not more than $2,500	None.
More than $2,500 but not more than $7,000.	Closing costs, but not to exceed 4 percent of sales price.
More than $7,000 but not more than $10,000.	$280 plus 10 percent of sales price in excess of $7,000.
More than $10,000 but not more than $12,000.	$580 plus 16 percent of sales price in excess of $10,000.
Transaction price (applicable if sales price exceeds $12,000):
More than $12,000 but not more than $16,000.	$900 plus 55 percent of transaction price in excess of $12,000.
More than $16,000 but not more than $21,000.	$3,100 plus 57 percent of transaction price in excess of $16,000.
More than $21,000 but not more than $25,000.	$5,950 plus 70 percent of transaction price in excess of $21,000.
Over $25,000	35 percent of transaction price.

For the purpose of determining transaction price, the costs of closing the loan or financing the transaction shall be added to the sales price, i. e., the purchase price or to the cost of the construction, repairs, alterations, or improvements. The minimum down payment prescribed in this paragraph may in all instances be used to pay such closing costs: Provided, That the pro rata portion of the ground rents, hazard insurance premiums, current year's taxes, and other prepaid items required to be paid by the borrower incident to closing the transaction will not be treated as closing costs but must be paid in cash by the borrower in addition to the down payment. The above down payment requirements of this paragraph shall not be applicable with respect to loans which if made on a guaranteed or insured basis would be relieved of the credit restrictions under the provisions of § 36.4356 (e). With respect to construction loans in cases where the land is owned by the veteran, the transaction price will include the reasonable value of the land, which in the case of farm housing shall be deemed, for the purposes of this paragraph, to be 5 percent of the cost of construction, and the value of the veteran's interest in the land will pro tanto satisfy the down payment requirement: And provided further, That in connection with such loans the veteran, in addition to the required down payment, will deposit with Veterans' Administration or in an escrow satisfactory to Veterans Administration 10 percent of the estimated cost of construction or such alternative sum, in cash or its equivalent, as Veterans Administration may determine to be necessary, in order to afford adequate assurance that sufficient funds will be available, from the proceeds of the loan or from other sources, to assure completion to the construction in accordance with the plans and specifications upon which Veterans Administration based its loan commitment.

• • • • •

(h) If the loan in related to the purchase of residential property and the repair, alteration or improvement thereof, the down payment will be determinable in the same manner as though separate loans were being made, one to cover the purchase of the property and the other the repairs, alterations, or improvements, and the maximum maturity shall not exceed that which would be permissible if the larger component were being financed separately.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. On March 19, 1952, the Commission amended Part 2 of its rules and regulations by the adoption of a table of frequency allocations for the band between 10 and 25,000 kc.

3. In the table of frequency allocations between 2000 and 3500 kc, frequencies within the following bands are shown as being available for frequency assignments to remote pickup base and remote pickup mobile stations:

2107–2170 kc.
2194–2495 kc.
2505–2850 kc.
3155–3400 kc.

4. In the Atlantic City table of frequency allocations, the band 25.6–26.1 mc is allocated to the Broadcasting Service. The United States allocation of this band is:

25.6–25.85 mc, Government.
25.85–26.1 mc, Non-Government: International Broadcasting.

5. The Commission proposes to amend § 2.104 (a) of Part 2 of its rules and regulations by deleting the provisions permitting remote pickup stations to operate on frequencies in the band 2000–3500 kc. It is proposed to make this amendment effective May 1, 1953, in order to allow a reasonable time for modification or amortization of equipment.

6. It is further proposed to amend the Table of Frequency Allocations, § 2.104 (a) in Part 2 of the Commission's rules by appending to the frequency band 25.85–26.1 mc in column 7, footnotes NG22 and NG32, the new footnote NG32 to read as follows:

NG32 The use of frequencies in the band 25.85–26.1 mc may be authorized in any area to Remote Pickup Broadcast base and mobile stations on the condition that harmful interference is not caused to the broadcasting service.

7. At an early date the Commission proposes to amend Part 4 of its rules relating to remote pickup stations to make provision for the use of band 25.85–26.1 mc by such stations.

8. The proposed amendment to the rules is issued under the authority of sections 303 (c), (f), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

9. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted may file with the Commission on or before July 15, 1952, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. FREQUENCY ALLOCATIONS AND RADIO TREATY MATTERS; GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Part 2 of the Commission's rules and regulations concerning the allocation of frequencies in the Band 2035–2107 kc; Docket No. 10212.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. In accordance with the Agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (Geneva, 1951) the Commission is instituting proceedings to modify the authorizations of certain stations operating in the 2035–2107 kc band of frequencies so as to bring all authorizations in these bands into conformity with the Atlantic City (1947) Table of Frequency Allocations and the Region 2 List. It is therefore proposed to amend the Commission's Table of Frequency Allocations in § 2.104 (a) of the Commission's rules to provide that, as of July 15, 1952, frequencies in this band will be available for use only in accordance with the Atlantic City Table of Frequency Allocations.

3. The proposed amendment is issued under authority of sections 301, 303 (c) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed rule should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein may file with the Commission, on or before June 20, 1952, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Replies to the original comments may be filed by June 30, 1952. The Commission will consider all comments that are received before taking final action in the matter.

[Docket No. 10207]

STATIONS ON LAND IN THE MARITIME SERVICES, STATIONS ON SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of §§ 7.365 and 8.362 of the Commission's rules; Docket No. 10207.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Sections 7.365 and 8.362 presently make available for assignment to limited coast stations and ship stations for communication with limited coast stations the frequencies 2738 kc and 2214 kc provided certain conditions are met. One of these conditions is that a showing must be made of necessity of use of these frequencies in lieu of a frequency above 30 Mc. Applications for limited coast stations have been received which purport to make such a showing on the basis of the fact that despite the short range nature of the communications desired, assignment of a 2 Mc frequency is necessary because the ships involved are not under the control of the applicant and are not equipped to operate on frequencies above 30 Mc. Accordingly, it is proposed to amend §§ 7.365 and 8.362 to make clear that these frequencies will not be assigned in any instance where they are proposed to be used for communications which are primarily short distance in nature.

3. This proposed amendment is issued under authority contained in sections 303 (a) (b) (c) (f) and (r) or the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendments should not be adopted, or not adopted in the form set forth, may file with the Commission on or before June 30, 1952, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. At the same time, any person who favors the rules as set forth may file a written statement in support thereof. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments or briefs may be filed within 15 days from the last day for filing said original comments or briefs. The Commission will consider all comments, briefs, and statements presented before taking final action in the matter. If any comments are received which appear to warrant the Commission in holding an oral argument before final action is taken, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given.

5. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules, an original and six copies of statements, briefs or comments filed shall be furnished to the Commission.

Adopted: May 28, 1952.

Released: May 29, 1952.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

1. Amend § 7.365 by adding a new paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§ 7.365 Frequencies below 3000 KC for business and operational purposes. * * *

(c) In no event, however, shall the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2214 kc be available for assignment under this section in any instance in which the communications desired are over distances for which frequencies above 30 Mc may be suitable.

2. Amend § 8.362 by redesignating paragraph (c) as paragraph (d) and adding a new paragraph (c) to read as follows:

§ 8.362 Frequencies below 3000 kc for business and operational purposes. * * *

(c) In no event, however, shall the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2214 kc be available for assignment under this section in any instance in which the communications desired are over distances for which frequencies above 30 Mc may be suitable.

SHIP-SHORE SERVICE USING TELEGRAPHY IN BAND 2035–2107 KC.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Parts 7, 8 and 14 of the Commission's rules to provide for the establishment of ship-shore service using telegraphy in the band 2035–2107 kc.; Docket No. 10213.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Under the agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (Geneva, 1951) new frequencies in the band 2035–2107 kc. become available for assignment to coast and ship stations using telegraphy in Region 2. In order to expedite the inauguration of this service, it is proposed to make these new frequencies available under the rules (Parts 7, 8, 14) governing coast and ship stations even though clearance of this frequency band by current users, government and non-government, has not been completed. Pending such clearance, assignment of the new frequencies is proposed to be made on a "day only" basis on condition that no harmful interference is caused to existing users.

3. The substance of the proposed amendments is contained in the appendix attached hereto and they are issued under authority of sections 303(c), (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendments should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the forms set forth may file with the Commission on or before June 20, 1952, a written statement setting forth his comments. Comments and replies to the original comments may be filed within 10 days thereafter. The Commission will consider all comments filed before taking action in this matter.

5. It is requested that persons who plan to make application for assignment of the new frequencies for use at coast stations if and when these proposals are finalized so indicate within the comment period designated above by voluntarily filing for the information of the Commission an informal statement of such intention. Failure to file such statement, however, will in no way prejudice the right of any person formally to file such application at a later date.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of statements or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: May 28, 1952.

Released: June 4, 1952.

(e) In Region 2, the frequency 2091 kc is the international calling frequency for ship stations using telegraphy within the band 2065–2107 kc. It shall be used for call, reply and signals preparatory to traffic by all ship stations using telegraphy to establish communication with other ship stations operating in the band 2065–2107 kc or with coast stations using telegraphy and operating in the band 2000–2850 kc: Provided, That transmission by ship stations for this purpose on any calling frequency designated in § 8.321 (a) (4) within the band 2088.5–2093.5 kc is permissible as a practical operating procedure to minimize interference, in lieu of transmission on the frequency 2091 kc. The use of the frequency 2091 kc or any other calling frequency within the band 2088.5–2093.5 kc by ship stations for purposes other than those stipulated in this paragraph (except for transmitting distress traffic) is not authorized. A ship station, after establishing communication on a calling frequency within this band, shall change to an authorized working frequency for the transmission of traffic.

11. Section 8.324 (g) is amended as follows:

After the proviso in the last portion of the text, between "_____ below 160 kc _____" and "_____ the emission", insert the following: "and within the bands 2000 to 2850 kc and 17000 to 25000 kc".

12. Section 8.105 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) to read:

(c) Each ship station using, when in Region 2, telegraphy on frequencies within the band 2065 kc to 2107 kc shall be capable of transmitting and receiving class A1 emission on the radio channel of which 2091 kc is the assigned frequency and on at least one additional radio-channel within this band which is authorized for working: Provided, That an assignable calling frequency within the calling band 2088.5 kc to 2093.5 kc, designated in § 8.321 (a) (4), may be substituted for this purpose in lieu of the frequency 2091 kc.

13. Section 14.33 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) to read:

(c) Working: 2052.5 kilocycles; A1 emission only, maximum authorized transmitter power 150 watts.[11a 11b]

14. Section 14.54 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) to read:

(c) For communication by means of telegraphy with coast stations in Alaska, when the coast station transmits on the frequency 2052.5 kilocycles, each ship station shall transmit by means of Class A1 emission only on one of its assigned frequencies within the band 2065–2107 kc exclusively, in accordance with the applicable provisions of Part 8 of the Rules of the Commission.[11b] When the ship station is within the territorial waters of Alaska, the maximum plate (anode) input power shall not exceed 150 watts when transmitting on a frequency within this band; this limitation shall apply without regard to the maximum power authorized to be used on such frequencies by the station license."

[F. R. Doc. 52-6385; Filed, June 10, 1952; 8:50 a. m.]

[11a] The term "authorized transmitter power" is defined to mean, when class A1 emission is employed, "the total plate input power to all electron tubes of the last radio stage of the transmitter which are used to supply radio-frequency power to the antenna."

[11b] Pending clearance of the band 2035–2107 kc in accordance with the agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (Geneva 1951) the frequency 2052.5 kc and each of the assignable frequencies within the band 2065–2107 kc may be authorized for use on a day only basis upon the express condition that harmful interference will not be caused to stations, either government or non-government, authorized as of _____ to operate on any frequency or frequencies within the band 2035–2107 kc.

[Docket No. 10209]

STATIONS ON SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Part 8 of the Commission's rules regarding the assignment of calling frequencies to ship stations using telegraphy in the bands between 4000 and 23000 kc; Docket No. 10209.

1. Article 33 of the Atlantic City Radio Regulations provides that each ship station using telegraphy in bands between 4000 and 23000 kc shall be assigned a series of calling frequencies including one frequency in each of the bands in which the station is equipped to transmit. In the bands between 4000 and 18000 kc the frequencies assigned to each ship station must be in harmonious relationship. Certain spacing between calling frequencies is recommended. Appendix 10 to the regulations sets forth nine series of calling frequencies which are in accord with the foregoing. Article 33 further requires assignment of these calling frequency series in accordance with a "system of rotation so as to distribute these (calling) frequencies uniformly throughout the calling frequency bands." The Agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (Geneva, 1951) with respect to the ship radiotelegraph calling bands between 4000 and 23000 kc looks toward inauguration of use of these bands by the target date of June 3, 1953.

2. In order to use these calling frequencies, licensees will have to obtain special crystals. In the absence of any known plan by licensees to create a pool of such crystals, each licensee should be made aware by ample advance notice of the calling frequency series which may be assigned to his ship station so that he may have reasonable opportunity to procure crystals. A plan of assignment of the calling frequency series should, therefore, be finalized at the earliest opportunity.

3. Accordingly, notice is hereby given of rule making proceedings on the subject of a plan of assignment of calling frequencies to ship stations using telegraphy in the bands between 4000 and 23,000 kc. From the administrative standpoint, it appears that the most feasible plan of assignment is one which would assign each series of calling frequencies by call sign blocks as shown in the appendix attached hereto. The center calling frequencies represented by the series beginning with 4182 kc is not proposed to be made available for assignment at this time in view of paragraph 779 of the Atlantic City Radio Regulations which requires that this series "be reserved as far as possible for the use of aircraft desiring to communicate with stations of the maritime mobile service".

4. Interested persons may file with the Commission not later than June 30, 1952, written comments relating to the above-described subject. Comments in reply to original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last day for filing said original comments. The Commission will consider all such comments before taking action in this matter.

5. The Commission's authority to issue rules in this matter is contained in sections 303 (c), (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.784 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: May 28, 1952.

Released: June 2, 1952.

DUQUESNE LIGHT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING ISSUANCE OF FOUR-MONTH BANK LOAN NOTE

JUNE 5, 1952.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration has been filed with this Commission by Duquesne Light Company ("Duquesne"), a public utility subsidiary of Philadelphia Company, a registered holding company. Declarant has designated sections 6 (a) and 7 of the act and Rule U-23 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transaction, which is summarized as follows:

Duquesne presently has outstanding a $9,725,000 3 percent promissory bank loan note due January 2, 1953 and intends in the immediate future to make an additional short-term bank borrowing of $85,000 under the exemption asserted to be available to it, pursuant to section 6 (b) of the act, whereupon its short-term bank loan indebtedness will aggregate $9,810,000. Duquesne proposes in the instant declaration to issue a $5,000,000 four-month note bearing interest at 3 percent per annum, such note to be issued to Mellon National Bank and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Duquesne will have the right to prepay such note at any time prior to maturity, without premium. Declarant states that no State Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction and has requested that the transaction be authorized pursuant to the procedure of Rule U-23, without a hearing, and that the Commission's order herein become effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than June 13, 1952, at 1:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Lemon Regulation 438, Amdt. 1]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

a. Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule-making procedure (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

b. Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 953.546 (Lemon Regulation 438, 17 F. R. 5185) are hereby amended to read as follows:

[BAI Order 379, Amdt. 18]

PART 151—RECOGNITION OF BREEDS AND BOOKS OF RECORD OF PUREBRED ANIMALS

HOGS

On April 8, 1952, a notice of rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (17 F. R. 3064) regarding the proposed recognition by the Secretary of Agriculture of the Gloucestershire Old Spots Section of the book of record of purebred hogs entitled "Herd Book of the National Pig Breeders' Association."

After due consideration of all relevant material presented in connection with the notice, the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the authority vested in him by section 201, paragraph 1606 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U. S. C. and Supp. IV, Sec. 1201, Par. 1606) hereby recognizes the Gloucestershire Old Spots Section of the said book of record, and hereby amends the regulations governing the recognition of breeds and books of record of purebred animals (9 CFR Part 151, as amended) by adding under the subheading "Hogs" (9 CFR 151.10 (a), as amended) the name "Gloucestershire Old Spots" to the list of breeds in the said herd book which are currently so recognized.

(Par. 1606, 46 Stat. 673, as amended; 19 U. S. C. 1201, par. 1606)

The foregoing amendment shall become effective on the 14th day of July 1952.

CONTROL AREA EXTENSIONS; CALIFORNIA AND TEXAS

The control area alterations appearing hereinafter have been coordinated with the civil operators involved, the Army, the Navy and the Air Force, through the Air Coordinating Committee, Airspace Subcommittee, and are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety of the flying public. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to public interest, and therefore is not required.

1. Section 601.1069 is amended to read:

§ 601.1069 Control area extension (Santa Barbara, Calif.). Within 5 miles either side of the north, south and west courses of the Santa Barbara radio range extending from the radio range station to points 25 miles north, 20 miles south and 25 miles west of the radio range station.

2. Section 601.1113 Control area extension (San Francisco, Calif.) is amended by adding the following portion to present control area extension: "and all that area beginning at a point on the western boundary of Blue civil airway No. 10 at the point of intersection with lat. 38°-15'00", thence along the western boundaries of Blue civil airway No. 10, Blue civil airway No. 54 and Amber civil airway No. 8 to a point at which the western boundary of Amber civil airway No. 8 intersects the coastline, thence along the coastline in a northwesterly direction to Point Reyes, Calif., thence in a northeasterly direction to lat. 38°15'00", long. 122°45'00", thence to the point of beginning."

(2) Paying or allowing, or contracting to pay or allow, anything of value to or for the benefit of any customer for advertising services or facilities furnished by or through said customer, as a percentage or proportion of dollar volume of purchases by such customer different from the percentage or proportion offered or granted any other customer where such customers compete in fact in the resale of such products and where such payments are based on the amount of purchases made.

(3) Paying or allowing, or contracting to pay or allow, anything of value to, or for the benefit of, any customer, as compensation, or in consideration for, any services or facilities furnished by, or through, such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale or offering for sale, of any products manufactured or sold by respondent, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products.

(i) A specific license pursuant to this chapter is presented, or

(ii) Instructions from the Foreign Assets Control either directly or through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York authorizing the transaction are received.

(b) Whenever a specific license is presented to a collector of customs in accordance with this section, two additional legible copies of the entry, withdrawal or other appropriate document with respect to the merchandise involved shall be filed with the collector of customs at the port where the transaction is to take place. Each copy of any such entry, withdrawal or other appropriate document including the two additional copies shall bear plainly on its face the number of the license pursuant to which it is filed. The original copy of the specific license shall be presented to the collector in respect of each such transaction and shall bear a notation in ink by the licensee or person presenting the license showing the description, quantity, and value of the merchandise to be entered, withdrawn or otherwise dealt with. This notation should be so placed and so written that there will exist no possibility of confusing it with anything placed on the license at the time of its issuance. If the license in fact authorizes the entry, withdrawal or other transaction with regard to the merchandise the collector, or other authorized customs employee, shall verify the notation by signing or initialing it after first assuring himself that it accurately describes the merchandise it purports to represent. The license shall thereafter be returned to the person presenting it and the two additional copies of the entry, withdrawal or other appropriate document shall be forwarded by the collector to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

(c) (1) The collector of customs at any port at which merchandise is to be entered or withdrawn pursuant to the terms of a specific license may waive the requirement of presentation of the original copy of such license: Provided, That:

(i) The person presenting the entry or withdrawal presents to the collector an affidavit stating:

(a) Facts indicating that it would be a hardship for him to present the original copy of the license, and

(b) That the entry or withdrawal is one of a large number which are to be made pursuant to the same license, and

(c) That all the entries or withdrawals are to be made at the same port; and

(ii) The collector receiving such an affidavit is satisfied that the circumstances in fact warrant the waiver; and

(iii) There is presented to the collector either a photostatic copy of the original license or a copy of the license signed by the officer who issued and signed the original.

(2) If such waiver is granted, the collector shall retain the copy of the license presented to him and shall note on it, or cause to be noted on it, the description, quantity, and value of all merchandise entered or withdrawn from time to time pursuant to the authority therein contained.

(3) When such waiver is granted and all the merchandise authorized to be entered or withdrawn under a specific license has been entered or withdrawn, the copy of the license on file with the collector shall be endorsed to indicate this fact and shall be forwarded to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. When a license expires, unless it is renewed and the collector is advised of its renewal, any copy thereof which is on file with the collector shall be endorsed to show the expiration and shall be forwarded to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

(d) The requirement that two additional copies of each entry or withdrawal be filed in connection with every transaction under a specific license shall remain in effect notwithstanding any waiver of the requirement of presenting the original copy of the license.

(e) Whenever a person shall present an entry, withdrawal or other appropriate document affected by this section and shall assert that no Foreign Assets Control license is required in connection therewith, the collector of customs shall withhold action thereon and shall advise such person to communicate directly with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to request that instructions be issued to the collector to authorize him to take action with regard thereto.

(f) Articles which are the growth, produce or manufacture of China (except Formosa) or North Korea shall be deemed for the purposes of this chapter to be merchandise whose country of origin is China (except Formosa) or North Korea notwithstanding that they may have been subjected to one or any combination of the following in another country:

1, Grading; 2, testing; 3, checking; 4, shredding; 5, slicing; 6, peeling or splitting; 7, scraping; 8, cleaning; 9, washing; 10, soaking; 11, drying; 12, cooling, chilling, or refrigerating; 13, roasting; 14, steaming; 15, cooking; 16, curing; 17, combining of fur skins into plates; 18, blending; 19, flavoring; 20, preserving; 21, pickling; 22, smoking; 23, dressing; 24, salting; 25, dyeing; 26, bleaching; 27, tanning; 28, packing; 29, canning; 30, labeling; 31, any process similar to any of the foregoing.

(g) Any article wheresoever manufactured shall be deemed for the purposes of this chapter to be merchandise whose country of origin is China (except Formosa) or North Korea, if there shall have been added to such article any embroidery, needle point, petit point, lace or any other article of adornment which is the product of China (except Formosa) or North Korea notwithstanding that such addition to the merchandise may have occurred in a country other than China (except Formosa) or North Korea.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amdt. 9 to Supplementary Regulation 13]

GCPR, SR 13—COKE, COAL CHEMICALS AND COKE OVEN GAS

REFINING AND UPGRADING PLANTS; DISTRIBUTORS' CEILING PRICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment 9 to Supplementary Regulation No. 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Under SR 13 to the GCPR, any material generally produced in and sold from plants refining or upgrading materials from coke oven or tar distillation plants are included in the products covered by the supplementary regulation. In the normal course of business these refining or upgrading plants purchase raw materials from coke oven or tar distillation plants and refine or upgrade them to required specifications. In drafting SR 13 it was thought proper to include such plants (which are comparatively few in number) as a segment of the coal chemical industry. It was not intended, however, to cover materials or end-products which result from reacting mixing or compounding the materials obtained from the coke oven or tar distillation plants with other chemicals. Such compounded materials or end-products properly belong to the chemical field and should be covered under regulations applicable to chemicals. In view of the difficulty of ascertaining just when such material should be regarded as a coal chemical, and in order to eliminate any confusion or uncertainty in the industry as to the applicable regulation, it seems advisable to remove entirely from the coverage of SR 13 refining and upgrading plants which obtain raw materials from coke oven or tar distillation plants.

In order to clarify the status under the regulation of materials produced at these upgrading and refining plants, therefore, and to remove from SR 13 materials which more properly belong in the chemical field, this amendment specifically removes those products produced in plants refining or upgrading raw materials from coke oven or tar distillation plants from the definition of "coal chemicals", section 2 (c) (3). These plants are also taken out of the "distributor" definition in section 2 (i).

Section 3 (d) of SR 13 to the GCPR, as amended, prohibits distributors from charging prices f. o. b. oven or plant which are in excess of the ceiling prices established for such plants unless they purchased the coke or coal chemicals during the base period, in which event they may charge the highest price received during the base period plus any adjustments in the f. o. b. plant price. The effect of this provision has been to give to those distributors who handled the materials during the base period an advantage over those who did not. It appears that this provision has prevented certain distributors from obtaining business which they would normally possess. This amendment, therefore, revised section 3 (d) by eliminating the requirement that distributors, who did not handle the products during the base period, charge prices no higher than the f. o. b. plant ceiling price. Under this amendment, therefore, new distributors may determine their ceiling prices under the provisions of the GCPR without the previous limitation. This amendment will affect only a small group of individuals (the total number of distributors in the industry is relatively small) and will not substantially increase the ceiling price level, but will merely spread the sales, in some cases, among a few additional distributors.

In the formulation of this amendment, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and to relevant factors of general applicability.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 13 to the GCPR, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

1. Section 2 is amended by deleting subparagraph (3) of paragraph (c), so that section 2 (c) will read as follows:

(c) "Coal Chemicals" means any material generally produced in and sold from (1) coke oven plants, except coke and gas, (2) coal tar distillation plants; and, in addition, materials produced from water gas or residuum tar.

2. Section 2 (i) is amended by deleting the words "or plants refining or upgrading materials obtained from coke oven tar distillation plants", so that paragraph (i) will read as follows:

(i) "Distributor" means any person who purchases for resale, coke and or coal chemicals at or for delivery from coke oven or tar distillation plants, and resells the same without physical handling; it includes any person acting as the agent of a distributor in the sale of such materials.

3. Section 3 (d) is revised to read as follows:

(d) If a distributor purchased coke or coal chemicals from coke oven or tar distillation plants during the producer's base period, and resold such coke or coal chemicals he may charge the highest price, or prices, he received for such coke or coal chemicals during that base period plus any adjustments in the producer's price authorized by this regulation or other action of the Office of Price Stabilization. If, however, a distributor did not purchase and resell a particular item of coke or coal chemicals during the producer's base period, he shall determine his ceiling prices for that item under the provisions of the GCPR.

Effective date. This Amendment 9 to Supplementary Regulation 13 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation shall become effective June 14, 1952.

Director of Price Stabilization.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amdt. 2 to Supplementary Regulation 89]

GCPR, SR 89—CEILING PRICES FOR SALES BY WHOLESALERS AND DEALERS OF BALER AND BINDER TWINE

ALTERNATIVE CEILING PRICES FOR DEALERS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Amendment to to Supplementary Regulation 89 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment provides dollars-and-cents ceiling prices for dealers in domestically manufactured baler and binder twine who are unable to recalculate their ceiling prices under Supplementary Regulation 89 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In addition, dealers who are able to recalculate their ceiling prices according to the method originally provided in SR 89 may elect to use these dollars-and-cents ceiling prices instead of making recalculations.

Prior to this amendment, dealers in baler and binder twine were permitted to recalculate their ceiling prices under section 7 of SR 89 by applying to their supplier's list price their "permitted percentage mark-up", using their last representative sale made during the period April 1, 1950 through June 24, 1950. This method of recalculation has proved difficult for dealers whose records are incomplete or otherwise inadequate. For many dealers it has been necessary to apply to the Director for the establishment of revised ceiling prices under section 11 and await the establishment of these prices before they sell. A situation has resulted in which, with the selling season at hand, many dealers are uncertain about their ceiling prices, whereas others do not have ceiling prices, and the flow of twine to the farmer is threatened. This amendment is issued to meet this situation.

A new section 7 (b), is added which permits a dealer to use the dollars-and-cents prices set out in Table I instead of recalculating according to the method formerly provided in section 7. The dealer may, however, still avail himself of the method formerly provided, that method having been retained in the present section 7 (a). Dealers who are unable to recalculate their ceiling prices according to the method originally provided were formerly required to apply to the Director under section 11. These dealers may no longer use section 11, but must, if they do not wish to use their GCPR ceiling prices, use the prices set out in section 7 (b).

The prices set out in Table I reflect a markup of approximately 16 percent over manufacturers' current list prices for baler and binder twine. On the basis of information presently available to the Agency, it is the judgment of the Director that these prices represent an average pre-Korean dealer markup and are generally fair and equitable.

Inasmuch as the dealers' selling season is at hand, it is not practical to delay the issuance of this amendment pending the issuance of a tailored regulation. The Director will, prior to November 1, 1952, the end of the selling season, reexamine the prices herein provided and take whatever action is deemed necessary at that time.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 89 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

1. Section 7 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 7. Ceiling prices for dealers.—(a) How dealers recalculate their ceiling prices. If you are a dealer in domestically manufactured baler or binder twine and your manufacturer-supplier changes his price pursuant to CPR 22 or your wholesaler-supplier changes his price pursuant to SR 29 to the GCPR or to this supplementary regulation, whichever regulation is applicable, you recalculate your ceiling price by applying to your supplier's current list price your "permitted percentage markup." "Permitted percentage markup" means the percentage markup which your selling price, f. o. b. your place of business, for the last representative sale made during the period April 1, 1950 through June 24, 1950, yielded over the list price which your supplier had in effect at the time you made the sale. A representative sale is one made at the price at which you sold a customary quantity of twine to your largest number of purchaser, during that period. In recalculating your ceiling price you must apply your "permitted percentage markup" to your supplier's current list price expressed f. o. b. the same point as the list price you used in computing your "permitted percentage markup." You shall apply to your ceiling price the provisions of section 12 with regard to discounts, terms, and conditions of sale.

(b) Alternative ceiling prices for dealers. If you are a dealer in domestically manufactured baler or binder twine and do not wish to use paragraph (a) of this section or if you are unable to use paragraph (a) to recalculate your ceiling price, your ceiling price per bale is the applicable price listed in Table I. The prices set out in Table I are f. o. b. your place of business and are exclusive of discounts.

TABLE I

Baler twine (per 40 lb. bale)		Binder twine (per 50 lb. bale)
Standard	New Holland Black	500 ft. lb.	550 ft. lb.	600 ft. lb.
$18.30	$18.60	$18.00	$19.10	$21.40

2. Section 11 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 11. Wholesalers who cannot recalculate under other sections. (a) If you are a wholesaler of domestically manufactured baler or binder twine and claim that you are unable to recalculate your ceiling price under any other section of this supplementary regulation, you may apply in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for a revision of your ceiling price. This application shall contain to the extent available the following information: An explanation of why you are unable to recalculate your ceiling price under any other section of this supplementary regulation; a description of the twine, including the type of twine, brand name, if any, and feet per pound; the nature of your business, such as retailer of farm implements and equipment, wholesaler of hardware and farm equipment, etc., and classes of purchasers to whom the commodity is to be sold; the list prices applicable to each f. o. b. point which you, and each f. o. b. point which your suppliers, had in effect during the period April 1, 1950 through June 24, 1950, together with all the discounts, terms and conditions of sale offered by you and your suppliers; your supplier's current list price and all applicable discounts; your proposed ceiling price and the method used by you to determine it; the discounts, terms and conditions of sale you will offer to each class of purchaser; a copy of the price list for twine, if any, you will issue; the f. o. b. point at which you wish to have your ceiling price established and the reason you believe the proposed price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this supplementary regulation.

(b) You may not sell the twine at a price higher than your existing ceiling price until the Director of Price Stabilization, in writing, notifies you of your revised ceiling price.

Effective date. This Amendment 2 to Supplementary Regulation 89 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is effective June 13, 1952.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 104]

GCPR, SR 104—ESTABLISHING OF RATES FOR NEW SERVICES RENDERED BY CONTRACT CARRIERS OF PETROLEUM PRODUCTS PURSUANT TO TEMPORARY AUTHORITIES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 104 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation enables contract carriers of bulk petroleum products to establish ceiling rates for operations conducted pursuant to temporary operating authority issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission or by an appropriate State regulatory body, to engage in contract carriage of a type or over routes or in areas which their permanent authority does not permit.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and several of the State regulatory commissions issue to contract motor carriers temporary authority permitting such carriers to perform contract carrier operations for a temporary period only. The issuance of such authority is based upon a showing that other transportation services are not available. The various commissions issuing temporary authorities usually require the carrier to institute the service covered by the temporary authority within four or five days after the issuance of the Order granting the authority. Under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, there is no provision pursuant to which a carrier receiving temporary authority may establish ceiling rates without first obtaining the approval of OPS. The delay incurred by proceeding in this manner when there is an urgent need for the transportation which is the subject of a temporary authority imposes a hardship on both the carrier and the public.

As a result of the recent oil strike, an unprecedented demand for the transportation of petroleum products, in bulk, in tank vehicles, was created. The Interstate Commerce Commission and State regulatory bodies, as a consequence of the strike, have been requested to issue an ever increasing number of temporary authorities in order to assure the continued flow of petroleum products to areas where such products are in short supply. Unless existing procedures for the establishing of rates for new services are modified so as to allow contract carriers of petroleum products in bulk to perform service pursuant to temporary authorities without awaiting specific approval of ceiling rates by OPS, wasteful delays will be incurred before such carriers will be enabled to supply the much needed service. If the service is provided without the approval of OPS, both the carriers and shippers utilizing such service will be in violation of the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Accordingly, this supplementary regulation provides that contract carriers engaged in the transportation of petroleum products, in bulk, in tank vehicles, under temporary operating authority, may establish their ceiling rates for operations under that authority by filing with OPS copies of the schedules of minimum rates and charges which have been filed with another appropriate regulatory body. After making such filing, the rates so filed become the lawful ceiling rates for those operations for a period of 60 days from the date of issuance of the temporary operating authority or until the termination of that authority, whichever is earlier. If the temporary authority is issued for a period in excess of 60 days, ceiling rates established under this supplementary regulation shall apply only to service performed during the first 60 days of such authority. Ceiling rates for service performed after such 60-day period must be established in accordance with the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

GWR 11—AGRICULTURAL LABOR

ACD 4—PEACHES, PEARS, APPLES AND ALL FRUITS IN MESA AND DELTA COUNTIES IN COLORADO

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.), E. O. 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), E. O. 10233 (16 F. R. 3503), General Order No. 3, Economic Stabilization Administrator (16 F. R. 739) General Wage Regulation No. 11 (16 F. R. 4938), and Wage Stabilization Board Resolution 37 (16 F. R. 8954) this Area Ceiling Determination No. 4 to GWR–11, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

General Wage Regulation 11 authorizes employers of agricultural labor to increase their base wage rates without Board approval up to certain specified levels, and by Amendment No. 1 (17 F. R. 3794) authorizes permissible increases without Board approval to the 1950 base rate, plus 15 percent, or the 1951 base rate, plus 5 percent. By Resolution 37, as amended, the National Wage Stabilization Board has authorized the Regional Board for the Eleventh Region to establish maximum wage ceilings for specific agricultural operations in defined areas. Upon the basis of requests from interested parties for the establishment of area ceiling wage rates for agricultural labor engaged in cultivating, growing, harvesting, packing, handling, and shipping peaches, pears, apples and all fruits in Mesa and Delta Counties, Colorado, public hearings were held at Palisade, Mesa County, Colorado on May 8, 1952, before a tri-partite panel of the Eleventh Regional Board to assist the Regional Board in determining whether area ceiling wage rates for agricultural labor for the fruit crops in the counties specified should be established. Agricultural employers, employees and other interested persons in the area were given an opportunity to appear and testify at such hearing and to submit written information to the panel. Based upon information and data obtained in this hearing, the recommendation of the tripartite panel to the Regional Board and from information and data available to it from other sources, the Regional Board has determined that an area ceiling establishing maximum permissible wage rates for agricultural labor which would be applicable to all employers, labor contractors and employees engaged in these agricultural operations in the Counties of Mesa and Delta, State of Colorado, will serve to stabilize agricultural wages.

In the judgment of the Regional Board the following determination is generally fair and equitable and is necessary to meet the unusual and emergency conditions for the handling of these perishable crops and will effectuate the purposes of Title IV and Title VII of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. Areas, operations and classes of employees covered.
2. Area ceiling wage rates.
3. Administration.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 3 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, 65 Stat. 132. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, Pub. Law 96, 82d Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101–2110. E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR 1950 Supp., E. O. 10233, Apr. 21, 1951, 16 F. R. 3503, 3 CFR 1951 Supp.

SECTION 1. Areas, operations and classes of employees covered. This area ceiling determination shall be applicable to all employers and labor contractors of agricultural labor and to agricultural employees hired for the cultivating, growing, harvesting, packing, handling and shipping peaches, pears, apples and all fruits during the crop year of 1952 in the counties of Mesa and Delta, State of Colorado.

SEC. 2. Area ceiling wage rates. An employer covered by this area ceiling determination may, without further approval, pay agricultural labor at any rate up to but not exceeding the following:

(a) $1.00 per hour for thinning, cultivating and general fruit farm work and packing shed work.

(b) Pruning fruit trees $1.25 an hour.

(c) Piece rates at 12 cents per bushel for picking full bushels of all fruits.

(d) Rates for orchard foremen and other supervisors to be paid from $1.25 per hour to $2.35 per hour scaled according to the ability, past experience and responsibility delegated to the foreman or supervisor.

(e) A bonus for harvesting labor only of 10 cents per hour, if paid on an hourly basis, or 2 cents per bushel for fruit picking, if paid on a piece rate basis, to be paid only to workers who remain with the employer through the harvest season.

(f) Actual transportation costs and subsistence, if paid on a grower cooperative basis, to bring agricultural workers for these fruit crops into the two-county area from points outside of the area, either in Colorado or adjoining states. This does not include any daily transportation to or from work within the area.

(g) No employer covered by this area ceiling determination shall pay any employee engaged in any of the operations listed in Sec. 1 at a rate in excess of the applicable maximum wage rate designated in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section, except:

(1) That he may not be required to pay less than the rate he paid for the operations covered herein during the most recent crop season occurring before June 25, 1950; and

(2) That he may not be required to pay less than the rate permissible under the self-administering provisions of GWR 11, as amended; and

(3) That he may pay more than the rate specified in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section if he has been granted an adjustment pursuant to section 3 (b) of this determination.

SEC. 3. Administration. (a) This area ceiling determination will be administered by the Wage Stabilization Board, Region 11, New Customhouse Building, Denver, Colorado.

(b) An employer whose agricultural operations are covered by this area ceiling determination may request the Regional Board for individual adjustments in the area ceiling rates designated in section 2 of this determination. The employer must establish that the proposed adjustment is needed because of special conditions which may prevent his employees from earning amounts which are fairly comparable to their earning capacity under normal circumstances in the area. The Regional Board may grant such adjustments as it feels warranted from the information submitted by the applicant and from any investigation it may make. The employer may be required to post a notice of any individual adjustment in the area ceiling rate which may be granted him.

(c) Any violation of this area ceiling determination constitutes a violation of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, and may subject the violator to the penalties prescribed therein, and to the Board's Enforcement Resolution, adopted September 20, 1951 (16 F. R. 10018).

SEC. 4. Effective date. This determination shall become effective on May 24, 1952, and shall continue throughout the entire period of the 1952 fruit harvest in Mesa and Delta Counties, Colorado, or until such time as modified by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Issued: May 17, 1952.

Reworded: May 27, 1952.

Chairman, 11th Regional Board, Denver, Colo.

Subchapter C—Railroad and Airline Wage Board

[Wage Adjustment Order 2]

WAO2—WAGE ADJUSTMENTS FOR OPERATING RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The settlements reached between the railroad carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees and their employees represented by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors in their agreements of May 23, 1952 are the last of a series of agreements negotiated by representatives of railroad operating employees and the Nation's Class I carriers during the period since the Report to the President by Emergency Board No. 81, June 15, 1950. These basic agreements include:

Switchmen's Union of North America and carriers represented by the Western Carriers' Conference Committee dated September 21, 1950.
Railroad Yardmasters of America and carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated November 2, 1950.
Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated May 25, 1951.
Agreements of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railway Conductors with carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated May 23, 1952.

The agreements involving the Switchmen's Union of North America and the Railroad Yardmasters of America became effective prior to the institution of wage and salary controls pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. The agreement of May 25, 1951 between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the three Carriers' Conference Committees was approved by the Wage Stabilization Board on June 12, 1951. The agreements of May 23, 1952 involving respectively, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railway Conductors with the three Carriers' Conference Committees were approved by the Railroad and Airline Wage Board and the Economic Stabilization Administrator on May 28, 1952.

It is recognized, as pointed out in the report of the Temporary Emergency Railroad Wage Panel and in Wage Adjustment Order No. 1 issued April 24, 1951 by the Economic Stabilization Administrator approving the agreement of March 1, 1951 between the carriers and the nonoperating employees represented by the Fifteen Cooperating Railway Labor Organizations, that the pattern of bargaining in the railroad industry is such that a number of the smaller carriers and the representatives of their employees do not customarily participate in the national handling of railroad wage cases. These carriers either through the execution of "standby agreements" or by practice and custom await the outcome of the national negotiations before making adjustments in wages or working conditions on their individual properties.

It is further recognized that existing stabilization regulations require the prior approval of adjustments in wages, salaries and other compensation and that the submission of separate petitions to effectuate adjustments similar to those provided in the agreements enumerated above would, at this juncture, be onerous and time consuming to all parties involved. Accordingly, to facilitate the prompt and orderly disposition of wage adjustments for operating railroad employees and to avoid intra-carrier and inter-carrier wage and salary inequities this order is hereby issued.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. Definitions.
2. Adjustments permitted by this order.
3. Permissive character of the adjustments.
4. Coverage.
5. Maintenance of records.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 6 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat., 803, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101–2110; E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. Definitions. The words "wages, salaries and other compensation" as used in this order mean "wages, salaries and other compensation" as defined in section 702 (c) of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

SEC. 2. Adjustments permitted by this order. Adjustments in wages, salaries and other compensation of employees in the crafts or classes of railroad operating or transportation employees included in Interstate Commerce Commission Reporting Divisions 105 through 128 inclusive which do not exceed as to the timing, amount, and nature of payment the adjustments provided in the following agreements are permitted by this order:

Switchmens' Union of North America and carriers represented by the Western Carriers' Conference Committee dated September 21, 1950.
Railroad Yardmasters of America and carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated November 2, 1950.
Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated May 25, 1951.
Agreements of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railway Conductors with carriers represented by the Eastern, Western and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees dated May 23, 1952.

Such adjustments may be put into effect without prior notice or application to the Chairman of the Railroad and Airline Wage Board and without his specific approval: Provided, (a) That it has been the custom and practice to make adjustments generally similar to those received by railroad operating employees as the result of national agreements and (b) that any general wage adjustments made since the general wage increase of 10 cents per hour obtained by railroad operating employees in their national agreements effective October 16, 1948 shall be offset against the adjustments authorized by this order.

SEC. 3. Permissive character of adjustments. Nothing in this order shall be construed as directing or ordering any carrier to grant any adjustments in wages, salaries and other compensation; but adjustments within the limits declared permissible by this order may be made without further approval.

SEC. 4. Coverage. This order applies only to employees and carriers subject to the jurisdiction of the Railroad and Airline Wage Board.

SEC. 5. Maintenance of records. Where adjustments in wages, salaries and other compensation are made in accordance with this order carriers shall keep available for inspection by appropriate government agencies records of such adjustments sufficient to demonstrate compliance with this order.

SEC. 6. Finding and certification. The Board finds that all adjustments in wages, salaries and other compensation permitted by this order to be made without prior specific approval of the Board are consistent with standards now in effect, established by or pursuant to law, for the purpose of controlling inflationary tendencies, and so certifies.

NOTE: The record keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

Bureau of Air Operations

[14 CFR Part 241]

[Economic Regs. Draft Release 54]

FILING OF REPORTS BY CERTIFICATED AIR CARRIERS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE-MAKING

JUNE 10, 1952.

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Air Operations, notice is hereby given that the Bureau has under consideration amendment of Part 241 of the Economic Regulations (14 CFR 241) for the purpose of condensing and otherwise modifying the present reporting requirements for certificated air carriers. The objective is to reduce the burden of both preparing and administering the Form 41 reports. It is proposed to make these changes effective July 1, 1952.

The Bureau proposes changes in the reporting requirements for certificated carriers and modifications of CAB Forms 41 and 41 (a) along the following lines:

1. The following modifications will be made in each schedule:

a. Schedule C—Quarterly Flight and Traffic Statistics. The reporting frequency for this schedule would be changed from a month to a calendar quarter period.

The same requirements would apply to the quarterly report as now apply to the monthly Schedule C. However, data with respect to operating performance factor and number of employees would be deleted from the quarterly report. In addition, the requirement for filing IBM cards would be amended to exclude cards except for items 8 through 28 and 40. The later cards would continue to be submitted for each page of quarterly Schedule C.

b. Present Schedule C–1—Revenue Passenger Miles. The present schedule C–1 would be discontinued. Family plan data presently reported on this schedule would be reported as a footnote on the revised Schedule C–1 discussed below.

c. Revised Schedule C–1—Monthly Flight and Traffic Statistics. A separate report would be filed each month covering all scheduled services, all non-scheduled services and all services for each operation, in the form prescribed in the attached sample of a proposed report, entitled "Monthly Flight and Traffic Statistics". Except as provided on the proposed schedule for revenue aircraft miles and aircraft utilization data, no breakdown would be required by type of aircraft or secondary classes of services.

IBM cards would be filed for items 8 through 28 and for each class of service and aircraft type composing item 8. The line numbers on the present Schedule C and the proposed quarterly Schedule C are utilized as IBM codes. To preserve consistency of codes between monthly and quarterly reports for like items, the same codes are used on the two schedules. Similarly, in order to preserve the usefulness of the forms in pegboard operations, like items on the monthly and quarterly reports have been placed in identical physical positions on the proposed forms. The designations for classes of service and aircraft types as provided for on pages 21–37 of the CAB Form 41 Manual would be used for identifying data to the extent required in the proposed monthly report.

d. Schedule B–1—Incidental Revenues; Non-operating Income and Expense. The instructions for this schedule would be modified to require a breakdown of total income taxes shown on Schedule B as between excess profits taxes and other taxes based on income.

2. The present Form 41 (a) interim financial report for the first two months of each quarter would be modified to include: (1) Interim Balance Sheet, Schedule I; and (2) Interim Statement of Profit and Loss, Schedule II. The present operating statement would be revised to exclude the miscellaneous data by type of aircraft appearing at the bottom of the schedule and to include a summary of non-operating items and a breakdown of income taxes as between excess profits and other income taxes. Samples of the two proposed forms are attached.[1] In order to facilitate pegboard operations, like items on the interim Form 41 (a) profit and loss statement and quarterly Schedule B of Form 41 have been placed in identical physical locations. The proposed revisions in the interim financial statements would in no way alter the requirement in paragraph 2 on page 1–2 of the Manual that air carriers shall keep their accounting books and records on a quarterly basis

3. The following filing schedule would be established with the requirement that all schedules be mailed (i. e., postmarked) within the specified period following the close of each month and quarter to which the reports are applicable:

Form No.	Schedules	Postmarked within following number of days
41	A, B, B–1, C and C–1	25
41 (a)	I and II	25
41	A–1 through A–6, B–1 through B–9	45
41	A–7 through A–10, B–10, D, E and F	90

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 205 (a) and 407 (a) of the Civil Aeronautics Act, as amended (52 Stat. 984, 1000; 49 U. S. C. 425, 487).

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule-making through the submission of written data, views or arguments pertaining thereto, in triplicate, addressed to the Secretary, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C. All relevant matter in communications received on or before June 19, 1952 will be considered by the Bureau before taking final action on the proposed rule.

By the Bureau of Air Operations.

Director.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

National Production Authority

[Suspension Order 13, Docket No. 16]

NATIONAL STEEL PRODUCTS CO. AND C. W. WILD

SUSPENSION ORDER

In the matter of National Steel Products Company and C. W. Wild, respondents, a public hearing was held at Charleston, West Virginia, on May 20, 1952, before the undersigned Hearing Commissioner of the National Production Authority upon a statement of charges made by the General Counsel of the National Production Authority against said respondents, pursuant to the National Production Authority General Administrative Order 16-06 (16 F. R. 8628), dated July 21, 1951, and Implementation 1 to General Administrative Order 16-06 (16 F. R. 8799), redesignated as R. P. 1—Rules of Practice before Hearing Commissioners (16 F. R. 8894); and

The respondents, National Steel Products Company and C. W. Wild, being duly apprised of the specific violations charged and the administrative action which may be taken, they being fully informed of the rules and regulations which govern these proceedings, appeared herein pursuant to timely notice.

The National Production Authority was represented by Joseph J. Saunders, Esquire, of the office of its General Counsel.

Respondents were represented by Robert K. Emerson, Esquire, of Huntington, West Virginia.

The respondent C. W. Wild, Vice President and Treasurer of the corporate respondent, having testified in behalf of the respondents, documentary evidence having been produced, together with certain stipulations of fact;

Verbal arguments of counsel were heard and the case taken under advisement; and

The Hearing Commissioner having considered the record and arguments of counsel, being fully advised in the premises, makes the following

Findings of fact. 1. During the calendar quarters commencing October 1, 1951, and January 1, 1952, the respondent, National Steel Products Company, on ten (10) separate occasions, accepted deliveries of $13\frac{1}{2}$-gage carbon steel spring wire, an item of steel listed in Schedule I of CMP Regulation 1. Upon each such receipt, its inventory of $13\frac{1}{2}$-gage carbon steel spring wire became in excess of the quantity of the said item necessary to meet its deliveries, supply its services, or perform its operations during the succeeding 45-day period on the basis of its then currently scheduled method and rate of operation. The acceptance of these deliveries resulted in an average inventory of this item which, when related to production requirements for succeeding 45-day periods, was excessive by 146,000 pounds, or 73 tons.

2. During the calendar quarters commencing October 1, 1951, and January 1, 1952, National Steel Products Company, on nine (9) separate occasions, accepted deliveries of 14-gage carbon steel spring wire, an item of steel listed in Schedule I of CMP Regulation No. 1. Upon each such receipt, its inventory of 14-gage carbon steel spring wire became in excess of the quantity of the said item necessary to meet its deliveries, supply its services, or perform its operations during the succeeding 45-day period on the basis of its then currently scheduled method and rate of operation. The acceptance of these deliveries resulted in an average inventory of this item which, when related to production requirements for succeeding 45-day periods, was excessive by 305,000 pounds, or 152.5 tons.

3. During the calendar quarters commencing October 1, 1951, and January 1, 1952, National Steel Products Company, on four (4) separate occasions, accepted deliveries of 17-gage carbon steel spring wire, an item of steel listed in Schedule I of CMP Regulation No. 1. Upon each such receipt, its inventory of 17-gage carbon steel spring wire became in excess of the quantity of the said item necessary to meet its deliveries, supply its services, or perform its operations during the succeeding 45-day period on the basis of its then currently scheduled method and rate of operation. The acceptance of these deliveries resulted in an average inventory of this item which, when related to production requirements for succeeding 45-day periods, was excessive by 101,000 pounds, or 50.5 tons.

4. That certain written stipulations made and entered into May 20, 1952, between Attorneys Saunders and Emerson, received in evidence as Exhibit 2, fully support each of the preceding findings.

5. C. W. Wild, managing and directing the affairs of National Steel Products Company as Vice President and Treasurer, during the time receipts of carbon steel spring wire pertinent herein were accepted, had knowledge of, supervised, directed, and participated in the acts which resulted in the accummulation of excessive inventories of $13\frac{1}{2}$-, 14-, and 17-gage carbon steel spring wire by National Steel Products Company.

6. The entire record is devoid of evidence that during the period here in question the respondents have not acted openly and in good faith, nor is there evidence that their failures to comply with CMP Regulation No. 2 resulted from any willful or fraudulent conduct nor from any misrepresentation.

Conclusions of law. From the foregoing findings of facts the Commissioner concludes that:

During the calendar quarters commencing October 1, 1951, and January 1, 1952, the National Steel Products Company and C. W. Wild committed acts prohibited by section 3 (a) of CMP Regulation No. 2, dated May 10, 1951 (16 F. R. 4370), as amended October 12, 1951 (16 F. R. 10489), in that National Steel Products Company accepted deliveries of $13\frac{1}{2}$-, 14-, and 17-gage spring wire items of carbon steel controlled material, on twenty-three (23) separate occasions upon receipt of which its inventories of such items became in excess of the quantities necessary to meet its deliveries, supply its services, and perform its operations during succeeding 45-day periods on the basis of its then currently scheduled method and rate of operation. C. W. Wild committed, directed, supervised, and participated in the commission of such acts. The receipts of these items thus accepted were in violation of the said provisions of CMP Regulation No. 2 and resulted in excessive inventories amounting to 532,000 pounds, or 276 tons, of carbon steel controlled material.

In order to correct excess inventories of carbon steel controlled material occasioned by the unauthorized receipt of such items,

It is accordingly ordered:

1. That all allocations and allotments of carbon steel which have been or may be granted to the National Steel Products Company, its successors and assigns, or which have been or may be sought on its behalf by C. W. Wild for use during the calendar quarter commencing April 1, 1952, be reduced by 420,000 pounds, or 210 tons.

2. That all allocations and allotments of carbon steel which have been or may be granted to the National Steel Products Company, its successors and assigns, or which have been or may be sought on its behalf by C. W. Wild for use during the calendar quarter commencing July 1, 1952, be further reduced by 66,000 pounds, or 33 tons.

3. That all allocations and allotments of carbon steel which have been or may be granted to the National Steel Products Company, its successors and assigns, or which have been or may be sought on its behalf by C. W. Wild for use during the calendar quarter commencing October 1, 1952, be further reduced by 66,000 pounds, or 33 tons.

4. That the National Steel Products Company, and C. W. Wild, their successors and assigns, be and are hereby prohibited, during each of such periods, from acquiring any items of carbon steel in excess of their carbon steel allocations and allotments as so reduced.

5. That the National Steel Products Company and C. W. Wild, their successors and assigns, be and are hereby prohibited, so long as the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, or as it may hereafter be amended or extended, remains in effect, from accepting delivery of any item of controlled material if the inventory of National Steel Products Company of such materials is, or by such receipt would then be, in violation of the provisions of CMP Regulation No. 2, as amended October 12, 1951, or as it may be hereafter amended.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION

[Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, Notification 45]

PLACEMENT OF PROCUREMENT IN THE CONNERSVILLE, INDIANA AREA

NOTIFICATION TO DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE AND GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

The Surplus Manpower Committee, appointed under Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, has reported to the Director of Defense Mobilization its findings and recommendation in the matter of placement of procurement in the Connersville area. The recommendation has been reviewed within the Office of Defense Mobilization to determine its relationship to other policies affecting procurement for which this Office has responsibility and no conflicts exist.

The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are hereby notified that upon full consideration, the Director of Defense Mobilization has concluded that it is in the public interest to give preference to the Connersville area, with the exception of the textile and apparel industries located in that area, in the placement of Government contracts, in accordance with the attached findings of the Committee and the provisions of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4. The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are hereby requested to take the actions specified in paragraph 6 of section III of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4.

The textile industry has been excluded from the provisions of this notification pursuant to Notification 38 dated June 4, 1952. Public hearings have been held on the apparel industry. Following the report of the Hearing Panel, consideration will be given to certifying this industry under the provisions of the policy.

The Department of Defense and the General Services Administration are requested to submit the first written report of the actions taken under this notification on July 15, 1952, and thereafter each 30 days until further notice.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION,
JOHN R. STEELMAN,
Acting Director.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE SURPLUS MANPOWER COMMITTEE CONCERNING THE CONNERSVILLE, INDIANA AREA UNDER DEFENSE MANPOWER POLICY NO. 4

Under date of May 21, 1952, the Defense Manpower Administration of the Department of Labor certified to this Committee, under Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, the existence of the Connersville area as a surplus labor area under standards established by the Secretary of Labor. The Connersville area is composed of Fayette, Franklin, Rush and Union Counties.

On the basis of information contained in the files of the Committee and furnished by the Department of Labor relative to the manpower situation in the Connersville area, and by the Department of Defense, the National Production Authority, and the Department of Labor relative to facilities in the Connersville area, the Committee makes the following findings and recommendation:

FINDINGS

The Committee finds:

1. That the Connersville area, as defined by the Defense Manpower Administration, is an area of current labor surplus, including a surplus of manpower possessing skills necessary to the fulfillment of Government contracts;

2. That there exist in the Connersville area a comparatively small number of suitable facilities for the performance of additional Government contracts;

3. That in order to accomplish the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, the public interest dictates the need for the negotiation of available Government contracts at reasonable prices in the Connersville area, provided that a substantial portion of the work involved in the execution of the contracts will be performed in the Connersville area, and provided further that contractors in the said area will be afforded the opportunity to meet prices obtainable elsewhere;

4. That no price differential for the Connersville area is considered necessary in order to effectuate the objectives of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4, provided that the operations under the notification recommended herein will be reviewed within a reasonable period of time to determine whether the establishment of an appropriate maximum price differential is required in order to effectuate Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 for the Connersville area;

5. That the apparel industry, to the extent that it exists in the Connersville area, should not be included in the application of Defense Manpower Policy No. 4 in the Connersville area; consideration will be given to separate recommendations applying to the entire apparel industry.

RECOMMENDATION

The Committee recommends that the Director of Defense Mobilization conclude that it is in the public interest to give preference to the Connersville area in the placement of contracts in accordance with the Committee's findings, and that the Director so notify the Secretary of Defense and the Administrator of the General Services Administration.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION,
ARTHUR S. FLEMMING,
Chairman,
Surplus Manpower Committee.

Approved:

In the event of the absence or disability of the individual Commissioner to whom applications under section 210a (a) or section 212 (b) are assigned, the senior member of Division Five who is present shall act instead of the individual Commissioner to whom the matter is assigned. In the event of the absence or disability of a Commissioner to whom a proceeding not referred to a division has been assigned for administrative handling or preparation of report, procedural matters in connection with such proceeding, except applications under section 210a (a) or section 212 (b), may be acted upon by the Chairman of the Commission.

(4) In the first line of the paragraph immediately following that described in item (3) hereof, following the word "matters," insert the following: "except applications under sections 210a (a) and 212 (b),"

(5) In the section Rehearings and further Proceedings, deleting the period at the end of the first paragraph and adding: "or an individual Commissioner."

(6) In the section Rehearings and further proceedings, inserting at the beginning of the second paragraph: "Except in applications under sections 210a (a) and 212 (b) which are especially provided for in the two succeeding paragraphs,"

(7) To the section Rehearings and further proceedings, adding a third and a fourth paragraph to read as follows:

Division Five is hereby designated an appellate division to which applications for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of any decision, order, or requirement of an individual Commissioner in section 210a (a) or section 212 (b) applications shall be assigned or referred for action thereon; the Chairman of Division Three shall be substituted as a member of the said appellate division in lieu of the individual member of Division Five who initially acted in the matter.

Any application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of any decision, order, or requirement of an individual Commissioner in section 210a (a) or section 212 (b) matters (and any supporting or opposing documents) when submitted shall be considered by the Commissioner who initially acted upon the matter; if the Commissioner grants the same, the application will stand as granted by the Commissioner and denied by the appellate division, and further proceedings will be before the Commissioner and under his direction. Any further decision, order, or requirement of the Commissioner shall be subject to application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration as provided herein. If the Commissioner does not grant the application, the application (and supporting or opposing documents) will be considered by the appellate division. The decisions or orders of the appellate division shall be administratively final and not subject to review by the Commission.

It is further ordered, That the foregoing amendments shall become effective September 1, 1952.

By the Commission.

Sec.
715.1 General provisions; entitlement.
715.2 Delegations.
715.3 Voluntary applications.
715.4 Involuntary allotments.

AUTHORITY: §§ 715.1 to 715.4 issued under sec. 10, 64 Stat. 796; 50 U. S. C. App. 2210. Interpret or apply sec. 102, 63 Stat. 804, as amended; 37 U. S. C. 231.

§ 715.1 (a) General provisions; entitlement. The act of September 8, 1950 (64 Stat. 794–797, 50 App. U. S. Enlisted service members are required to maintain a minimum required allotment to their dependents in order to be eligible for a credit of basic allowance for quarters. This minimum required allotment is composed of the applicable rate of credit of basic allowance for quarters plus the member's required contribution from his pay. However, no allotment is required for the month (1) the enlisted member enters on active duty, if the allotment is effective from the following month, (2) the enlisted member is discharged, if not immediately reenlisted, (3) the enlisted member is released from active duty, (4) dependency ceases, (5) dependency commences, if the allotment is effective from the following month, (6) the enlisted member and his dependents are assigned to public quarters or such assignment ends, (7) of August or of September or of October 1950, if the allotment was started not later than November 1950, and (8) prior to establishment, if the exigencies of the service were such that the enlisted member could not sooner register the allotment. An officer member on training duty, who is otherwise qualified, is entitled to receive a credit of basic allowance for quarters. If a service member's dependents are maintained at government expense, he is not entitled to receive a credit of basic allowance for quarters. Enlisted members who are on training duty as well as enlisted personnel who are members of the Philippine Scouts, the Insular Force of the Navy, the Samoan Native Guard and Band of the Navy, or the Samoan Reserve Force of the Marine Corps are not entitled to receive a credit of basic allowance for quarters under the act.

(b) General provisions, dependents. The term "dependent" is as defined in the Career Compensation Act of 1949 (37 U. S. C. 231 (g)) and shall include at all times and in all places (1) the lawful wife, (2) unmarried legitimate children under 21 years of age, (3) unmarried legitimate children over 21 years of age who are incapable of self-support because of being mentally defective or physically incapacitated, and who are in fact dependent on the service member for over half of his or her support, (4) stepchildren and adopted children who are in fact dependent upon the service member, (5) the father or mother who is in fact dependent upon the service member for over half of his or her support, and (6) any person, including a step-parent or parent by adoption, who has stood in loco parentis to the service member at any time for a continuous period of not less than 5 years during the minority of such member, who is in fact dependent upon the service member for over half of his or her support. In the cases of parents or persons who have stood in loco parentis to the service member, a determination of dependency must be based upon an affidavit submitted by such father, mother or person in loco parentis and other such information as may be required.

§ 715.2 Delegations. The Director, Personal Affairs Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel, with respect to personnel of the Navy, and the Head, Personal Affairs Branch, Personnel Department, United States Marine Corps, with respect to personnel of the United States Marine Corps, have been granted the authority by the Secretary of the Navy to make determinations including determinations of dependency and relationship, and on the basis of new evidence or for other good cause to reconsider or modify any such determination. The Chief, Field Branch, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Cleveland 14, Ohio, with respect to personnel of the Navy, and the Head, Personal Affairs Branch, Personnel Department, United States Marine Corps, with respect to personnel of the United States Marine Corps, have been granted the authority by the Secretary of the Navy to waive the recovery of any money erroneously paid under the provisions of the act, whenever it is determined that such recovery would be against equity and good conscience.

§ 715.3 Voluntary applications. Only service members who are entitled to receive basic pay may file application for credit of basic allowance for quarters. Each such application must be executed by the service member and endorsed by the service member's Commanding Officer and Disbursing Officer. The application must also contain (a) the date that basic allowance for quarters is to commence to be credited to the service member's pay, (b) the names, relationships, and addresses of dependents because of whom credit of basic allowance for quarters is claimed, (c) in cases involving unmarried children over twenty-one years of age who are incapable of self-support because of being mentally defective or physically incapacitated, stepchildren, adopted children, parents, or persons who have stood in loco parentis during at least five years of the service member's minority, the amount the service member has contributed to the dependent's support prior to the filing of the application, (d) authority to check the service member's pay for any credit of basic allowance for quarters received because of the alleged dependency of any person subsequently determined not to be dependent within the contemplation of the act, and (e) a statement as to whether or not the service member and his dependents are in occupancy of public quarters.

§ 715.4 Involuntary allotments. If an enlisted member with dependents does not claim credit of basic allowance for quarters, the Secretary of the Navy may, at his discretion, under the authority contained in section 6 of the act, authorize and direct the payment of the basic allowance for quarters and the establishment and payment of such allotment or allotments as he shall determine to be in conformity with the provisions of the act.

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 105]

GCPR, SR 105—CEILING PRICES FOR CERTAIN POLYVINYL CHLORIDE RESINS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Supplementary Regulation 105 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation permits producers of polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more of polyvinyl chloride to increase their ceiling prices to the levels established in the regulation, if their existing ceiling prices are below such levels.

Polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more of polyvinyl chloride have for a long period prior to price control been selling at uniform prices throughout the industry. Amendment 30 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 removed these resins from the scope of Ceiling Price Regulation 22 and left them under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, in order to avoid, among other reasons, the nonuniform prices that would have resulted from the application of Ceiling Price Regulation 22 to an industry where uniformity of price was customary. Since the issuance of Amendment 30, the Director has been informed by a single producer of these resins that it alone has ceiling prices under the General Ceiling Price Regulation lower than the ceiling prices which all other producers have established. It states that immediately prior to the base period of the General Ceiling Price Regulation it had begun the production of these polyvinyl chloride resins on an experimental basis, and that its total production was only a small fraction of the total production of the industry. Since its production was small and on an experimental basis, it delayed following the industry in an upward adjustment of prices which occurred immediately prior to the base period. As a result the higher prices established by all other producers in the industry immediately prior to the base period became the ceiling prices for these producers, while the one producer was frozen at the price prevailing in the industry immediately prior to the general upward adjustment of prices. This producer is now commencing regular production of the polyvinyl chloride resins and requests that it be permitted to pursue the practice which it followed immediately prior to price control, and would have followed but for price control, of establishing its selling prices at the level prevailing throughout the industry. In the opinion of the Director the lower ceiling prices which this producer now has result from abnormal circumstances and these ceiling prices should be established in line with the ceiling prices prevailing in the industry. This supplementary regulation establishes dollars and cents ceiling prices for polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more polyvinyl chloride at the same level as those prevailing for all other producers of these resins.

In view of the corrective nature of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, impracticable.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. What this supplementary regulation does.
2. Ceiling prices on sales of polyvinyl chloride resins contining 99 per cent or more polyvinyl chloride.
3. Applicability of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 3 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2101–2110, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950; 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SEC. 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation increases the ceiling prices in certain instances for sales of polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more polyvinyl chloride when such sales are made by the producers of these resins, and when these producers have established ceiling prices for such sales under the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices on sales of polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more polyvinyl chloride. (a) If you produce and sell polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 per cent or more polyvinyl chloride and your ceiling price for the sale of these resins established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation is less than the ceiling price specified in paragraph (b) of this section, you may increase your ceiling price for carload or truckload sales as specified in paragraph (b) of this section, and for your other sales as specified in paragraph (c) of this section. If your ceiling price established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation is the same or higher than the ceiling price specified in paragraph (b) of this section, this supplementary regulation is not applicable to you. If you do not have a ceiling price established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you must establish a ceiling price in accordance with the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, and this supplementary regulation is not applicable to you.

(b) If you are a manufacturer as described in the first sentence of paragraph (a), your ceiling price for sales of polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 percent or more polyvinyl chloride, in carload or truckload lots, is thirty-eight cents per pound, f. o. b. your plant.

(c) If your ceiling price for sales in carload and truckload lots is increased by paragraph (b) of this section, your ceiling prices for any other type of sale of polyvinyl chloride resins containing 99 percent or more polyvinyl chloride is established in an amount determined as follows:

(1) Find the difference in dollars and cents between your General Ceiling Price Regulation ceiling price for sales in carload or truckload lots and your General Ceiling Price Regulation ceiling price for the other type of sale whose adjusted ceiling price you are determining under this supplementary regulation.

(2) Add that dollar and cents amount to the ceiling price established in paragraph (b) of this section.

SEC. 3. Applicability of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Except to the extent modified by this supplementary regulation, all of the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation remain unchanged in their applicability to sales of polyvinyl chloride resins.

Effective date. This Supplementary Regulation 105 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is effective June 17, 1952.

CPR 30—MACHINERY AND RELATED MANUFACTURED GOODS

SR 4—ADJUSTMENT UNDER SECTION 402(d)(4) OF THE DEFENSE PRODUCTION ACT OF 1950, AS AMENDED

CLARIFICATION OF PROVISION RELATING TO INCREASED SUBCONTRACTING; USE OF SR 4 ONLY FOR COMMODITIES HAVING BASE PERIOD PRICE UNDER SECTION 7 OF CPR 30; AND MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment 2 to Supplementary Regulation 4 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATION

This amendment permits the use of section 17 of Supplementary Regulation 4 which deals with additions for increased subcontracting, so long as the manufacturer continues to subcontract to at least 90 percent of the amount that he did during his last fiscal half year ended prior to July 26, 1951. Further, if subcontracting falls below this 90 percent figure during subsequent fiscal half years the manufacturer will be required to redetermine his increased subcontracting costs within 30 days after the close of that fiscal half year. This change is being made because the regulation presently provides that the section on increased subcontracting may be used only as long as the manufacturer continues to subcontract to at least as large an extent as he did during his fiscal half year ended prior to July 26, 1951. It was intended that this section be available as long as a manufacturer permanently subcontracted to a larger extent than he did prior to his base date. The figure 90 percent was selected because it was felt that a change of less than 10 percent would generally have a relatively small effect upon total costs or price; therefore, a manufacturer using the section should not be required to recompute the amount of subcontracting.

This amendment also permits a manufacturer to utilize the provisions of SR 4 to adjust ceiling prices only of items for which he can determine a base period price under section 7 of CPR 30, and at his option, to omit adjustment of items which are referred to as "modified" or "formula priced", for which base period prices are determined under sections 8 and 9 of CPR 30. SR 4 presently provides that a manufacturer must adjust all of his CPR 30 prices simultaneously; however, it is now recognized that in many situations the supplementary regulation cannot be used to adjust CPR 30 ceiling prices of items for which base period prices are determined under sections 8 and 9 of CPR 30.

In addition, this amendment permits manufacturers who do not keep their records on a calendar month basis to use in computing the overhead cost adjustment an accounting period which ends between June 1 and July 31. The reason for this change is that some manufacturers have found it difficult to determine an overhead adjustment because they did not keep their records on a calendar month basis, and because their accounting periods did not end between June 16 and July 31, the dates presently used in the regulation. These dates were selected so that the accounting period used would approximate the first six calendar months of the year; however, that purpose could be accomplished if the accounting period ended between June 1 and July 31.

In the opinion of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

Every effort has been made to conform this amendment to existing business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution. Insofar as any of its provisions may operate to compel changes in the business practices, cost practices or methods or means or aids to distribution, such provisions are found by the Director of Price Stabilization to be necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Supplementary Regulation 4 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 11 (b) is amended by substituting the date June 1 for the date June 16, so that this paragraph will read as follows:

(b) The term "1951 overhead period" means January 1, 1951 through June 30, 1951.

If your accounting records are not kept on a calendar month basis, you may substitute for the first six months of the year as your "1950 overhead period" and your "1951 overhead period", any accounting period of 24 or 26 weeks or six months ended not earlier than June 1 and not later than July 31. You must use the same accounting period in 1950 as you do in 1951.

2. Section 15 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 15. How to apply for new ceiling prices. Before adjusting your ceiling prices in accordance with the preceding sections of this supplementary regulation, you must file an application by registered mail, return receipt requested, with the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., on OPS Public Form No. 100, in accordance with the instructions which are a part of this form. Copies of this form are available at any Regional or District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization. You must file a separate form for each product line or category. All your forms must be filed simultaneously. Immediately upon receipt of your application by the Office of Price Stabilization, as shown by your postal return receipt, you may adjust your CPR 30 ceiling prices in accordance with the provisions of this supplementary regulation. However, you must adjust all your CPR 30 ceiling prices simultaneously, except ceiling prices previously determined under section 43a of CPR 30 which can be adjusted only by letter order of the Director of Price Stabilization and except, at your option, ceiling prices of commodities for which you are required to determine base period prices under sections 8 or 9 of CPR 30. If you elect to use this option, you may adjust ceiling prices of items for which you are required to determine base period prices under section 7 of CPR 30 and omit the adjustment of ceiling prices of items for which you determine base period prices under sections 8 or 9 of CPR 30. Thereafter, any sale which you are then permitted to make at a ceiling price established under CPR 30 may be made at your adjusted ceiling price.

3. The introductory paragraph of section 17 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 17. Addition for increase in subcontracting. This section is applicable to you if your costs have increased because prior to July 26, 1951, you subcontracted to a larger extent than you did prior to your base date and this increase in subcontracting is not temporary. If you use this section you must redetermine the allowable addition for increased subcontracting within thirty days after the close of any fiscal half year subsequent to July 26, 1951, in which the amount of increased subcontracting drops below 90 percent of the amount of subcontracting you did during your last fiscal half year prior to July 26, 1951. You need not submit a report of such redetermination. Paragraph (a) permits you to charge a contract purchaser a lump sum on his entire contract for the increased cost of subcontracting. This method must be used, if, prior to July 26, 1951, you normally charged your customers a lump sum for increased costs due to subcontracting. Paragraph (b) permits you to add this increased cost to the ceiling prices of commodities produced in your entire business or a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain separate accounts. Under both methods, the cost of tools and patterns included in your computation of the increased cost of subcontracting must be allocated over the entire production in which they will be used.

(Sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Sup., 2154)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective June 17, 1952.

NOTE: The record keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Director of Price Stabilization.

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 6 to Supplementary Regulation 3 (16 F. R. 8828) to Ceiling Price Regulation 34, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds various flat rate manuals and labor schedules and supplements thereof to the list of approved flat rate manuals and labor schedules in section 2 of Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 150]

CPR 150—MANUFACTURERS OF SMALL PNEUMATIC COMPRESSORS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, Executive Order 10161, and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2, this Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This regulation establishes the ceiling prices of small pneumatic compressors (not for use with condensing units), and their parts or accessories, when sold by the manufacturers of the compressor units. It supersedes Ceiling Price Regulation 30 and the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Supplementary Regulation 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 30 had given these manufacturers the option to remain under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, and almost all exercised that option.

This regulation establishes ceiling prices for small pneumatic compressors at 25 percent above prices in effect on June 24, 1950. This level of ceiling prices is in general the same as the level of ceiling prices for these products under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. However, individual inequities have been created by the varying price movements which occurred after June 1950. This tailored regulation is therefore issued in order to remove individual price inequities and to permit continuation of customary market and trade practices, at the same time retaining the present general level of ceiling prices.

The industry requested an increase in ceiling prices for this group of commodities and the Office of Price Stabilization conducted a survey to determine whether any increase is required. On the basis of information developed by this survey, it appears that, for small pneumatic compressors, no general increase in ceiling prices can be justified under either the Industry Earning Standard or the Product Standard, and that the ceiling prices established by this regulation are clearly fair and equitable.

In the opinion of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this regulation are generally fair and equitable, and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this regulation, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, to the extent practicable, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

The Office of Price Stabilization, on September 6, 1951, and again on January 16, 1952, consulted with the Small Pneumatic Compressor Industry Advisory Committee, and this regulation incorporates a number of the recommendations of the Committee.

Every effort has been made to conform this regulation to existing business practices, cost practices and methods, or means or aids to distribution. Insofar as any of its provisions may operate to compel changes in the business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids to distribution, such provisions are found by the Director of Price Stabilization to be necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 15 issued under sec. 704, 64 Stat. 816, as amended, 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 2154. Interpret or apply Title IV, 64 Stat. 803, as amended; 50 U. S. C App. Sup. 2101–2110, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does—(a) Commodities covered. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for new and unused pneumatic compressors, and the parts and accessories for such compressors. For the purposes of this regulation, a small pneumatic compressor is one which ranges in size from ½ horsepower to and including 15 horsepower capacity, designed to produce compressed air in a pressure range from 40 p. s. i. to 300 p. s. i., but does not include compressors made for use with condensing units.

(b) Persons covered. This regulation applies to you only if you are the manufacturer of a small pneumatic compressor as described in paragraph (a) of this section, and you are located in the United States, its territories or possessions, or the District of Columbia. This regulation supersedes all ceiling price regulations, as well as regulations supplementary thereto, previously issued by the Office of Price Stabilization insofar as transactions covered by this regulation are concerned.

SEC. 2. Base period. "Base period" refers to the period April 1, 1950 through June 24, 1950.

SEC. 3. Base period price. The base period price for a commodity is the first available of the prices set forth in paragraphs (a) through (d) of this section, adjusted, where necessary, for your customary price differentials with respect to the sale of the commodity to your various classes of purchasers, including also the discounts, allowances, premiums, extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms or other terms and allowances which you last had in effect during the base period.

(a) The published list price which you had in effect for the commodity on June 24, 1950.

(b) The published list price for the commodity which you last had in effect before June 24, 1950, but not earlier than April 1, 1950.

(c) The last price at which you either contracted to sell, or made a written offer to sell, the commodity during the base period. However, such a written offer may be used only if it was accepted in writing prior to October 1, 1950.

(d) The last price at which you delivered the commodity during the base period.

SEC. 4. Ceiling prices of commodities you sold during the base period. This section applies to a commodity for which you can find a base period price under section 3 of this regulation. Your ceiling price for the sale of such a commodity to any class of your purchasers is 125 percent of your base period price for the sale of that commodity to the same class of purchaser.

SEC. 5. Ceiling prices for modified commodities—(a) Applicability. This section applies to a commodity for which you are able to find a base period price, or for which you have established a ceiling price under section 6 of this regulation, but which you have modified subsequent to the end of the base period, or subsequent to the establishment of a ceiling price under section 6 of this regulation. A modified commodity is one which has been substantially modified as to design, construction, or materials used, so as to increase or decrease unit manufacturing costs by 2 percent or more; if the unit manufacturing costs have not been affected by 2 percent or more, the ceiling price for the modified commodity shall be the same as its ceiling price before modification.

(b) Formula for determining ceiling price. The ceiling price for a modified commodity shall be the price determined by computing the increases and decreases in current manufacturing costs due to the modification, on the basis of these costs to you at the time of the modification, in accordance with the following formula:

(1) Using the same date in each calculation, figure the increases or decreases, attributable to the modification, of the following costs:

(i) Direct (factory) labor costs before and after modification of those portions which are modified, in each case using straight time labor rates in effect at your plant at the time of the modification.

(ii) In the same manner, the costs as of the same date of materials, parts, subassemblies and components, not exceeding the applicable ceiling prices of your customary suppliers for your purchases in like quantities.

(iii) In the same manner, the costs as of the same date of subcontracted services, not exceeding the applicable ceiling prices of your customary suppliers of subcontracted services, including the cost of transportation paid by you for shipment to you from your subcontractors, on the basis of rates in effect on the same date for your purchases in like quantities.

(iv) Royalty payments, if any, determined at the rates you pay on that date.

(2) You shall then add or subtract the net increase or decrease in cost calculated under the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph to or from your ceiling price for the sale of the commodity before modification to your largest buying class of purchasers, then adjust the resulting price by applying your customary class of purchaser differentials to determine your ceiling prices to your other classes of purchasers.

SEC. 6. Ceiling prices for commodities not covered under section 4 or 5—(a) General. This section applies to a commodity for which you cannot determine a ceiling price under section 4 or 5 of this regulation because you started in business after June 24, 1950 (unless you are subject to section 7, Transfers of business or stock in trade), or you did not manufacture, in the base period, the commodities covered by this regulation. In such cases, you must apply under this section for the establishment of a ceiling price for the sale of a commodity covered by this regulation. If your ceiling price must be determined under this section, your ceiling price shall be a price in line with ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation. In order to secure approval of ceiling prices under this section, you must apply by filing the report required in paragraph (b) of this section. Your application shall be filed by mailing it, by registered mail, return receipt requested, to the Office of Price Stabilization, Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Washington 25, D. C. The date of its receipt by OPS, as evidenced by the return receipt requested, shall constitute the date upon which your application was filed. After receipt of this report, the Office of Price Stabilization may approve your proposed ceiling price, disapprove your proposed ceiling price, establish a different ceiling price, or request further information. If, thirty days after the receipt of the required report, or of further information when requested, by the Office of Price Stabilization, none of the actions just listed has been taken, your proposed ceiling price shall be deemed to be approved.

The ceiling price established in the manner just set forth shall be applicable to all subsequent sales and deliveries. However, if the Office of Price Stabilization determines that this price is not in line with other ceiling prices established by this regulation, it may disapprove that price at any time. This disapproval will not be retroactive as to any deliveries made before the date of such disapproval.

(b) Report. Where you are proposing a ceiling price under this section, your report must contain the following information: (This information may be filed on a copy of OPS Public Form No. 90 which may be obtained from your nearest OPS office. If you use OPS Public Form No. 90, you should indicate that the report is being filed under section 6 of Ceiling Price Regulation 150. In addition to items (1) through (7), you may be required by OPS to submit a detailed profit and loss statement for your entire business, or the unit of your business producing the commodity covered by this application, for the fiscal year 1950 and each fiscal quarter since 1950.)

(1) The business name and address of your company.

(2) A description of the commodity for which you seek a ceiling price. This description shall include the type of commodity, model and serial number, if any, and any other specifications commonly shown on price sheets for similar commodities.

(3) A statement of the reasons why you cannot determine a ceiling price for the commodity under any other provisions of this regulation.

(4) A statement of the current unit cost of the commodity, stating separately direct labor costs, direct materials cost, factory overhead, selling expenses, administrative expenses, any other cost factors, and profit markup.

(5) A statement of your proposed ceiling prices to all classes of purchasers and your proposed list prices, if any, together with applicable discounts and allowances to all classes of purchasers.

(6) The names and addresses of your two most closely competitive sellers; descriptions of their most comparable commodities; their ceiling prices for those commodities together with their differentials to each of their classes of customers; and your reasons for selecting them as your most closely competitive sellers.

(7) If you are starting a new business, you should include a statement as to whether you or the principal owner of your business are now, or during the past twelve months have been, engaged in any capacity in the same or similar business at any other establishment. If so, you should state the trade name and address of each such establishment.

(c) Interim pricing. Prior to receipt of approval by the Office of Price Stabilization of your proposed ceiling price, or prior to the expiration of the thirty day period, after receipt by the Office of Price Stabilization of your application, you may quote or charge the price proposed by you. However, except as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, until a ceiling price has been established under this section, not more than 75 percent of your proposed ceiling price may be paid or received.

(d) GCPR ceiling prices. If you have established a ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation for a commodity covered by this section, you may, after making the report prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section, continue to use the ceiling price so established until a ceiling price has been established in accordance with the provisions of this section.

SEC. 7. Transfers of business or stock in trade. If the business, or the assets or stock in trade of any business, are sold or otherwise transferred after January 26, 1951, and the transferee carries on the business, or continues to deal in the same type of commodities, in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by him, the ceiling prices of the transferee shall be the same as those to which his transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and his obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall either preserve and make available, or turn over to the transferee, all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable the transferee to comply with the provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 8. Petitions for amendment. Any person seeking an amendment of any provisions of this regulation may file a petition for amendment in accordance with provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1.

SEC. 9. Modification of proposed ceiling prices by Director of Price Stabilization. The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or reduce ceiling prices reported or proposed under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

SEC. 10. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation prohibits you from making a contract or offer to sell at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery, or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in ceiling prices after delivery.

SEC. 11. Records—(a) Bases upon which ceiling prices are determined. You must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization, for as long as the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, is in effect, and for two years thereafter, those records in your possession showing your base period prices for commodities covered by this regulation, your customary differentials for your various classes of purchasers, and the various terms and conditions of sale, you had in effect during this period and on the basis of which you established your ceiling prices under this regulation.

(b) Current records. Every person who sells any commodity covered by this regulation shall make and keep for inspection by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years, accurate records of each sale made after the effective date of this regulation. The records must show the date of the sale, the name and address of the seller and purchaser, and the price charged, itemized by quantity, grade, model or type. The records must indicate whether each purchase or sale is made on a f. o. b. shipping or basing point basis or on a delivered basis, and in the former case the shipping or basing point and transportation charges unless delivery is by common carrier. Records must also show all premiums, discounts, and allowances.

SEC. 12. Interpretations. If you want an official interpretation of this regulation, you should write to the Division Counsel, Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Any action taken by you in reliance upon and in conformity with a written official interpretation will constitute action in good faith pursuant to this regulation. Further information on obtaining official interpretations is contained in Price Procedural Regulation 1.

SEC. 13. Prohibitions and violations. (a) You shall not do any act prohibited or omit to do any act required by this regulation, nor shall you offer, solicit, attempt, or agree to do or omit to do any such acts. Specifically (but not in limitation of the above), you shall not, regardless of any contract or other obligation, sell, and no person in the regular course of trade or business shall buy from you at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation, and you shall make and preserve true and accurate records and reports, required by this regulation. Prices lower than the ceiling prices may, of course, be charged and paid.

(b) If you violate any provisions of this regulation, you are subject to criminal penalties, enforcement action, and action for damages.

(c) If any person subject to this regulation fails to prepare or keep any record or file any report required by this regulation in connection with the establishment of his ceiling price, or if any person subject to this regulation fails to establish a ceiling price or apply to the Office of Price Stabilization for the establishment of a ceiling price, if he is required to do so, the Director of Price Stabilization may issue an order fixing his ceiling prices. Any ceiling price fixed in this manner will be in line with ceiling prices generally established by this regulation. The order fixing the ceiling price may apply to all deliveries or transfers completed prior to the date of issuance of the order. The issuance of such an order will not relieve the seller of his obligation to comply with the requirements of this regulation or of the various penalties for failure to do so.

SEC. 14. Evasions. (a) Any means or device which results in obtaining, directly or indirectly, a higher price than is permitted by this regulation, or in concealing or falsely representing information as to which this regulation requires records to be kept, is a violation of this regulation. This prohibition includes, but is not limited to, means or devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, upgrading, tie-in agreements and trade understandings, as well as the omission from records of true data and the inclusion in records of false data.

(b) The following are specifically, but not exclusively among the means and devices prohibited by paragraph (a) of this section, and are itemized here only to lessen the frequency of interpretative inquiries which experience indicates are likely to be made in this industry under the general evasion provisions:

(1) Paying, or requiring the payment of, a purchase commission, if the sum of the commission and the purchase price exceeds the ceiling price.

(2) Entering into a joint venture with any other person subject to this regulation for cross-selling, cross-purchasing or cross-servicing.

(3) Requiring a purchaser to buy any commodity or service as the condition of the sale of a commodity covered by this regulation.

(4) Reducing the period of any guaranty or warranty of performance in effect during the base period.

(5) Eliminating or reducing any delivery, maintenance, repair, replacement or installation service in effect during the base period of this regulation.

(6) Granting less than a reasonable allowance for commodities received in trade.

(7) Eliminating or reducing rental or trade-in credits on purchases.

SEC. 15. Definitions and explanations. Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions and explanations in this section shall be controlling.

(a) Class of purchaser or purchaser of the same class. Class of purchaser is determined in the first instance by reference to your own practice of setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or groups of purchasers. The practice may (but need not) be based on the characteristics or distributive level of the buyer (for instance, manufacturer, wholesaler, individual retail store, retail chain, mail order house, government agency, public institution). It may (but need not) be based on the location of the purchaser or the quantity purchased by him. If you have followed the practice of giving an individual customer a price differing from that charged others, that customer is a separate class of purchaser.

If in your industry a practice prevails of charging different prices for sales to groups of buyers based on their characteristics or distributive level, any such group to whom you did not make sales during your base period and for whom you did not have a customary differential in effect during or before your base period, is a separate class of purchaser as to you.

(b) Delivered. A commodity shall be deemed to have been delivered if it was received by the purchaser or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

(c) Director of Price Stabilization. This term also applies to any official (including officials of Regional or District Offices) to whom the Director of Price Stabilization by order delegates a function, power or authority referred to in this regulation.

(d) Largest buying class of purchaser. This term refers to the "class of purchaser" of a commodity which bought from you the largest dollar amount of that commodity during your base period. It does not, however, include the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser, or any person to whom the only sales made during your base period were made under a written contract of at least 6 months duration entered into prior to the base period, unless the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser or such contract purchaser was your only class of purchaser.

(e) Manufacturer. (1) Any person who fabricates, entirely or in part, and assembles, and sells pneumatic compressor units as defined in section 1 (a) of this regulation.

(2) Any person who sells a commodity under his own brand or trade name who elects to determine ceiling prices for such a commodity under this regulation. Any person making such an election must notify by registered mail the Industrial Materials and Manufactured Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., of his election, which shall become effective upon receipt of notice thereof by the Office of Price Stabilization. Such an election shall cover all small pneumatic compressors sold under the brand or trade name of the person making such an election, and may not be changed without notification to, and written approval of, the Director of Price Stabilization.

(f) OPS. This means the Office of Price Stabilization.

(g) Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or their political subdivisions or agencies.

(h) Records. This term means books or accounts, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, and other papers and documents.

(i) Sell. This term includes sell, supply, dispose, barter, exchange, transfer and deliver, and contracts and offers to do any of the foregoing. The terms "buy" and "purchase" shall be construed accordingly.

(j) Written offer or written offer for sale. Each of these terms refers to an offer for sale made by means of the seller's price list or, if he has no price list, a written offer otherwise made in the seller's customary manner. The term does not include an offer at a price intended to withhold a commodity or service from the market or used as a bargaining price by a seller who usually sells at a price lower than his asking price.

(k) You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "yours" are construed accordingly.

Effective date. This regulation shall become effective June 17, 1952.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

ELLIS ARNALL,
Director of Price Stabilization.

JUNE 12, 1952.
